ONLY TWENTY TROUT A DAY
Fishermen Say It Won't Pay to Go North This Year.

Reduction in the limit of trout which may be taken from streams in the five northern rows of counties in the lower peninsula from 35 to 20 for a single day's catch, and from 50 to 35 in possession at one time, according to an announcement by the state conservation department may deter some of our trout experts from making their annual trip to those streams. This ruling covers the best trout fishing streams in the lower peninsula. It has been ordered by the state conservation commission in an effort to conserve the number of trout in Michigan streams.

Johnson's restaurant was invaded by a large number of telephone repair men Sunday, and if rapid disappearance of his chicken dinner proved anything it was appreciated.

Fordson

170,000 Now in Use

Built with over strength in every part; built to withstand the constant strain of heavy duty, tested out under every condition of farm and belt work, and put to actual test by 170,000 owners during the past three years—the Fordson Tractor has lived up to every claim made for it.

No matter what the farm task—whether plowing, disk, harrowing, threshing, baling hay, grinding feed, pumping water, sawing wood, pulling stumps, filling silos, or any of the many other jobs around the farm, the Fordson will not only do and do well, but quicker, easier and at less expense.

There are so many different time and money saving ways in which the Fordson can be used that you owe it to yourself to get the facts. Come in and see the Fordson, or write or phone for the information.

WORST SLEET STORM IN THIS SECTION

Manchester Gets Its Share of Destructive Storm That Sweeps Southern Counties.

What was perhaps the most destructive sleet storm that ever visited this section began last Wednesday night and continued until Saturday morning, which was overcome by the sun and left in its wake such a mass of broken trees and telephone and electric poles and wires as had not before been seen. Sleet storms of a day or night's duration are not infrequent and when the drizzling rain of Wednesday night presented a coating of ice over everything.

Thursday morning it was thought all would be soon dissipated by the sun. Not so, however, a drizzling rain continued at intervals and the temperature held at about the freezing point, adding if anything to the burden of ice. Through the day and Thursday night trees here and there unable longer to stand the strain gave way as did also poles and wires. Friday conditions continued about the same and everyone wondered how long it would last.

A light fall of rain, it was thought would melt the ice, but the temperature seemed just right to retain it. Falling tree limbs and poles were added to the general wreckage during Friday and Friday night. Saturday morning the temperature dropped again with some of the ice fizzling again, everybody was glad to see Old Sol win over the Ice King and send the crystal covering of the branches trickling to the ground. Once started it fished rapidly and by evening no ice was left and branches not broken had regained their positions.

Though the destruction to trees on streets and lawns was great, we have heard of no particular damage to houses though many limbs fell on roofs. Damage to wires of all kinds was great and the village was minus electric and telephone service for a short time but all damage is been rapidly repaired. Rural telephone lines will be out of commission for several days yet.

Supervisor Bert Lowery received a letter from County Engineer Bailey of Ann Arbor, stating that the cost of maintaining the mile of road west of town last year was $863.23; the north road cost $356.65 and the east half mile road cost $140.58. This does not include the cost of the gravel, which for these roads was bought of Adam Wurster at a cost of about $27.00.

A. M. Frye of Dearborn spent the day at Mrs. Mary Merriman's and help his daughter, Betty Mae, celebrate her birthday.

NOW THE CRANBERRY "FARM"

New and Successful Industry Has Been Developed of Late Years in the Pacific Northwest.

Shortage in the cranberry crop in other parts of the United States last year has focused attention upon this new industry of the Pacific Northwest, which promises to furnish strong competition for the produce of the eastern part of the American continent, as described in Popular Mechanics Magazine. After years of experimentation and selection and the development of artificial growing areas the states of Washington and Oregon have come to the front as producers of cranberries in large commercial quantities.

Lewis and Clark, in the log of their trip across the continent in the early part of the Nineteenth century, mention the flavor of the wild cranberries purchased from the Indians along Columbia river. Cultivation of the wild cranberry bogs was not attempted until about thirty-five years ago, and, continuing in a desultory manner until recently, when a successful means of preparing growing ground was developed.

