The 70th Birthday of Girl Scouts of the U.S.A. was the theme for the 24th Annual Meeting of the Huron Valley Girl Scout Council. Over 225 people attended the evening meeting at Eastern Michigan University's McKenny Union. Joan Wolfe, a volunteer leadership advocate and author of Making Things Happen delivered the keynote address.

The First Class Award is one of the highest awards in Girl Scouting. Fifty-eight First Class Girl Scouts were honored at this meeting for their hard work and dedication. The Huron Valley Girl Scout Council is fortunate to have a large number of hard working, energetic, dedicated adults serving its nearly 10,000 girl members. Recognition for outstanding adult support was given to members at this meeting.

Many awards were given to adults who have given services to Girl Scouts in many different areas. Dianne Schwab of Manchester received the Council Adult Appreciation pin.

During the business portion of the meeting, new officers and members of the Board of Directors were elected. Girl Advisory Board members and Nominating Committee members were also elected.

The evening concluded with a presentation by Wayne-Westland Gift of Water Girl Planning committee celebrating Girl Scouting's 70th Birthday. The Gift of Water theme of Girl Scouts of the U.S.A. is in conjunction with the United Nations Decade of Water.

The Huron Valley Girl Scout Council, a United Way Agency, serves approximately 10,000 girls in Southeastern Michigan.

Better Speech And Hearing Month

cause of embarrassment and concern to the child. Teachers, family and friends do not see the problem as readily and are confused as to why a child may seem not to understand what they are talking about, or be able to express ideas in a way which is clear and complete. Because some children with language problems have difficulty with reasoning skills, academic subjects which call for a high degree of reasoning can be very hard for them. Usually children with language problems at this age are also experiencing problems in written language as well as spoken. Since much of the required work of high school is written these children are often struggling under a heavy academic handicap.

At the high school level getting teachers and students to understand the nature and effect of speech and language problems on the child's performance is a primary goal. With understanding and extra help, children with language and speech impairments can have very successful and rewarding high school careers. Having the courage to confront and seek help for their problem is of utmost importance in bringing about this success. If you know of students who are or may be suffering from speech and language problems, encourage them to come forward and receive the help they need. It can mean the difference between years of frustration and failure and years of success and confidence.

The Manchester School District has a Speech and Language Pathologist who is available to deal with any child who is experiencing speech, language or hearing difficulties. If you know of a child who may be displaying any of the above difficulties, please contact Miss Leslie Szubczak at Klager School.

Remember, May is "Better Speech and Hearing Month".

"Together We Can Change Things"

Mr. David Little presenting Mrs. Claire Reck with Red Cross Award

It was an evening for volunteers at the Annual Board meeting of the Washtenaw County Chapter of the American Red Cross, May 12, 1982. Eastern Michigan University President Dr. John W. Porter, who spoke at the dinner function, applauded this county's Red Cross in beginning its 66th year of humanitarian service to the people of Washtenaw County. With the theme, "Together We Can Change Things" Dr. Porter both challenged and praised the American Red Cross in its use of volunteers.

Mr. David Little, Manager of Great Lakes Federal Savings in Manchester presented Washtenaw County, American Red Cross' most prestigious Wilfrid de St. Aubin Award to Claire Reck of Manchester. Claire has been with the Washtenaw County Chapter since 1942 and has served on the Board of Directors as a member and as an officer. She has faithfully served in the Disaster, Safety and Blood Services departments. Exemplary service to her community epitomizes the spirit that the American Red Cross has stood for in 100 years. In the Red Cross Southeastern Michigan Blood Region, Claire organizes one of the most successful community blood clinics. In Manchester she is most worthy of her nickname, "Mrs. Red Cross."

Outstanding Volunteer Leadership Awards went to Board Members Nadine Furlong, Paul Lemon of Manchester, Dave Parkes and Allan Grossman.

Police Warns of Latest Skam Game

The Manchester Police Department reports that several people in the area have received telephone calls from a gentleman who says he is a bank examiner and is trying to catch a "bank teller" who is cheating the customer and the bank. He then wants information on the amount of interest paid to the depositor for the last quarter and the latest deposit balance. By obtaining this data he can then ascertain the potential victims bank balance and whether they are a good prospect. He offers to drive them to their bank, has them withdraw a certain amount of funds, tells them he will re-deposit the funds, thus catching the supposed cheating teller. Of course he absconds with their money.

If anyone receives such a call they should immediately call the Manchester Police Department at 428-8505.

Letter To The Editor

Dear Editor,

I found the article in the May 23, 1982 Ann Arbor News regarding Kinship Homes and area dairy farmers extremely upsetting. I teach mentally impaired adults at Chelsea High School and have a member of the group home in my classroom. I have taught for over 13 years and my experience with area farmers has been absolutely fantastic. They have bent over backwards to help the handicapped. Several of my students have received paid job training working on dairy farms.

