SIGLER WANTS BETTER TAX USE

The "no new taxes and no deficit" pledge of Governor Kim Sigler, voiced in his inaugural message to the legislature, points the way clearly to re-subvention of the issue of sales tax diversion to the voters at the April election.

The governor's stand was expressed in these words:

"The approval of the so-called sales tax diversion has taken away a major share of the state's chief revenue and placed it in the hands of schools and local units of government. Under this amendment the schools may receive upwards of a total of one hundred sixteen million dollars a year—a sum far in excess of the wildest dreams of the most enthusiastic school supporters but a few weeks ago."

"Many townships, villages, and cities will receive money without any relationship to the needs of the state. This condition presents a lopsided financial picture, and we find ourselves faced with this question: Can we continue the present state services and operate the government at its present level without the re-dependence of new taxes?"

"In my statements during the recent campaign, I voiced opposition to the levying of new taxes. I believed then, and I have not changed my opinion, that the people of Michigan are paying enormous taxes to finance poor government."

"I am convinced that the solution of the problem lies not in more new taxes, but in seeing to it that those which we are now paying are used and expended equitably."

Declining to make any definite recommendations as to means whereby the "no new taxes and no deficit" pledge might be carried out, Governor Sigler has given firm notice that the needs of the state, as the major responsibility of Michigan, are imperative and that he intends to do something about them.

The governor's declaration, interpreted anyway you wish puts the State of Michigan first on the list as the governor of the state, Sigler is displaying the same spirit of devotion to the needs of the state as did his predecessor, Governor Harry P. Kelly. Sigler chided the voters for jumping to the conclusion that "we had accumulated huge surpluses" whereas the state did have "certain surpluses, but not to the extent commonly supposed."

If the state is to achieve "a more equitable distribution of income and responsibilities among local units of government on all levels," the new sales tax diversion amendment must be eliminated or revised. This amendment, as we have repeatedly emphasized, does not divert one-third of the sales tax to home governments; it invests 70 per cent of the revenue to home governments with public available and assistance which is also rendered in the matter of converting your insurance from Seniors Insurance to the form which you may desire. The friends and relatives of veterans are also interested in this matter, and they may wish regarding their rights of those who have been in the service for a long time. The friends and relatives of veterans are also interested in this matter, and they may wish regarding their rights of those who have been in the service for a long time.

The American Legion through your local Service Officer or Van E. Ogden of Clinton will be glad to assist any all veterans in any of their insurance problems. The friends and relatives of veterans are also interested in this matter, and they may wish regarding their rights of those who have been in the service for a long time.

A "more equitable distribution" of taxes now collected by the state world still make possible financial relief to school districts. Prior to the November election, Rep. John P. Esple of Eagle, long-time chairman of house ways and means committee, warned that the state government could not function on 2 per cent of the state sales tax. He recommended an increase of 25 to 33 per cent in the state's school aid—some $15,000,000 to $20,000,000 more for the coming biennium.

February 9 is the deadline for filing of a legislative resolution to rescind the amendment at the spring election.

If the legislature would decline to rescind the sales tax issue to the voters next spring—and it is likely that the Michigan Education Association and the mayors of the large cities will want to get assurances of adequate financial assistance—then the next alternate steps would be circulation of petitions by the voters or the calling of a state constitutional convention.

In recent years state elective officials have been hesitant about riding a constitutional convention because of the fluctuating temper of the public. The present financial crisis might overcome this objection.

VETS MUST ACT BY JANUARY 31ST

Were you one of the ten million veterans who poured better than nine billion in insurance down the sewer upon discharge from the service. If you are it is hoped that you will give full consideration to the following facts:

The attention of all veterans is called to the fact that the government insurance which they carried while in the service and on which they have stopped payment of premiums for any reason whatsoever, can be reinstated on or before January 31, 1947, without taking a physical examination.

