May Madness

On May 1st, the traditional day of celebration for Rusian Communists, a "diplomatic victory" was being herald in Washington. A tinder-box of a country in the Middle Eahad "reluctantly consented" to "accept" $10,000,000 of Un ed States taxpayers money! This diplomatic victory was "great significance" because the 21 year-old King" does rate of the Eisenhower Doctrine" therefore funds earmark to support this doctrine which was formulated to keep per in the Middle East, were not acceptable to the little king the $10,000,000 had to be taken from another fund befuther money would be accepted.

Future events may prove this a sound policy, and we hope that, instead of chirruping "We told you so," we can just hang our heads and mutter, "As Confucious said, we were confused."

Enchanting, Madam

What's Cooking?

Of all the perfumes women use I marvel at the brands they choose The nicest ladies that you meet

Will wear "My Sin" and "Indiscreet,"
"Maybe," "Ahandon", and "Caress:"
"Tigress" "Surrender" even "Yes!"

These scents are all sophiscated.
But, I believe, much over-rated.
Fil bet if men would read the labels
on bottles on our dressing tables
The normal man would hesitate
To ask a lady for a date.

If I put on my best persume.

(My husband's normal, I assume.)

Do you know what he's apt to do?

So now I'm planning on a switch.
That I believe will make me rich.
I'll make a dreamy perfume-mist
That no man living can resist.
I'll make a base of hearty stew.

With lots of onion, (garlic too!) With chives and herbs I'll weave a spell

With all the food men love to smell.

Some fresh-baked bread, corn on the cob
And butter, just a great, big gob:
Fried chicken, crisp and brown and nice,
And apple pie, just drenched with spice.

Then finally coffee, strong and hot.
Then I'll brew all these in one big pot.
Thus, I'll achieve a scent sublime, And call my perfume, "Dinnertime,"
All strained and bottled up as well,
Imagine how that stuff will sell.

So spicy, rich and sweetly yummy --Win man's heart, via his tummy --Win man's heart, via his coning

Women will batter at my door

To buy the scent men hunger for.

Think what a boost I'll give romance
Poor bachelors won't have a chance.

Old maids who thought all hope was past
Will be pursued by men at last.
And wedding bells will surely chime
For girls who switch to "Dinnertime." Mercantile

I'll then wear diamonds, rubies, pearls,
And dine with kings and dukes and earls

And even after income tax.

I'll have mink coats and Cadillacs.
Then living in a pent-house high
You know the first thing that I'll huv
When all that cash comes rolling in?
A king-size bottle of "My Sin!"

Actions to values.

The ording to the experts, this situation is particularly serious in insurance on personal possessions—which simply means the thousand and one things within the walls of your home. If that is true in your case, and if fire strikes, you'll get the money for such insurance as you carry, but it won't begin to meet your loss.

Luckily, the solution to this problem isn't difficult. Step are is to make an inventory. Take each room separately and list everything in it. Put down the replacement cost of the article; estimate its useful life, and deduct the percentre of use already obtaintd, based on that useful life. Then you'will have a generally accurate picture of current volue.

When that is done for every room, add up the total and compare it to your insurance in force. The chances are that you'll be in for a shock.

The next step is to see your locas insurance agent. He knows how to provide the insurance you need-both on possessions, and on your home itself-at the most reasonable cost.

Fiveryone has heard of honest fears expressed that the family farm is going down a road that leads to ultimate excitation. Yet no less an authority than Secretary of Agriculture Benson has said that the family farm "has always been, is now and, I think, always will be the backbone of American agriculture."

There is every indication that those who are pessimistic about the future of the family farm have lost perspective, take account of the enormous and beneficial changes that have been brought about by mechanization, vastiy improved.

This has turned farming into a business requiring substantial investment along with high skills and knowledge on the part of the farmer if he is to succeed. There is little room left for incompetent people or those unsuited by temperament, background or training to agriculture.

The developments mentioned also have brought a new concept of the size of the family farm. A farmer with modgreater acreage than did his grandfathers. But he can still run a family farm, and the opportunaties are greater than ever before.

All farmers have problems, But in every section of this country family farms are doing well, and a way of life that is typically American is being maintained and improved.

son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lawson, Manchester, took place at 8.00 p.m. April 26 at the Milan
Baptist Church. The pastor, Rev.
Blake Hunt, performed the double ring ceremony before 40 members of the immediate families. The bride, the Gaughter of Mr. and
Mrs. Ronald Tower, 550 South,
Ann Arbor, St., was given in marriage by her father.

