U.S. Fire Deaths Rival Korean Battle Toll

Fire killed almost half as many Americans in 1952 as have been lost in the entire Korean campaign to date, a report from the National Board of Fire Underwriters reveals.

Last year some 11,000 persons died as a result of fires in the U.S. Approximately 5,000 fatalities occurred in the home, with children the No. 1 victims.

Burns and scalds lead in deaths among women and children in the home. Such everyday accidents as an overturned pot of boiling water can cost an average of three lives every hour.

To help slash the national death toll, safety experts urge that housewives learn proper first aid. For minor burns, doctors recommend covering fine mesh gauze with Vaseline petroleum jelly, placing it directly on the burned area; then wrapping it with a bandage, making sure the bandage is not so tight it will affect circulation.

New Style in Carrots

Fresh carrots with the tops removed are now appearing packaged in the stores from time to time. These carrots are a good buy because the food value is higher than in those with tops.

A Trip to England and France
Mansfield, Notts, Eng.,
Nov. 2, 1900

Dear Editor and Friends:

It is almost six weeks since I left Manchester, but it seems much longer, and I have finally gotten in the midst of relatives whom I have not seen in ten years and, so you may imagine, there is great rejoicing everywhere I go. The weather is very moderate yet and has been all the full I have not seen or heard of any frost yet.

Today is Mansfield statue, but it is not like it used to be. There were but a very few people there and no hiring done. The wages were very high and they would not pay so much, although plenty of men wanted help. I understand the lowest wages paid in a coal mine is about $1.80 per day, and wages were never better nor help scarcer than now.

The first stop I made after leaving Manchester was with my brother in Stamford, Conn. I stayed with him a little over a week and had a splendid time gathering mushrooms, hunting grey squirrels, and watching the people gather escalops. October 1 was the first day the law would allow escalops to be gathered, but it was not pleasant to be knee-deep in the water. However, I counted 300 men and boys in Long Island Sound at one time.

Next I went to New York

sailing. I saw the navy yard, the battleships, Indiana, Massachusetts, Kentucky, Atlanta, and a number of torpedo boats that saw service in the war with Spain. The hole made in the Indiana is covered with a brass plate on which is inscribed the date when it was made. I also saw the turned pier at Hoboken. They are not yet all cleared away. The fine passenger steamer LaSalle was still there, what there is still left of her. She was so badly burned that the company has made no effort to repair her.

The next day I boarded the St. Louis for Southampton. The morning was fine and the ocean smooth, and at 10 o'clock sharp we left the dock. We had a nice voyage, only a little rolling as the wind was as unfavorable as could be, but not very rough. On the morning of the eighth day we came in sight of Lands' End and Scilly Isles—or the London flower garden. All that day we were in sight of land, large chalk rocks on the coast of England.

About 6:30 we passed the needle's point, but as it was dark, we were shut out of a view of the Island of Wight. It was 8:30 before we got into dock and after landing I took a walk around the city, which is lit with electricity and has electric cars, though I understand they have been running only about four weeks. One man asked me if we have anything like that in America. I also saw in the English Channel a part of a channel squadron, consisting of ten battleships, the finest lot of battleships I ever saw together.

My next trip was to London, then to Paris. It is impossible for me to describe all that I saw there. The second day I was in Paris I took a 38 mile drive in one of the Cook's wagons.

There were 30 in the six-horse hold, all English speaking, and it was very pleasant. We went by way of Versailles and saw three of the grandest race tracks in Paris. The grand stands were beautiful and the boulevards were in splendid condition all the way, and beautifully lined with trees all neatly trimmed. We passed where the Prussians camped during the siege of Paris and where every house was demolished at the time, but where now stand some of the finest residences in the city. Versailles, I was told, consists of the large palaces with 900 rooms in which is a collection of 5,000 paintings; the grounds of which contain 365 statues, a great portion of them of white marble; 52 fountains and 40 miles of boulevards on the 5,000 acres of grounds, but I did not take time to count or measure all this.

The next day I visited the exposition and in the South African building saw a bust of Kruger decorated with flowers. They were taking subscriptions for him. I did not see many people but that signed their names and gave something. Sunday was the busiest day of all on the grounds, there were more people present, great races were held, and all kinds of work went along as on other days. Most of the buildings were open, but among the few exceptions I noticed Uncle Sam and John Bull had theirs closed.

