Area Study Committee Meets At High School

In a meeting at Manchester High School Tuesday night, the Manchester Area Study Committee reviewed its eight months of work leading to the recent annexation of thirteen rural districts to the Manchester Public Schools.

By a vote of eight to two, with two districts not voting, the study committee recommended to the school board that the following proposition be submitted to the annual meeting on July 13:

"The Manchester Public School accept no tuition students except for those already enrolled."

Embedded in this resolution was the qualification that any district not now a part of the new, enlarged school districts, may join by August 15. After this date, the school board and its advisory committees will plan its program primarily for the students then a part of the enlarged district.

The area study committee also recommended that the new school board elected at the annual meeting appoint an advisory committee consisting preferably of one representative from each of the former rural districts, plus suitable representation from the village and from school-connected organizations.

The Department of Public Instruction at Lansing and the county superintendent of schools have been notified of the results of the recent school elections and a new budget has been submitted to the county tax allocation board.

The rural school boards were asked to settle all bills and balance their books, so that the books can be taken to the county office and consolidated.

Dr. Ruthven Speaks Here

A large attendance was present Friday evening to welcome Dr. Alexander G. Ruthven, former president of the University of Michigan, when he was the guest speaker at the regular meeting of the Oklahoma Ranch Club.

Dr. Ruthven, an outstanding authority of the Morgan horse, is a breeder and owner of a stable of this popular as well as one of the oldest American breeds of horses. In his talk he traced the origin of this horse from the first sire—Justin Morgan—to the present time. He told the group that this breed of horse was used in the early days of our country for work, driving, and saddle use, and has come down through the ages as one of the most outstanding general purpose horses in America.

After the talk, time was given over to questions from members or the club. Dr. Ruthven was accompanied to Manchester by Bruce Robertson of Ann Arbor, one of the local club members. Also with him was Dr. Ruthven's manager and trainer, Mr. Tally. The club is planning to visit the Ruthven Morgan Stables some time this summer.

Playground Planned For Summer

The Manchester Summer Recreation program, under the direction of Mr. Larry Soldan and assisted by Mrs. William Peters, will move into "Good-time" Monday, June 15, with all Manchester area boys and girls urged to attend. Mrs. Peters will supervise the junior playground with the assistance of those mothers and young people interested in giving a helping hand. This group will include children eight years and younger—to children who will enter school in the fall.

The activities for this group will begin at 9:30 a.m. Monday, June 15 with roll call followed by a treasure hunt. The general program for the eight week period for junior playground will include crafts on Monday, musical games and folk dancing followed by story telling on Tuesday. Special events will be listed weekly on Wednesday, group games followed by story telling on Thursday and Fridays will be reserved for hikes and trips.

The time schedule for each day will follow this general pattern. The program will get underway each day at 9:30 with one half hour devoted to preparing materials for the day, explaining work to the mothers and junior helpers, then fifteen minutes will be given to the salute to the flag, patriotic singing and explaining the project for the day. Then from 10:15 to 11:15 will be the project for the day and the last fifteen minutes will be spent in putting away materials.

The program for next week's opener will include a treasure hunt on Monday, dancing and stories on Tuesday, preparing and planting a flower garden on the playground on Wednesday, group games and stories on Thursday and a hike on Friday to a place not yet determined to which the children are asked to bring a packed lunch and they are expected to return home later than usual at about 12:15 p.m.

Planning ahead for these events will make them more meaningful. Special events which are held every Wednesday will be previewed in the local paper each week as well as a poster which will be placed in the post office.

Larry Soldan, who will supervise the Senior playground for eight to fifteen year olds, has announced that the Recreation Program will be divided into two four-week periods instead of the one eight week period of last year. At the conclusion of the first four-week period a field day will be arranged with the combining of the Junior and Senior playgrounds into one large festive occasion. All leagues and activities will have playoffs and final reviewing for the period in an effort to alleviate the loss of personnel at the end of the summer when many participants are absent due to family vacations. It is hoped that this schedule will aid the families of those participating so as to facilitate the success of the various teams and activities.

An arrangement with the Saline Summer Recreation Program has resulted in the organization of a Saline-Manchester Junior Baseball team.

The grade school track meet held June 2 at the Manchester athletic field proved to be a great success. Nearly all of the 142 grade pupils participated. This is the first time such a contest has ever been held in this school and it is anticipated that such a meet will become an annual affair.

