What is Doing in All Sections of the State

The Santiago Vt. Mass.

Detroit was full of distinguished veterans of the wars of a half century on Thursday who came to celebrate the anniversary of the campaign of Santiago, and, among the celebrated military figures were four major generals of the regular army, all men who have won fame that will place them in history. These four veterans are Major-Generals A. R. Chaffee, Joseph Wheeler, W. R. Shafter and John C. Bates. Besides these well known men there were several hundred of lesser officers, whose services in the Spanish and civil wars have been no less gallant, and finally over 1,000 regular soldiers of the United States army. The feature of the first day of the reunion was the parade, which came as near starting on the minute as any parade that ever got under way in Detroit. One thousand United States soldiers spent the night in camp at Woodward and Monterey avenues. Fully 500 more arrived in the morning, bringing the population of the camp up to 1,500. The sight is highly instructive, and something in the nature of a revelation to the people of Michigan, accustomed to the luxuries of the state encampments.

The Live Wire Killed Him.

Earl C. Haywood, a lineman for the Michigan Bell Telephone Company, working in Battle Creek, was instantly killed by touching a live wire Wednesday. He was seated upon a small carrier about forty feet from the ground, working at what has always been a troublesome spot, where two wires of the electric lighting company are attached to the same pole. He helped the live wire and 125 volts passed through his body. He fell backward, turning his complete somersault, then landing upon his stomach on a lower cable, where he lay suspended, until the fire department came with the aerial trucks and he was taken down. Over 1,000 people stood by for twenty minutes and witnessed the awful sight.

A Brigade May Go.

The military state board decided last Thursday evening that in view of the conflict in date for which it claims this state is not to blame, it could not send a regiment to West Point, Ky., to attend the national encampment, yet further reflection has convinced the board that it would be rather disreputable to allow Michigan to be unrepresented. Later it was decided to have this state represented at West Point, but Gov. Hills had not yet decided what regiment to send there. It is possible that a whole brigade will be spared for the occasion, though it is not intended to break up the encampment which meets about the same time.

The Montague Failure.

It had developed that the failure of Charles Montague, of Caro, and his assignment to the Union Trust Co. of Detroit, for the benefit of his creditors was precipitated by a run on the Exchange bank of Caro, of which he was president and owner.

For some time past, Mr. Montague's affairs have been in a bad way, and he has been struggling to extricate himself from his difficulties. Besides borrowing money, he rediscouned more or less of the bank's securities in Detroit and elsewhere. The extent of this rediscouning is unknown, and some think it will be found that all the bank's assets have been hypothecated, leaving only an empty shell behind.

The New Industrial Home.

The commissioners appointed for that purpose have conditionally accepted Merrill Park, Saginaw, as the site for the new Industrial Home for the blind, which was tendered to the blind, which was tendered to the state free of charge. It contains ten acres. The acceptance is contingent upon the city constructing the necessary sewer for drainage purposes, furnishing water to the institution at the actual cost of pumping and give an absolute title to the property.

A Terrible Crime.

Elmer B. Dryer, a young farmer living four miles from Ovid, was fatally injured by a hayfork, death occurring at midnight Wednesday. The young men were unloading hay with a fork and pulley when the pole became tangled and Elmer tried to fix it. The heavy fork dropped during the manipulations, striking him near the heart, inflicting a large gash. The wounded lad was seated in the house and was fully examined, but the doctor's efforts failed to reveal any opening into the heart cavity. However, the lad became unconscious, and despite the efforts to revive him, death came suddenly from the terrible shock to the heart.

STATE NEWS IN BRIEF.

The hotel at Grand Blanc was burned to the ground Tuesday morning. The building was a landmark having been built in 1822. Some of its posts were used in a fort to protect the early settlers from Indians. The loss will reach $2,500, with partial insurance.

Gen. Shaffer, U. S. A., visited his old home in Galeton Tuesday and in company with his brother, Capt. James Shaffer of Sandwich, Ill., and also accompanied by C. J. Cory, Z. B. Durkee and Henry Luttenbach, last resident survivors of his boyhood, took up the latter of the shooting at Three Lakes.

Contrary to a more or less general impression that the land of Gogebic County doesn't produce anything from sixteen to twenty districts surrounding Greenville, the report was unscientifically adopted by the Greenville district. Steps will be taken to interest other districts.

A tax title dealer at Lansing has notified the vestry of Trinity Episcopal church, of Niles, that he recently bought a tax title of the site on which the church and rectory stand for $80,86, which represents an unpaid sidewalk assessment. He offers to surrender it for $200.

Amelith was the scene of another bloody affray Monday night. Wm. Labers, a painter, was terribly cut in the head and face with a knife or broken glass during a melee with miners. He was injured, but none seriously.

R. E. Jordan, one of Three Rivers' bad men, was detected robbing Mrs. Laddick's house at Fabius. The daughter of the house tried to use the shotgun, but Jordan and a pal named Mangat got away. Deputy Sheriff Hahn had his face smashed while trying to arrest the bad men. Monday night a posse comitted them to Cooley Lake and they are now in jail.

