"HOME FEELING" NORTH AND SOUTH

GUARDSMEN IN GRAYLING ARE RESTLESS, NEED WINTER EQUIPMENT IT IS SAID.

SOME LONELY WORK IN TEXAS

Stories Coming From The State Camps And The Border Show That Service Is Not Enduring.

Grayling, Mich.—"What are we here for?" might well be a question of any soldier who asks of his purpose. There is no question of service on the border, for it will be the desire of the Thirty-third regiment, but the home feeling is growing, unless the intimation from Washington that the border is in a "quiet" condition causes the guardmen and takes the feeling away by an active move in that direction. Though some preparations have been made, for cold weather, the guard has been sent to protect them from cold waves in the north, however, serviceable their supply may be for the south, which looks so attractive to them. One hit will bring out mixed emotions. That was to the effect that the national guard would be kept on the border until Carrasco should be captured. The guardmen can not be American property. The organizations here want to go to the border, but a long stay with waiting the only service will just as almost three months in a mobilization camp has passed.

Home Feeding in Texas.

El Paso, Texas.—Letters from the guardmen in Grayling have received word to the effect that they "want to go home" or "feel like it" to do some real active work is permeating the regiments on the border and "where we going home?" is a frequent question. There is no answer that can be given. It is thought in military circles that the mediation board now attempting to settle Mexican trouble had agreed to have the Mexican forces withdraw from Mexico. With this force of regulars added to those already on the border it is thought the need for state troops will end.

Sentry Duty is Lousy.

El Paso, Texas.—The vigil on the border line now places some of the guardmen in very lonely places where there is no one to speak with and silent and ready for any emergency. It was in a remote outpost on the night before Independence day in Juarez that some of the Mexican guardmen were captured.

It is a part of the sentry's duty on this remote outpost in the hills, to go down into an arroyo periodically and stand on the Villa trail, the narrow pass by which Villa took up his winter quarters in Juarez. The shouts of the celebrating Mexicans were heard throughout the night in Juarez, but scarcely a soul passed the lone spot. The sentry was sure that he was the last sentry of the day, who had the task of inspecting the guard.

Could Quickly Destroy Juarez.

El Paso, Texas.—On the crest of a hill which rises above El Paso, designated as Keen Place, and situated at the base of Mount Franklin, are situated four quick-firing guns, which have been trained on Juarez, four miles away, across the Rio Grande. Until October 1st it will be the work of Captain Julius Bernau, of the 10th Cavalry, to guard these weapons. No division is allowed to approach them and they are in constant readiness for action.

When the mobilization order was given, the 10th Cavalry, which was ordered to place these guns in position and to sight them, their fire, if any, would be directed into the city across the river. Each gun is to be loaded with 100 pounds of gunpowder and it is said in action they would be able to destroy the Juarez water and electric plants and both international bridges in fewer than 10 minutes.

At the annual meeting of the Michigan Bean Growers Association, held at Grand Rapids jointly with the annual meeting of the Michigan Bean Jobber's Association, it was practically decided to add a bushel to the price for October 15th bushel to be paid by the jobber, as far as possible, by the clerk of the weekly paper.
