Some men are doomed to be hounded down to posterity in moving pictures.

No one can say that the spring freshet did not live up to the advertisement.

Sleeping porches are resuming at the old stand. They are coming back slowly but surely.

A Yale student deserted the forestry class to marry an actress, but he isn't yet out of the woods.

When a man is as handy as a woman in dressing the baby, it doesn't speak well for his wife.

Nearly every man has discovered "the prettiest girl" in the world, and Mr. Carnegie has no monopoly.

Wild rumors from London have it that the price of electrolytic copper is rising. Is your copper electrolytic?

An Ohio citizen, seventy-one years old, took a ride the other day in an aeroplane. You will hear of him.

England has launched another dreadnaught, merely to demonstrate how peacefully inclined that nation is.

Paris is about to erect ornate temples for its poor people and thus become in a measure good as well as beautiful.

Rattlesnake oil is being exploited as a cure for rheumatism. It will cure any old thing when applied to the skin of divorce.

Great is the recall. A Missouri man, when he sends wedding presents, expects that they shall be returned in case of divorce.

Pasquale Orozco has been made generalissimo of the Mexican insurgents. He has entitled another good lad.

A western woman, caught smuggling jewels, hung herself. Women are notoriously losers, but this is going to an extreme.

The diagram may be a great hunting-craft, but it never will be able to take the place of the bloodhounds in "Handle Tom's Cabin."

A fashion note says, "It is well to have a hat ready to hand, but never be liable to take the place of the bloodhounds in 'Handle Tom's Cabin'."

Society seems according to a Boston paper, a man, wear the same clothes. Evidently he has never seen a society woman in decollete.

Hans, Faunus has been veritable to doctors to sing for six months, but that doctor hasn't called yet on the hopeful young sprague upstairs.

Two Maryland men are interested in eggs at one sitting. And here all of us have been trying to figure out why the price has been so high.

A device has been invented that prevents eavesdropping on telephone lines; and right here is where the telephone begins to grow unpopular.

The New Jersey legislature has passed a bill for a truckers' tax. But none appears able to cope with the vast problem of the strapping car.

It has been established that "tut-tut, the muffler" does not aid the automobile. Now, will some scientist please do as much for the voracious politicians?

Governor Hunt of Arizona spent a night in prison to see what the penitentiaries of his state were like, and doubtless he will continue to be a law-abiding man.

An English lecturer says American women eat much rich food because they are such highly emotional natures. That is the latest term for good appetites.

An eastern scientist says that a fly killed now will account for much more trouble in the autumn. If the professor will provide the fly we will do the rest.

Some of the Chinese students are unwilling to study in behalf of the imperials, which shows that some generals don't care what they fight for as long as they may fight.

One of the Oberammergau players has just died at the age of ninety-three, having been a participant in the decennial play since 1830. Vaudeville doesn't get 'em all in time, after all.

It has again been demonstrated that there may be death in a kiss; and many a one has ended in marriage, because she was born to it. So it is the part of wisdom to go through life in an attitude of self defense.

A beautiful young woman of the Americas has recently tried to commit suicide, because she had been forced to a loveless marriage. They ought to cultivate a little of the American girl's determination to please herself over there.

A Boston man has been awarded a gold medal for rendering a cat. Anybody who has ever had a cat, or even a dog, cut out of a dark hole under a barn will realize that he earned the reward.

Men and women of today have a right to love as they please," declares the court of public opinion. Men and women have always had a right to love as they please, but not in every case to act according.

Sunday the 12th will be Mother's day.

Don't clip an item out of the paper to paste in a scrap book. Save the whole paper and thus preserve all the items.

In order to secure an accurate census of children of school age the law requires that the census enumerator make a house to house canvass placing upon the list all children between the ages of five and twenty years. Children temporarily in the district are not to be taken.

Inquire have reached the state insurance department relative to the storage of automobiles in barns covered by mutual fire insurance company policies. Farmers owning automobiles who have been in the habit of storing the machines in barns better examine their policies and the charter of the companies to ascertain whether or not by that practice they are invalidating their policies. It is pointed out that most policies contain special requirements relative to gasoline and these provisions in some cases prohibit the storing of the machines in barns when they contain gasoline.

From conversation with men from Alaska, when we were in Seattle, we believe that Congressman Wedemeyer was right when he criticized President Taft with regard to the form of government for Alaska. The president and Secretary Fisher have advised congress that the Alaska government should be patterned after that of Porto Rico, with a commission, a considerable part to be appointed by the president and the remainder elected by the people. Mr. Wedemeyer, in a speech in the house, said he agreed Alaska should have self-government, but he was for home rule and not for a carpetbag administration, and he was opposed to a commission which would not be selected by the Alaskans themselves.

They are agitating the matter of starting a public market at Adrian. The Times interviewed several merchants and found that they were in favor of it. They said that they wanted to buy the farmer produce but would insist upon the farmers trading with them.