Preparation of cranberry ground in the Pacific Northwest is an expensive undertaking, the cost being around $1,000 an acre. A wild marsh is selected, drained by ditches, cleared of trees and brush, then the turf is removed by what is called the "scalping" process, laying bare the peat of the bog. Over the peat is spread a four-inch layer of clean white sand. Planting is the next proceeding. Vine cuttings are used for this purpose and are pressed through the sand into the peat with a dibble or planting tool. The vines are planted ten inches apart, which makes about 60,000 to the acre.

WILK DEVELOP JET INDUSTRY

Company Formed to Work Large Deposits Recently Found in Wayne County, Utah.

What is believed to be the first jet deposit to be developed in the United States is now being successfully mined in Wayne County, Utah, where recently mineralogists discovered the largest commercial body of the mineral known to exist in the world. Singularly, discovery of the jet was accidentally made by a party of miners engaged in assessment work for a copper company. The work of mining the jet began late in the summer of last year and, with financial backing assured, is expected to develop into great proportions.

At the present time the work of mining the mineral is more or less crudely done, but it is the intention of the owners of the decidedly valuable deposits soon to install modern machinery and develop the industry into the largest of its kind in the world.

At Washington.

The Japanese were the most incessant smokers of all the visitors to the conference on limitation of armaments, said a newspaper man who attended the meetings. Baron Kato seldom is seen without a cigarette, and quite frequently lights one with another. Prince Tokugawa does likewise, while the diminutive Mr. Dubuchi is never seen without a cigarette. Mr. Hanbara is more temperate in his use of the weed. There was never any prohibition about smoking in the Japanese conference rooms. Mr. Hughes prohibits smoking when the correspondents gather. They park their partly smoked weeds on the outside. The Chinese never offered any objection to the cloud-filled conference rooms. For the French, M. Briand was the principal user of tobacco, and when he was not in a plenary session, where no one is permitted to smoke, he never was seen without his Turkish cigarette.

Scout Executive Green gave an admirable and instructive address on the Boy Scout movement, stating there are now Scout organizations in 51 countries of the world. He stated that scouting is a way of living—a plan of making real men out of real boys by a process that works; scouting has for its aim good citizenship and character building. Scouting is non-military; the boy is not training to be a soldier; the aim is to instill honor, obedience and patriotism. Scouting is non-sectarian. In his concluding sentences Mr. Green said

"We believe that no boy can grow into the best citizenship without recognizing his duty to God."

Scout Master Gottlieb Jacob was greeted with cheers as he arrived at the meeting. Speaking on activities of the local organization he stated there are now 24 Scouts in Manchester in three platoons: owls, eagles and crows. He expressed much interest in the annual outings and thought the members should set that a place of origin instead of being transmitted to distant cities. In other words, it is believed that at and near the falls will be situated the future industrial center of America. It would be theoretically possible, it is stated, to transmit power from Niagara as far as San Francisco, but the cost would be prohibitive. It is much cheaper to locate factories near the falls.

Niagara's Future City.

An idea which has occurred to many minds since the last "burning" of Niagara falls was clearly put by a speaker before the Engineers' society of New York. It is that most of the electric power obtained from the falls will be used within a few miles of its place of origin, instead of being transmitted to distant cities. In other words, it is believed that at and near the falls will be situated the future industrial center of America. It would be theoretically possible, it is stated, to transmit power from Niagara as far as San Francisco, but the cost would be prohibitive. It is much cheaper to locate factories near the falls.

Dire Threat.

Bartholomew had been very naughty, and at last in despair his mother shut him up in a large cupboard, wherein were stored all sorts of articles. He immediately began to bellow and stamp and make a terrific noise generally. Finally silence ensued, and his mother who was just showing his auntie out remarked as they passed the cupboard "I think Bartle has broken the record this time!"