I might also mention that were it not for area farmers, many Special Olympic athletes would not have been able to go to the annual state meet held at Central Michigan University. The Trinkle Barn Dance Committee has annually held a dance that has sent our youngsters to compete in this special athletic competition for mentally impaired children and adults.

During the years that I was Area Director I received tremendous support from them. I feel the News article did a disservice to dairy farmers. They were treated as if one man was a spokesman for the entire group. I want to emphasize that I have never seen any negative attitudes towards the mentally impaired exhibited by any of the many dairy farmers I have come into contact with in my teaching career. On the contrary, they have been supportive and a very important part of my vocational training program.

Ed Aluk Seeks District Seat

If courage and caring are important qualifications for political candidates, then the voters of this Michigan Legislative District will do well to consider Ed Aluk of Saline. Ed this week showed both qualities when he announced his candidacy for the State Legislature. He will seek the job of Representative of the 32nd District, now held by Rep. Roy Smith (R).

Smith announced his decision not to seek re-election months ago and has recently expressed interest in running for the Senate post being vacated by gubernatorial hopeful Ed Pierce. The Smith announcement triggered widespread speculation about possible successors, but declarations from actual candidates have been extremely scarce.

Ed's statement of candidacy explains his reasons. His declaration, issued this week, says briefly:

"In order for the State of Michigan to once again become a place of economic stability and opportunity, some revised goals must be set and accomplished. With the current crisis in our State, I believe we need people who are committed to looking for new and creative ways to solve the problems we share.

Aluk will run as a Republican. Born in Tecumseh, Ed Aluk moved to Saline with his parents in 1967. He graduated from Saline High School in 1971 and from Eastern Michigan University in 1976, with a bachelor's degree in education and music. He headed the vocal music program in the Clinton Public Schools for two years, 1978-80, while working on a master's degree at the University of Michigan. He will complete his advanced degree this year. He will also celebrate his 29th birthday, June 10.

His local active affiliations include the Saline Jaycees and Saline Baptist Church. Ed is currently serving as secretary of the Jaycees, and he has served the church in a variety of working and leadership roles.

Aluk resides at 9630 Saline-Milan Road. From this base he plans an active campaign which will take him to every community and crossroads, sounding out the people he plans to represent in Lansing.

A Garden Variety OF SALAD IDEAS

When it comes to salads, no two are alike. They are versatile in that salads make use of different ingredients and easily take on many forms. It can be easy to transform ordinary salads into something special by using a wide variety of fruits and vegetables. Alternating dressings can play a big part in expanding the salad repertoire, too. Try a different combination of ingredients every day of the week, to prevent the family from getting the "salad blahs."

Start out the week with this interesting recipe from the Kraft Kitchens for Chunky Garden Salad. It combines cherry tomato halves, cucumber chunks, celery and radish slices, and pitted ripe olives. Top it with an inventive dressing that mixes Kraft Italian dressing with plain yogurt.

There's a "garden variety" of salad ideas... there may never be a need to make the same one twice!

Senator Carl Levin's

WASHINGTON

Budget Offers No Relief

The budget resolution approved by the Senate recently offers no relief from the economic recession either to Michigan or to the nation.

It will keep interest rates high, unemployment high and the economy depressed because its deficit is too great, the result of misplaced spending and taxing priorities.

Our state has endured a double digit unemployment rate for 27 consecutive months and now it is being forced to bear the heaviest burden for the administration's economic policy. Nothing in the budget resolution, which supports the administration's policies, will reduce our unemployment or ease our burden.

When the Senate began considering the budget resolution, I had some hope that a better resolution would result -- one that would provide a more sensible approach to spending and taxing and lead to a smaller deficit and lower interest rates, the two essential ingredients for economic recovery.

My hopes proved short-lived when Senate Republicans, who are in the majority in the Senate, decided to go along with the administration to continue the same budgetary policies of last year that are proving so disastrous to Michigan's farmers, workers and small businessmen.

They decided to reject a bipartisan compromise I had agreed to support even though I did not agree with every element in it.

But this bipartisan compromise offered a balanced approach toward achieving lower deficits and lower interest rates. Although it would have cut non-discretionary spending more than I preferred and defense spending less than I preferred, I was willing to vote for it in the spirit of bipartisanship because it would have lowered the projected deficit from the plan supported by President Reagan and the Republican-controlled Senate Budget Committee.

I sensed that a number of Senators from both parties were willing to accept this compromise sponsored by Senator David Durenberger, a Republican from Minnesota. Unfortunately, the Durenberger proposal never was submitted for a vote because Republican backers decided to back their committee budget even though its deficit was higher.

To some extent, the budget agreed to is similar to the budgets offered by President Johnson during the Vietnam War. It tries to provide guns and butter.

The guns are in the form of bloated military spending that includes MX missiles we don't know how to base, B-1 bombers that will be obsolete shortly after they become operational and nuclear aircraft carriers that will be sitting ducks.

The butter is in the form of the President's sacrosanct tax cuts that disproportionately benefit those who need it least and have failed abysmally to spur investment as we were assured they would.

