Field Forage HARVESTER

We have one of these new machines with corn attachment... This is a one man outfit designed to handle all row crops grown for silage. Pick-up attachment is available to handle uncured grass and legume crops, which have been cut and windrowed. It will also pick up and chop windrowed hay and straw.

Although light in weight and draft, this machine has a capacity of 16 to 18 tons per hour in cutting corn and other green crops.

Good Sheep Dog Valuable Help To the Farmer

Many Countries Have Developed Their Own Special Shepherd Breeds

In the handling of large flocks of sheep on the farm, a good flock dog performs a valuable service. The shepherd is able to keep his flock together, to drive them to pasture, to protect them from predators, and to keep them from straying. A good flock dog is also a valuable help to the farmer in the handling of his sheep.

The East Manchester Farm Bureau met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Weidman for their first meeting of the year. Due to the weather the election of officers which was to have taken place at this meeting, was postponed until the next meeting.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh
Yes, I'm Guilty!

Folks sometimes criticize us small-town editors for the way we often play up "little things" ahead of big... human local news in place of world events.
I can't deny it. Read the Clarion and you'll learn about the Marston public ending anniversary... accurate community step down by the river... the building line at River Road, where neighbors should make the corn, and later thanksgiving beer together.
"Little things?" Maybe. But from where I sit, they add up to the bigger things we call America: The frontlines of small towns... the respect for one another's rights. And above all the love of fellowship and freedom... whether it's freedom to speak one's mind or choose between a glass of beer or better milk.
I figure that if everybody looks after the "little things," maybe the bigger things will take care of themselves.

Order Appointing Time For Hearing Claims.

No. 36432

STATE OF MICHIGAN.

The Probate Court for the County of Washington.

At a session of said Court, held at the Probate Office in the City of Ann Arbor, in the said County, on the 3rd day of September A.D. 1947.

Present, HON. JAY G. PRAY, Judge of Probate.

IN THE MATTER OF THE ESTATE OF GORDON ROLLER, Deceased.

It appearing to the Court that the time for presentation of claims against the estate should be limited, and that a time and place be appointed to receive, examine and settle all claims and demands against said deceased by and before said Court.

IT IS ORDERED, That creditors of said deceased are required to present their claims to said Court at said Probate Office on or before the 10th day of November A.D. 1947, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, and time and place being hereby appointed for the examination and settlement of all claims and demands against said deceased.

NOTICE IS ORDERED, That any creditor who fails to give notice of his claim to the Probate Office on or before the 10th day of November A.D. 1947, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, shall be deemed to have waived his claim, and shall not be permitted to present his claim to said Court.

Better Silage When Silo Is Given Care

A little time taken to put the silo in condition before filling will pay dividends. The silo should be carefully examined and small cracks cleaned by scraping off any old silage that may be adhering to the walls and all litter at the bottom of the silo taken out.

TUNE UP YOUR MOTOR

The secret of fast harvesting is to adjust the cylinder speed instantly for varying moisture conditions that change from hour to hour. The All-Crop Harvester's Quick Speed-Change makes it so easy in tuning your roller. Tough conditions require higher speeds to crush the grain or roots from heads or pods. Dry, brittle conditions require slower speeds to avoid damage to kernels.

The All-Crop Harvester's famous full-width, rubber-faced, spiral-bar cylinder processes the crop gently and thoroughly in a wide, thin stream... at the proper speed to save it all.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, The Probate Court for the County of Washtenaw.

At a session of said Court, held at the Probate Office in the City of Ann Arbor, in said County, on the 22nd day of August A.D. 1947.

Present, HON. JAY G. PRAY, Judge of Probate.

IN THE MATTER OF THE ESTATE OF Emma Schumacher, deceased. HENRIET C. Rood, having filed in said Court his Annual Account as Guardian of said estate, and his petition praying for the allowance thereof.

IT IS ORDERED, That the said Jay G. Pray, Judge of Probate, do and is hereby appointed for examining and allowing said account.

IT IS FURTHER ORDERED, That public notice thereof be given by publication of a copy of this order, for three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing, in the Manchester Enterprise, a newspaper printed and circulated in said County.

Electrifying Dangers
 It is dangerous to handle electric equipment with wet hands because water is a good conductor of electricity. Wet hands may establish contact with the electric current.

For safety use all electric appliances far enough away from water faucets so you cannot touch faucets or water and the appliances at the same time. Never use an electric appliance in the bathtub. Never have a pull-chain socket where it is likely to be touched with wet hands—they are dangerous in the kitchen and bath room. It is also a safe rule to follow in not using a knife as a screw driver. Most knives are made of conductive materials.

Magnesium Skis
 Once leaders of the world in production of fine skis, the Scandinavian countries now are importing skis from the United States. New magnesium metal skis are an American contribution to the art of skiing, which originated centuries ago in the snow-covered Scandinavian mountains. Other products for the sportsman now using the lightweight metal include catcher's masks, fly rod cases, junior bicycles, golf putters and cast heads for woods, ranging cradles, canoes and boats.

