One of our loyal readers handed me McClure's Magazine the other day dated November, 1903. In many ways reading it pointed out that things nowadays were very different than then, but in many ways they were little different. It was most interesting reading.

The table of contents contained a feature article on the wonders of and "The Jaycee Operation Explanation of the Properties of Radium". It must have been that radium and its applications and uses were evidently, at that time, about as controversial and confusing to the average person as Nuclear Power is today. The arguments about its alleged advantages and uses and its potential dangers raged quite unabated at Manchester Area doesn't it? Let us remember that the magazines of those days filled a somewhat different role than they do nowadays. Besides current events these magazines contained top flight fiction by famous authors, one of whom in this issue was Rex Beach and another Stewart Edward White.

It should also be remembered that in 1903 there was no radio nor TV. This was the month and year in which the Wright Brothers made their first plane flight, and automobiles were a rarity. Most of us lived a much greater confined existance. We stayed at home in our own communities and had little contact with the world as a whole except thru the newspapers and magazines. So the magazines of that day were not pointed to a specialized field like our news and business magazines of today. They touched on all phases of our life.

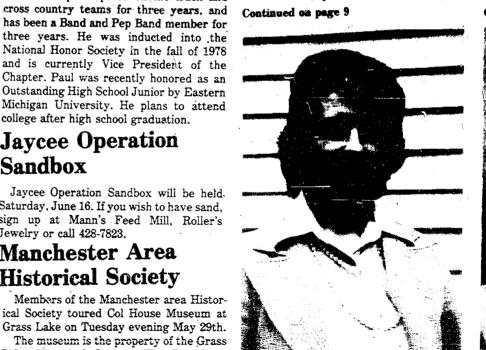

The fiction was partly humorous and partly romantic or "Gothic" as it is called today, and while there were decorous pictures by well known artists to illustrate of the evening through his skillful modthese stories, and photos to accompany the erating. We also thank the many people articles, none of them resembled those in Continued on page 12

I believe I can do a good job for our children and our community as a member of the Manchester School Board. With two children in school and a third not far from kindergarten. In one of his first columns he stated that he was going to review the history of Manchester from the early twenties through the thirties. But outside of recalling a few misunderstandings, usually placed in the wrong time period or sometimes mentioning the wrong people connected with such events, he has done very little with actual history. He claims that his misplacement of time had very little to do with the recollection, a point with which we wholeheartedly disagree. One of a writers greatest pitfalls is research, research, and more research to place an event at the right time, the right place with the right persons. For example, never once that we can remember has he mentioned that at one time Manchester had two railroads going through it. On the south side coming up from Adrian was the L S & M S. (Long stops & miserable stations), Lake Shore & Michigan Southern the official name. The station was next to the sheds now used by E.G. Mann & Son and the switching yard was where the IGA is now. There was a train every day dropping off carloads of lumber for the Manchester Lumber Co., carloads of feed for E.G. Mann and occasionally a load of coal or castings for Double A Products Co. There were also batches of freight, LCL (less than carload) for merchants, inhabitants and farmers. After the war in 1945 Double A Products Co. shipped many carloads of tools to Sears. Roebuck and Co. warehouses located in Los Huckleberry usually had two cars moving west on Monday, then they would return on Tuesday, take Wednesday off and repeat the performance on Thursday and Friday. It usually dropped coal cars just before crossing Ann Arbor St. and occasionally would switch at the Junction and back into town to drop cars at the southern yard.

