

Hospital Coloring Books For Children

The Kiwanis Club of Saline will be helping to brighten the hospital stays of area children with their recent gift of coloring books and crayons to Saline Community Hospital. Providing the new books are Amy Diehl; Kurt Schmerberg, Saline Kiwanis Vice President and Fred Schmerberg, Saline Kiwanis President.

The Kiwanis gift of The Going to the Hospital Coloring Books was made possible through the Kiwanis of Michigan Foundation's Charles W. Schull Project. The coloring book tells the story of Buford Bear's visit to the hospital and is designed to acquaint children with the hospital environment and the people who work there and thus to take the mystery out of their hospital stay.

The new books will be used for Saline Community Hospital's outpatient surgery patients, in the Emergency Department and in connection with children's hospital tours. Parents with a child anticipating a hospital experience may obtain a coloring book by contacting Saline Community Hospital's Office of Community Services and Development at 429-5435, ext. 331.

Local Student Receives Scholar Award

The "Saints" right-fielder majors in social work and maintains a grade point average of 3.77 on a four-point scale. He received Siena's Thomas E. Emmet Scholar Athlete Award for 1982 in May. "Not only is Bob a gifted player and student," noted Siena's baseball coach Rusty Frank "his leadership abilities were also valuable to the team."

Bob is anticipating a career working with the mentally retarded. This summer he is working at "Kinship House," a foster care home for mentally retarded adults and children in Manchester.

A 1979 graduate of Manchester High School, Bob is the son of Sandra and Charles King, 121 W. Main Street.

Hit or Miss

by farley

As a part of our lives for most of us comes moving day, sometimes only once and more often nowadays oftener. It seems to me that there ought to be some formal ritual for it more than the fact that everyone concerned ends up more or less confused and upset.

The last time we moved we were filling rooms that were emptied by a woman who emptied a house filled with 50 years of habit and habitation and our old house will be filled by new belonging and new "belongers". So will the old house of the people who are the new tenants. The homes being emptied and filled form a chain reaction.

All of this action causes a chain reaction—a sense of "pulsation"—homes being emptied and filled—of things being collected and cast off and divided. Of things expanding and contracting.

Ellen Goodman recently expanding on this theme tells of a great aunt who died. She had a passion for collecting and now the things that she had collected for over eight decades are being divided. The furniture was chosen deliberately, as were the dishes and the jewelry, each piece with its own history—expressions of her personality. She collected things and memories.

"We distribute some things before we die. We offer an idea, we contribute a gesture, an attitude or a memory."

"Tomorrow this old house will be thoroughly cleaned and then will begin again. And so will we and another chapter in the endless cycle will have begun again."

Moving day should be accompanied with some sort of ceremony which would be appropriate to the occasion—more than just the drudgery of moving things from one place to another. There is more to it usually, than just that.

Banks To Merge

It was announced today that Great Lakes Federal Savings of Ann Arbor and United Federal Savings of Saginaw have agreed to merge pending the expected approval of the Federal Home Loan Bank in late summer.

The joint announcement was made by Roy E. Weber, President and Chief Executive Officer of Great Lakes Federal Savings and William F. Lawrence, Chairman and President of United Federal Savings. Initially under the proposal, United Federal will operate as a division of Great Lakes Federal Savings.

The merger will allow two of Michigan's finest savings and loan associations to join forces in positioning themselves for the increased competition and expanded customer service areas of the 1980's.

As a result of the merger, the 60 office Association will become the 3rd largest savings and loan in Michigan with assets exceeding $1.5 billion. Great Lakes Federal's current assets are nearly $1 billion and United Federal's are in excess of $600 million. The Association's geographic market area, the largest of any savings and loan in Michigan, will consist of 25 Lower Peninsula counties extending from the Indiana border to the Straits of Mackinac and from the shores of Lake Michigan to those of Lake Huron.

"Let Us Entertain You"

The Fair is now getting into full swing and you've had a chance to listen to some really good old time music from The L. Three. Tonight don't forget the Barbershop Chorus and the Zarfia Middle Eastern Dancers.

Friday is Kiddie Day at the Fair, with reduced rates on rides from 12 noon to 5 p.m. and four clowns walking around the grounds to bring smiles to some young faces.

