CHICKEN BROIL NOSTALGIA

Shan Lee Named to All-State Softball Squad

Time sure flies when you're having fun... It is hard to believe that over 40 years have passed since that slow-broiling famous bird made its debut in our little town. Who says things have to change? We still use the slow-broiling method. DELICIOUS...

What is your favorite Chicken Broil Memory? After talking with a few long-time Chicken Broil attendees you get a very clear picture of the good things that have come about because of the Chicken Broil.

In the "good old days" when Senior Trips still existed, the senior class would set up the tables and chairs for the Chicken Broil to earn money for their Senior Trip. It pulls people together both young and old.

People plan their vacations around the Third Thursday of July. As the years pass by, Chicken Broil Day has become a holiday that touches many lives. One person told about the time they went to New York on vacation and were chatting with a store clerk. He asked where they were from and they answered "a small town near Ann Arbor called Manchester." His answer - "Oh, that is where they have the big Chicken Broil." He had come to visit relatives one past July.

One lady, who lives near the Athletic Field, told about sitting on her patio waiting for a family member to return with their take-out dinners, when these strangers wandered up. It seems her family member had met them at the Field and they didn't have a place to sit, so he invited them to come over and join their family.

About 10 years ago when the Manchester Panther was roaming around, the media came over and was quite interested in whether he would want to come to the Broil. The reporter asked one of the workers, "what will you do if the Panther comes to the Broil?" The worker replied, "he will have to stand in line like everyone else." (Guess he didn't want to stand in line; he never showed up.)

Someone mentioned that they always had to stand in line for such a long time — but they said "That chicken is worth waiting for." Through the years, changes to the in and out process have been made and the wait is much shorter.

Some of the workers made the comment that it is hot, smoky, and a long day but they all said they keep coming back year after year; some even take a vacation day from work. They like their working companions, the chance to meet new people and the camaraderie that has been built up over the years. Generation after generation keep passing down the tradition to make each year's Broil bigger and better.

When July 20, 1995 comes to a close, what memories will you have stored in your memory bank? Will it be new friends, reminiscing with old friends or just a great chicken dinner?

Shan Lee, a 1995 Manchester graduate, was recently named to the All-state Women's Softball team. Shan was nominated to the all-state team after being recognized as an all-conference, all-district, and all-region pitcher by the local coaches.

Shan was a four year member of the Manchester High School Varsity Softball team. She also played Varsity Volleyball as well as Basketball while at Manchester High School.

Shan has also played for the Ann Arbor Aces Softball Team for the past six years. This fast pitch team has traveled across the US, from California to Washington, D.C. and many destinations in between, to compete against the best teams in the country. The team is looking ahead to competing in the Hall of Fame Tournament in Oklahoma City later this summer, and will try to qualify for national play offs there. If they don't qualify at the Hall of Fame Tournament, they will come back to Michigan to compete for the Nationals through regional and state games.

Eastern Michigan University recently recruited Shan as a "walk on" for her softball talent. She looks forward to pitching for the EMU Eagles next fall. While at Eastern, Shan plans to study education and eventually become a teacher.

To fill in her "spare hours" this summer, Shan works daily at Colorbok in Dexter. Right after work each day she attends practice in Ann Arbor. It doesn't leave her much time for seeing all her friends in town, but she enjoys staying busy. The team continues to practice all winter long, so once school starts in the fall, Shan will still be keeping active.

Congratulations on your success, Shan, and Good luck at Eastern!

Second Front Page: P.A.S.S.

P.A.S.S. Wants to Help Students Succeed

by Marsha Johnson Chartrand

What do you do when your bright child starts having troubles in school? When you try your best to do everything in your power to remedy those problems? How do you feel when those words, "Special Education," are first uttered by the school psychologist? How do you deal with the emotions, the paperwork, the new regulations and new terminology which suddenly applies to your family?

Four parents in Manchester have taken steps to not only learn

"Special Ed is really Specialized Educational Programming for your student."

- P.A.S.S. members

all they could about this on their own behalf, but have taken their support one step further. They started P.A.S.S. (Positive Accommodations Stimulate Success), a committee whose goals are not only to achieve the optimal education for their own children, but to educate the rest of the community about "Special Ed" - an umbrella, not a category. Special Education is really specialized educational programming for your student.