The church was decorated with riage by her father.

The church was decorated with white gladfoll, pink carnations and white daises in large baskets trimmed with pink ribbon bows. Arthur Katterjohn, Saline, was organist and David Gable, Saline, sang "Because" and "I Love You Truly."

The bride wore a pink lace dress street length, and a halo head dress to match. She carried a white Bible with trailing ivy and her flowers were white roses.

Grange Site in D. C.

The efforts of the National Grange to keep its modern 8-story headquarters in Washington. D.C. have now received the attention of Congress, which governs the District of Columbia. The federal government has ordered the building razed to make way for a government building on adjacent property. The National Grange values its building at more than a million dollars, but the government has set the price at less than a third of that amount.

The efforts of the National Grange to Children start driving a tractor at a too early age is a dangerous practice in Michigan since those early days the vilgor and ingenuity of the Grange have been killed in tractor according to be one of the people living on sense of the people living on sense of the people living on the land has met these problems successfully, largely through joilst effort. Everybody's Day

Sunday is Everybody's Day. It's designated as Mother's Day, but since husbands and kids have had a hand in the creation of Mother, everybody has a hand in the celebrating, with Mom on the receiving end, and she's got to grin and bear it. If little Junior and Sis decide to be chief cooks and bottle-washers for the day, Mom may have to smile at burned pots and pans; exclaim estatically over burned vegetables and slightly underdone roast beef, and listen unflinchingly to the crash of breaking china as Dad and the kids act as her chore-doers for the day, while she sits idly by, "enjoying her leisure.

Seventyfive boys, eight through 15 years of age, have signed up so far for summer baseball teams pots and pans; exclaim estatically over burned vegetables as part of the local recreation program. The older boys will be in the Babe Ruth League and the rouncer ones will form a local little League of their own.

Ton, N. Ishanton discuss the creation of the control of the contr

We like special days, and Mother's Day is very special, and the first gifts on Mother's special day, when the youngsters are very small, and the special acts to prove to mother that she's "quite a nice guy," are never forgotten. Look in any mother's special "memory box" and you'll see what we mean.

During the past few years, weeks and months have been designated for publicizing everything from National Baby Week to Pot Likker and Hush Puppies Week. During the past month "Be Kind to Animals" week was held and we've decided to start something new and. In commemoration of our own "Let's Be Obnoxious and Tell a Whopper" week we offer the following product of hard-heartedness and unkindness to animals.

League will be in Ann Arbor late this summer. Many of the summer plans will be made around the coming Little World Series.

Tryous and a general organization meeting for the baseball registrants and their fathers or sponsors will take place Saturday. May kindness to animals.

Seven More Lives

It's A Lie, Honest

I had a little kitten once
My love for him was great. My love for him was great.

But he led such a wicked life
My-love soon turned to hate.

I treated him so nicely.

Fed him cream and group-up beef.

But he'd eat little helpless birds
Much to my rage and grief.

He wasn't satisfied at all
With the things cats ought to eat:
He'd kill the cutest little mice
Then lay them at my feet.

Then lay them at my feet.

My pet canary vanished.

And while I searched the place
With feathers on his whiskers

And a leer upon his face.
That masty cat sat watching,
With his beedy eyes aglow.

And then and there I vowed it—
That cat, or I, must go!

So, since I am the squeamish type I called my loving spouse And said, "I will not tolerate That feline in my house.

That reliae in my nouse.

"Don't show him any mercy,
And remember, cats are tough

"Be sure the lake you drown him in
Is plenty deep enough." And as he carried off the cat

I hummed a little song:
You may think that I'm heartless,
But that cat had done me wrong But that cat had done me w
I felt that I was justified
After the thing he'd done.
And I planned for a canary
To replace the murdered one.

So, when said spouse came walking in.

I asked, "Have you accomplished
What you set out to do?"

If a contest was held to determine who was best informed about the history and current news of organized labor in Jackson County, Thomas J. Brannick would probably win.

At least that is the opinion of many of his friends who have known him during the past half century as an enthusiastic participant in union affairs.

Brannick is president of the Plumbers and Steamfitters local No. 313 AFIL which he joined in 1906, after receiving his journeyman's license. He served his apprenticeship with the S & H Avery Plumbling and Heating Company in Jackson, just west of the present YMCA.