Earlier in the century both lines had passenger cars which was the only way a person could get to Manchester. At least that is one facet we have held on to for many, many years. We still don't have any public transportation. We did get rid of the old hotel though, leaving strangers that come to town with the impression that they are welcome to come in but please get the hell out at night for there is no place at the

If you are a steady reader you'll have noticed there wasn't anything mentioned last week about the Varsity boys baseball squad. I sort of wanted to wait until this week and cover the past 2 weeks-so here

On Monday, May 21, we had a doubleheader against a Class B school Columbia Central and they were not happy as we left victorious in both. In the first contest Craig Rogers and Rick Krzyzaniak rapped 2 or more hits as Steve Melcher banged a double and triple. John Alexander got his first start; cracked a home-run and threw a shutout to win 9-0. In the second game Steve kept his winning way as he hurled a 4 hitter giving them 4 runs as we put 11 on the scoreboard. We had different sluggers Anita Todd To this time as Nick Krzyzaniak, Dan Burch and Tom Malcolm totaled 2 or more hits. Steve as a pitcher now stands 5-0.

The very next day the Tigers from Hudson visited us and they too were sent home on the short end of a 13-3 score. Craig was our winning pitcher on the day as of these being a round tripper by Bob King.

Rick and Jeff Geiger walloped 1 each. I guess all good things must come to an end sometime but it came to quickly for me. Saturday we traveled to Napoleon to face East Jackson in the opener of the Class C Districts and boy were our bats silenced. We got fantastic pitching from Craig as going into the final inning it stood deadlocked at 0-0. They got a walk and a hit moving their men to third and second with no out. Their batter missed the squeeze sign so the runner from third was out easy as Nick then rifled it to third but the Trojan was safe. The next batter knocked a slow bounder to the right which Craig fielded and fired home but the man scored. In our igan University in Educational Leadership last as bats we went down 1, 2, 3, advancing and is currently working on an Ed. S. Reasons for wanting to be a school board

It is my wish to continue as a member of the School Board for many reasons. Since being appointed to the board I have actively worked on the Budget and Policy Committee. There have been positive steps taken and there is much still left to be accomplished. As a member of the board your time is not necessarily always spent on the educational aspect. We spent many hours on transportation policy, absentee and disciplinary policy and hot lunch program. Along with hot lunch we are watching House Bill 4427 which would put mandatory breakfast program to the vote of the people.

Many people have questions about the increased valuation of their property and what the School Board has done with this extra monies? School Districts which qualifv for state membership aid do not receive more money from increased valuations. For each additional dollar received from local taxpayers, because of increased assessment, this district loses a dollar in state aid. under the formula used the last seven

I ask you to think about the entire school program and grant me your vote so I may serve the Manchester School System for four more years.

I think our schools are good, although our students, teachers and administrators deserve better facilities. One of the first steps I would recommend to the Board is to begin a systematic review of our curriculum to see where we're strong, where we're weak and in what new directions, if any, we should be moving.

Tight budgets have become a fact of life. for families, businesses, townships and schools. There will always be more worthy ideas than dollars to fund them but there can be little argument about top priorities. We must attract and keep good faculty. We must plan for orderly building maintenance and long-term capital needs. We must recognize our students' aptitudes and be alert for the most efficient ways of meeting their educational needs. We must work for good communication among students. teachers, administrators, parents and all the taxpayers in the district.

Not the least important, we must trust and respect the men and women who manage our schools and run their programs. see the Board as a lightning rod of community opinion, a shaper of educational and financial policy and a guardian of our children's future. I'm willing and ready to the lack of social restraint practiced by today's youth.

It does seem that more of today's youth are involved with unlawful activities than when I was that age.

But, think for a moment...where does the fault lie? Does it lie with our public officials who are charged and convicted of unlawful practices? Is it the guidance they receive at school? Or, is it the guidance they receive at home?

We have all watched traffic moving above the 55 speed limit, slow down when a police car is seen. Does this teach our young people it is alright to break the law as long as you don't get caught at it?

We bankers have preached for years the wisdom of teaching young people to save. Perhaps we should also suggest we set more criteria for our young people.

We must fault people for breaking laws, we must also fault ourselves for not always setting the best of examples.

many of our today's magazines-even those in the ads were very prim.