Three men were arrested by Constable C. J. Buck at Millington on suspicion of being engaged in the October Lakeburg. They gave the names of Charles Fisher, Joseph Brady and Fred Hanley. They look like boboys.

No remorse is shown by Hendrik Ten Brink, the 70-year-old man who shot his eldest son, Albert, Ten Brink, aged 19, of Grand Rapids, Saturday night. The boy is in the hospital with two dangerous wounds in his body, and the father is in jail uttering threats that he did not kill his wife as well.

Thousands of Sparrows Killed.

One of the most curious features of the violent wind and rain storm which visited Ann Arbor was the fact that on the northeast quarter there were strewn great quantities of sparrows, killed by the wind and rain. Isaacs, Davenport gathered up three bushels of dead birds and found that there were 500 to the bushel. This makes a total of 1,500 sparrows killed in this small space. The birds have been in the habit of "harassing" during the nights in the trees of the court house square.

The United States steamer Yantic, with the naval reserves, arrived off Mackinac Saturday morning, with all on board well. The weather has been perfect and the crests have been thoroughly enjoyed by every one.

It is the statement of a reliable authority that the production of butter by Michigan dairies, which amounts to about 60,000,000 pounds a year, will be seriously affected by the decision of the supreme court, which will permit manufacturers of oleomargarine to make it color yellow, to resemble butter, by the use of ingredient coloring matter.

The dead pope, Leo XIII, has during through all the painful physical ordeals remained clear and active, showing that the physical stamina of the man, great as it was, did not exceed but also a fortitude under severe suffering that is extremely rare. The man's mental vigor. To the world his operation, performed by the surgeons to give him some relief, was borne with a lesson remarkable for its exhibition of peaceful resignation and display of fortitude. The death of Leo XIII takes away one who desired peace among nations and whose whole influence was against recovery, only relief from racking pain could be expected to result. On Thursday new elements entered into the case which bethokened the aged pontiff's mind.

IN THE CHAIR OF ST. PETER

Long List of Distinguished Churchmen Who Have Worn the Triple Tiara—Reign of Pope Pius IX the Longest in History.

Pope Leo XIII, the 263d successor of St. Peter, Jonathan, died, was born at Carpino, Italy, died at Rome, April 21, 1903, ordained priest Dec. 21, 1837; consecrated Titular Archbishop of Damietta on Feb. 17, 1851, transferred to the See of Avignon, 1854; created Cardinal on Dec. 19, 1865; elected Pope on Feb. 20, and crowned on March 3, 1878.

The history of the popes is long, but the two who have been Italian, the longest in history, succeeded each other. The first is that of Stephen III, elected in 752.

Zephyrinus, 205, ordained that of Stephen III, in 752. The popes should be made only of gold or

THE TERRIBLE SMALL BOY.

How He Created Discomfort for Passengers on Cars.

He couldn't have had more than fifteen or twenty perfect specimens of the type of strong boys one reads about but seldom sees. He was standing on the back platform, smoking, when the attention of that same passenger, dressed in a suit, was directed to him.

The small boy, however, admitted that he hadn't had pleasure because the boy brushed off the general passenger's coat and apologized for nearly setting it on fire.

"Been ter the car game," the boy said.

because the boy brushed off the general passenger's coat and apologized for nearly setting it on fire.

"Been ter the car game," the boy said.

Just at this point a fashionably dressed young man boarded the car and went inside, where, after sealing his lips, he took up his trousers, displaying his pants to the boy.

The boy moved over to the doorway and, crouching, with his head inside the door, his eyes in a fastidious stare, said, "I am a f—ker."

When he was sure he had attracted the attention of all the passengers to the offending article, he yelled derisively:

"F—ker! Drop out, c—t!"

By this time the small passenger had reached his corner, but before he had a chance to get off a good looking man, dressed in a suit, stepped out and said to the boy, "Car, marking sharply as she did so on the evils of smoking. Of course her speech was sharp and clear. The boy, Quirino, a flash he reported, "I am not a f—ker."

The pattern of such a hank is compelled to trust it more completely than in the usual case, where legal safeguards, moral suasion, and the like, are available.

Two Instances Which Show Their Almost Human Intelligence.

I commented recently on the way in which the religious orders are a witness to the world's scavengers, a writer in the Pal Mail Gazette. A farmer on the moorlands, whence I write, observed a certain Quirino, a boy, about 12, the son of the young Quirino, dead in a field. From the opposite side of a hedge he saw a rat approach and pull it. Being too old to understand, he followed the boy's example and pulled the rat out of the hedge. The boy, however, was too young to understand, and he left it, and the farmer, guessing what would happen next, jumped over the hedge, and, after picking his butt, the boy was soon returned to the spot with two rats. The expression on this creature's face, when no one was to be seen, was that of his mother's when he was born.