It was not very expensive getting on the grounds. I had to pay only six cents for a ticket, sometimes two in the morning and two in the afternoon, but the last night I was there they had a grand illumination and five tickets was the price.

On returning to London I spent four days very nicely, visiting the most interesting and amusing places. I wish my friend A. J. Waters was along. I think I could find him something in England he could eat. I have not yet had any difficulty in finding anything I want and cheaper than in France or the United States. I have not fixed any time for my departure, but will stay until I get tired of visiting. I remain

Yours respectfully,

J. E. Bowler.

This letter was taken from our files Nov. 2, 1900, and was written by John E. Bowler, who still makes his home in Manchester.

A man from the county came in a few days ago and in looking around, he stepped over the register and on feeling the warm air enveloping him, he explained, "Mary, I'm afraid I'm going to be sick. I feel the warm streaks goin' all over me."

Way's Donation—We are informed that the many friends of Rev. W. C. Way of the Sharon M. E. Church will give him a donation visit at the Townhouse, on Wednesday evening, February 12. As these occasions are very happy ones both to the givers and the recipient, we need not urge our readers to go, but we will say that there is no place on this mundane sphere where one can enjoy himself more than at a gathering of this kind, in Sharon.

J. E. Browning of Towanda, Pa., in a letter to us says, "We have had some cold weather here this winter; 26 degrees below was the coldest; have had sleighing since Christmas and 15 inches of snow on the ground now. The license law is 'playing out' here; about one half of the saloons close today and the balance on the first of April and May. There were over thirty drinking places in the borough." Thanks to friend Ed for copies of papers.

Dr. J. C. Burroughs of Clinton for the discovery of so valuable a medicine for horses as his celebrated "hoof and healing ointment" has proven to be. Many of our readers have used it satisfactorily, and stand ready to recommend it.

That fellow who laughed to see Nate Hay's horse run away on Monday morning ought to be choked to death with one of Merrithews sausages. Nate had loaded on his two-wheeled concern a pretty good load of coal and, when in the rear of the Goodyear House, something broke about the harness and the spirited animal "lit out" in a too rapid pace for Nate's slippery boots. Down the hill he went on to the river, scattering coal at every jump. He attempted to ascend the hill at the end of the bridge, but failed. The men and boys that assembled to see the fun (?) assisted Nate to adjust the broken harness but they did not help him pick up the coal.

One Day's Business—This has been a pretty good day for our friend G. R. Palmer, whose office has been thronged with men. The assignees of the Goodyear estate have by the untiring aid of Henry himself, disposed of a large amount of property as is shown in the will. The Goodyear house has been sold to Coor and Burch but the writings will not be drawn until tomorrow. Mr. Lewis will remain in the house.

The weather has moderated much since last week, and the trains on the D. H. & R. R. are making good time.

U.S. Fire Deaths Rival Korean Battle Toll

Fire killed almost half as many Americans in 1952 as have been lost in the entire Korean campaign to date, a report from the National Board of Fire Underwriters reveals.

Last year some 11,000 persons died as a result of fires in the U.S. Approximately 5,000 fatalities occurred in the home, with children the No. 1 victims. Burns and scalds lead in deaths among women and children in the home. Such everyday accidents as an overturned pot of boiling water can cost an average of three lives every hour.

To help slash the national death toll, safety experts urge that housewives learn proper first aid. For minor burns, doctors recommend covering fine mesh gauze with Vaseline petroleum jelly, placing it directly on the burned area; then wrapping it with a bandage, making sure the bandage is not so tight it will affect circulation.

SAVORY WINTER DINNER

Corned beef 'n cabbage is a flavorful dish to set before your family on a cold and wintry evening.

"Tiggs" Special

- 3 pounds corned beef
- 6 turnips
- 6 whole medium-sized onions
- 4 potatoes, quartered
- 1 head cabbage
- 1 teaspoon pepper

Wash meat, cover with cold water, bring to the boiling point and drain. Cover with boiling water, cover tightly and simmer three hours or until tender and most of the water has evaporated. One hour before serving time add the turnips and onions. Continue cooking fifteen minutes, then add potatoes and cabbage cut in wedges. Sprinkle with pepper. Cover and cook until potatoes are done.

Yield: 6 servings.

Serve the meat on a large platter surrounded with vegetables. Sprinkle with paprika. The carrots usually found in this stew have been left out to be gingered and served from a separate vegetable dish.