And speaking of the advertisements. they covered a wide variety of products because there was no Radio nor TV with which to share them. In the wearing apparel department were such bargains as Ladies Suits and Jackets made to measure from $8.00 to $12.00 to $40.00; Men's Dress Shoes, $3.50 a pair postage paid; Men's Overcoats of highest style, $18.00; and, of course Erect Form Corsets at from $1.00 to $3.00. There were billiard tables for the home at from $16.00 to $60.00; a Kalamazoo Kitchen Range from $23.75; and Osterman Patent Elastic Felt Mattress at $15.00; a one problem another bobs up to haunt us. 17-inch Ostrich plume with which to decorate your hat, for $5.00.

1903 was, of course, just the beginning of the automotive age, and there were a considerable number of automobile ads for many and varied makes which had appeared on the scene during the previous two or three years. Among those listed were Northern of Detroit, Crestmobile. Franklin, Autocar, Columbia, Rambler, of Kenosha, Wis.; Winton, Yale, Duryea, Haynes-Apperson and Oldsmobile and others. Prices ranged from $750 to $1850, and one proudly advertised that their car had gone 1176 miles in 76 hours, a real endurance record. Top speeds were not mentioned in these ads.

Many other miscellaneous items included Ingersoll watches at from $1.00 to $1.75, a roll top desk for $21.00, Velvet garters for men, solid gold collar buttons, Linene collars and cuffs, for men, English steel straight razors for $1.00 and sheet music for 10 cents. Player pianos were very big too at MARYKNOLL NY 10545 this time. And this magazine was priced at $1.00 a year or 10 cents per copy.

However a little research shows that wages at that time were from $10.00 a week up for a six-day 10 hours-a-day week. Taxes were, of course unbearably high and wages too low and the common man was being sadly exploited; radium was perhaps gonna destroy the world, and big government was

We've gone a long way towards making this a better world to live in since 1903, and I'm sure the average person leads a better life now than then but every time we settle We tend to think of the "good old days" as being carefree and happy but when we take a closer look we find they only seem so because we tend to remember the nice things about them and forget the problems

Sometimes it seems we have made immense progress in the past 76 years and then again it doesn't, but don't give up, it's still the best place that I know of.

"I was extremely happy when I received my first mission assignment to Shinyanga, Tanzania. I was finally going to the place I had read and dreamed about. What I didn't realize was that nothing could have prepared me for what I would find.

During my first bus ride to the place west of Lake Victoria where I was to begin work, I sat sandwiched between a heavyset woman holding two nervous chickens on her lap and a tall man who kept falling asleep on my shoulder. The terrain I passed was nothing like the lush tropical paradise of my dreams. As I coughed from all the dust, I wondered how anyone could farm this parched earth.

"At the end of the line I was met by Fr. Dan Ohmann, who began telling me about the life of these people with whom he had shared 10 years. He pointed out various villages of mud-block houses and described the small Christian communities growing in each. He talked about the need to encourage the use of plows and oxen instead of hoes. "In the following months, my initial impression of the harshness of the land and the lack of material resources heightened. I was often repulsed by the effects of poverty. At that time the people were suffering through the end of a three-year drought. Fr. Dan organized an extensive food relief program and I accompanied a distribution team.

"Everyday we faced a crowd of hungry people. There were the wide-eyed faces of children, the leather-like faces of the old and the trusting, hopeful faces of teenagers-all composing a collage of need. The grain I scooped from 50-lb, sacks was like the grain we used to feed horses where I grew up. Many recipients were so poor they had only the folds of their garments for containers.

