Is summer a dull time in your flower garden? Lots of gardens start out with a bang and then wither away without a whimper once summer really sets in. This is particularly evident in a cool year like this when many of the annuals which fill in the holes never really got going. One way to learn which flowers will grow in the summer is to visit the Washtenaw Cooperative Extension Service Exhibit Garden. Master Gardeners will be on hand to answer garden questions on Thursday, August 13, from 9-1 2 a.m. and from 6:30 p.m. to dark in the evening. Daylilies and other tough but lovely summer flowers are featured. These beauties reach their peak during the dog days of summer. Dividing iris will also be demonstrated. You will also have an opportunity to view the herb and ornamental grass gardens during the most vital stage in garden construction—soil preparation. Elwin B. English, related the history of Iron Creek, which was published in the history of the first one hundred years compiled by Marie A. Schneider. The following is taken from that publi-

("Most people don't know that Iron Creek wasn't always one big pond," he reflected.

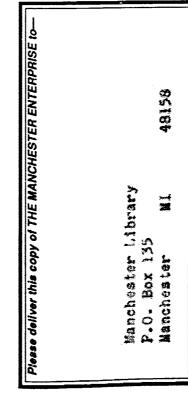

"Iron creek is made up of five lakes, including Iron and Crane Lakes. When they dammed the water and built the sawmill the five lakes simply made up one big pond. When the county was new, I think they intended to have a town at Iron Creek. There was a store there at one time, and, of course, the sawmill."

Elwin's parents were Benjamin and Mary Baldwin English. His mother used to tell of the coming to Iron Creek, four miles southwest of Manchester. Her family crossed Lake Erie on a barge, and 10 days later their prairie schooner arrived on the south side of Iron Lake.

They were headed for the farm of an uncle, William Baldwin. Although it was night, the uncle and his family had kept a sharp lookout and saw the lights on the wagon. Mrs. English said it wasn't long before she was perched on her uncles shoulder and he was carrying her across Iron Lake. There was no bridge and people had to know where to ford the creek.

"My grandparents, Richard and Susannah Green English, built a log house and mother used to tell about the stick chimney," English said. "Their frame house was built in 1852. Then in 1870 they built the frame house where my niece and husband, the Ed Wisners live."

The wood for the house was obtained right on the farm and sawed into lumber at the Iron Creek mill.)

As near as can be determined, Iron Creek's early dam's were built sometime between 1836 and 1850. In all probability the current dam location was about 1860. From the days of the early. dam until 1948 parcels of the property were acquired by small land buyers for summer cottages and some year around homes.

In 1948 many of the land owners surrounding the lake organized to assist in the reconstruction and repair of a portion of the decaying dam.

1953 saw the, "Iron Creek Mill Pond Association", established, and in 1958 the organization became known as "The Iron Lake Associates of Washtenaw County. By-laws were drawn and the objective, "To regulate by majority, vote matters pertaining to the Common Good of the area known as Iron Lake in Washtenaw County", promul-

RURAL NEWS & FEATURES

This must be a good year for birds around our house. All kinds of birds. We have hummingbirds, bluebirds, little, brown birds and big birds with green beaks and funny heads.

You can see I'm quite an expert on birds. Through years of practice I have learned to identify nearly any bird that shows up.

My wife will see a bird in the yard and say, "Oh, come look! What kind of bird is this? It's about the size of a robin, but has black wings and a red head."

"I don't even have to look," I tell her. "That's a robin-sized, blackwing, redhead bird."

This impresses my wife greatly. Answers like this invariably send her to the bird books to learn the secret of my omithological abilities.

This year is different, though. We have so many birds, even I can't identify them all. I think it's because of the bluebird houses my wife has placed around the premises.

Nearly all of the houses are occupied by wrens, but we call them bluebird houses anyway. The only quarters that aren't occupied are in the Amish bird house my wife bought several years ago.

"Why won't the bluebirds use my Amish house," Connie asks each spring. "Because there aren't any Amish birds here," I tell her. "They've all become Mennonites."

The real reason no one uses the little Amish house is that it hangs from it's top and swings in the wind. Any bird living there would be sick and blue in a matter of hours, like a little cuckoo that sticks his head out and throws-up in the yard.

