

Problems Facing Dairy Industry

The major problem faced by the dairy industry as a result of the unprecedented production of milk during the past winter and still continuing, together with future plans for meeting the situation, provided the main topic considered by the 300 delegates representing 10,700 members of the Michigan Milk Producers Association in the Detroit area as a recent meeting in the Waterford Community Activities Building.

Secretary-Manager Howard F. Simmons gave a complete report on the production and sales situation in the Detroit market, showing that during much of the winter the supply of milk had run about 18 per cent more than a year ago. During the past month the figure has declined slightly but prospects are for a record high production in the flush season, he stated.

Action taken by the delegates in 1946 when they created a revolving fund to provide for increased plant and transportation facilities now is proving the wisdom of the action by making it possible for the Association to care for all of the milk produced by its members at a time when most manufacturing plants are curtailing their buying. Mr. Simmons predicted that the Association's facilities will be taxed to their capacity of processing 800,000 pounds of milk a day during peak production.

Vice President Bruce F. Clothier, who is also president of the American Dairy Association of Michigan, explained the national program of the ADA which provides for expanded programs of research, advertising and sales promotion. A discussion of the Detroit sales and advertising situation resulted in the delegates voting unanimously in favor of an increased advertising appropriation with a deduction of an additional one cent per hundredweight from producers' milk checks to finance the expanded program.

Members of the Association staff reported on the Detroit area activities which included the installation of butter-making facilities at Inlay City and the packaging of high quality not-fat milk solids for the retail trade at Elsie. Fluid milk sales in the Detroit market showed an increase of nearly 8 per cent above 1952 in March, it was pointed out and increased efforts to stimulate fluid milk sales was urged by the delegates as the method for providing a future stable market for their products.

Michigan Council On Family Relations

The Michigan Council on Family Relations with cooperation of Continuing Education Services held a State-wide conference at the Kellogg Center of Michigan State College at East Lansing last Friday, April 10th.

The Michigan Council is composed of individuals interested in improving family life in Michigan, and centers its emphasis in programming and inter-group communications.

Each annual conference presents a special area of family life education in the belief that the leaders in each area need to share their contributions with all other leaders to the end that their common goals may be advanced. This year the conference presented the contribution of religion to family stability and growth.

Some of the topics discussed were as follows:

(1) What the Churches Are Doing.

Teen Ageds
Engaged Couples
Parents
Pastoral Counseling
Family Unit Activities
Family Camps and Conferences

(2) How Can We Help Young People Understand Religious Requirements Where Mixed Marriages are Involved?

(3) Using School Courses to Help Young People Understand These Requirements.

(4) Family Life Education in Michigan Schools.

All speakers were in agreement that religious worship is a necessity for unity and stability in family life.

(5) Unique Religious Resources for Family Life.

They also felt that all young people should be educated for marriage and warned against mixed marriages as to inter-faith; they most always present serious problems and are hazardous to family unity and happiness.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dorr and children of Watson and Mrs. Duane Berry and son of Escanaba are spending several days with Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Smith and Mrs. Carlos Dorr.

Big P-TA Attendance At Home Ec. Show

(As Reported by Home Ec. Dep't.)
The F. H. A. presented their third annual style show under the direction of their home economics teacher, Mrs. Joan Crandall. It was given at the April meeting of the Parent-Teachers Association.

The girls put a lot of effort in constructing their garments and putting on finishing details. Those in charge of the stage put much time in decorating to help make it a big success.

There were many committees needed to make the show go off as smoothly as it did. The committees are as follows: Write up on garments, Sally Waltz, Dorothy Snyder, Barbara Shadley, Joan Mobley and Ellen Haeussler. State managers were Barbara Gonyer, Diane Ahrens, Janet Kuhl, and Madonna Zahn.

Miss Nellie Ackerson accompanied the girls as they modeled the garments. The show was set up as a TV program named "Stop the Clock." Bill Aiken was the Emcee, Marie Heselschwerdt was the commentator and Bonnie Anthony the sponsor. There were 3 girls who stopped the clock and the Emcee placed calls to three different parts of the country to see if a lucky listener and watcher could name a special detail of the garment the model was wearing. Joan Pierce stopped the clock on her shawl collar, Carol Steinway on her box pleated skirt and Lenora on her lace stole.

Our show was divided into four sections. The first was variety ensembles, namely suits, the second sportswear, third adult clothing and freshman aprons and last, theatrical wear.

The theatrical clothes were those appropriate for dates and evening occasions. Therefore escorts from the high school were chosen to accompany the girls. The escorts were David Little, Ray Mitchell, Jerry Troitz, Melvin Lamb, Gordon Schultz, and Joan Cargio.

Back stage managers who were responsible for lining up the models were Joan Huber, Shirley Gage, Janet Kuhl, and Mary Walz. Two spot lights were operated by Jo Miller and Patsy Snyder.

After the show punch and cookies were served by the P. T. A. hospitality committee for the April 20 meeting.

Annual Dairy Foods Production

Dairy farmers throughout Michigan and America this summer will be making their annual dairy foods promotion set-aside for the advertising, merchandising, research, and public information program of the American Dairy Association, it was announced by Bruce F. Clothier of North Branch, president of the American Dairy Association of Michigan.

Funds collected for the set-aside are expended through a year-around promotion program designed to build and strengthen the markets for all dairy products to assure a stronger position for dairying and all agriculture.

Mr. Clothier said: "Our dairy farmers realize the importance of a sound market structure for dairying and have tackled the problem of having a voice in marketing by the formation of the American Dairy Association, now in its 15th year. The set-aside is an investment by the dairy farmers in our own future."

The main voice of the dairy farmers' association is advertising to the consuming public by means of television, radio, advertisements in nationally circulated magazines and in newspapers in major population centers, as well as billboards and posters.

Cooperation with leading food manufacturers and other dairy industry groups further expands the association's sales program and bring the message for dairy foods to every American family hundreds of times each month.

Research activities of the American Dairy Association supply the association and the industry with needed information on the properties of milk and milk products, which are continually highlighted through the advertising of the association and its public information outlets.

The entire American Dairy Association program is sponsored, controlled and supervised by the dairy farmers themselves through their non-salaried representatives and elected officers of the organization.
