A fine and wonderful Lady, with the courage of her convictions and steadfast perseverance, has decided to forgo reelection to Michigan's House of Representatives.

amazing republic of ours is to pull together in hard times, and to help those near us who seem most affected. We like to hear about generous Americans. But recently, a down side to this phenomenon has occurred.

The word "bashing" has appeared frequently in news stories lately. This in reference to Japan, gays, blacks, women, welfare recipients, and in a subtle way, the homeless. These individuals have suffered outrageous slings and arrows previously, but I've noticed an increase in "bash" news.

I believe this has a lot to do with America's need to find "the enemy". Think of how throughout our lifetime we as a culture have always found someone to fear, to hate, or to take arms against.

During most of our lifetime, the enemy has frequently had the word "communism" wrapped around it. We grew to hate Krushchev and Mao, Brehznev and Castro. We listened to a high pitched squeal over the radio, and were told that, "In the event of a real emergency, listeners should stay tuned for directions from the

One of the traits of this Emergency Broadcast System." The implication? We could get vaporized by nuclear warheads at any moment.

> More recently, we fought against Sadaam Hussein in a Desert Storm conflict, he being the enemy, the Arab world getting bashed as an accessory. Do you remember how our President fished around for awhile trying to find the best way to identify Hussein as a threat? First, human rights abuse, then, as scourge of democracy. Then, for cornering the Mid-East oil market in order to blackmail the world, and finally, due to the threat of nuclear weapons development. When this last reason stuck, America sighed collectively, and unified in a big way against "the enemy".

> But now, we don't have any external enemies to fear. Sadaam is still in Iraq, but neutralized. Noriega is in jail. The Soviet Bloc has disintegrated. China is,

Some of our auto people tried to bash Japan and make them the enemy. But too many saw through the ruse and realized that in our global economy, we would be hard put to find any American car built from 100% American parts. Somebody claimed that a Chrysler model is actually made outside of the United States. Do you know

So who's the enemy if it's not external? Somebody internal. Somebody from the rank and file. Americans. The University of Michigan is currently wrestling with a new anti-discrimination code not only in response to overt racist incidents of a few years back, but to current ugliness over religion. The dilemma the University faces is what to do, "when individuals become the target of slanderous, harmful speech because of the color of their skin, gender, religion, ethnic background or sexual orientation." The word "speech" paints the picture for us. People (students) are talking ugly.

An article from the Washington Post referred to response to the arrest of an HIV infected businessman in Philadelphia who was involved with young teens. "After a week of frenzied attention to AlDS-infected businessman known as 'Uncle Ed,' Philadelphia is witnessing a surge in gay-bashing and harassment of AIDS patients, according to city and community leaders who called...for an end to the abuse."

Associated Press released the following news story- "Illinois joins five states Michigan, Ohio, Massachusetts, Maryland and Maine-that cut their general assistance programs last year. Michigan eliminated its program for about 83,000 able-bodied adults amid angry demonstrations led by homeless activists... The Center for Budget and Policy Priorities in Washington estimates that nearly 500,000 people-about a third of all general assistance recipients nationwide- will be affected by the Mental health facilities have closed due to budget restrictions and State Mental Health chief James Haveman is taking heat from mental health advocates. It is stated that Haveman, "is haunted by persistent reports of deaths and injuries as former residents of state facilities are pushed out into the community, which is often unable to adequately care for them."

A recent interest in Malcolm X, the focus of a soon to be released major film, has resulted from persistent racism. The Ann Arbor News discussed young African Americans who, "are frustrated, even in places like Ann Arbor where there is no real ghetto or slum area."

One faculty advisor stated that, "Institutional racism and quiet racism are sneaking back...things are going back-

The abortion rights debacle has gone on, and on, and on. And occasionally horror stories are told, like the one out of Toronto that reported allegations of women in a regional hospital who had painful surgical procedures without the benefit of anesthetics, even though it was requested.

It's not that anyone has to look very hard for articles such as the ones quoted above. They appear regularly without any deliberate attempt to search out "bash" stories.