"So many times if you say your child is in Special Ed, people's attitudes change," explains Ruth VanBogelen, a P.A.S.S. committee member. "They think that your child is retarded or 'deficient' in some way." VanBogelen and the other committee members, Anne Marie Gordon, Marilyn Knouase and Shannon Fleck, stressed that Special Education is really a resource for students who learn differently than the norm. "Most of these kids have normal to above normal IQ's stressed Gordon. "The question is how we can service them better within our schools. Parents, teachers and students all need help finding better resources which will accommodate these kids and, instead of Special Education changing a parent's or a student's plans for his or her future, helping to make those goals and dreams a reality."

Although P.A.S.S. stemmed from these parents' frustrations with the system, they have worked hard to present themselves positively to the administration and Hank DeYoung, Director of Special Education Services for this region (which also includes Chelsea, Dexter and Whitmore Lake). The support, encouragement and assistance they received from Klager special ed staff person Joanna VanRaden has been invaluable. Their support group, which meets every Wednesday night at 7:00 at Klager, remains a place where parents can go to vent, to receive support from other parents who deal with these situations every day, to ask questions, and to learn more about the difficulties they and their children face. Yet, P.A.S.S. has an important outreach function in the community as well.

Plans for the future include workshops where the entire community, especially interested parents, learn about the services which are available, how to help develop an individualized educational program for your child, what to do if the plan isn't working, a parent's rights and responsibilities, and more. They also plan a video documentary which will be produced from the students' point of view, provide help to other communities who want to start a support group, publish informational handbooks, and become a non-profit organization to help fund accommodations and resources for these students. These projects are all open to all community members, and are not limited to those who have "Special Ed" students.

Sondra Dunn, school psychologist, notes that, "These families provide a mirror to hold up to the Special Ed staff. Because of P.A.S.S., we have a new way of looking at ourselves. If anyone would have asked me before what I did best in my position, I would have said it was communicating their children's needs to parents. Through P.A.S.S., I have learned that usually parents can't absorb everything they need to know about their children's educational needs in just one or two meetings. There is an emotional aspect to this information that we weren't understanding. It has been inspiring to me to work with these families." Dunn adds that the number one priority for school staff, P.A.S.S., and the community is to overcome our own issues of stigma regarding special education services. "We don't want to pass on our value judgments to the kids, who don't have the same way of looking at these things as we do."

Klager, notes Dunn, does a great job of integrating those students. "Younger kids are more accepting of the differences between students. As they get to middle school age, the differences become more marked." Often students don't want to be perceived as "different at this age. As their independence blossoms, they may resist getting the help they need. Bringing a friend to groups or other resource programs is still encouraged at the Middle School level, although it is used less than at Klager.

Beginning with the new school year in September, P.A.S.S. plans to run a series of public workshops. Each of their three sub-committees is currently planning one major workshop. Their Evaluation Committee is working on "Can my child be successful in school?" This will be a comprehensive look at how the entire process works, from initial referral all the way to developing program for the individual student.

The Extracurricular Committee will present "How do students with special needs fit in?" Often a student with special needs faces academic ineligibility for athletic events. Or physical/health impaired students have to face preconceived notions of what they "can't" do when they attempt to join a group like Drama Club. This workshop will cover everything from accommodating for a disability to enabling the students to participate, to figuring out how to keep those students academically eligible.

The Language/P.R. Committee asks, "How do we get rid of labels?" at their planned workshop. Students with special needs are often given labels - like "you're not trying" - before they even get diagnosed. CC Then when they are diagnosed with a learning problem, they get a new label - 'special ed' or '504'. These labels have negative connotations. How do we get rid of these? Again, overcoming our own issues of stigma will help delete the labels.

One of P.A.S.S.'s major goals is to get the kids involved in making decisions about their own education. The planned video is one step in that direction. It will be based on the concept, "If a school could be anything you wanted, what would it be like?" It will be written and produced by the kids. Video equipment available through the Washtenaw Intermediate School District "might well be used by the students," comments VanBogelen.

"Each part of this process will also be a learning experience," notes Knouase. "So it will work two ways - it will show us what the kids want us to know - forcing them to take a look at their own ideas and feelings, and it will provide valuable experiences for them, on which they can draw in the future."

P.A.S.S. is open to all interested community members. You do not have to have a student in Special Education to attend their meetings or benefit from their workshops and programs.