Gingered Carrots

- 6 medium-sized carrots
- 3 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 3 tablespoons brown sugar
- 1/4 teaspoon ginger

Scrub carrots and cut into thick slices. Cook in small amount of salted water until tender. Drain. Put in shallow pan; dot with butter or margarine and sprinkle with brown sugar and ginger.

Place uncovered in moderate oven (350° F.) for fifteen minutes or until glazed.

Yield: 6 servings.

New Style in Carrots

Fresh carrots with the tops removed are now appearing packaged in the stores from time to time. These carrots are a good buy because the food value is higher than in those with tops.

WHAT'S THE ANSWER?

Q. I realize there's not any way to cure a cold. But isn't there something I can do about aching bones, a runny nose, and all this sneezing and coughing?

A. You're right—there's no sure cure. But you'll recover from your cold more comfortably if you follow these rules. If at all possible, go to bed when you feel a cold coming on and stay there for twenty-four hours. If you can't go to bed, take it easy. Don't exert yourself. Every three hours on the first day, and two or three times a day thereafter while the cold hangs on, take the following mixture: To the juice of 1 fresh lemon, add 1/2 glass of water and 1/2 teaspoon baking soda. Drink as foaming quarts. Follow a sound health regime: eat lightly of nourishing food. Drink plenty of liquids. Try to isolate yourself as much as possible. And, remember, if the cold persists, or if there is fever, by all means call your doctor!

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

It is easy to put the whole family in a picture like this when you use an automatic release to trip the shutter, rather than having someone behind the camera who really belongs in the picture.

Here's How Everyone Can Get Into the Picture

A FREQUENT complaint among camera users is that they never get a chance to be in the picture. A glance at their family albums would give the impression that he or she was virtually a stranger, someone who dropped in once or twice a year, but not a part of the family group.

There's really no reason why the family album can't contain a fair share of snapshots including the entire family—and without having a kindly friend or neighbor man the camera for you.

The answer lies in an inexpensive little gadget that fits on your camera—a very simple accessory that enables the person who sets up the camera to be in the picture. It is called an automatic release and this is how it works:

Assemble your group, leaving an easily accessible spot for yourself. Set the camera on a tripod with your picture nicely composed in the view finder. When all is in readiness, you set the release which has a spring type control. Then you don't waste any time taking your place in the group before the camera. You'll have about 10 seconds to make it before the automatic release trips the shutter and takes the picture.

Some of the older cameras, which are not equipped for synchronized flash, have such a timing element built in. However, all the newer models require the accessory automatic timer.

Check with your photographic dealer about the automatic release accessory for your camera—and how to take a picture and be in it too. Some people feel that especially good group pictures are often made this way because the other people are so interested in whether or not the photographer is going to make it into the picture before the shutter is tripped that they forget to be camera conscious.

In any event, it is a trick that is fun to try and it will put you in your own picture.

—John Van Guilder

A QUICK SNACK

DELICIOUS—NUTRITIOUS

4-H Youths Tell Safety Hazards

The kids who know safety best agree that one of man's oldest and simplest inventions is one of his most dangerous. Forty young safety experts who attended the 31st National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago Nov. 30 to Dec. 4 were asked to list their ideas on how to prevent farm and home accidents. They responded with suggestions ranging from picking up loose baling wire to putting safety shields on power machinery.

But almost all of them singled out one often-overlooked hazard for emphatic mention: stairs.

Man invented stairs thousands of years ago. But the young folks apparently observed, while making safety surveys under the National 4-H Farm and Home Safety Awards Program, that he still hasn't learned to go up and down them without risking a broken neck.

Some 400,000 4-H youths from coast to coast took part in the safety program, sponsored for the eighth consecutive year by General Motors. GM gave the 40 state winners expense-paid trips to the 4-H Congress, including $300 college scholarships to the eight national winners.

"Keep stairs uncluttered," warned Eileen Holbach of Minot, N. D. Ralph Walker, Bideford, Me., was even more specific. He urged everyone to "keep the stairs clear of all roller skates." Other safety winners advised frequent check and repair of steps, or suggested handrails to reduce the likelihood of falls.

Stairways should be well lighted, they agreed, and Agatha Jean Bell of Bolair, W. Va., recommended painting the bottom step white to make it conspicuous.