What explains the need for enemies? It doesn't seem that people sit around and list all the bad individuals or their qualities that threaten their daily existence (or do they?). It seems more of a group consciousness. Some seed of an idea gets planted in the collective mind, sprouts to words, and blooms to action. The results are an embarrassment of stinging nettles.

I discussed this with a group of college students who came up with a list of reasons for having "enemies". First, the compelling

Propaganda Letter Received

This Editor is sick and tired of the give away position of the school administration and the school boards "head in the sand", stance about the Pleasant Lake school building.

We are leasing a facility for ONE dollar per year plus renovations and maintenance of the building. We are throwing away our hard earned money like drunken sailors just off a ship, after seven years at sea. $78,440 for renovations and maintenance, or $11,205.71 per year to maintain a building? Horse Feathers!

If that building is good enough for vocational tec students it is good enough to house our regular students. I've heard all the tunnel visioned arguments I wish to hear. This is a building that even if it did cost $120,000 a year to operate as an elementary school, that would be one heck of a lot more cost effective than building new class rooms to replace the ones we already have. A facility of comparable size and number of rooms would

Varsity Baseball

The varsity baseball team started their season on Saturday, April 11 with a triple header. The Flying Dutchmen hosted Gabriel Richard and Jackson County Western in the first two games at home, then traveled to Chelsea to play the defending Class B State Champions.

In the first game of the day against Richard, the Dutchmen played great defense and Shayne Ahrens pitched an excellent game striking out 13 of the Irish

The Dutchmen offensive attack was outstanding with seven players picking up their first hits of the season. Lance Fielder picked up his first home run of the season and Mike Maisano had a run-producing double. The game finished 8-2 with the Dutch winning the opener.

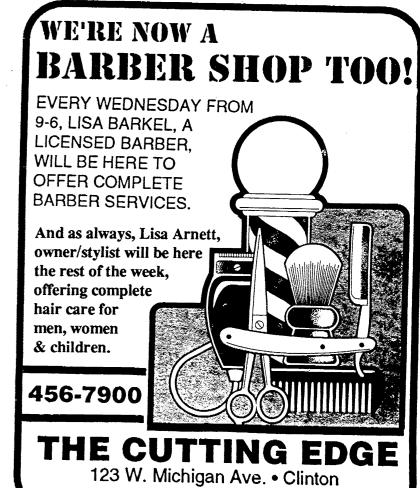

In the second ballgame, Western beat the Dutchmen 13-2 with the Manchester pitchers having trouble locating the strike zone. The Western defense gave up two runs in the first inning, then shut down the Dutchmen the rest of the way.

At Chelsea, the Dutchmen picked themselves up and played a good game. We didn't score a run but we picked the ball up and made a number of fine plays on defense. Chelsea had a couple of two-run homers giving them 2/3rds of their runs. The game finished 6-0.

were back when I drove by their place one day late last week. The back part of their house seemed to be tipping. When I checked it out there was a good reason for it. She had so many tomatoes ripening on the windowsill of her sun porch that I swear the place seemed to be tilted towards Herman and Rubena's. They must have used a trailer to haul that many tomatoes back here. I know I reported how much she liked Florida tomatoes, but I didn't expect it to be like that!

Then I wondered about writing again this week if she were back, but figured, "What the heck", she told me to do three columns so I'm going to, even if we have two in the paper this week.

Anyway I had a couple things left over from last week. I was sure when I picked Slippery Rock State's colors for the new bus that it was far enough away that I wouldn't have any trouble. ### Special Music at St. Mary's Church During Holy Week and Easter which also recalls the passion of Christ and His triumph over death.

The Manchester Enterprise April 16, 1992

On Holy Thursday, April 16, 7:30 p.m., St. Mary's choir will sing "Verily, Verily, I Say Unto You" by Thomas Tallis (1505-1585). This anthem commemorates the Last Supper. Tallis is regarded at one of the finest composers of the 16th century. His gift of melding the English language with beautiful contrapuntal lines was enjoyed during the reigns of Henry VIII, Edward VI, Queen Mary and Queen Elizabeth.