Mr. Rufus Gillman expressed his wish to extend his highest praise and appreciation to all those who in any way helped to make the meet a success.

Special thanks was given to Coach Soldan who did a splendid job of assisting in many different ways. Without the help of these pupils the track meet could not have been the success it was.

The tornado which howled across southeastern Michigan and northern Ohio Monday evening reached a furious hand up into the Pleasant Lake area northeast of Manchester and left one man dead in its wake.

Alvin Haussler, 30, huddled with four other members of the Oscar Haussler household and a neighbor was the only victim as the tornado roared down and leveled the large, substantially built farm home. Apparently he was hit by some of the falling debris and killed almost instantly. His chest was crushed and neck broken. Miraculously, the others in the house escaped relatively unharmed. His father, Oscar Haussler, was blown clear of the wreckage.

Roaring northeast across Freedom and Lodi townships, the tornado cut a swath of destruction more than five miles long and up to 200 feet wide leaving the one dead and at least two others injured. Allen Alber of 13011 Bethel Church road said he saw the twister forming and that at first it seemed to have twin funnels which as it gained speed finally molded into one near the intersection of Bethel church and Eisenman roads.

According to Frank Weiss who runs a filling station at Pleasant Lake, the storm gathered headway and took off northeast toward Pleasant Lake. He said he thought maybe it would hit the lake and blow itself out as did one in that area over thirty years ago when a twister roared down from Rogers Corners leaving a path of destruction and finally spent itself as it churned for several days in Pleasant Lake. But this was not the case it caved in barn doors at the Edgar Little farm at 6181 Ernst road and struck the Edwin Linke home at 5870 Lima Center Road. Mrs. Linke said she stood "petrified and praying" as the two funnels—one large and one small—circled on opposite sides of the house, knocking down a chimney, a windmill television antenna and several trees. At the Oscar Kenz home it blew down the garage, ruined six windows and uprooted trees.

L. Herschel Snyder, owner of a grocery store at the lake, watched a huge column of water about 150 feet picked up as the tornado skated across the lake. Luckily the roaring funnel missed the Michigan Gas Storage's Pleasant Lake plant but, bent on destruction, it roared down on the Haussler home.

Oscar Haussler and his sons Alvin and Glenn were outside with a neighbor, Luther Schable. The men sounded an alarm when Oscar, seeing the twisting mass, recognized it and told the rest to go to the basement of the house. Alvin's wife, Ruth, and four months old son were in their trailer nearby and were summoned as the storm approached.

WHERE NOW?

June means commencement to high school graduates, but it also means "Where now?"

There's an answer to this for farm boys who don't want to go through four years of college, who find no appeal in city life, or who don't feel secure enough to start farming now, according to R. J. Loser, Monroe county agricultural agent.

"Michigan State College short courses offer an excellent means of getting plenty of good, practical training, and in a short time, too," Loser said.

All over Michigan, but particularly in the north, there are re-unes which could be expanded with more training, says Ralph W. Tenny, director of the M. S. C. short courses. In the last century farm population has decreased from 80 per cent to 15 per cent of the nation's population, but farm production has risen—and must continue to rise.

Students $242,132 Gift

University of Detroit students last week added $50,000 Spring Carnival profits to their Activities Building fund, bringing undergraduate contributions to the fund over the $242,000 mark in three years.

Charles Rutherford, chairman of the 1953 Spring Carnival, presented the Very Rev. Celestine J. Steiner, S. J., U. of D. president, with a $50,000 check.

Carnivals in 1950, 1951 and 1952 earned $120,680.

The Student Union contributed $21,060 from 1950 to 1952 from real estate sales and operational profits.

In 1950 the students voted a $1.00 a year per capita tax upon themselves. This has yielded an additional $24,092 to date.

Last month the Student Union presented another check, this time for $10,000, again from operational profits.

"All of this is student managed, student planned, and student operated activity," Fr. Steiner said. "It is a top example of American, democratic activity by energetic, loyal students with initiative and drive."

Entertainer Arthur Godfrey was so impressed by this "loyalty, initiative and drive" when he came to the 1952-Spring Carnival that he promised "to come back and do a show for you kids... you've earned it."