Friday night Don Clay & the North Country Grass Band is sure to bring out the Bluegrass and Country fans. This group has been together for more than 11 years now and has cut two albums. The band instruments are the traditional Bluegrass combination of mandolin, guitar, electric bass and banjo. But this group sings Country tunes, sometimes with a three or four-part harmony. Don explains that is why they named themselves the North Country Grass Band. He invites us all down for "...a real knee-slappin', foot-stompin' good time!"

Saturday is probably the busiest day at the Fair. The Large Tractor pull always draws a crowd. This year there will be a new attraction just outside the main gate on the Middle School grounds. The Manchester Art Guild has arranged to hold their annual Art Fair on the last day of the Manchester Community Fair. Their many demonstrations and exhibits should have something to interest everyone. Saturday night Brad Frey and Hindsight is a newly formed band, but the four members have been playing for years in other groups. Brad Frey, a local member of the group, says they came up with the name Hindsight because they look to their past musical experience and combine it with new to deliver the dance band sounds they play now. Brad says you can hear them practicing in Brooklyn almost any Saturday afternoon getting ready for that evening's performance. They play somewhere almost every weekend.

In addition to these special nightly attractions, the Knights of Columbus have a Bingo tent from 7-10 p.m. every night of the Fair. Stop in and try your luck. SEE YOU AT THE FAIR!

Refugee Resettlement Project

A group of concerned citizens in the Manchester area is currently making preparation for the arrival of a Polish family into our community. The sponsorship program has been undertaken with the assistance of the Catholic Diocese of Lansing, The United Nations Refugee Program and The Government of the United States. Similar programs and efforts are underway in many communities here in Michigan and throughout the United States.

A great step is being taken forward as affects the Postal Service. Sammy and Susy will soon be able to mail letters to grandma and grandpa in the same envelope without breaking the law.

"The rule that you can't, if it ever really had a purpose, has outlived its usefulness" says Senior Assistant Postmaster General James Finch.

With that in mind the Postal Service Board of Governors has started the process of dropping the ban on sending messages from different people in the same envelope.

The rule caused a hassle recently at Hagerstown, Md., where the city and the county sought to save money by mailing their tax statements together. It was illegal under the rule and local officials have been billed for $1960 in postage due.

Mr. Finch told the board that dropping the rule would not be expected to have any major effect on postal operation and it will remove Sammy and Susy from being classed as lawbreakers.

It was also reported that the postal service is $661 million in the black for the fiscal year so far, despite a $5 million loss in the most recent accounting period.

He said a much greater loss had been anticipated, and projected that the agency will end the fiscal year with a $461 surplus.

Historical footnotes report that President Rutherford B. Hayes looked to take important documents to the bathroom so he could lock the door and study them in private.

Letter To The Editor
 To the Taxpayers of Manchester School District.

I would like to take this opportunity to commend Mr. Broeck, Mr. Horning and Mr. Mann for their vote against the raise granted to the Superintendent of our school system. It was neglected to tell all of us that the forementioned raise was for 17% increase in superintendent's salary. How many of you taxpayers received a salary or wage increment of this size for 1982-83. It seems to be that our board no longer has any concern for taxpayers of District. I hope that the liberals on board realize there is such a thing as a recall. This may be the last resort of those of us who foot this bill for their generosity. Go to the hearing on August 16 and voice your opinion.

Sincerely,
 Herbert G. Jacob

Senior Citizens Council News

Two more dates for those over 55 to remember before the close of the summer season are: Wednesday, the 25th - Senior Citizens Picnic at Carr Park at 12:30 (Emanuel Church basement in case of rain) and Friday, the 27th - Drive-in Zoo trip. Call Helen Braun, 428-8852, for all trip information.

The proceeds from the recent money making activities of the Manchester Area Senior Citizens Council will go to the Meals Program which starts Tuesday, September 14 at the Emanuel United Church of Christ. Thanks to the many people who have helped with all these activities, the suggested price for the meals will remain $2.00. The actual average cost per meal is well over this amount, of course, but since the suggested price is based on "ability to pay" and the money for each meal is dropped into a covered collection box at the head of the table by each individual, those who can't afford the $2.00 give what they can and, frankly, many others give more for their meal. Through the efforts of the seniors themselves, the assistance of the United Way and many individual gifts, Manchester Meal Program has flourished without federal or state help.