They welcome visitors to their Wednesday evening meetings at Klager School at 7:PM. Some weeks, a formal 1/2 hour presentation will be offered; most weeks will provide support and information. The committee is to be commended for working to turn a negative into a positive experience for themselves, their students, the school, and the entire community.

"P.A.S.S. has provided Special Ed Staff and support personnel a new way of looking at ourselves, our students, and their families."

- Sondra Dunn, school psychologist

Editorial / Opinion

The Manchester Enterprise: On March 20, I arrived home from work at approximately 5:20 PM. When I went into the house, our carbon monoxide detector was in full alarm. I was a little startled since we had the detector for three months and it had never gone off before.

I called 911 and asked what I should do. They asked the nature of the call. I told them the detector was going off. They told me I needed the fire department. The next person I talked to asked if I could get everyone out of the house. I told them I had just arrived, and my two small children were fine. They told me to get out and open a door; the fire department would be right out. I took the kids outside and waited in the car until the first volunteer arrived, who went into the house to verify that the detector was in full alarm. He came out and told me we had to wait for the fire truck to arrive.

I asked if they had a detector; he thought they did, on the truck. As we waited for the truck, more volunteers arrived. Everyone stayed in their vehicles or stood in my garage unable to do anything. Finally, one of the firemen told me they did not have a detector and basically could do nothing for me. In the meanwhile the truck arrived, sat at the end of the driveway for a few minutes, and left. They suggested I call a heating & cooling man or the gas company and let them handle it.

By this time, I have two small children sitting in the car, it's cold and rainy, and I don't know if it's safe to go back into the house. Finally my husband got home. We called a furnace company and went on their suggestion to air out the house. We also purchased another unit to check the air to make sure it was okay to stay home. The next morning we had the propane company come out and test the levels of carbon monoxide, etc.

The Fire Department called to check up on us a few days later. I asked if I would be billed for the call. He stated he didn't know, but if I was he felt I had just cause to appeal it.

Nevertheless, I received a bill from the township a month later in the amount of $200. I called the township and was told we could appeal it at the next meeting. My husband went to plead our case. He told the board that when I called 911 and asked what I should do, they made the decision to dispatch the fire department although they knew everyone was out of the house and there was no immediate danger. And though the firemen responded, they did not have the proper equipment and were unable to assist us in any way. We felt the charges were not justified. Although they knew what the call was and knew they couldn't help us, they responded anyway. I have since learned that other families have made calls for carbon monoxide alarms with the same results.

At the township meeting, we were told the members would vote at the next meeting. They did - and we have to pay the bill. I still feel this is unreasonable, so I contacted Supervisor John Savage and asked what else we could do. His response was that we have "no recourse." We can choose not to pay the bill and then they will file charges against us; or I could take them to court. He was abrupt and to the point. He told me we had appealed it, the decision was made, and I had to pay the bill or face the consequences.

I decided to write the Enterprise because I want to let the community know about this. I've learned a lot in the past three months about how the township has to fund the fire department; how much it costs to send the firemen to our house; and that a bill for $200 is very reasonable; I've heard about liability; I've heard a lot about everything. The bottom line is still the same: They knew what the call was about, they knew everyone was out of the house, they knew they didn't have the equipment to help us. Yet, all the volunteers in their own trucks, as well as two fire department vehicles, were dispatched, and I got the bill!! Something is wrong with this picture!

If only they had a detector, they could have told us what the levels were, if it was safe for us to go back into the house. Instead, $200 later, we know nothing. I'm not placing blame on the fire department or the volunteers. They were very friendly and regretted that they couldn't help. Where the blame lies, I don't know. If you're going to provide a service, make sure you are equipped to provide help. Otherwise, it's no service at all.

The Manchester Enterprise welcomes letters to the Editor, Guest Editorials, and your comments, suggestions and opinions.
We ask that all letters submitted for publication be signed.

Dear Mr. Garlick,

After witnessing the actions and language at my grandson's baseball game (Coach Pitch League), I felt compelled to write and share some of my concerns. Maybe there are some others who feel the same way but don't care to speak out publicly and that's okay.

First of all, let's put the coaching back in the hands of the coaches. If you're keeping score, then keep score - not run the team, that is the coach's job. If you are helping to coach first or second base, tell the kids when to run or stop but don't run the team, that is the coach's job. If you are helping the batting line up to run smoothly, then help the batting line-up, but don't run the team, that is the coach's job. If someone has a problem with something that has happened, discuss it with your own coach and let him discuss it with the opposing coach. It should not be discussed between you and the opposing team.