The budget approved by the Senate majority shows the consequences of indiscriminate funding of guns and butter. It proposes a deficit of $115.8 billion for next year and a cumulative deficit of $272.7 billion over the next three years.

Deficits of this magnitude, the direct result of excessive increases in military spending and excessive, disproportionate tax cuts, assure that interest rates will not come down and that any recovery from the recession will be only feeble and temporary.

Both last year and this year I argued against deficits like this and for deferral of the third year of the individual tax cut and a lesser increase in military spending. If we deferred the third year of the tax cut, we would reduce the 1985 deficit from $64.2 billion to $28.3 billion.

If we also reduced the increase in military spending to 6 percent real growth, as Republican Senator Nancy Landon Kassebaum of Kansas proposed (and I supported), we could reduce that year's deficit to below $20 billion. This, along with an easing of the money supply by the Federal Reserve Board, would bring reduced interest rates and a revitalized economy.

Although this year, as last year, I was in the minority in voting against the budget, it was gratifying to see that 42 other Senators agreed with me this year. Last year only 19 other Senators joined me.

The deficits voted by the supporters of this administration are tragically high. They will do nothing to lower interest rates or lower the unemployment rate. They will do nothing to revitalize auto sales or housing sales.

HIT OR MISS by farley

It seems that every time a group of women get together for any length of time the conversation eventually turns to the question of diet and this subject is widely discussed also by the masculine contingent. Someone you know must be dieting.

The ads in newspapers and magazines and on the video are numerous with various plans, pills and other nostrums to accomplish a weight loss. One of your friends must have told you about a new guaranteed to lose 15 pounds in just a few days diet. Nowadays is only for Eakimos.

We have heard of several ludicrous circumstances that developed from one or more of these diets and dieters. I was told of the gal who was on a diet when the school asked her to whip up a triple layer cake, reports Bob Swift. She made the cake but it turned out to be so magnificent that she cut a generous wedge and ate it.

She was horrified that her husband would come home, see the cake and find out that she had fallen off her diet so she ate the whole cake and then made another one for the sale. This was the only way she could figure was a way to get rid of the evidence.

Dieting has become a part of our lives. Back in Diamond Jim Brady's day for instance, a few pounds of blubber was a sign of affluence, of maturity, but no more. Even I have had certain people poke fun at my centerfold.

Many and varied are the diets abroad. There's always a new one like the one where you eat raw cabbage and keep to lose seven pounds in three days or the one where you blend goose grease and bran powder and grapefruit juice and swallow a big dose every day at 3:00 p.m. and one gal said it worked so well that her panty hose bagged over her thighs.

One chap reminds me of the drinking man's diet, popular some time ago. Some fellows I know lost weight off their middle. They were happy but their livers gained weight.

Some dieters like smokers are trying hypnosis, but that has its drawbacks. One gal tells that she was on a "strict no-weiner, no-bun, no-mustard, no-nothing diet". Then she was asked to work at the charity carnival and they asked her to work in the hot dog booth. Now this was murder for her, as weiners were her favorite fruit.

She didn't know says Mr. Swift, so she went to a hypnotist who put her in a trance and planted the suggestion that she hated weinies in any form whatsoever. And thus prepared she reported for work at the carnival.

"And how did all this work out?" she was asked.
She replied "They put me to work in the hamburger stand and I ate five" she admitted.

Summerfun provides helpful tips on where to camp, relax, fish, golf, sightsee, shop, swim, explore, canoe and enjoy fine dining in Southeast Michigan.

There also are sections on select nature tours, guided cultural tours and special hotel weekend package plans, for individuals, couples and families at accommodations in the 11-county region.

Included in this year's Summerfun, which took nearly six months to produce, is a special write-up on the upcoming Grand Prix Formula One race in Detroit—the first such race in the Midwest.

Travelers and tourists also will find listings of numerous festivals and special events, including the Detroit ethnic festivals, Jackson County Fair, Port Huron-Mackinac sailboat race and the Ann Arbor Art Fair.

The colorful guidebook, with a county-by-county breakdown, contains fascinating

"This year, we are printing 100,000 copies of Summerfun—a record number—to accommodate the current tendency for people to enjoy their vacations closer to home," said Association President Sidney L. Baker.

2 Vie For School Board

While the people of Manchester may differ on some things, I believe we share one concern, and that is for quality education for our young people. This is one critical area where we must pull together. Using the talents and energies available we can accomplish much.

I would like to see a greater involvement on the part of the community in school affairs. As we become more involved we have a better perspective of the real needs. The maintaining of mutual respect and trust between the community and the Board of Education is essential to meet those needs.

If we have that mutual respect and trust, and each of us sees the need, we can proceed on a united front. There is very little that a united people cannot accomplish.

As a member of the board, I would strive for a good working relationship with the community. I would encourage participation by all who are concerned about the education of our kids.

I have four children in this school system and I want the best for them, as well as for yours.