Reservations for Senior Meals must be made by the day before, if possible, by calling Emanuel Church office, 428-8859. Meals are served at noon Tuesdays and Thursdays following September 14 unless otherwise publicly announced. Tuesday afternoons are spent in conversation and cards. Thursday afternoon programs will be announced later.

People who have excess garden produce that they want to give away, may contact Mrs. Mildred Uphaus at 428-7461. If it is something they can process for the Senior Meals this fall, she will plan its use with you.

Look forward to September 12 for the next booth for Senior Citizens at the Farmers Market. Come, bring your donations and buy!

The free Call-a-Ride transportation program is very active for medical trips for those over 55. Call 428-7237 or 428-7613 to ask about and get this service to any medical appointment in a neighboring town.

Refugee Resettlement Project

Persons who have fled Poland because of the repression of the government under the institution of martial law have been granted refugee status by the government of the United States. Over 25 countries are participating in relocation efforts for these refugees now located in Austria and West Germany. The United Nations and other human service organizations are joining forces to answer this need.

It is the hope of the local committee that interested people, groups, and organizations will participate and assist in this resettlement program. Currently, those persons who have been contacted have been generous in their commitment and resources. Again, our community has demonstrated its willingness to extend a helping hand to those who have been subjected to violations of basic human rights. We, as a community, may not be able to solve all the problems of our world but we do have the courage to take positive action in ways that we are best able to.

If you can assist in this family's needs your contribution would be greatly appreciated. This family will come to us with little more than the clothes that they wear, a hope for life and freedom in the greatest nation on earth, and the ability to join our community as active and contributing members of American society. Please welcome them.

We need the help of the community to furnish a small apartment. The following items are needed - a twin bed, double bed, chest of drawers, chair, sofa, lamps, linens, small kitchen table, small appliances and dishes for the kitchen. If you are able to help please call 428-8595 or 428-7938. We will gladly pick up any donations.

U of M News

Researchers investigating how an individual's personality and environment affect his or her health will study 1,200 Washtenaw County residents selected so the group will be representative of the county as a whole.

"There is increasing evidence that factors such as where one lives, how one lives and the manner in which one interacts with others has considerable impact on one's health," said the Dielman, Ph. D., a principal investigator in the Health Risk Factors Study.

The National Heart, Lung and Blood Institute has awarded a three-year grant to The University of Michigan and Eastern Michigan University for the project.

Dielman, associate professor in the department of postgraduate medicine and health professions education at the U-M Medical School, said, "Of central importance to the study is the identification of the distribution in the general population of various types of behavior, and the relationship of these behaviors to patterns of illness."

Each scientifically selected respondent, Dielman said, will be interviewed by a professional interviewer concerning opinions and experiences. A sample of 320 spouses of these respondents will be given the same interview at another time.

"As soon as interviews are received at the central office," Dielman said, "all identifying information will be removed and each interview will then be processed so that the responses can be combined with those from many other interviews. No information on individual respondents will ever be released. All information will be held in strictest confidence."

Other principal investigators for the project are William R. Harlan, M.D.; Richard V. Harrison, Ph.D., and William J. Harvath, Ph.D. of The University of Michigan; and Gordon E. Moss, Ph. D., of Eastern Michigan University.

The word "fiction" comes from the Latin fictio, which means something invented.

Children's Center Expands Services

Chelsea Community Hospital Children's Center, formerly the Child Care Center, is expanding its services to include an Infant/Toddler Program.

This comprehensive program will serve families with children ages 3 months to 36 months. Beginning in September, the Infant/Toddler Program will provide an environment which meets the individual child's physical and psychological needs as well as opportunities for spontaneous, measurable learning experiences.

Special emphasis will be placed on parent involvement. The program will provide consistency in caregiving practices between the Center and home by actively seeking parental participation in decision making.

The children's Center is located in the west wing of St. Paul's Church, 1400 1/2 Old US 12. It operates from 6:30 AM to 5:30 PM Monday through Friday.
For more information, call Corinne Chiles at 478-1711 Ext. 405.