I think what I found most appalling was the actions and language after the Cardinals-Rockies game last Wednesday at the old Athletic Field. One parent in particular (I won't mention names because he knows who he is) owes several people an apology for his inner city playground type language. The language which was shouted, so that even people in the neighborhood could hear, does not belong at any Little League game. If he cannot apologize to all, I hope he can swallow his pride (if he has any) long enough to at least apologize to his own child's team.

What these young children had to witness from an adult (and I use the term loosely) was totally uncalled for. How can we teach our children sportsmanship when a certain few can't even practice it themselves?

I realize this is rather long, but I think the goal of most parents and grandparents alike is to: 1. have our children learn the correct rules and play by them and 2. to teach our children to not only win graciously, but also how to lose graciously. If parents cannot do this, how can we expect our children to be able to do it. Winning is not everything. What really counts is how well you played the game.

Thank you Mr. Garlick for your time.

Kathy Hagerman

Dear Editor:

I just want to remind folks that this is the last week before the 4th of July holiday to "Boost the Bunting" (Howard Parr's great phrase) and decorate Manchester with red, white and blue fan bunting in honor of our nation's 219th birthday party.

The Manchester Area Historical Society and the Manchester Area Chamber of Commerce are still offering the fan bunting at discounted prices at Woodbrook and April Victoria, and the 18th Century Shoppe and Comerica Bank.

A lot of homes and businesses along Main Street and around town have decked out porches with the colors of Old Glory on Memorial Day and every day - and it looks great! The Chamber and the Historical Society want to say thanks in advance to all who display flags and bunting in celebration of America's birthday this weekend.

Sincerely,

Deb Havens, president

Manchester Area Historical Society

Dear Sirs:

The recent accident you featured that occurred on Austin Road and the recent article about traffic on US 12 by the Ann Arbor News prompts me to finally write this letter.

I've now lived in this area for a year and I have wondered after traveling Austin Road for the year if people were so extremely religious that they had no fear of death or maybe that we just have a bunch of idiots on the road.

I've seen cars in the ditch every time there was a little ice on the road this winter, thank God it was a mild winter. I've seen no regard for areas where deer cross regularly and I wonder why people have to drive 65 or 70 m.p.h. on Austin Road.

However, the worst behavior has to be the amount of passing done in double yellow line areas of the road, particularly between Bridgewater and Manchester. I am extremely angry that someone would not only risk their life but everyone else's in the vicinity by passing in these areas.

On Wednesday June 21st at 6:15 AM, I was pulled up to the intersection of Kies Rd. and Austin and two cars were passing two other cars here. They started their move on a double yellow and finished on a double yellow. I couldn't believe it.

I am tempted to start taking down license plates and descriptions of the morons involved, and ask the newspaper to publish them.

If you people who want to die so quickly, or want to commit suicide, just do it yourselves or call Dr. Jack. Don't take people who enjoy life with you.

Investigative Report

Following is a condensed and edited version of a letter this editor wrote three months ago to the Superintendent and the School Board, regarding a situation of which we had been informed, in confidence, by a reliable source. 3/25/1995

To: Manchester Community Schools - Supt. Niedzwiecki, Pres. Paul Kluwe

We received a story lead, February 11, from a confidential source, that a student athlete had been stopped for drinking during the 1994 football season, and that three basketball players were involved in substance abuse.

After a month of unavailability, unanswered phone calls, and illness, I was finally able to meet with Swanson on 3/15/95 and the following are his comments.

We have heard rumors that there has been an incident of drinking by one football player, and that three basketball players have been involved in substance abuse. Is there any truth in this? We have not had any instances of drinking during the football season. No one has reported any problems with any basketball players. We have an Athletic policy that prohibits use and the students involved would be disciplined. Our policy is not for a 365 day year, only for the sport season in which the athlete is involved.

On 3/22/95 I recontacted my confidential source about the reported drinking incident, and was informed it happened 10/17/94. I filed a freedom of information request with Sheriff Jerry Haensler.

Sgt. Haensler stated, Deputy P. Cook Apprehended 10/17/94, Student Q at the corner of Duncan and Macomb blocking the intersection with a stalled vehicle and advised him of his rights. Haensler further stated, "Deputy Cook made the stop, and talked to Deputy Deacons who reported the incident to Athletic Director Swanson. On 10/18/94 Mr. Q's father called Sgt Haensler, and reminded Haensler that preliminary breath tests are not admissible in a court of law. A couple of days later, Athletic Director Swanson talked to Sgt Haensler and said, A decision on what course of action to take in the Q matter was not his decision to make."