THE FICTION CORNER

OUT OF THE EMBERS

By NORMAN STANLEY BORTNER

"LET'S talk this thing out," Janice had said. "For good and all." And he had agreed. Not enthusiastically. He thought he knew what it would be like. She was going to be very calm, very noble, very much the long-suffering, patient wife who will go farther. All right, my dear. If you want one more talk, I'm right. Just so it doesn't end in another row. He became slightly noble himself. Now that it was all over with him, he spoke to her in a tone he might have used toward any good-looking woman not his wife. "Where would you like to sit while you pronounce sentence?"

She knew at once. She must have been thinking about that "Not here," she said. "Would you mind if we went down to the cabin?"

The cabin. How long had it been since he had seen the inside of that two-roomed affair beside the river?

He had made her want to go there, of all places. "Well, in the best," he said. "We'll need a drink."

They dressed for the day and went out the west door. Crossing the lawn she took him. That was unexpected. And also a little unexpected for her, though, under the circumstances. Why should she make a game out of splashing up? Thinking that he suffered and the fact it. But she did not release his arm. "Remember the first time we came down here together?" she asked.

"Can't say I do."

"You mean you don't want to? It was after our honeymoon. And you held my arm." Her voice was low and uneven and somewhat queer.

"Oh," he said. "What's the matter? Getting a cold?"

"No. Not used to fresh air, I suppose. I'll be all right now."

"In the Nevada climate, you may be. But not at Reno. Do you ever think about that time?"

"Thought of it just a moment ago. We were happy then, weren't we?"

"We were happy then, weren't we?"

Why should she make a game out of splashing up? Thinking that he suffered and the fact it. But she did not release his arm. "Remember the first time we came down here together?" she asked.

"Can't say I do."

"You mean you don't want to? It was after our honeymoon. And you held my arm." Her voice was low and uneven and somewhat queer.

"Oh," he said. "What's the matter? Getting a cold?"

"No. Not used to fresh air, I suppose. I'll be all right now."

"In the Nevada climate, you may be. But not at Reno. Do you ever think about that time?"

"Thought of it just a moment ago. We were happy then, weren't we?"

"We were happy then, weren't we?"

GRASSROOTS

WRIGHT & WATKINSON

By NORMAN STANLEY BORTNER

"LET'S talk this thing out," Janice had said. "For good and all." And he had agreed. Not enthusiastically. He thought he knew what it would be like. She was going to be very calm, very noble, very much the long-suffering, patient wife who will go farther. All right, my dear. If you want one more talk, I'm right. Just so it doesn't end in another row. He became slightly noble himself. Now that it was all over with him, he spoke to her in a tone he might have used toward any good-looking woman not his wife. "Where would you like to sit while you pronounce sentence?"

She knew at once. She must have been thinking about that "Not here," she said. "Would you mind if we went down to the cabin?"

The cabin. How long had it been since he had seen the inside of that two-roomed affair beside the river?

He had made her want to go there, of all places. "Well, in the best," he said. "We'll need a drink."

They dressed for the day and went out the west door. Crossing the lawn she took him. That was unexpected. And also a little unexpected for her, though, under the circumstances. Why should she make a game out of splashing up? Thinking that he suffered and the fact it. But she did not release his arm. "Remember the first time we came down here together?" she asked.

Make Tablecloths, Napkins

From Bright Linen Toweling

By Edna Italy

Gay Toweling

"BEAUTIFUL!" set tables have on their appeal not only from the carefully prepared food we serve, but to a great extent from the attractive setting we lay it on. The most need be said if it is accompanied with a crisp, bright tablecloth or doilies and napkins as much.

Then, too, there's no need to limit the lovely decorative effect to the table if you can improve the room in another way. If you have your dining or breakfast table set next to a window, you might even make a window curtain out of the same material you've used for doilies or tablecloth.

If you've discovered, as have many other women, that good tablecloths and doilies are high in price, have you considered the possibility of making your own?

This toweling, which is made in such good looking plaids and prints and stripes, is ideal for informal dining. The colors and designs are so lovely, it would be blindness to limit the usefulness to dining dishes.

Suppose you're a new bride who has just moved into a new home. Some plaid or cross-hatched linen dish towels. What you actually have in mind is a complete table setting. You may use the same toweling for runners down the center. And it's easy enough to make napkins out of the toweling and trim them if you like with a ric-rac, lace or contrasting colored trim, as you prefer.

The Beauty of Color

One of the most attractive features of place mats such as this is the variety of colors and designs. The part of the color scheme of the room. You may not only have the place mats to go with the color scheme of the room but you may make curtains out of the same material for your dinette, breakfast room and kitchen.

A bold green and white plaid for curtains and place mats on the table will capture the freshness of spring for autumnal days.

Stripes also work out well for curtains and place mats. A cheerful gray and white stripe makes a cheerful frame to dinette and kitchen windows. Available in 24, 30, 36, 42, 48 inch length frames and replaceable Swedish blades.