RISK REDUCTION

One of the newer approaches to improving public health is called risk reduction, and it seems to make a good deal of sense. It's an approach aimed at preventing disease and disability. It's based on the assumption that there are a number of identifiable patterns of behavior or habits that are directly related to illnesses and that if such behavior is modified, the illnesses can be prevented.

Smoking, is perhaps, the most obvious example. We know, beyond most doubt, that smoking is a cause of cancers of the lung, larynx, mouth, and other sites, that it causes emphysema, and that it contributes to heart disease, along with a number of other conditions. It has been called the number one preventable cause of death in this country. So, if by community education we can convince some people to stop smoking and convince many more not to start at all, we will eventually prevent many illnesses and untimely deaths.

But smoking is only one example. Drinking is another. Excessive drinking may well be the most serious public health problem we have. Not just because heavy drinking causes disease, such as cirrhosis of the liver, but because it directly affects behavior, ability to perceive, and to make judgements. About half of our fatal highway accidents are alcohol related. So, again, with successful programs to modify drinking behavior and to prevent excessive drinking, many lives would be saved each year, not to even mention the number of broken homes, lost jobs, etc., which might be avoided.

Good nutrition, proper exercise, and weight reduction are other behavior patterns which affect health directly, as is something called stress management, because stress can play a significant role in our state of health or illness. Now, it's obviously not a simple matter to change behavior - and certainly we don't change that it is. But we have learned a number of techniques and strategies which seem to be reasonably effective.

We have funded five pilot health - education risk - reduction intervention projects this year, all of which are designed to prevent the onset of smoking and alcohol use in youth and adolescents. The intent is to give students the skills to resist peer pressure to smoke and drink by training them in decision making, value judgements, assertiveness training, stress reduction, and by providing health information.

If these projects are as successful as we hope, we will try to expand them into other parts of the state in years to come. The payoff will not be immediate but in the long run this kind of prevention can make a of the opportunity to participate in the 4-H Challenge wilderness adventure training program.

Through the 4-H Challenge program, participants learn a variety of skills, including climbing and mountaineering, hiking and backpacking, canoeing, cross-country skiing, orienteering, and wilderness cooking and survival.

County residents interested in becoming part of the Challenge program and after training serving as group leaders for youth, should sign up now.

The 4-H Challenge leader orientation session will be held August 28 - 29, 1982.

Anyone wanting to become a Challenge leader must attend the orientation session and seven additional weekend intensive training sessions, pass a comprehensive written test and take a Red Cross first aid course.

Because Challenge leaders will be involved in high adventure situations and be responsible for youngsters participating in wilderness outings, they must be prepared. "After completing all the training, Challenge leaders become certified and are qualified to take youths on wilderness adventures."

To be eligible for the 4-H Challenge certification program, applicants must be at least 21 years old. Young people aged 16 - 20 years may become associate leaders, who must be accompanied by a certified adult leader when taking a group of youngsters on a Challenge outing. Training for both leader types is identical.

Washtenaw County residents interested in signing up for the 4-H Challenge leader certification program should contact Bernadette Sietz-Garbe at the Washtenaw County Cooperative Extension Service office, or call 973-9510.

Ask The Governor

Question: On my fixed income I can barely pay my gas bill and I don't know what I'll do when the weather gets cold again. Why does the public service commission allow the gas company to keep raising rates?

Answer: The current economic climate has created a very real hardship on Michigan. Neither consumers nor the utility companies have escaped this economic hardship.

It is true that these costs have skyrocketed in recent years. As you may know, the increases allowed by the Public Service Commission are based on the costs to the company of generating electricity. The rates must reflect those costs. Generally there is extensive documentation from the Public Service Commission's staff outlining why a certain rate of increase is or is not needed; rarely is the full amount requested by the utility companies granted by the Public Service Commission. While this system is not as desirable as the pricing that results from competition, it is the only method of control devised for regulation of monopolies.

Question: The recent uproar over the execution of a convicted murderer in Virginia made me realize that very soon we will decide the future of capital punishment in Michigan. I would like to know what your stance on capital punishment is and why.