The entertainer returned with his whole crew, paid all of their bills, and turned over $16,300 to the fund.

U-M Commencement Slated for June 13

The 109th Commencement of the University of Michigan will be held June 13, when some 2,700 students are expected to receive degrees.

The ceremony will be held at 5:30 p. m. in the Michigan Stadium if the weather is fair. Otherwise the event will take place in Yost Field House.

Graduates will be able to pick up their diplomas immediately following the ceremony at either the east stands of the stadium or in the lobby of the Administration Building, depending on the weather.

From the founding of the University in 1817 through last February, when there were 934 graduates, 140,934 students have been graduated from the University.

U-M Offers High School Newspaper Training Classes

Latest developments in reporting and editorial techniques will be explained to high school advisers and editors this summer during the University of Michigan series of High School Journalism Workshops.

Teachers and supervisors of high school papers and yearbooks will be offered three courses: Teaching of Journalism and Supervision of High School Publications; Workshops for Supervisors of High School Publications; and Seminar in News Processing.

The courses, each of which carry two hours of graduate credit, begin June 22 and will last from six to eight weeks. Sponsor is the U-M Department of Journalism.

The high school editors will participate in one of two special workshop sessions to be held July 6-17 and July 20-31. If the registration warrants, there will be an additional session August 3-14.

Lasting two weeks each, these workshops will be limited to 35 students holding executive posts on high school publications.

Further information may be obtained from the U-M Department of Journalism, 1447 Mason Hall, Ann Arbor, Michigan.

WHAT ABOUT 1953 DEER LAWS?

Following the recent publication of final results of the 1952 deer hunting season sportsmen are beginning to wonder what's going to happen next fall. Will there be another widespread legalized kill of "any deer" in the lower peninsula? Will the "any deer" areas be specially designated? Or will we go back to the old big regulation?

"Big Percentage of Does and Fawns Killed"
From a survey the Department reports that the total kill hit the 162,000 mark last fall, with 465,000 persons licensed to hunt. That means one out of three got a deer. About 52,000 bucks were killed during the regular season, and 110,000 during the last three days when it was legal to shoot any deer, any size, any sex. However, 103,000 were either adult does or fawns—a figure that alarmed a lot of people. But our game division sees little or no cause for alarm because of this. As a matter of fact they looked for a much larger kill in most areas.

Plenty of Deer In Evidence
They point out that the spring showing of deer in the lower peninsula, even where the last fall kill ran high, is entirely satisfactory. The past winter was apparently easy on the animals, the food supply was adequate for the existing herd, and at the moment all is well. BUT, a couple of hundred thousand fawns—maybe more—will soon be born to create another problem. Will there be enough food to see them thru next winter? Or should the ranks be thinned again next fall to assure a herd of healthy animals? There's no definite answer as this is written.

The Conservation Department's game biologists will probably come up with some recommendations soon. Chances are specific areas will be chosen for some kind of an "any deer" season in critical spots where food is short and deer are too plentiful. Such a "season" might be shortened to one day rather than three.

Upper Peninsula Kill Light
No special laws are likely to affect the upper peninsula. Only 19,000 deer, all buck, came from that area last fall, out of a total state kill of 162,000, a figure that bears out hunters' stories of seeing fewer deer across the Straits this year.

Problem Complicated
Wherever game management is practiced the problem is quite involved. It's especially difficult with deer because of persistent public pressure. People love to see lots of deer in the north country all summer, and have little concern with what they can't see: the misery and cruelty of slow starvation in the winter months. So bear with our Department. They're trying to make a better Michigan Outdoors for all of us, including the deer!