On 3/23/95, I drove to Ypsi Township Hall to interview Deputy Cook. The following is what he related to me.

"I found a vehicle blocking the intersection of Duncan and Macomb, about 1:15 AM. I smelled alcohol on the breath of the driver, Student Q. We pushed the vehicle from the intersection and I administered a breath analyzer test. The driver registered between .03 and .04. The readings did not indicate impairment, and under the statute at that time (prior to 1/1/95 the Zero Tolerance Law was not yet in effect) the readings were not sufficient to take further action. I made him walk home, and reported the incident to Deputy Deacons when he arrived in the morning."

Did anyone from the school contact you about the incident? "No one talked to me from the school."

That same evening, I found Deputy Deacons on duty in the Village and asked him about the incident. Deacons requested that I get permission from Sgt. Haensler for him to talk to me.

The next morning, I asked and received Sgt Haensler's permission to talk to Deacons.

Deacons made the following statement to the Enterprise.

"I contacted A.D. Swanson the morning of 10/17/94 and advised him that Student Q had been apprehended at 1:15 AM that morning and that a Breath Test had been administered. The test read 03/04, which was below the legal limit of .08. I informed Swanson that Deputy Cook had made Q walk home and that Q was impaired. AD Swanson pulled the Athletic Code Book from the shelf and told me that he would follow up on the violation. That Q would be ineligible for the balance of the season if he had been drinking." According to Deacons, one or two days later, Swanson called him and asked him to stop by the school. Swanson requested the name of the Deputy who made the stop and requested that Cook call him. Swanson said he wanted the information direct from Deputy Cook, and that he had discussed the matter with Superintendent Niedzwiecki.

Deacons said Cook made at least two attempts to reach Swanson and left phone numbers where he could be reached.

Swanson never returned Deputy Cook's calls.

Sometime later High School Principal Russ LeBlanc called Deputy Deacons and stated the Enterprise had gotten 'wind' of the incident and warned that the Enterprise would be 'nosing around'."

After reviewing Deacons' statement, I confronted AD Swanson and asked him the following:

Have you ever had any drinking problems with a student athlete? In 1993, I had a student who had not been in school and that he admitted to drinking in the afternoon. That student was disciplined and not permitted to participate for the balance of the season.

Were you ever contacted in 1994 about the possibility that a student athlete had been drinking by the Washtenaw County Sheriffs Department? No

On 10/17/94, were you contacted by Deputy Deacon about a student athlete drinking? I don't remember.

Have you ever seen a copy of this 'Activity Log', (copy handed to Swanson), for 10/17/94 showing Q was stopped at 1:15 AM? No.

Did a parent ever call you about this incident? No parent ever called me.

Did you ever talk to Deputy Cook? No.

Did you ever talk to Sgt. Haensler or Deputy Deacons? Can't Comment.

Did you ever talk to Superintendent Niedzwiecki or Principal LeBlanc about this matter? Can't Comment.

Have you ever told Sgt Haensler that a policy decision would not be yours to make? I don't recall talking to Sgt Haensler. I doubt I would have said it would not be my decision to make.

Did Q miss any football games after 10/17/94? Q did not miss any games.

Did you talk to Q about this incident? I can't comment about a student situation. You will have to ask Ron.

What would have been the outcome if you had talked to Deputy Cook and discovered that a student had been drinking? The athlete would have been removed from the team for the balance of the season if such an incident had occurred.

Then if an incident had not been investigated or substantiated no action would be taken? You could say that.

Later that afternoon, I met with Superintendent Niedzwiecki, gave him a copy of the WCSD Activity Log, reviewed all of the above with him and asked for his comments. Ron said that Swanson had investigated the incident and that appropriate action had been taken. He said he was confident that Swanson had investigated the matter and had reviewed the incident with him.

After extensive investigation I am of the opinion:

1. That Swanson did not do his home work.
2. That Principal LeBlanc may have had knowledge of the incident and did not want Deputy Deacons to speak to me.
3. That Supt. Niedzwiecki may have not been informed of the depth of the incident or may have been involved in a decision to not pursue the matter in depth.
4. There may have been pressure applied by a parent or other persons to not pursue the incident.