"Weighed down by the impossibility of the situation, my face covered with sweat and dust. I became irritable. But then I began to notice how the people were calmly going about the business of survival. During those difficult days, I began to get glimpses of the strong character of these people, their capacity to suffer and their basic joy and community spirit. What I first thought was a barren land, with no chance of progress, became one full of rich possibilities. I had learned about the one great resource of the country-the Tanzanian people. Africa was not at all what I had expected . . . it was "Manchester taxpayers deserve the maximum benefit from their education dollars. We have to take a good, hard look at programs and policies-and where they don't measure up, we have to make some changes. But with a decreasing enrollment and State aid shrinking every year, we have to start with the basics. That means a sound basic educational program, and sound fiscal planning to make it possible. The job has been started; I ask your support to see it through to completion."

WHAT IT REALLY COSTS

Inflation is a cruel task master with a split personality. On the one hand, inflation affects everybody. But it hurts some worse than others. And things like the consumer price index and the terms used to describe inflation do so in generalities.

So it may be hard to believe when economicts say that for the "average" Paul DuFresne American family, the average family, food is getting increasingly cheaper. It sounds like nonsense.

But taken as a whole, in 1929 Americans spent 23.4 percent of their disposable income on food. Now, 50 years later, we spend about 16 percent of our disposable income on food. Not that the food costs less money, but incomes have risen faster than

Now this doesn't mean that the typical or "average" family spends 16 percent of its take home pay on food. A family of four with ten-thousand dollars take home pay will spend about 35 percent of it on food while a family of four with 30-thousand Paid for by the Committee to Elect Paul dollars in take home pay spends about 10 DuFresne percent of it on food. In other words families eat about the same amounts but the proportion of food expense to their income

So, over the long haul the trend has been for food to get cheaper in relation to the income of americans, taken as an average. In the years right after World War II the American farmer could grow enough food to feed about 20 people. Thanks to increased efficiency that same farmer can now grow

In Retrospect

In many ways life nowadays is considerably more complicated than it use to be some thirty years ago. For instance life on the garbage front was more simple than it is

You went to the store and you bought groceries which were packed in paper sacks. After you got them home you unpacked them and after they became garbage you returned it to the same bags that held the groceries. And this was recycling at its simplest, groceries to bags, groceries into garbage then garbage to bags---and these paper bags were free with the groceries.

"Waste not less ye be wasted" was the philosophy, and it applied to other stuff too. Soft drinks came in bottles which the boys and girls redeemed for two cents with which they bought small toy pistols made of paraffin and filled with sweet syrup of a ideous purple color. Milk bottles were put out on the front porch at night and there they, as if by magic, were picked up by a fellow called the "milk man" who returned them to the cow for refilling.

And then progress came to our land.

We arrive home with, from the market, our groceries and boxes of plastic garbage bags which are not at all free, and there are other things about those bags that are all

The paper bags we get at the market are, as we stated, filled with groceries which we unpack and then throw the workhorse paper tags away by placing them in the plastic bags to be thrown away. This is specialization. Groceries go into paper bags garbage go into paper bags, it goes into plastic bags. The paper bags have become

And nowadays there are other things about garbage which are bad. At our house somebody-not me-always fills the bag so full that I-who have to tie the bag-can never close the top. So I have to unload the top layer, which is always sticky, fluid and smelly. This, of course must be done by hand. Then I put this layer into a new bag

And another thing. I always have a devil bottom of the bag which, is of course,

ROLLER SKATING - every Thursday, Then came the little plastic strips with beginning June 14th, we will be going roller the notches which you put on and pulled skating at the Adrian Skatedium. The cost until the notches caught, like buckling a is only 75 cents per person. This 75 cents belt. They worked very well. I could hold covers each person's skate rental. There is a concession stand at the both hands and some juggling to fasten it,

When I returned to put it out I found that it had become unfastened and I blamed the SWIMMING - every Monday and Wed- dog for it and refastened it, but as I stood nesday beginning June 18th, we will be watching it, I saw it slowly uncoil and slip - sponsoring recreational swimming at the off onto the floor. > It would be much nicer for me to cope with the plastic bag problem if the design engineers would all go on a strike but I suppose that is too much to hope for so I shall continue to struggle on and on.