Modern Version of the June Butter Tradition

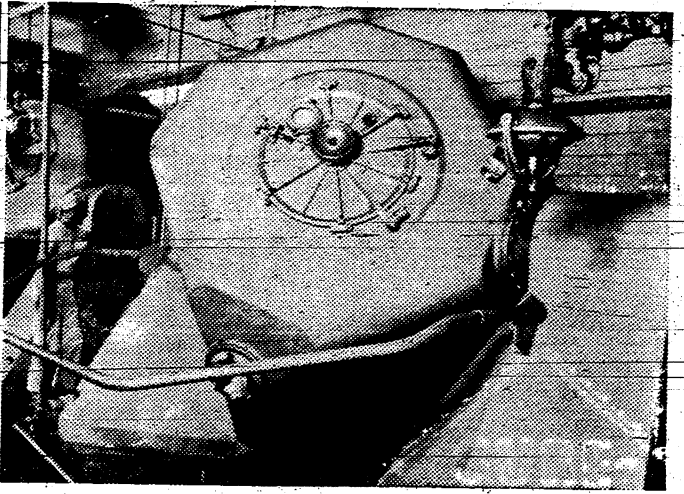

Although the ultra modern butter making and packaging shown here may seem a far cry from grandma's days when she toiled during the month of June with her old plunger churn and wooden ladles, still it is the same American thrifty custom of using today's surplus to care for the shortages of next winter.

Pictured are the enormous all metal churns just installed by the Michigan Milk Producers Association in its Imlay City plant and the automatic packaging machine which cuts the butter in quarter pound sections, wraps each one in parchment paper, puts four of them in an attractive carton, seals the package and delivers it at the end of the line, ready for shipping.

The natural excess of milk in the spring months, due to lush pastures and many cows freshening, provides a great amount of cream above normal demands. Grandpa was thrifty and looked ahead to the long winter months when milk would be scarce so he and grandma worked long hours to convert that extra cream into delicious, golden butter, which could be put away in cellar or spring house to be brought out in the time of scarcity.

Milk production is not so different today despite modern methods of breeding, feeding and care. There always is a flush season. But today by joining together in a cooperative organization, dairy farmers do their June butter task more easily. By installing modern machines, a better and more uniform grade of butter is produced from sweet cream than ever was made by using the soured cream which it was necessary to use because of lack of refrigeration. The Imlay City plant is capable of producing as high as 32,000 pounds of butter a day, each machine churning a ton every three hours. The packaging machine cuts and wraps 9,000 fourth pounds per hour, delivering 2250 packages of butter.

Fish Predators Help Keep Right Fish Population

The most peaceful pond or stream quite often is the scene of a killing warfare between Michigan's fish and their natural enemies, a University of Michigan professor states.

But there is some benefit in this bitter strife, according to Prof. Karl F. Lagler, chairman of the U-M Department of Fisheries. Without these enemies, the game fish population might grow to such an extent that soon Michigan ponds and lakes would become choked with stunted, starving and dead fish, he says.

There are two groups of these predators: (1) the cold-blooded fishes, amphibians and reptiles and (2) the warm-blooded birds and mammals.

Most easily distinguished of the fish predators is the gar, with its bill-like jaws equipped with strong, sharp teeth. Predominantly a fish eater, it is found in warm lakes and slow, meandering streams. It's usually lazy-like, but is capable of swift, killing movements.

Real sport can be found in catching a gar. Archery and night spearing are the means gaining reatest popularity in the state.

Another enemy of game fish is the bowfin, which has an extremely long dorsal (back) fin extending over most of its length. It's most often found in slow-moving rivers and weedy, warmwater lakes. Dr. Lagler reports: Also a great fish eater, it is a scrappy fighter when taken on tackle and it is caught frequently by anglers fishing for bass or pike.

Even as gars and bowfin are regarded with disdain by fishermen, so also is the carp often blamed for a normal, cyclic decline in fishing. Professor Lagler, faculty member of the U-M School of Natural Resources, which celebrates its 50th anniversary this year, explains that carp may be quite abundant in warmer lakes that have muddy bottoms and in slow-moving streams.

Tough, the fish is able to exist under extremes of temperature, pollution and other conditions which tend to kill off native fishes. It lives on a combined meat and vegetable diet and makes many fine dishes for the table.

Three other common fish predators are the bullfrog, watersnake and garter snake, but their effect on the fish populations is not great enough to warrant anglers' concern, he explains. However, workers at state fish hatcheries or at private bait-minnow ponds must be constantly on the alert regarding the potential damage which these "critters" can do.

Farm Note

Students interested in the short course program should contact the M. S. C. short course representative for their area. In Northern Michigan and the Upper Peninsula it's Carl Hoyt; in Western Michigan, Robert E. Dennis; Eastern Michigan, Vernon C. Larson, and Donald Shepard for Southern Michigan.

Information can also be obtained from county agents, 4-H agents, vocational agriculture teachers, or the Short Course department at M. S. C., East Lansing.