Conclusion:

There is adequate proof of the administration was informed of this incident!

Why do we need an Athletic Policy if we do not investigate or use said policy?

At best there was poor judgment used in this incident!

At worst there is incompetence or the possibility of cover up!

It Requires Two To Achieve A Successful Marriage

There is more to a happy marriage than just the picture of a beautiful bride on the society page.

It's true that no two people will ever agree on everything, and this includes a married couple. However, there is a recipe for a happy marriage and it contains two main ingredients: good manners and compromise.

The good manners part means showing just as much politeness and cheerfulness as you did before the wedding, and the compromise means a willingness to examine both sides of an issue.

If further help is needed, the best place to get it is at the House of Worship, from the clergyman who performed the ceremony. This is one of his God-given powers, and the couple might as well take advantage of it.

When Broadway Meets Rock 'n Roll at the Gazebo

They say variety is the spice of life, and this Thursday, June 29, the Gazebo '95 Series will celebrate variety in a tangy way!

The main course for the evening is ROCK 'N ROLL. But the entre will be a MUSICAL REVIEW group! How's that for variety? Varsity Blues will open the evening on the Gazebo stage. From Saline, this group of singers performs show tunes in the classic "musical review" style. If you like Broadway—you won't want to miss Varsity Blues.

Next up: Shirley's Temple, the current band of choice for the under-twenty group in Manchester!

Last year was the first time the Gazebo Series featured rock 'n roll—and it was fun for all ages! Try it, you'll like it! There is nothing to compare with the energy and excitement of youth.

Describing their repertoire as "alternative, rock, and metal combined," Shirley's Temple performs both original material and covers of metal tunes.

Shirley's Temple is a four-piece group composed of Manchesterites Mark Briggs on guitar, vocalist Tim Brown, Wayne Baker on bass, and Justo Burgos on the drums.

All in all, the month of June will draw to a close at the Gazebo in a spirited way. Come for the evening or just for awhile. Don't forget your lawn chair or blanket, and enjoy the hot fun of summer. The curtain rises at 7:30 PM. See you there!

The Gazebo Concert Series is organized by the folks who volunteer their time as the Recreation Task Force (RTF). They make enjoyable things happen in Manchester. For more information about the RTF or to help with the concerts, contact the Community Resource Center at 428-7722.

If it should rain—the show will go on at the Emanuel Church Hall gym.

Raisin Pickers Play Benefit Concert for the Raisin Valley Land Trust

The Raisin Pickers, players of "string band music with a new wrinkle", will perform a concert to benefit the Raisin Valley Land Trust at 2:00 PM, Sunday, July 2nd, at Trestle Park in Adrian. The Raisin Pickers are an old time string band, playing a variety of blue grass, folk and other tunes that defy classification.

There is no admission charge, but the RVLTL will be asking for donations and seeking new members. Join us for an afternoon of fun and music and help promote the RVLTL goal of "preserving natural areas, rural and historical features of the River Raisin Watershed."

Bring a picnic lunch or just come for a stroll through this lovely park just north of downtown Adrian. You can listen to the concert up close on the grass or from the sheltered picnic area or the old trestle bridge that overlooks the band shell where the Raisin Pickers will put on their entertaining and truly unique show. RVLTL board members will be on hand to answer questions and distribute literature.

Take M-52 to Adrian and turn west onto Hunt Street (just north of downtown), then two short blocks to Trestle Park. For more information call 428-8108.

Jolly Farmerettes Plus Plan Summer Activities

We had a meeting on June 19, 1995 at the Feldkamp's house. The meeting was called to order by Suzanne Lowery and flag pledges were led by Katie Tolen. There were 16 members, three leaders and four guests present. We started work on our barrel to be decorated for the 4-H Fair.

Our club has decided to do Farm Tours. That is when our club visits members' farm animals that they are showing for the 4-H fair. Each member whose farm we visit will show us their animal and tell us about it. The farm tours are scheduled for July 9th.

The Jolly Farmerettes Plus have decided to decorate a float for the Manchester Fair parade to be held on July 11th. All of the members will be riding on it and throwing candy.

Our next meeting will be held July 6 at 6:00 PM at the Feldkamp's house.