Farm machinery and its hazards drew frequent mention. Beth Fuhr Smith of Poplarville, Miss., one of the $300 scholarship winners, suggested this simple rule for avoiding accidents with farm equipment: "Know the correct way to use all tools and machinery."

Other suggestions included labeling poisons, frequently checking electrical equipment, keeping inflammable materials away from buildings, confining bulls and other dangerous animals in sturdy pens, putting corks on sharp objects, keeping children off farm equipment and away from stoves, storing pitchforks and other tools in a special place, and many others.

THE AMERICAN WAY

His parents brought freshly popped corn, candy bars and pop after the morning school recess treats after the birthday song was sung.

The new president, Evelyn Schumacher, presided at the business meeting of the Civic Health Club last Friday and voted to give $2.00 to the "March of Dimes" and $2.00 to the "Crusade For Freedom." Plans are made to have a Valentine party.

The new athletic director, Francis Green, received base ball, soft ball, basket ball and foot ball books from Mr. Larry Soldan from the Manchester High School which contain the rules of these games.

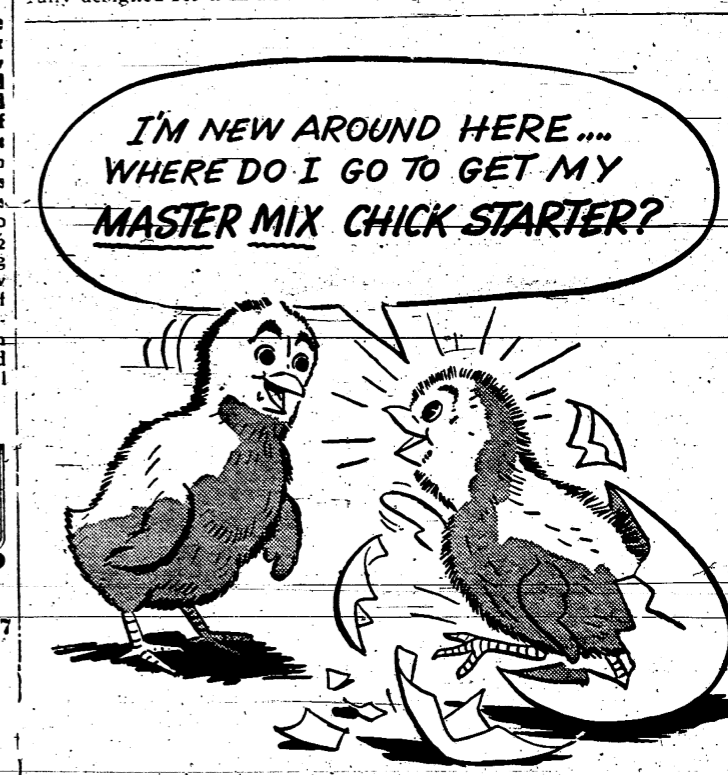

Material gifts and pastimes tend to obliterate the spiritual idea in consciousness, leaving one alone and without His glory. —Mary Baker Eddy

Fascinating Fashions By Judy Seaton

Pert, vivacious Pat Carroll, who appears on CBS-TV's lively comedy program, the "Red Buttons Show," wears her hair in a short, graceful bob — and she finds the many brief, head-hugging hat styles this year especially suited to a short haircut. However, the small hat is good with almost any style of coiffure — and always, no matter how it is designed in a current mode — has the advantage over large brimmed or high crowned hats of contributing a great deal to the neatness of one's grooming. The cloche hat this year is gracefully designed for a small face and delicate features—the wide, fitted band with a single wing of feather along one side is wonderful for a sophisticated looking girl with bolder, stronger features. The soft cloth hat with drawstring at the back to snug it in around the base of the head is perfect for a page boy bob, or a chignon. Pat Carroll feels that no girl's daytime costume is really complete if it is not finished off with a hat. It's lots simpler, often, she admits, to go without a hat, but for a chic, finished look to one's general grooming—a hat is a must, and the tiny hat is always correct.

For Release — Week of February 1, 1953

(1) A professional opinion-research firm found that it does. In a nationwide survey of adults sponsored by The Catholic Digest, Ben Gaffin and Associates found that 95 per cent of the persons questioned who were 65 years of age or older considered religion very important or fairly important in their lives. The survey revealed, further, that regard for religion diminishes among younger adults until we have, in the 18-to-24 age group, 20 per cent fewer who consider religion important. The survey results are analyzed in the February Catholic Digest.