The insurance act was amended in September of this year to give the veterans the benefit of a number of added features which have always been a part of insurance sold by private companies. Chief among the features now available under government insurance is that the proceeds of the policies may be payable to designated beneficiaries in a lump sum upon the request of the insured. The lack of this privilege was one of the major reasons why most of the veterans failed to keep up their insurance after discharge. They didn't like the idea of monthly payments of proceeds.

Three new policies have been added and made available to veterans: a 20 year endowment, endowment at the age of 60, and endowment at the age of 65. This fully complies the government insurance line and it is a very attractive one for all veterans to reconsider, both men and women. To reinstate a lapsed service policy it is only necessary that an application for reinstatement be submitted together with two (2) monthly payments at the rate paid while in the service. For example, if the premium paid while in the service was $5.00 per month for $10,000.00 of insurance and the policy had been allowed to lapse reinstatement can be established by paying $13.00 and by filing the above mentioned application.

If reinstatement is at this time, the allowance such reinstatement to go until after January 31, 1947, reinstatement may be accomplished, but it will require a physical examination by a qualified medical doctor and in cases where veterans are carrying disability pensions or who carry a service connective disability it may be difficult to obtain a satisfactory report of a physical examination in which case the insurance is not subject to reinstatement.

The American Legion through your local Service Officer or Van E. Ogden of Clinton will be glad to assist any all veterans in any of their insurance problems. The necessary applications for reinstatement are available on open request will be filled out and filed for you. PLANNED ECONOMY

An extremely important Bureau, Senator. They check each other's records.

Announcement!

Beginning this week we are glad to announce that the Enterprise office will once more be back on very regular office hours after several weeks of irregular hours caused by illness and a shortage of help. We wish to thank all our customers and friends for their consideration and patience shown us during these weeks.

Jerry H. Wilcox, who comes from Grass Lake and who has been in our employ since the first of September, when he came home after more than three years service in the Marines, will be at the Enterprise daily, except Thursdays from 8 a. m. to 12 noon and from 1 p. m. to 5:30 p. m.

We will divide our time between the Enterprise and Clinton Local and Jerry will act as associate editor of the Enterprise. We are sure that he can help you with your newspaper, advertising, building and printing work. Please come in and meet him as he will be very glad to serve you.

DISTRICT STUDIES REORGANIZATION

More than sixty people from Manchester and the surrounding area met at the Manchester School Monday, December 30, to begin a study of the prospect of forming a rural agricultural school district by combining the Manchester district with 15 to 25 of the neighboring districts.

At the meeting, F. M. Reck, president of the Manchester Board, pointed out that in recent months some 700 districts in Michigan have combined to form larger school districts. In the immediate vicinity such centers as Clinton and Chelsea are now undertaking studies.

The following districts in the Manchester area have signified their desire to undertake a study of reorganization: In Manchester Township, Spafford, Matteson, McMahon, Nichols, Zimmerman, Oakridge and English; in Sharon Township, Pierce, Davidson, and Sharon Hill; in Bridgewater Township, Short, Dewey, Paul, Bridgewater Station, and Schumacher. A number of districts in Freedom Township are now considering the prospect of joining in the study, and home in Freedom Township a rest of the project has the project under consideration.

The purpose of the area-wide study is to arrive at estimates of the number of buses needed to transport school children, the building expansion necessary to accommodate them, number of teachers required, courses of study desired, and a budget for the proposed work.

When these facts are gathered, they will be presented to the voters of all the school districts concerned. Then, if the reorganization seems favorable, petitions may be circulated in all the districts. When fifty percent of the voters of any district sign the petition, an election may be held.

Legal details, however, are of secondary importance at this time. At present, the area is only interested in finding out how reorganization may be accomplished, and what it will cost if it is done.

The committees that are undertaking the present study are as follows: Judge—Lawrence Wurster, chairman, Toss Knapp, Roy Mrs. Waldo Marx, William Dorance, Royal Davidson, building and grounds—Don Whipple, chairman, Alvin Clark, Earl Koebel, Carl Toburen, Alvin Beesley, Frank Tibb, Contact—Orville Way, chairman, Lillian Uphaus, Birdella Flood, Harold Tooman, R. CHANGES IN THE CONSERVATION LAWS

The conservation commission has approved more than a score of minor changes, to smooth some kinks from existing conservation laws, for consideration by the Legislature, and deferred decision for another month on six proposed new measures.