We have other bird attractors besides the houses, things like hummingbird feeders and a bird bath. We lived here for 20 years without a bird bath and you'd be surprised how dirty those little critters were becoming. It took months to teach some of them to use the bath.

My favorite attractor is the hummingbird feeder. I enjoy watching those little birds buzzing around, so full of energy.

Some folks say we shouldn't feed hummingbirds because it makes them dependent on a single food source and less able to take care of themselves. There's probably some truth in that. I've seen some of them so loaded up with sugar water they could hardly find their way

I've also read that hummingbird feeders can develop a fungus in the sugar water. If feeders aren't kept clean this fungus can be transferred to the hummingbird's tongue with disastrous results.

Readers will surely agree that a hummingbird doesn't amount to much without his tongue. If you take that away from him there isn't much left.

There isn't much to him in the first place, and he certainly can't afford any losses.

This ornamental tree flowers pink in early spring. The young trees are presently stabilized with stakes to eliminate the sway caused by wind and to help the roots more quickly establish a foothold in the soil.

Continuing down the north side of Manor Drive, the landscaping architect has included the smokebush, deciduous shrubs producing round purple foliage and in June irregularly branched, airy flower clusters of pink. Lovely lavender flowers from five Miss Kim dwarf lilacs promise heavenly scents in spring.

In the fall, the intense red of the Dwarf Burning Bush will brighten the scene. And next to them the favorite Forsythia, blooming golden yellow in early spring.

In the summer, red fruit contrasts beautifully with the glossy foliage of the Amur Maple which will mature to a height of 20-25'. The foliage turns a scarlet red in fall. The Maple ornamentals grace the corner of Manor Drive and

How They Almost Didn't Get To Spend Their Summer Vacation

Operating your own business requires a lot of time and effort, and so Rick and Carol of Stein Electric were looking forward to finally getting away for a little vacation. Visions of a bit of golf maybe, some fishing, but as they say, "The best laid plans...'

The week was winding down when one of the service trucks got hit by a semi loaded with hogs. The drivers of the trucks, and the hogs, were fine but the service truck was knocked out of commission. No problem. Rick just volunteered his truck (the one he was going to drive on vacation) for use on service calls to his customers.

They would take Carol's Blazer on vacation.

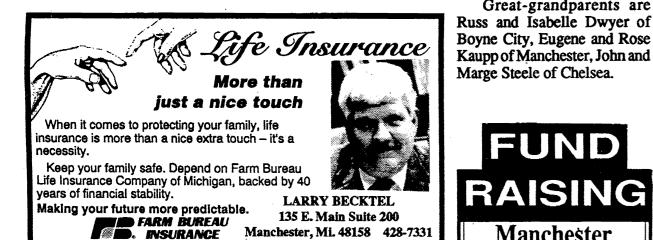

They began to get it roadready and found that it needed some front end work, so off it went to the repair shop. On the way back from the repair shop. the radiator went out.

In the meantime, Carol was running some errands with her daughter-in-law - and that car broke down. Luckily Rick happened by in the dump truck and was able to help them.

At length the Blazer was repaired and they were off. If they didn't need a vacation before, they certainly did now. We hope the Stein Electric crew doesn't get an SOS from the boss.

Lots of excitement around our block on the 11th. How often can we walk and talk with neighbors on our street, in the middle of it? All because of a utility pole and a truck of lime. The young driver stated: "Bet you haven't had this much excitement in Manchester for a long time". I could have told him all of our 125th fun, but didn't. How to be a Successful Chamber

This was the theme of the presentation by Phil Gyesky from the Michigan State Chamber of Commerce at the June 17th meeting.

According to Phil, Chambers must begin to move from community activities to business-related issues in order to survive in the coming years.

In the last two decades most of the Chambers concentrated their efforts on activities such as sponsoring and promoting community events. They could be classified as social clubs.

Recently, Chambers are beginning to also concentrate on business-related issues such as legislation at local, state and national levels. They are becoming pro-active instead of reactive to issues and concerns of business. Chambers must have as their primary goal "To be an advocate for business.'