On Good Friday, April 17 at 1:00 p.m. the choir will sing "O Vos Omnes" (O My People") by Carlos Correa (1680-1747). The sombre harmonies reflect the unspeakable sorrow and despair of Lamantations 1, v.12. Correa was born in Lisbon and was the Chapel-Master at the Cathedral in Coimbra.

The anthem sung by St. Mary's choir at the Easter Vigil, Saturday, April 18 at 7:30 is based on the hauntingly beautiful medieval sequence, "Victimae Paschali." Cast in language of our time the choir sings: "Here in this midst of death we shall see the birth of life, we shall see the face of God." The Easter proclamation will be sung by Evelyn Punches. Instrumentalists joining in this celebration are flautist Krista Sahakian and archlutenist and lutenist Alan Williams. They will play movements from Sonata in C Major by Jean Baptist Loeillet (1656-1728).

At the 8:30 a.m. Easter Mass St. Mary's Children's Choir will sing "O Filii et Filiae" (O Sons and Daughters") by Jean Tisserand (d.1494). The refrain "Alleluia"

River Raisin's History Filled With Dirt - Part Nine

Last week, the second part of an article was printed that appeared originally in The Manchester Enterprise on March 15, 1956, explaining why a sewage treatment system would benefit the village. The issue was important to Manchester residents because the state Water Resources Commission had just won a court suit against the village, forcing construction of a sewage treatment plant to end serious pollution problems.

The Manchester Area Resource Conservation Coalition (MARCC), as part of the River Raisin Festival May 16 & 17, has sponsored the re-printing of the old Manchester Enterprise articles. The last two parts of the March 1956 article detailed the charming attributes of sewage (NOT!), and explained why septic systems would have to be replaced with the sewer.

The article concludes by luted and dumped in the stream describing Manchester's future sewer system:

"A Discussion on the Need of Sewage Treatment"

The sanitary sewers in Manchester should be separate sewers. The mixing of Storm water and Sanitary Sewage is looked upon in disfavor by the Michigan State Health Department for a number of reasons but principally because during a storm only part of the sewage is treated and the balance is di-

The proposed treatment plant may be located on a site behind the Ford Motor plant, on land acquired by the village. The trunk sewer from that point probably could be constructed north on highway 52, then the truck (sic) sewer east and west on Main street... and could probably be constructed north and south on Adrian street and then the laterals continue to adjoining streets. Another Main could probably be constructed from the treatment and disposal plant in the direction of the New High School district. Where the sewer crosses the river on Main street it would be necessary to construct a pumping station. Because of the rolling topography of Manchester it will be necessary to place sewers rather deep in some locations. After further study it may be found that it might be more economical to construct several pumping stations than to excavate for > Nearly all homes in Manchester can be served by sewers in the basement. It is true that some houses are located so that it is nearly impossible to serve them without a pumping station. A complete survey with final design will bring out all of these facts. The next article will discuss the ways and means of financing the building of the Sewage and Disposal system."

deep sewers.

(Manchester Enterprise article ends.)

During the River Raisin Festival, the Manchester Sewage Disposal Plant will be open for tours. If you're curious about how the village system finally was designed and built, you can see the results for yourself. Watch for the time of the tour to be announced to unify the nation against a common threat. Second, to focus blame, of any sort, on someone. Third, to direct anger outward as an expression of inner fear. Fourth, to absolve oneself of responsibility. And fifth, because man has an inherent desire to beat up on someone. Why else, they said, do we watch heavyweight boxers slug each other in the head, or cheer goon squads in professional hockey?

Their words, not mine.

The point is, we have to be careful of what we say and do, as we metamorphose into this new period of relative world calm. The enemy within needs to respect and honor the democratic principles and rights without. As Congressional leaders give up their seats, and Presidents stumble, the people have at their disposal a most powerful set of tools to resolve the issues that trouble their minds- compassion, common sense, the ability to think, and an irresistible need to love and be loved.