"Yes," came the unexpected rejoinder from within. "I have, an if you don't let me out I'll smash the machine as well!"—Detroit Free Press.

Impressing the Visitors.

You never can tell what will impress the stranger within the gates. The foreign correspondents "doing" the conference were curious spectators of congressional proceedings when the President delivered his message, but the thing that most attracted the attention was the sight of William Allen White of Kansas sharpening a pencil as he sat in the press gallery and letting the shavings fall on the dailies below. —Manchester Union.

OPENED WORLD OF ANCIENTS

Frenchman in Year 1822 Succeeded in Deciphering Hieroglyphics on Egyptian Monuments.

As there is always a centennial in prospect, we are now about to reach that of Champollion's deciphering of Egyptian writing. The announcement of this discovery was, in fact, made in 1822.

Champollion had spent more than twenty years trying to plumb the secrets of hieroglyphics. He finally found it with the discovery of an inscription in Greek carved in hieroglyphic characters. The word that appeared most often in Greek was the name of Proteus, to whom the stone had been raised. Champollion, therefore, searched for the hieroglyphics which corresponded with this word: What signs had the value of "I" and "T" and "O" and "W"? In addition to superhuman patience, a genius for divination was called for.

First light came from the letter "I" by comparison with certain signs appearing on a monument to Cleopatra. But this was only one step forward, as Egyptian writing was composed of alphabetical characters, syllabic signs and ideographic as well as determinative symbols.

Thus it is easy to imagine the time required before Champollion opened the world of the ancients to the researchers of science—a world which is still more or less of an enigma to the student. From Le Petit Parisien, Paris.

WAVE OF RELIGIOUS FERVOR

"Revival" Along the East Coast of England Is Most Remarkable of Recent Years.

A religious "revival" has commenced among the fisher people on the east coast, from Grimsby to John o' Groats, says the Manchester Guardian. It is difficult to say where the revival originated, but its effects are most noticeable in the villages, on the south of the Moray Firth and the Aberdeenshire coast north of Aberdeen. Observers say the revival is much more extensive than that led in Wales in 1904-5 by Evan Roberts. Prayer meetings, lasting many hours, are held nightly in the mission halls generally being full. The cinemas and public houses are in consequence nearly empty, and some of the former have had to close down. Strangers and fellow villagers are systematically stopped in the streets and asked if they have been saved. Even motorists in some villages are held up by the more fervent. One serious aspect of the revival is its effect on the minds of the people. Already six persons, mostly young men and women, have been removed to hospitals and institutions for the insane, and in the event of the revival continuing much longer this number may, it is feared, swell.

Rev. Schoen spoke on "What a father should expect of his son." The dominant thoughts of his remarks being that the son should be God-fearing; he should have ideals and the spirit of stick-to-it-iveness; he should also be imbued with the spirit of gratitude.

Eagle Scout Tracy of Jackson gave an admirable address on the aims of the Scout movement and the energy and application necessary to attain the position of Eagle Scout. He said that part of the Scout oath that impressed him the most was the promise to help others. He thought the boys should put all their energy into scouting, so that they may be better men and more capable citizens.

Scout Executive Green gave an admirable and instructive address on the Boy Scout movement, stating there are now Scout organizations in 51 countries of the world. He stated that scouting is a way of living—a plan of making real men out of real boys by a process that works; scouting has for its aim good citizenship and character building. FOLLOWING the "caste" all gathered round for a program of "stunts" in which some of the dade-went-through contestants they had not tried years. They were game, however, and showed the youngsters they were with them to the end.

Term "Cabaret" is Old.

"Cabaret" has come to be regarded as a recent addition to the English language—a word which, from its form and pronunciation, is evidently French.

As a matter of fact, the term was originally of Gallic origin, but it is by no means modern, having been widely used in England during the Sixteenth century as a synonym for tavern. There was nothing musical about the cabarets of this period, and the only amusement they afforded was that which the travelers furnished.