Answer: I have given the matter of capital punishment a great deal of thought and find I cannot change my view that it serves little but emotion and revenge. If capital punishment reduced the incidence of murder, I would consider it. If capital punishment lowered the crime rate, I would consider it. But, in state after state where capital punishment has been imposed and used, the chief result has been endless litigation in the courts by individuals seeking to block its use.

During one 3-year period, Florida, Utah and Nevada each executed an individual. During that same time, the murder rate actually increased in Florida and Utah, while remaining the same in Nevada. However, the murder rate in Nevada is already two times the national average. Michigan, which has no death penalty and which has never executed anyone, saw a 30 percent reduction in homicides between 1974 and 1978. Another effect has been the increasing reluctance of courts or juries to convict individuals for crimes carrying capital punishment as a sentence.

Shortly, Michigan voters will have the opportunity to decide that issue for themselves. A successful petition drive last year has placed the issue on the ballot for the November election.

1983 Feed Grain Program Comments Requested

Secretary of Agriculture John R. Block has asked the public to comment by August 26 on provisions of the 1983 feed grain program, the details of which must be announced by November 15.
Block said he plans to announce the 1983 feed grain program well in advance of the November 15 statutory deadline.
Block said the U.S. Department of Agriculture would like to receive as many comments as possible so it will have a broad range of public opinion about the program. He said he will study the public's recommendations, as well as the most current data on U.S. and world crop conditions and crop supply and demand before he makes final decisions.
Specifically, USDA would like to receive comments on:
-loan and purchase prices, target prices and the national program acreage;

-whether to establish either an acreage reduction or set-aside program, and, if USDA establishes reductions for corn, oats, barley or sorghum, the levels of such reductions;
-provisions governing acreage devoted to conservation use;
-whether to establish a land diversion program and if such a program is established, a payment date for the diversion;
-offsetting and cross compliance requirements under acreage reduction program;
-methods for determining 1983 crop acreage bases;
-whether barley should be included for payment purposes; and
-if malting barley is included in the 1983 program, whether it should be exempted from any acreage reduction program.
Block also asked for opinions on provisions for a farmer-owned grain reserve, commodity eligibility, premiums and discounts, the establishment of county loan rates and all other provisions necessary to carry out a loan and purchase program for feed grains.

Details of program options USDA is considering are scheduled to appear in the July 27, Federal Register.
Comments should be sent to: Howard C. Williams, Director, Analysis Division, USDA-AGCS, Room 3741-S, P.O. Box 2415, Washington, D.C. 20013. The comments will be available for public inspection in Room 3741 of USDA's South Building during regular business hours.

Steam Canners — Poor Substitute

Several brands of steam canners have appeared on the market and are being promoted as substitutes for water bath canners. They consist of three pieces - a shallow pan which is filled with about two quarts of water, a perforated rack on which the jars stand and a large dome cover. During processing steam wafts around the jars.

Until processing times are determined specifically for steam canners, they should not be used.

Manufacturers of steam canners are recommending that acid foods, such as tomatoes and fruits, may be processed in steam canners using the timetables established for processing acid foods in boiling water-bath canners.

A PILOT study conducted at Pennsylvania State University showed that the water-bath processing times were not adequate for steam canning. Up to 19 additional minutes were required when processing tomato juice and applesauce in a steam canner. Inadequate processing of foods permits the growth of yeast and molds that can cause food spoilage.

Fortunately spoilage of acid food processed in steam canners would be obvious. The signs of spoilage include loss of seal, bulging lids, gasiness, mold and off odor.

TO PREVENT the loss of your home canned tomatoes and fruits, process them in a water-bath canner follow up-to-date time schedules. It may be old-fashioned, but it works. Low acid foods must be canned in a pressure canner to be safe from possible botulism poisoning. Low acid foods are vegetables - except tomatoes, meats, fish, poultry and tomato-vegetable mixtures.

For up-to-date information about how to can, contact the Cooperative Extension Service office at 4133 Washtenaw Avenue, Ann Arbor, Michigan 48107. Telephone 973-9510.