One of the biggest bashings of all times becomes the focus of many American's attention this next Friday, and then everyone gets to feel better about the outcome two days later. This should have been enough bashing for everyone, don't you

- the decisions were being made about the future of Manchester's railroads, in 1964. it was noted that many places of business here would be "very much affected for they depend on the railroad service." These included the Buss Coal Co., E.G. Mann Mill, K and W Farm Supply and the Tom Walton Farms. Obviously some of these businesses continued despite the eventual loss of the railroads. But many still remember the railroads' demise with regret, for their passing marked the passing of a way of life we remember with fond nostalgia. I finished and enclosed a letter to Saml which had been on the carpet sometime. This morning we cleaned up a load of wheat and this afternoon father went down to the lower saw mill after some slabs to make seats to the school - house as the next quarterly meeting is to be held here. This afternoon I painted the crab cultivator and hitching post and then it rained the rest of the afternoon and to night. I went after the cows and after wandering over the forest for an hour or two I found them in the lot where Father turned them this morn-

April 24th. Today the girls in our neighbor hood took our school house in hand to prepare for the coming quarterly meeting and had a regular " clarion up time" and some of our boys myself included went down and piled up the wood and raked the chips one side and set them on fire and drew away a pile of ashes and partially swept the yard. Leiman went to Grass Lake for the mail on Nelly. these companies were accepted April 25th. We have been drawing manure from the stable doors to day, almost all day. was one of these companies and Father mended a fork which I broke the other day and one of April 29, 1861. Needless to say the braces on the sleigh tongue. April 26th. This forenoon we begun drawing manure again and after drawing one load father went down to have Uncle Joel, who was going to Manchester contract a load of wheat for him but Uncle had gone before Father got there - but while he was gone I drew 2 loads of manure and after he got back we drew one more. This afternoon we drew a load of straw and filled up a gully over north after which we drew one more load of manure - then Father went down to the lower sawmill after a load of lumber and I went to trimming the raspberry bushes. I trimmed them about half way. Father didn't get back till dark. April 27th. Our folks have all been prophesying rain for the last two or three days and this moming appearances seemed to strongly indicate that the prophecy would be fulfilled but not with standing the portentous appearance Father went over to Mr. Nuttens after some lime and I finished trimming the raspberry bushes father got back about noon and just as it begun to rain. It has rained all the afternoon, father laid down some elm plank flooring in the carriage house

April 28th, Sunday, It was rather cloudy and cool this morning with wind from the west and the air very pure at nine or ten o'clock it cleared off entirely and was very pleasant all the rest of the day. Grape, wheat and clover are starting rapidly we have turned our cattle in the woods for some time. Rev, Mr. Ramsdell who has been recently married preached. April 29th, Monday, Father went to Chelsea today on Charley. Wheat isn't worth anything and the only thing that creates any excitement is the news from the seat of war. I have been at work in the orchard. Leeman started to go to Sylvan to mill but it looked likely to rain and did sprinkle some and he came back. April 30th, Tuesday, This afternoon Father went away with a load of wheat of thirty bushels which he sold to Mr. John Cowan for;85 cents - he got home about two o'clock, this afternoon. I finished digging around the apple trees, which by the way are blossoming pretty full this spring. This afternoon we marked out a potatoe patch in the north east corner of lot 7 and begun planting it. The rain drove us away once, but after supper we returned to the charge and finished planting one bag full. Aliza and Adell Briggs stopped here to night through the storm. Leeman has been to mill today.

May 1st, Wednesday, This morning we finished planting potatoes and then went to mulching the apple trees, we drew four loads of manure. I have charged the orchard with one extra days work which was for digging around the apple trees which although it was done at odd spells I have charged it all today. This afternoon father went down to the sawmill for a load of stuff while I made a trellis for a Michigan rose and then I went to the saw mill after the second load. It has been cold all day but tonight it has cleared off and we shall probably get a frost.

Thursday, May 2nd. Sure enough when I got up this morning (about half past four) the ground was white as white could be. The young clover looked somewhat blackened. Father went to Jackson and got a new harness for which he paid 2 1/2 dollars. I have been scraping the apple trees and grubbing up cherry sprouts and digging around pickplant. Friday. 3rd. I have been sick a bed all day. Father has been at work in the shop. Aunt Clarrissa
