The Great African Diamond.

An Amsterdam correspondent of the Manufacturing Jeweler tells the story of the immense African diamond. weighing 457 carats in the rough, which is in process of being cut by Mr. Jacques Metz, one of the largest diamond-cutters of the city. The stone is said to have a somewhat curious history, and, though its exact birthplace is only a matter of conjecture, it is known that it was found by somebody in one of the it was found by somebody in one of the four mines of Kimberley, in the Cape colony, South Africa. It is said that in colony, South Africa. It is said that in June or July of last year one of the surreillance officers of the Central Mining company in the Kimberley mine found the stone, and, being exempt from search, carried it through the searching-house unperceived, and sold it to four irregular dealers for $15.000.

Before leaving the province the new owners had a night of drinking and gambling, which ended in two of them gambling, which ended in two of them becoming its owners instead of four. The two owners escaped the secret police and reached Cape Town, where they found a dealer who readily paid them $95,000 for the stone. There is an export duty on diamonds shipped from Cape colony of 1 per cent., but it appears that this stone was smuggled out of the colony by a passenger on the mail steamer and brought to London, where its presentation at Hatton garden mail steamer and brought to London, where its presentation at Hatton garden created a great sensation. A former resident at the Cape mines managed to form a company of eight persons, who bought the stone between them for $225,000 cash, on condition that the seller or sellers should receive a ninth share of the eventual profits. The real value of the stone has been estimated at London at above $1,000,000. According to the rules of valuation of the at London at above $1,000,000. According to the rules of valuation of the famous Travernier diamond, its value would be $4,166,980. The correspondent says that the art of diamond-polishing existing is Amsterdam for more than three centuries has been brought-to such perfection that it is expected that this stone, weighing in the rough 437 carats (and said to be whiter and purer than any of its historical predecessors), will-lose in working much less than other famous stones; that it will be more rapidly tinished, and it has every chance of remaining the largest and finest diamond of the whole world. To enter into comparisons," he says, "the Great Mogul, now in the Persian treasury. weighed in the rough 787 carats, but through the incapacity of the Venetian workman, the stone lost in cutting 507 carats. Shah Jehan, instead of paying for the work, made the workman pay him a fine of 10,000 rupees, and would him a fine of 10,000 rupes, and would have taken more if he had had it. As it is, the stone is yet the largest of all known-weighing now 280 carats. The next in size is the Orloff, forming the top of the imperial Russian scepter, and weighs 195 carats. This stone formed one eye, of a Brahmin idof, and was stolen by a Tranch soldier who foll in house it is the property of the control of the con French soldier who fell in love with the beautiful eyes of the Indian goddes.

Next in weight follows the regent, one of the French crown diamonds. In its rough state it weighed 210 carats; it took two years to cut it, and 20,000 francs worth of diamond powder was used in its polishing. Its present transe worth of diamond powder was used in its polishing. Its present weight is 136, cariats. Next we came to the Koh-i-moor, the property of her majesty, the queen of Great Britain. How to Enjoy a Watermelon. If you don't care how you get a watermelon, and want it to taste as a melon should taste—as Nature intended it should taste you don't want to fill it full of fee and claret. A water-melon, to taste right, must be brought from a neighbor's melon-patch in the dead of night, while the old man and his shot-gun are sound asleep. In selecting one take half a dozen, and don't be too particular about the yellow spot which hugs mother earth. Take them to the nearest words and low spot which hugs mother earth. Take them to the nearest woods, and serve with an ax, if you have been out "cooning." There are thousands of boys from the cornfields of Michigan to the melon-patches of Georgia who will stand by us in our style of serving the watermelon.—Hotel World.

Ar English lady solourning at Aix le-Bains told an annusing ancedote re-garding Mrs. Gladstone, illustrative of her forgetfulness. Her mind, it seems, is always miles away. When last she went to Windsor Castle she did not take a maid along with her, and so her daughter, aware of her peculiarities, had the waist of her dinner dress sewed to the skirt. The first night Mrs. Gladstone went down to dimer Lady Ponsonly, going down after her, cried: "Why, Mrs, Gladstone, what have you on your skirt?" It was the waist trailing on the floor. Mrs. Gladstone, not finding it, had pinned a shawl about