Among measures to be considered again at the January 6-7 meeting are: the state-wide "one deer" allowance for archers; the easing or breaking down of rifle and shotgun while in automobiles the year around; a "trout trap" or other means of letting trout fisherman pay a bigger share of the cost of their sport, as recommended by sportsmen's clubs, requiring permits, good indefinitely, for game held in cold storage more than 30 days past the end of the season; authorization of dog training areas; and restricting trap nets by commercial fishermen to depths not greater than 10 feet under meeting for recommendation to the Legislature include it.

Making waterfowl hunting difficult a matter of commission order rather than a law; A definition of small game; Banning the crossbow as a weapon; Protection of conservation department signs posted with permission on private land; Increasing beaver pelting permit fee from $1 to $5; Ending beaver removal permit system, as the work is now done by department personnel; Providing additional protection for mink, skunk and badger dens; Prohibiting deer and bear permits except to educational institutions and zoological gardens; Simplifying disposal of confiscated game birds and animals; Making it unlawful to possess as well as use illegal mesh trawls; Extending the Platte river prohibition on trap and gang hooks to all trout streams; Repealing the 6 p. m. closing hour on ice fishing for bluegills; Increasing the number of streams open to all fishing for rainbow trout.

Removing the size limit on bluegills, sunfish perch, rock bass and catfish bass;

Permitting individual use of glass minnow traps in trout streams; Making it clear that a conservation officer is also a peace officer.

Adding "chemicals" to the list of pollution substances which may not be discharged into public waters; and requiring spark arrestors for forest fire prevention, on internal combustion as well as steam engine.

London Today

England suffered much during the great city of London, completely razed by the Nazi "Luftwaffe," remain unpopulated. All parts of the city sustained scattered damage

from the raids. They took much punishment bravely, and they are industriously setting out to repair

their country.

Perhaps it is partly Britain's proximity to continental troublemakers

and the consequent disaster, although some of these trouble spots

have been pawn as well as threat

posed by history, that give the people such an awareness of foreign defences. They have learned the defences of war are usually provided by a good foreign office, and have developed abroad international statesmen. There is little apparent

disunity in their foreign policy.

Nevertheless, war came to them,

and their sufferings were great. Reconstruction in Britain is moving forward. A long time will be required for complete rebuilding, even of her

damaged streets and destroyed buildings. There are short and rationalized diversions most materials

into home building, which is proceeding slowly.

Rationing Slow-Down

Most Britons feel that rationing

of materials has slowed production.

The government is meticulous about

"material out forms," and the proper

approval must be had to obtain each different type of building material.

Sometimes, however, material stoppage is caused by the fact that the material is not approved and returned

for the bureau controlling it.

The London press announced while it was that building contracts

were being given to living in the rationing because of the additional ration required to get their materials. It is not clear, however,

whether they found necessary to do

so in order to complete a building.

All rationing seems to move slowly. For instance, I had to obtain food points to give the hotel food week 1 was in London. Upon the subject report at the rationing office when the doors opened at nine o'clock. I arrived at 9:45 and found a long queue already waiting.

Eventually I found myself in a special room for foreign visitors, and had to wait only about an hour.

The rationing of materials is not limited to the rationing of materials.

It is also a problem of the rationing

of materials. It is also a problem of the rationing of materials. It is also a problem of the rationing of

Milestone Car "Sealed in Cellophane"

An "epoch" among motor cars is this milestone model, the 19000000 Chevrolet built in the 25 years of the division's history. Production of this car early in December heralds the end of an era for the division, which has been producing cars for 25 years. The car is wrapped in cellophane to protect it from the elements. It is a 1946 model, a four-door sedan, and is a true milestone in the history of the Chevrolet division.