PERIODICALS AT YOUR LIBRARY

The entrance hall of the Manchester Township contains some very well designed wall racks with current magazines displayed in alphabetical order. Most of the publications are purchased with the $450 annual general funds budgeted for that purpose. In addition, several library patrons have donated their own copies of magazines. These citizens take the time and effort to bring in current issues before the articles are dated. Local residents also contribute copies of newspapers for library use.

Some of the periodicals are specialized and appeal to groups of hobbyists - For example, copies of Car and Driver, Cycle, Hot Rod, Sports Illustrated, Popular Mechanics, and Popular Science. Many others are written for homemakers - and contain "how to" articles - Better Homes and Gardens, House and Garden, Mother Earth News, and House Beautiful are in that category.

For current affairs, the racks include Business Week, Newsweek, People, The Saturday Review of Literature, Time, and U.S. News and World Report. For stories and articles of universal and lasting interest, there are Americana, The Atlantic Monthly, Cosmopolitan, Good Housekeeping, Ladies Home Journal, McCall's, Readers Digest, Redbook and National Geographic.

Also available are Science News, Science Digest, Consumer Reports, Michigan History, the D.A.R., and Seventeen.

Because of the timely information in most of the magazines, the library staff requests that they be returned in one week (as opposed to the two-weeks allowed for books). In an upstairs room the Reader's Guide to Periodical Literature and back issues of many publications are available to library patrons. A staff member will help locate specific information there.

Increased printing and postage costs have forced an increase in subscription prices to many of the periodicals. Any patron who wishes to contribute to the collection is urged to speak with a staff member to discuss arrangements.

News Of Good Things Growing

by Margaret G. McCall

Ripe, red Michigan tomatoes are among the many good things growing all across the state right now. Last weekend, I saw in a friend's garden tomato plants six feet tall (we measured for accuracy) and loaded with ripening tomatoes.

Michigan grew better than 236 million pounds of tomatoes commercially last year, and we rank third among the states in processing production. The total crop was worth $20 million, according to the Michigan Department of Agriculture.

Whether you grow them in a backyard garden, buy them at your farmer's market or corner grocery, there are dozens of good uses for tomatoes. I don't think most of us could cook for any length of time without tomatoes or tomato preparations.

Fresh tomatoes are delicious simply sliced for a supper salad, perhaps dressed with a little oil and vinegar and garnished with sliced green onions. The question of whether to peel or not to peel depends upon your personal preference. If you must peel, it's easy if you first dip the tomatoes into simmering water, using a large slotted spoon, for a second or two to loosen the skins.

Fresh tomato slices topped with Parmesan cheese and a sprinkle of chives, then broiled a few minutes, are a flavorful accompaniment to many meals. Try them with a ham and cheese omelet for Sunday breakfast.

Cherry tomatoes make attractive and colorful hors d'oeuvre, stuffed with almost any filling. Slice off the stem end and use a small meion baster to scoop out the pulp. Stuff with minced chicken or egg salad.

Because we have such an abundance of tomatoes during this season, it's nice to store some of that goodness for winter use. Tomato sauce, simmered with chopped celery, green pepper, onions and seasonings, can be frozen to use in spaghetti sauces, chili, and many other recipes.

I find it easiest to wash and quarter ripe tomatoes, simmer until very tender, then put through a ricer or colander to remove the seeds and skins. Then I add my chopped vegetables and seasonings, simmer until quite thick, pour into freezer containers, chill and freeze. Remember that garlic and other seasonings intensify during freezing, so it's best to skip a little on these items. You can always add more when the sauce comes out of the freezer.

Area Historical Society

Following the very successful Collectible Sale during the sidewalk sales, the Manchester Area Historical Society would like to thank all who contributed, worked and purchased items. Mrs. Frances Nathan, chairman of the sale, and Mr. and Mrs. Tom Walton, who made their lawn available deserve special thanks. This sale is helping the Society purchase the Old Black Smith Shop on Main Street.

Area residents are reminded that the Black Smith Shop will be open on Saturday, August 21 from 12:00 to 3:00. At that time blacksmiths will be demonstrating their craft by making wrought iron objects for sale. Please take advantage of another opportunity to visit the shop. Don't stop with one visit. There's always something new going on, so visit often.