Poultry Control

Poultry raisers of Washtenaw county will get the latest information on the control of infectious bronchitis in their flocks at the annual Broiler Day at Michigan State College June 16.

County Agent Don Johnson said one of the main speakers will be Dr. John Groves, assistant state veterinarian for the Michigan State Department of Agriculture. He will speak on "The Control of Infectious Bronchitis Under Michigan Conditions." Dr. C. H. Cunningham, M. S. C. Bacteriologist, will describe research on the disease at the institution. The session opens at 9:30 a. m. at the Union Building. J. M. (Mac) Moore, extension poultryman at M. S. C., said the topic for the day will be "The Health of the Broiler Flock."

Use a rainy day to check your combine to cut down on possible grain losses during the busy harvest season, suggests Don Johnson, county agricultural agent. He says you can lose as much as a bushel per acre from faulty combine parts.

Give the combine a thorough inspection, he advises. Start with the reel, divider, cutter bar and the feeding mechanism. See that the ledger plates and knives are sharp and in register. Heads won't thresh out if the cylinder's speed is too slow or if clearance is too narrow between cylinder and concaves. It's a good idea, too, to check the straw rack.

F.F.A. Completes Successful Year

The Manchester Future Farmers of America Chapter 82 has just completed a busy year as the following officers retire: president Clark Norgaard, vice-president Leslie Landwehr, secretary Gordon Schultz, treasurer, Jerry Frolz, sentinel Art Rolston and reporter Jack Furgason.

The club has listed some of their major activities for the past year which included helping with the Manchester Community Fair, steer club work, log sawing contest in the district, trip to Chicago for the International Sock Show and a trip to Farmers Week at Michigan State College.

The agricultural three and four year boys' finished this year's work in agriculture by setting up farm machinery at Dresselhouse and Davider's.

Another project which the boys got underway near the end of this school year was the forming of a "pig chain." This project is where one boy takes a bred gilt, cures for it, raises its litter to a certain age and then gives a designated number back to the chapter for further distribution. This, in turn, starts a chain which can be built up into many swine. The chapter has already purchased a registered Duroc gilt and it is being cared for by Lloyd Ahrens.

Clark Norgaard, retiring president, was named the DeKalb Award winner. This honor is based on scholastics, leadership, citizenship and supervised farming projects through four years of high school when the student majored in agriculture.

For the school year 1953-54, the following officers have been named: president, Marshall Norgaard; vice president, Jerry Frolz; secretary, Gordon Schultz; treasurer, Lloyd Ahrens; sentinel, Jerry Ekin and reporter Jack Furgason. Instructor working with the boys is the agricultural teacher, Robert Crandall.

Guests were present from Manchester, Ann Arbor and Charlotte.

Better Eating
BY JEAN ALLEN

SPRING PARTY FOOD

Food for bridal and graduation parties should be delicate and delicious to compliment the honored guest. It should also be easy on the hostess.

Bridal Luncheon

Tomato Stuffed with Crabmeat
Salad
Fresh Asparagus Amantine
Hot Parsley Biscuits
Sliced Strawberries and Cream
Coffee

The asparagus with the fancy name is made by pouring melted butter or margarine and toasted shivered almonds over freshly cooked asparagus.

Plan one red-ripe tomato stuffed with crabmeat salad for each guest. Core and hollow out the party.

Crabmeat Salad

2 six-ounce cans flaked crabmeat
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1/2 cup diced celery
1/2 cup diced cucumber
2 tablespoons chopped green pepper
2 tablespoons chopped pimiento
1 hard cooked egg, chopped
Mayonnaise

Sprinkle lemon juice over crabmeat and let stand fifteen minutes. Then toss all ingredients together and moisten with mayonnaise. Fill each tomato and serve in lettuce cup.

Yield: Six servings.

Add one tablespoon chopped fresh or dry parsley to your favorite baking powder biscuit recipe just before adding the milk.

Graduation Dessert

Spiced ice cream sandwiches will "hit the spot" with the boys and girls at a graduation party.

Spiced Ice Cream Sandwiches

Make spice cake from a peck-aged mix. Just before serving split each piece of cake. Place a slice of vanilla ice cream between the top and bottom pieces of cake. Top the sandwich with gooey caramel sundae sauce.

Serve fruit punch or iced tea to drink.
