THURSDAY, APRIL 19, 1917.

A-PLA FOR LOYALTY.

During the pasting months, since Germany commenced her murderous submarine operations, many men, good men, have been sent to their deaths, with those high in authority to those that they could prevent the war from drawing into the madson of war.

At the door of congress they stood, and when the war was declared, Washington wired their representatives there and even the president to the country from the war cabinet.

James Zimmerman was doing on friends. Mr. Norwell yesterday calling on friends.

Mr. F. H. Blower and Misses Irene and Marquette Nide were in Jackson last Saturday.

Mrs. C. W. Case visited Mrs. C. J. Robinson on Friday. The was accused of a desire for peace at the sacrifice of national honor, and that the president had been asked to do his best to end the war.

A company of young people from the village attended a dancing party at Chelten Hall Friday evening.

Albert Gummer came up from Detroit Tuesday night to visit his parents and attend the patriotic meeting at Chelten Hall.

Harry Galusha, who has been to his home most of the time since New Years, with his wife, is again able to be at the coal office.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Glaser of Ann Arbor came to their auto Friday.

John L. Ladd, of Henry Ladd & Son, was up town yesterday.

John Warner returned Saturday night from Ann Arbor where he has been for several weeks with his sister, who was ill, and is now recovering.

Mr. Arthur Jacobson and children have been home from the winter vacation, and are now back to their school and home again.

No person who has enjoyed the pleasure of a new nation should feel ought but love for it, and although we may have blood relatives in the country of our birth, we should not let that fact be a hindrance to our love for our country.

It is a patriotic duty to increase production to the maximum. The high prices will put profits in the pockets of you farmers.

We have all heard farmers talk about the high prices they pay for farm hands. We have heard them say time and again: "It costs me all I can make to hire a hand." We have also heard why so many of the farmers have so many idle fields, the farmer is unable to work them alone. For a farmer can do so even though he costs him all he gets for his labor, the produce he raises will help others. Farm products are needed now and will be in greater demand to supply the increasing thousands abroad, and the body should be able to all for humanity sake.

Party lines appear to have been obliterated since war was brought upon the United States. The volunteers in the lower classes are carried by a vote of 13 to 8 and the senate vote for draft was 10 to 7. Some democrats oppose the president's plan while republicans like his policy.

John Ladd, of Henry Ladd & Son, Friday at $2.52 and at Kansas City at $2.54 for hard winter wheat. This was said to be the most seasonal wheat ever offered and the price has never known. The price dropped, however, as soon as the tariff was lifted of Canadian wheat.

The bill to give the state of Michigan the right to conduct elections to pass the house yesterday. A bill to make the theft of an automobile a felony punishable by a maximum penalty of five years imprisonment also passed by a big vote.

The Jackson Patriot of Sunday had a story of the building of the building of the new National Bank of Michigan.