One merchant said: "We need produce in no small quantities and are anxious to get it. How about the farmers? He comes in with a lot of produce (often times not first grade by any means) and take it and say 'Take it out of trade?' He says, 'Not much. I buy my stuff of Sears-Roebuck.'

"Now in living up to the golden rule what should we do? Buy his stuff outright and not get anything for the accommodation. Would you do that? Many farmers expect us to, however.

"We want to be square, and play the game of live and let-live, but we don't see where we're going to get our living out of such a game as many farmers expect us to play. What we insist on is reciprocity."

It is our experience that most farmers rather deal in town but merchants ought to be able to sell goods pretty close to the prices mail order houses charge.

Obituary.

Spencer Markham Case youngest and last of the six sons of Benjamin Case, was born in Manchester, Oct. 31, 1835, in the home which stands near the corner of Territorial and Jackson streets. He was named for Spencer Markham, a neighbor who lived on the farm now owned by Elwin Englih.

He lost his parents early in life and made his home for some years with his brother Arthur Case clerking in the hardware store of Clark & Case.

In 1863 he enlisted in the 9th Mich. Vol. Infantry, and served as orderly in the camp of Major Robbins until the close of the war.

In 1866 he entered the Railway Postal Service, continuing therein until 1886 when he was retired for political causes.

His route being most of the time over F. & M. P. from Toledo to Ludington Oct. 26, 1864, he married Miss Calia A. Valentine, daughter of the late Frederick Valentine of this village. To them were born three children, two of whom are living, Mrs. A. F. Kishbaugh of Port Huron and Wallace Case of Detroit.

Mr. Case died March 8, 1883 and Sept. 11, 1889 he married Miss Florence A. Goodrich of Grand Ledge, who with one daughter, Miss Florence survives him.

Though not a church member Mr. Case lived and died strong in the faith taught him by a puritan mother.

Card of Thanks.

We wish to express our heart felt thanks to our friends and neighbors for aid and sympathy given during our late bereavement, also to the Shakespeare Club for floral offering and to the male quartette who comforted us with their singing.

In another column will be found the statements of the conditions of the People's and Union Savings Banks of this village.

Dr. Stein the Detroit optician has an advertisement in this issue stating that he will be at Dr. Conklin's office next Monday, May 6.

The season is so backward that all work is delayed. Carpenters and masons are anxious to get to work on contracts for new buildings.

We have been blessed with another good rain and grass, clover and an occasional wheat field shows the effect of it. Now give us more warmth.

Contributors to our news columns are invited. It is as much for your benefit as for us and we don't want to do all the talking and then, too, we need copy.

Friday evening a large number of men assembled at "O'buck" Sloat's pool room to witness some expert and fancy playing by Low J. Laubacher of Detroit.

Rev. Kern who came to take Rev. Scheurer's place in charge of the Bow's Corners and Freedom Evangelical churches has moved in' o Mrs. Henry Kuhl's house.

Rev. P. Scheurer and family are about to leave for their future home at Elton. Their many friends here and in Sharon and Freedom regret to have them leave but wish them happiness and success in their new home.

The Historical club met with Mrs. McCord last Friday and elected the following officers: Mrs. R. M. Teeter, president; Mrs. S. Hammon, vice president; Mrs. S. McCord, secretary; Mrs. G. H. Putnam, treasurer.

The village has bought what need to be known as prospect hill but hill of Adam Wurster as a site for the stand-pipe for the waterworks. It will be a slighty position. They paid $500.

Theodore Schaeble and Emanuel Wiedman of Ypsilanti, Miss Elizabeth Quincy of Detroit, Miss Laura Landwehr and Olga Wiedman and Mr. & Mrs. Simon Nisley of Manchester went to Clinton Saturday to attend the funeral of a friend, Miss Francis Maxwell.

The party given by several young men of the village at Albrite's hall, Monday evening was a very enjoyable affair. The weather man interfered with the arrangements and no doubt kept some away but there was enough present to make it a financial and social success. The music by Fisher's orchestra of six pieces from Kalamazoo was fine and some of the spectators who had long since given up dancing were almost persuaded to indulge just once more.

The 20th Century banquet at the home of Mr. & Mrs. Enoch Silkworth last Thursday evening was a very pleasant affair. The husbands of the married members were invited to attend. Madames Glover and Lewis from Ann Arbor were present. Letters of regret from absent members were read. The officers for the ensuing year are: Mrs. Emmett Lowery, president; Mrs. George Serris, vice president; Mrs. E. Silkworth, secretary; Mrs. T. Farrell, treasurer.

Sunday evening people on the streets were startled by cry of Police! Where is the police, etc., and all eyes were turned in direction of the sound and saw a tall man walking rapidly up the street. Some thought him intoxicated but he proved to be "jusy" and an attempt was made to arrest him but he fought against it. He was finally over-powered and conveyed to the lockup for safe keeping until morning when he was taken to Ann Arbor by Deputy Sheriff Diele. He said that his name was David Lehman and it was thought that he escaped from an asylum or hospital in Wayne county.
