Matt Laskowski, Optimist Student of the Month

Matt Laskowski, a junior, the son of Bob and Sarah Laskowski, has been selected as the June "Student of the Month" by the Manchester Optimist Club. Matt has demonstrated leadership and diversity by involving himself in many school and community activities.

Academically, he is a member of the National Honor Society, and his name is consistently listed on the All-A or A/B Honor Roll, since he has maintained a 3.6 during his first three years of high school. Matt was also a member of the science team which competed at the Academic Games earlier this spring.

Matt served as vice president of the junior class and earned the Leadership Award in four different sports seasons, received the Princeton Leadership Award, and will represent our club at Boy's State. Matt is also a member of the Spanish Club and Key Club.

Matt enjoys athletics and has won the Three Sports Award by participating in football, wrestling, and track. He has also been active in the drama program, most recently performing memorably in "Rest Assured," as the doctor too willing to console a lonely widow.

Matt's future plans are undecided. He expresses interest in attending Michigan State University, Eastern Michigan, or the University of Michigan.

His leadership will be welcomed as he returns to Manchester High School this fall.

Manchester Developments

Taking A New Risk

A local family looking for an investment opportunity. A beautiful piece of land within the village limits. The realization that there was a niche not filled in our community. The equation came together neatly for Larry and Kim Byrne, of Edgewater Associates, LLC, and they have been working and planning together with their partner, Jim Lozelle, for several months to make their vision a reality.

They researched the possibilities. Larry had recently left the automotive business after 25 years. They could stay in Manchester, and invest. They could move elsewhere and invest. Larry is originally from Indianapolis, and there are plenty of opportunities there. But Kim's family is deeply rooted in Manchester, and they both feel at home here. They decided they'd stay and invest in the community they call home.

They began to work with village manager Jeff Wallace, and consulting with the Planning Commission and the village planner Richard Carlisle, to determine the best course of action and how they could attain their objectives in the face of local government.

Their vision is for upscale, high-end apartments in Manchester. The beautiful piece of land in question is located on both sides of Duncan Street, just east of Hibbard - actually two parcels of land, with one future.

"When we began looking the property wasn't even for sale," explain Larry Byrne. But it was zoned R-3, the type of property needed to build an apartment complex. Edgewater went to the owner, Don Limpert, and were able to make the purchase. The north side property, zoned R-1B, was owned by Teri and Nick Aiuto, and they, too, were ready to sell.

"In Manchester, we don't have much in the way of apartments," explain Larry. "When researching whether the market would support high end, high quality apartment complexes, we realized that this niche doesn't exist in this community. We looked in Chelsea, Dexter, Adrian, Howell...we wanted to see what properties were out there; what amenities were available. We tried to select the best out of these communities, and bring it to Manchester."

And yet, they could see what Manchester had to offer that other communities did not. Wide open spaces. Low density housing. A small-town ambience which is getting more and more rare, especially within Washtenaw County. How could they reconcile building an apartment complex, and preserve the atmosphere they wanted to use to attract residents?