Fireworks Safety Precautions

The Fourth of July celebration is one that usually accompanies family get-togethers, picnics, parties, parades and of course, the traditional fireworks displays. To ensure that this holiday remains a safe and enjoyable one, Sheriff Ron Schebil would like to remind and warn Washtenaw County citizens of the potential dangers that can be encountered when handling fireworks during the July 4th celebration.

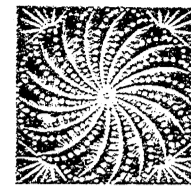

"First and foremost is to always take safety precautions whenever handling fireworks," states the Sheriff. "The best thing you can do for your family is to educate them on these few, simple safety tips: "

- Always follow the directions on the fireworks packaging.
- Never hold fireworks in your hands or around your eyes and ears.
- Always use fireworks in an open area.
- Never check malfunctioning fireworks; always leave them alone for at least an hour.

"The safest way to enjoy fireworks, of course, would be to attend the professional displays that are presented in your area.

"It is out of our genuine concern for your safety that we ask you to please take extreme heed when handling fireworks and other flammable items," says Sheriff Schebil. "The Sheriff's Department wishes to make it a great holiday by making it a safe holiday for all Washtenaw County citizens!"

Dutch's Niehaus signs with EMU

Manchester's Troy Niehaus has signed a national letter of intent to play baseball at Eastern Michigan University. The 6'6" senior left-hander will pitch for the Eagles in the fall.

A four year player, 3 year starter and letter winner, Niehaus posted a career record of 12-10 at Manchester and 14-3 in 2 years of summer ball at Saline and Jackson. At the plate the Dutch's co-captain was a .333 career hitter.

"With Troy's size, ability, and throwing from the left side, he has the potential to be a competitive Division 1 pitcher," says Scott Stull, Manchester's Head Coach.

Riding on the backs of the big birds, indeed, I am wrong again! Sister Bid sent a most informative article she found entitled "Hummingbirds Tank Up for the Trip", which features stories from Rockport and Fulton, Texas and their celebration the weekend after Labor Day each year.

In mid-to late August, hummers start guzzling food and tiny insects so fast that their weight nearly doubles in just a few days. They need the groceries. The rufous hummer travels as many as 5,000 miles from its summer home in Alaska to winter digs in South America. Large numbers of the little birds congregate in the Rockport-Fulton area to build strength and take fuel for the 600-mile trip across open water to Yucatan Peninsula. Scientists estimate that hummers have a range of only about 650 miles without food and rest.

So, before this challenging trek begins, the Texans tank 'em up. Just a few years ago, the area had few feeders and not many nectar-producing plants. But now, there are feeders everywhere. Even local shrimpers have taken to putting feeders on their boats. "The trees and bushes are filled with exhausted or satiated, resting birds. Others hover in a blur of wings, then dart in like sunbeams as vacancies occur on feeders and blooming plants," Anna Reemsnyder, resident of Fulton reports.

The hummers are smart little birds—they wait along the Gulf Coast until they can catch the southerly tail wind of a Pacific or Canadian weather front, explains Diane Probst of the local Chamber of Commerce. "Neither the hummers nor the climate go by our calendar, so each year will be different in numbers of birds and weather conditions," she points out. "You'd think that after all these years we've thrown a party for them, they would RSVP." A toll-free number, 1-800-242-0071 is listed for current information.

Thursday, June 29: Our final exercise class starts at 10:30 at Emanuel. (We don't do much the remainder of these exercise days, but it has been fun.) Thanks, Pat Patrick! Great to have the concerts in the park in the evening.

Saturday, July 1: More fun when the Men's Club sponsor Fireworks in Carr Park. It seems to get bigger and better each year and we appreciate all your efforts which include our local firemen who shoot them off.

Monday, July 3: Seniors will leave the Center on a shopping trip to Adrian. You may go along by calling Erma Alber at 428-8707 first.

Tuesday, July 4: Have fun, but be careful. Happy 4th of July, America.

Wednesday, July 5: Senior bus will leave the Center to visit the BFI Recycling Center at Salem where the tour of facilities begins at 10 AM. Bus leaves at 8:30, call Erma to see if there is room to go along.

Thursday, July 6: St. James UCC on Rt. 12 near Saline invites you to their social and pickup will start at 3:30 for the trip. Their speciality are ham sandwiches with pretzel buns, yummy. Call Erma to go.

The July-August Trumpeter has been 'put to bed.' Rubena will pass them out on senior bus trips or you may get one from her.

Alzheimer's Association