Look for our booth in the merchant's tent at the fair. Someone will be there to explain the objectives of the Society and provide information about joining the group. T-shirts will also be available. By purchasing and wearing a t-shirt with a replica of the shop, you'll be helping to publicize the Society's venture.

51st Campbell Reunion

Andrew and June Campbell of Manchester hosted the 51st family reunion of the Campbell clan at their home, 14340 Schleweis Rd., Sunday, August 8. There were 70 family members in attendance.

Young members, aged 1 1/2 to 50, played a spirited game of softball while older members reminisced and recalled their family ties and history. One hundred and forty years ago on August 24 Robert and Anne Meier Campbell left their home in Avreshire, Scotland and came with their seven children, aged 1 1/2 - 17, to settle in Augusta Township near Ypsilanti. Anne's father and brother had come to this area in 1828 and had written letters describing their satisfaction in finding good farm land for $6 per acre and encouraging Anne and her husband to come to Michigan. In 1842 Robert and Anne sold at auction their farm and equipment in Scotland and took the plunge to begin anew in Michigan.

The Campbells have held reunions from 1922-67 and from 1978-82 making this year's gathering their 51st reunion.

This year's host, Andrew Campbell, is one in a chain of Dan-Andys that reaches back to Robert and Anne Campbell. Andrew is the son of Daniel F. Campbell of Saline whose father was Andrew P. Campbell of Ann Arbor. His father was Daniel F. Campbell, whose father was Andrew Campbell, the fourth child of Robert and Anne Campbell. Guess what Andrew and June named their son, who is now 7?

Although many of the Michigan Campbells still live in Washtenaw County, branches of the clan are now widespread. Some members came from considerable distances to attend this year's reunion. Robert and Kathie Reutrow came from Tucson, Arizona. Susan Ghoddousi and her children, Mary and David, came from Seattle, Washington to attend the reunion with Susan's parents, Mary and Bill Fletcher of Coidwater. Anna Campbell Kemp and her daughter, Martha, came from Oak Park and Hinsdale, Illinois. Art and Jean Cassell came from Mt. Vernon, Ohio. Tom Matevia of Juno, Florida and Patti Matevia Cartwright, W. Palm Beach, Florida joined their parents, Cliff and Frances Matevia of Ypsilanti. Harold and Jean Campbell Crane came from Zephyrhills, Florida.

From nearer-by were Scott and Tammy

Bassett, Manchester; Dan and Jean Campbell and Arthur and Betty Campbell Katz, Saline; George and Mary Campbell, Dave Katz, and Liz Campbell Raymond, Ann Arbor; Jack and Margaret Campbell, Foster Fletcher, and Esther Fletcher, Ypsilanti; Emma Campbell and George and Garnet Miller, South Lyon; Leelle Feret and Peter and Sharon Campbell, Milan; Charles and Constance McNeil, Grass Lake; Judy Campbell Elwartowski and her daughter Darlene, Tecumseh; Linda Fletcher Smolinski and her daughter, Stephanie, Quincy; Robert Campbell, Detroit; George and Adelle Campbell Renton, Good Hart.

After a barbecue and pollock dinner, the President, Peter B. Fletcher, presided over a short business meeting. This year's officers were returned for another year, Peter Fletcher, Pres., Janet Laatsch, Secretary.

HIT OR MISS by farley

A columnist recently points out that many of the sayings that were originated in rural America back in our childhood days have become a part of our present day language.

For example not so long ago Budget Director David Stockman, she reports, after being remanded by President Reagan, for his indiscreet disclosures in a magazine interview, reported that he felt just like a boy after "a trip to the woodshed".

This homey expression which evidently dates back to Mr. Stockman's rural Michigan boyhood won for him considerable unexpected sympathy.

Another example with its rural derivation is "squealing like a stuck pig". I'll bet no urban writer never witnessed a barayard butchering.

The rural area of long ago also contributed the phrase "He's bit off more than he can chew", and from the henhouse came the phrase "Don't put all your eggs in one basket," as did "Don't count your chickens before they're hatched."

And then there is the woman who never set foot in a chicken coop who said about her errant husband, "He flew the coop."

To the barns of a past generation contributed to these phrases like "Champing at the bit," and "Locking the barn door after the horse was stolen." Then there was the chap who said about Secretary of State Haig not long ago, "He is champing at the bit."