(2) About 1,500 Volkswagens were sold here in 1952. About 135,000 cars will be built this year in the auto plant at Wolfsburg in the British zone of Germany. In 1938, reports the Wall Street Journal, Adolf Hitler announced his plan for a cheap German car. Thousands of Germans made advance down payments, and the $110 million collected by the government was spent to build a factory. But shortly after the plant was built, the 2nd World War began. Not a single investor received a car. The plant was almost totally destroyed by bombing; but, after the war, a few engineers repaired the machinery and began making cars.

(3) It has been pretty well established that smoking injures your health slightly. Whether or not smoking causes serious harm is still a matter of debate among scientists, according to The Kiplinger Magazine. Most cigarette manufacturers spend a great deal of our time and money trying to convince us that smoking never hurts us. Almost all cigarette advertising is completely phony, and quite silly; yet we accept it because a smoker really wants someone to tell him that smoking is a pleasant harmless habit. It isn't. However, it is not known definitely that smoking causes serious harm either.

State Legion Holds Conference

Fresh impetus for the Michigan American Legion's 1953 program of "more work, less play" has been provided more than 300 top-ranking Legionnaires who met in the Durant Hotel, Flint, January 30-31, February 1, for their 35th Annual Spring Conference.

Presided over by state commander Eugene N. Houck of Lansing, the 300-man executive group planned a streamlined series of activities that will be indulged in by more than 70,000 Legionnaires throughout the 83 counties in the state of Michigan.

Most important on the agenda of the three-day business session was the adoption of three resolutions aimed at reducing the effectiveness of the Communist Party's nationwide actions.

They are: (1) "That the activities and scope of Tass, the Communist news service, be limited to the same degree as accorded the free press of the world, and that the 83rd Congress of the United States enact necessary legislation to bring this about."

(2) "That the State Department diplomatic personnel of the Iron Curtain countries, and that they be placed on the same level accorded our diplomatic personnel in their own sectors."

(3) "That the Michigan American Legion sponsor the circulation of the pamphlet 'How to Spot a Communist' throughout the school system of the state of Michigan."

Last Word In Sewing Machines For The Home Seamstress

For the ever-increasing army of home seamstresses, the world's oldest and largest sewing machine company has designed a streamlined slant-needle sewing machine that not only offers modern appeal in furniture styling but the latest engineering techniques give the homemaker greater visibility when stitching and a machine head that can be quickly removed from its cabinet to be used as a portable sewing machine.

The needle and presser bar of this machine are slanted at a nine-degree angle toward the operator. This places the needle directly in front of the operator not only giving greater visibility but enabling the home seamstress to sit in normal, comfortable upright position thus minimizing sewing fatigue. Such assets result in smooth, high-quality stitching particularly on hitherto hard-to-handle sheer fabrics. A spinet cabinet that takes modern-living requirements into consideration has been especially designed for this machine head by Raymond Loewy Associates.

Expressing clean, airy lines in walnut, mahogany or blond finish, it makes a distinguished console table. Open, its unique construction permits the left leg of the cabinet to swing out providing extra support to table top and yields a deep V with extra seating space for the operator.

The design of this machine was directed towards taking the last vestige of guessing out of home sewing. For example, a new development makes it impossible to place the needle in the wrong position in the machine. Uniform manual guiding of fabric when stitching through permanent and legible markings on the throat plate. The hinged bed extension gives easy access to the bobbin when the machine is in a cabinet, increases working surface when used as a portable. Speeds of the new slant-needle sewing machine range from very slow up to 1300 vibrationless stitches a minute.

The streamlined head, made of aluminum and available in black or beige, weighs less than 16 pounds and is easily removed from the cabinet with the use of a recessed handle atop the head.

This slant-needle machine can be viewed at your local Singer Sewing Center in console and desk-style cabinets as well as in the new spinet cabinet.

CHARLESTON COOKERY

American Heritage Recipes

by EDGAR MARSHON

Historic Charleston is well-known for its fabulous plantation life of the 1700's and as a gourmet's paradise.

Founded in 1870 as Charles Town, capital of the Province of Carolina, it soon became the Southern seat of culture and is the city of "firsts". It possesses America's first theatre building where the earliest plantation folk songs can still be heard, the first sumptuous apartment house and the first landscaped gardens—the delight of tourists of today.

