> THE EGG AND I ....

Q. My eighth-grade English students have been having a rousing discussion over whether or not the "The Egg and I" (J. B. Lippincott.
New York City), is grammatically correct. We'd enjoy one of your lively analyses .- Mrs. C. H. T. The title, "The Egg and I." al-though an incomplete sentence, is correct if it is thought of as a compound subject denoting the creator of an action, thus: "The Egg and I" had many adventures; "The Egg and I" stuck it our together; "The Egg and I" blaze the way, et cetera. High Taxes Boost Prices

THE following is from the won pop columns of a Los Angeles paper: Regarding the complaint made by various nations about the high cost of food, I wish to subsult this termor's viewpoint:

For one fat hog we can get a carpenser for two days and he sharpens his tools on our time besides.

This hog requires II mention from bracking time to suffing time and plenty of food, care and cities.

Fig. For one fat lamb plus 13 we can get a plasterer for six hours. For the eggs from 720 hem in one day plus 33.00 we can hire as painter for eight hours. That is figuring eggs at 72 cents and f25 a day which pointers want. For one 16-months-sid steer (23 months from brooding date) at 25 cents a pound we can get 10 pieces at 1-by 12 inch beard 19 foot long, second quality. We have by food and entertain the cow and calf for 22 menths.

For three hig turkeys I get three hours' work grinding three heurs' work grinding valves on my car, viz., $18.75, not counting extras. For IS fat heme a neighbor gat a tooth palled.

I am not trying to be fully,

I am not trying to trous, and con-furnish many more.

The President wants to come-mice. All right, just start at the top and come down and he'll find Fred Los. Femels, Calf.

I could not, if I wished, dispute the figures of that farmer contributor. I do not hold a brief for the $35 a day the plasterer is credited with receiving, but does not; or the $1 a pound he pays for bacon, and which the farmer does not receive.

But—"the pot ealing the kettle black" does not uncover the real culprit or does not provide a remedy the property of the grant of th problem of high prices. Profligate, extravagant, wasteful government is the culprit.

We do not realize the taxes we ered up by every tax levying and tax spending for government, local state or federal. Those who cover up point the finger of guilt at the farmer or at the worker as being responfor our price troubles.

LEVIES BOOST COST. LEVIES BOOST COST.

For that pound of bacon, for which the plasterer paid $1, the farmer received 30 cents, less the taxes he paid on his farmer on the transportation of the bacon to market, and any predit he may have made on the hog. Between the farm and that plastes "s breakfast table, that pound of bacon passed through many hands, and each one who touched it was assessed a tax. There was a multiplicity of taxes, all of which were, of necessity, added as parts of the price the plasterer must pay.

On the other hand, the plas-terer pays, not one, but several taxes on what he receives as wages. To cover the cost of those several taxes and the cost of the taxes on the bacon he buys, he demands more wages. More wages mean higher costs for what he produces, with more to ge for taxes. Back along much the same road as that traveled by the pound of bacen, goes the armer, and the farmer pays the multiplicity of taxes that have accumulated along the way.

occumulated along the way.

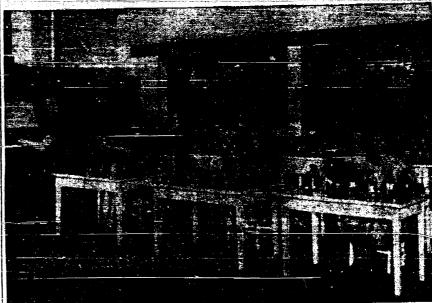

Our excessive prices are caused largely by the extravagant and wasteful costs of bureaucracy at Washington, in our state capitols and our ecunty and municipal buildings. It is the tax on tax, and tax again to cover the ever expanding expenditures of our elected efficials, whose every thought seems to be en how to get more money, and hew to get the setting.

Speed of sound varies from 763 miles per hour at sea level to 660 at higher altitudes.

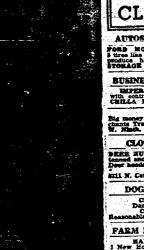

BLESSING THE HUNTERS . . . Despite the colorest containes and air of pageantry, this is not a scene from a Hellywood movie, it's authentic. As I have mentioned before, statistics show that very few of us are without some failing of face and figure, but these deviations generally are easily overcome with proper dress, good make-up and some down-right sommon sense;

The question of how to drast is upperment in most women's minds right at the moment, now that fashions have taken such a radical turn. Many women are sitting on an imaginary fence wondering just which way to jump, so to speak. Some feel they should just ignore fashion dictates, and others are grasping every idea.