Just the other day we heard one chap say about his offspring, "He's shooting up like corn in July", and a comparison of growing crops with the present crop of politicians was "They don't amount to a hill of beans."

A poor downtrodden Congressman recently said that the $75.00 a day Washington living allowance was as thin as twice strained milk. How many of you can remember the country kitchen with its earthenware crocks of milk waiting to be skimmed so that butter could be made from the cream. And then in the unheated pantry off the kitchen there were the jugs of molasses and from there came the phrase "As slow as molasses in January."

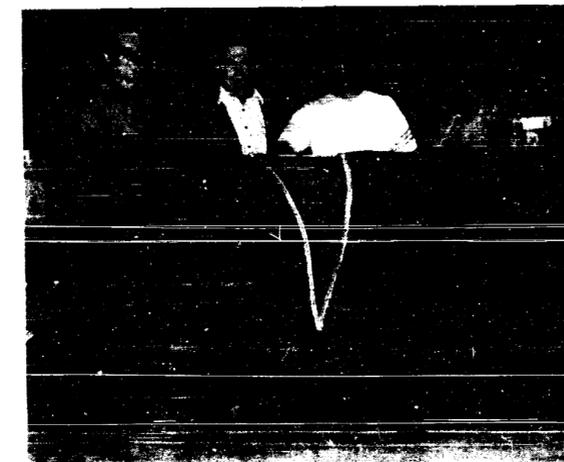

Still very appropriate is the often used phrase that, "One rotten apple spoils the barrel."

A friend tells us of the eight year old youngster of her daughter's who took him to the movie "The Best Little Whorehouse in Texas" and was somewhat perturbed when he made a great fuss about not liking the show. She tried to ask some probing questions to determine the depth of his knowledge about the subject but felt relaxed when she found out that he thought the title of the picture was "The Best Little Haunted House in Texas."

Did you hear about the employee of the orange juice plant who was fired because he couldn't concentrate?

You've reached a comfortable stage in life when you can't remember just what it was that you were trying to forget.

C.A.T. Results Received

At its regular meeting on August 16 the Manchester Board of Education received a report from the Superintendent of the results of achievement tests which were administered to all students in grades 2, 4, 6, 8, and 11 near the end of last school year. The California Achievement tests measure basic skills in reading, math, language and spelling.

Manchester students, once again, scored above grade level on all of the basic skills in each grade. The report shows that for the third year in a row Manchester students read above grade level by the time they are in the second grade and that they continue to widen the range so that by the time they are in the 8th grade the average student is reading 1.5 years above grade level. Over 50% of the 8th graders read significantly above grade level with comprehension.

Dr. Thompson reported that students were showing outstanding gains from year to year. For example, students who were 6th graders in 1980 showed a gain of 2.6 years when tested two years later as 8th graders. Second graders who were tested in 1980 reported a four year gain in language skills within the same two year period.

Thompson expressed his great satisfaction with these data and stated that in his opinion, "we have conclusive evidence of the excellent nature of the educational program being offered in the Manchester Community Schools. Our emphasis on basic skills together with the work of coordinating the curriculum and the purchase of textbooks and equipment made possible by downsizing the organization has produced significant results. Manchester students are receiving a basic skill education which is the equal of any school district in the county. Our students leave school with the skills necessary to compete."

Thompson also expressed feelings regarding cooperative efforts between the home and school. "While our teachers are doing an unquestionably excellent job in the classroom the credit for our outstanding educational program should go not only to the schools. Manchester students who apply themselves and work hard at obtaining a good education are to be greatly commended. It is obvious that the parents in our community take time to read and play math games with their children. Educational research is very clear that a good education can only be obtained when principals manage well organized, child centered buildings, teachers are dedicated and have high expectations, parents value education and work with the schools and students are serious about their efforts. We are a unique and fortunate community to have achieved all of these factors while many districts around us are struggling to continue their programs," said Thompson.

Students were tested in the 7th month of the 5 listed grades. It should be noted that Manchester students are above grade level at every point with 11th graders scoring at the highest possible point. Persons interested in obtaining a copy of the full report may do so by calling the Board of Education office at 428-7300.