While used by Bramhall in one of his works published in 1655, it passed out of the language soon after that time and did not return until about the middle of the Eighteenth century.

At this time, however, its star was brief and its popularity limited and long until the dancing craze struck the world a few years ago, when it resurrected in its present use.

NEW SCHEME IN INSURANCE
Frost, Drouth and Floods Will Be Covered by New Company.

For the first time in the history of insurance, companies in the United States, Michigan farmers are soon to be given insurance on their crops, according to an announcement made this week by the State Mutual Hail Insurance Co., Grand Ledge, Ex-

State Senator C. B. Skulley of Lapeer county is president.

Statistics in the hands of the department of agriculture show the average loss from hail to orchard crops in Michigan to be about $200,000 a year. No statistics are available on the amount of damage done by frost, frost and floods.

The normal apple crop of Michigan is said to be 50,000,000 bushels a year. There have been years in the history of the state when the normal crop was cut in half through hail, meaning a loss to the Michigan apple growers of nearly $20,000,000. It is estimated that losses from the frosts, drouths and floods have greatly exceeded this amount.

Thoughtful people are wondering what effect the great coal miners' strike will have upon the future supply and price of coal.

Many look upon it with sorrowful forebodings. Coming at a time when industrial concerns are trying to readjust their working conditions, procuring material and seeking orders for their products so as to give employment to the idle, it really has a gloomy outlook.

But we cannot believe that the strike will last long. There are too many idle men whose families are in need of necessities which they should provide. We believe that a compromise will be agreed upon. These matters of readjustment are trials that all must

THURSDAY, APRIL 6, 1922

A man's credit is good just as long as he keeps it good.

It appears that another garrapata was to buy Music Sheets. Until "Henry Ford" went after it nobody seemed to want it.

So Henry Ford has bought the farm on the mountain side, near Rosedale, N. Y., where he has a home. John Burroughs the naturalist was born and lived many years. Mr. Ford will establish a fund in his preservation and we wish to add that the services of General Franklin Baldwin would buy the farm, southwest of Manchester, on which he was born, and do likewise.

Statement of Ownership:
Management, Advertising, etc., required by the act of Aug. 22, 1912, of Manchester Enterprise, for April 12, 1922.

PLANNING HOME REQUIRES CARE

Contractor and Building Material

HOUSE OF PLEASING DESIGN

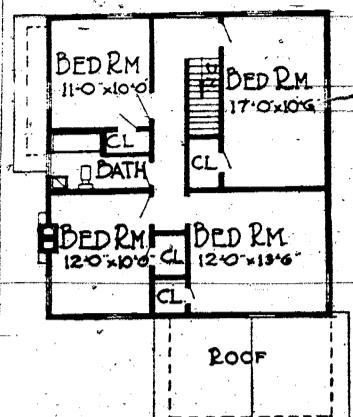

Frame and Stucco Home Made Attractive by Unusual Porch—Looks Like Elaborate Structure, but Is Not Expensive.

By WILLIAM A. RADFORD

Mr. William A. Radford, author of a new book, How to Plan a House, answers a question in this column. The cost of a house is the subject of building for the readers of this paper. On account of his wide experience as Editor, Author and Manufacturer, he is without doubt, the highest authority on all these subjects. Address all inquiries to William A. Radford, No. 187 Prairie Avenue, Chicago, Ill., and only inclose two-cent stamp for reply.

Home builders are preparing for a busy season. Prospective home owners are actively engaged selecting the plans for their new homes. This year promises to be one of the greatest from a building standpoint, as the prices of materials have come down considerably from the eminence they have occuwood or metal lath, or the patented stucco bases that all material dealers handle. The contrast between the stuccoed walls and the clapboards above the second floor gives this house a most attractive appearance. Also the stuccoed porch walls and pillars and the turn of the steps are good features of this design.

The house contains seven rooms, three on the first floor and four on the second. Included with the rooms are the conveniences found in the modern home, such as a toilet and washroom on the first floor, a bathroom on the second floor and plenty of closet room.