Probably the "first" most interesting to housewives is the Charleston Receipts-cook book, containing over 700 easy to make recipes—many submitted by descendants of the first settlers of old Charles Town. All are cherished recipes and compiled into an interesting "conversation piece" of Southern cookery in the great tradition. Many are laced with West Indies rum—backbone of New England commerce—which as early as 1670

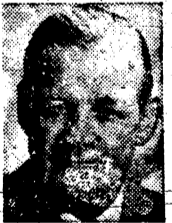

Charlestonian hostesses have contributed over thirty taste-tempters to the Canape section alone of this wonderful guide to good eating. This is a deliciously "different" book, the proceeds of which go to a school for speech correction. If you'd like a copy, send $2.75 plus $2.00 mailing charges to CHARLESTON RECEIPTS, P. O. Box 177A, Charleston, S. C.

WASHINGTON AND "SMALL BUSINESS"

By C. WILSON HARDER

Trying to foresee the future is a hobby in Washington today. The soothsayers are unsure. For one thing, the nature of some appointments to high administrative offices is puzzling. Therefore, for the first time in two decades, the platform of the incoming party is being read and re-read doubly to seek clues to the future.

Many see in this platform a return of consumer credit regulations, such as were known in the past as Regulation W.

C. W. Harder

Several months ago, Congress took away from the Federal Reserve Board the power to control consumer credit. But in the GOP platform, it is stated that one project will be "a Federal reserve system exercising its functions in the money and credit system without pressure for political purposes."

The restoration of the power to control credit will be backed by some of the bigger financiers of the nation. Many of these people claim consumer credit produces inflation, does not encourage personal savings.

On the other hand, those opposed to credit controls take this stand. There is nothing wrong with people buying out of income, the produce of American factories. It is probably an expensive system of distribution due to interest charged the buyer, but this is overcome by the movement of merchandise.

There is no precedent for the American system of installment buying, at any time in the world. However, in no other country in the world has it been possible for so many people to enjoy, and eventually own, so much goods.

Many of the financiers who deplore easy consumer credit in the U. S. are deeply involved in government guaranteed Marshall Plan and Mutual Security financing of European plans.

For example, Communist Tito's Yugoslavia has a commitment of $132,990,620, and almost all of this commitment is held by the Chase National Bank of New York.

Communists are not considered good credit risks.

Credit extended Yugoslavia merely goes to build the state controlled industry of a Communist regime.

But Joe American has a reputation for meeting his obligations. Credit losses on installment buying are less than one-half of one per cent. And both American industry and business gains by this credit system.

Then comes the argument that credit to Joe American builds up inflationary forces.

But just the other day, in just one minor transaction of the MSA, $500,000 in U. S. dollars was allocated to buy copper in Canada to send to Denmark.

Many Washington observers feel the biggest single defect of the Federal government in approaching problems of credit and inflation, is the neglect of government to consult with those who know the subjects.

The nation's independent bankers and the nation's independent businessmen, who work closely with the people of America, have a "grass roots" picture unlike those engaged in international financing. These are the people who must live by, for, and with the American economy.

"COOK DOUBLE, LESS TROUBLE". Now there's a good slogan to go by as you try to make the minutes go further in your busy life.

Many foods used often at meals can be cooked in larger amounts so you've enough for two—or more meals. And all done at one time. Plan to cook double amounts of these foods so you have a head start on a second-day menu. Then the left-over portion is really a save-over. Here are some good items to cook for two-time serving.

- Roast beef, pork, lamb or ham
- Meat or fish loaf
- Rice
- Potatoes
- Beans (lima, navy, kidney)
- Noodles or macaroni

A ROSY SALMON LOAF, for instance, makes the main dish for a couple of meals. Cream of celery soup is used in the loaf and over it for a hot creamy sauce. You'll like this recipe for special Lenten meals.

Celery Salmon Loaf
 1 cup (11-pound can) salmon, with juice,
 1 egg, slightly beaten
 1 can (1 1/2 cups) flaked
 cream of celery soup
 1 1/2 cups dry bread crumbs
 1/2 cup minced green pepper

Combine ingredients as listed and mix. Pack lightly into a greased, small loaf pan. Bake in a moderate oven (350° F.) for about 1 hour or until done—turn out on a warm platter. Makes 6 servings. Heat additional cream of celery soup to serve as sauce with loaf. (Blend 1 can of soup with 1/2 cup milk for sauce.)