The Chambers promotion of recycling starting in the spring of 1990 was important in making this project possible. The WWRA may be able to serve the local business community in the future. Corrugated cardboard is a major component of the solid waste produced by many businesses. It is in constant demand for recycling and the WWRA baler is capable of handling it. Office paper is another valuable material for recycling. It may be several months before the WWRA can offer recycling of cardboard to residents or the business community, but there is an ongoing program in Chelsea that could be expanded upon within a short time if there

Manchester's Visions of Tomorrow: An Invitation

As our pleasant memories of Manchester's 125th Celebration settle comfortably in with all of those other Manchester yesterdays, it becomes time to focus on our visions of Manchester's tomorrows.

As the 125th Anniversary committee began planning for this summer's events, we decided that there should be more than just a celebration of this milestone in Manchester's life. Thus, came the goal of achieving an ongoing commemoration of Manchester's yesterdays that would enhance and enrich Manchester's to-

Deciding what form this commemoration should take requires the input and consideration of as many members of the Manchester community as possible. 125th Anniversary Steering Committee members

Nondus Buss, Janet Shurtliff, John Swainson, Ted Tapping, Sandy Trolz and Ann Pat Wolf invite you to join us at our final meeting as a committee on Wednesday, August 26 at 7:00 p.m. in the Emanuel Church dining room. Items on the evening's agenda include sharing and discussing the final report, brainstorming a list of commemorative project possibilities and establishing a Visions of Tomorrow committee to set up the framework for deciding on and developing that project.

Remember, the more people who share ideas and dreams about what the ideal commemorative project should be, the better the chance of finding just the right one. We're looking forward to your joining with us over a cup of coffee or a glass of iced tea as together we create a legacy for tomorthe Sweet Adelines, the Mike Berst Ensemble, the Raisin Pickers, the Manchester and Napoleon Bands, and the Manchester Chamber Orchestra; and also great newcomers like the Morris Dancers, Laura Pershin and Dale Petty, and the Crosstown Cloggers. This last concert on August 20 coincides very nicely with the rest of our end-of-the-summer rituals: getting the kids ready to go back to school, trying to squeeze in another quick vacation weekend, or maybe just a game of golf.

Alas, also unprecedented this year have been the number of rainy Thursday nights which have caused the Gazebo Concerts to move to the official rain location, the K. of C. Hall. So everyone now knows the routine. This final concert will be held rain or shine! If the rain should make another appearance, the concert will move indoors to the K. of C. Hall.

All in the community are heartily invited to come to this last concert of the season. Bring your lawn chair or blanket. Treat yourself to an old-fashioned evening of band music. And say good-bye to summer.

The Mike Berst Ensemble returned for an encore performance and

Yes, indeed! It was so great, Circus elephant — right on the the circus committee decided to invite them back again.

The proceeds from the circus will benefit the Community Resource Center. In 1991 the proceeds were $1,051.50 which was returned as service to the community of Manchester.

Remember Okha, the elephant as she paraded down Main Street?

Did you go to the circus grounds and watch the Big Top go up? I did. It was fascinating

Franzen Bros. encourages everyone to come to the circus grounds between 9:00 and 10:00 a.m. on Sunday. Okha will be working again. Don't forget the petting zoo one hour before each of the shows.

Have you purchased your tickets yet? All tickets purchased before the day of the circus are $5. If early ticket sales total $5,000 or more, the Community Resource Center will receive 30%. Circus day tickets are $6 and the CRC receives 10%. The banker or businessman who sells the most tickets will ride the elephant before the 2:00 show. Who will that person be?

We can have a great day at the circus and our community and our people of the area will benefit from the proceeds generated for the Community Resource Center. See you at the Franzen Bros. Circus Sunday, August 23.

REVIEW Since Rev. Cooper was not present at this meeting, this site plan re-review was tabled. CHURCH/BLACKSMITH

SHOP - DISCUSSION Lowery noted that apparently church servcies are being held at the Blacksmith Shop by a group which has split off from Faith Church. At issue is the use of a public building for religious services and that it is not zoned for that use. A church in a R1-B District requires a Conditional Use Permit. Daverman made a motion recommending the Historical Society file for a Condtional Use Permit. Lowery seconded the motion. The motion passed on a voice vote.

CARDS OF THANKS

Due to the generosity and energy of many people, our Summer Reading Program was a great success.

Our children enjoyed workshops with Ron Zang, Sandy Trolz, Marsha Chartrand and Pat Swaney. We indulged our sweet tooths with snacks from Walco Foods, Mary Blossom, Pat Ahrens, Connie Peterson, Pat Swaney, Joan Gaughan, Charlotte Major and Sarah Briggs. Connie Widmayer provided favors for the party and Midwest Ford and Ann Fowler bought books for all program finishers.

And a special thank you to Marsha Chartrand who worked since May on this project creating the theme and program ideas, publicizing events and providing art work.

In 1991 a survey was conducted by the Association asking members about their usage, hopes for the lake and possible restrictions of the lakes use. Some of the results: 50% are year around residents, 41% weekend users and 9% infrequent visitors. 95% of owners are at the lake for holiday weekends. Fishing is enjoyed by 95% of the residents. Water skiing enjoyed by 55%.

Major concerns of the association membership was boats being launched from Sharon Hollow Road, boat size and horsepower, weeds, poor fishing, loud parties, P.A. systems, pollution around the lake and specifically pollution by nonresidents along Sharon Hollow Road. Fishing shanties used in the winter time and not removed prior to ice break up.

According to Mr. Bialecki, the main concern of the residents are the large speed boats and the public accessing the lake from Sharon Hollow Road. Washtenaw County Road Commission some years ago reconstructed the road north of the dam and removed the three strand cable guard rail. This allowed non residents access to a private lake and has contributed greatly to the problem of boats and rowdyism.

Manchester Township Board has been asked to enact an ordinance for control of the lake usage, boat size, noise and restricted access by outsider's. At this point in time the board has not acted upon the request.

According to Bialecki, should an ordinance be enacted then constable or sheriffs controls could restrict the indiscriminate use of the lake and boat sizes.

This activity went on all day long until all that was left were the heads and a big tub of sausage meat which was then ground with the fine cutter. My mother put garlic bulbs from the basement in a pan of water on the stove and boiled and stewed them. They were then strained and the garlic water flavored the sausage. Also lots of sage and salt and pepper were added and everyone mixed and mixed with their hands. Finally a patty was fried and tasted by everyone. More salt was added, more sage and another patty was fried. Just right. So the sausage stuffer was fastened to the table and the cleaned intestines were fastened-

Getting to Know Our Officers

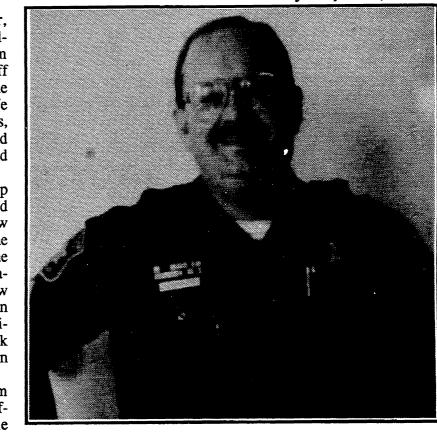

Sergeant Carl Werner, Command Officer for the Village of Manchester Police arm of Washtenaw County Sheriff Department. Carl lives in the community with his wife Merrideth and three daughters, Aimee 4, Lynne 17 months, and the new arrival Emily four and one half months old.

Carl, bom in 1958, grew up in the Detroit metro area and All of the fat was shaved off had his first taste of Washtenaw County when he enrolled at the U of M. After three years he applied for a position, as a Marine Deputy, with Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department in 1978. In 1980 the Marine Division reduced its size, due to lack of funds and Carl found work in construction.

> Sometwo months later, Tom Minick the elected Sheriff offered him a job with the Community Work Program. The program was designed to save the County a million dollars a year by placing offenders into a work program, rather than incarceration. Starting with just 30 man days per month. After a short seventeen months the program grew to 200 man days per month and savings in excess of 1.5 million dollars per year.

> Carl transferred to the reinstituted Marine Safety Division as Supervisor in 1982 and spent his summers on the lake, winters as a road patrol officer on the east side of the county.