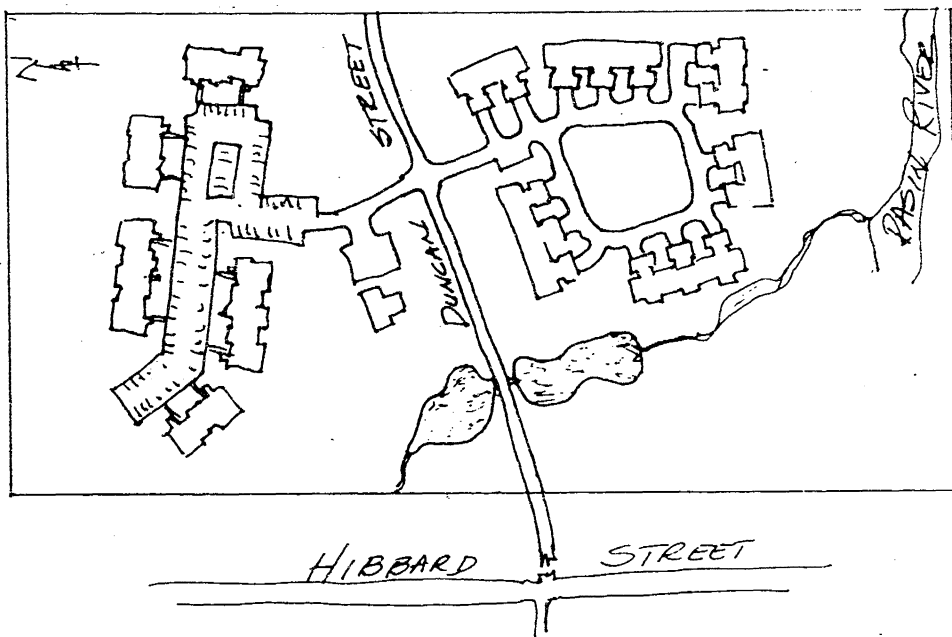

"In most communities you start out in an apartment. If you like the community, you will buy or build a home there, and raise your family. If you stay within the community for many years, your family grows and you're ready to move back to some place, like an apartment, which gives you more freedom," Larry illustrates. "More and more professionals are leaving the suburban communities and looking toward places like Manchester where they can escape to some quiet. Yet we have no amenities for those who want high quality apartments in this setting." He also envisions the complex attracting professional retirees who wish to remain in this community, and don't want the maintenance of a house."

As they were looking at property which is zoned for multiple family living, they realized that the average density of 12-15 units per acre would perhaps help them recoup the large investment they would be making, particularly with extending sewer and water to the development. But it would also destroy the setting which was the primary attraction of this property. That's when they decided to spread to the north side of Duncan Street. They also decided, with the help of the village planner, to apply for a Planned Unit Development (PUD). Under a PUD, the density of the property will be at about 5.4 units per acre - extremely low density for R-3 zoning. In fact, regular residential (R-1B) zoning usually allows about three units per acre.

With a 10-15 unit maximum under the given zoning, one parcel of property could have handled over 100 units if built to the max. Under the PUD, the zoning is permanent and can never be changed. "We're giving up the opportunity for future growth, which we may or may not be sorry for later," says Larry. "It's one of those times where you make a decision, and you do it."

As it stands now, the plan will still leave 75% of open space in both parcels. Part of the Edgewater plan is to develop park-like spaces around the existing ponds on each side of the street, and provide natural buffer zones to neighboring properties. A commons area on the south side of the road would be nearly an acre of land in the center of the development. Following the contours of the land and retaining any trees in excess of 10" girth is also taken into consideration when mapping out the planned development.

"The preservation of open spaces is something you read about all the time," says Jeff Wallace of this planned venture. "A lot of people talk about it; few people really do it. I have seen Edgewater Associates buy the extra land to maximize their investment, rather than building it out. This is not the density you would expect from apartments."

The first phase of the plan calls for six buildings and a total of sixty units, on the north side of the road. Each unit will be over 1000 square feet, with two bedrooms and two baths. Phase two will include a maximum of thirty-two condominium units on the south property.

Larry credits Kim with doing all of the legwork for this project. "She looked at countless development projects and has done most of the designing of the units. She has seen what works and what doesn't in other units, and we are incorporating her ideas into both our site plan and our unit floor plans. She has been an enormous help."

"This will be a lot of change for the neighbors, and we're not taking that lightly," Larry stressed. "We appreciate that and try to work with the layout of the land to make these changes more acceptable to the neighbors and to the rest of the community."

While the Byrnes and Lozelle are certain of the merits of their plan, the next step in the formula will be selling the bankers on their plan. Obviously, the "money people" want to see a good return on their own investment. "The hardest part will be to sell the bankers on what we consider quality of life," says Larry. But we think we have a win/win situation for everyone here."

As much as possible, Edgewater Associates plans to utilize local businesses. As a Manchester company and Manchester residents, they want to keep the business community based. They have also worked closely with local government "which is a lot more difficult than just planning a project on your own," observes Wallace. "It's rare in today's world that people do what's truly participative. But I commend them for working with everyone so far."

Wallace emphasizes, "This is not a done deal. It's just a plan; it's evolving. It will be worked through Planning, through Council, and we will seek the public's input. The goal for the community and the developer is to have a quality project that not only can work for him as an investor, but also for the community. Edgewater has a vested interest in the community...it takes on a different flavor because they will be here for the long term."

"We're going to live with this," concludes Larry. "That'll work to our advantage. Because we hope the type of people who want to live in a quality type environment, will work with us and work with our neighbors."

"We have a lot of confidence in what the village has to offer." They hope the village has equal confidence in what they are offering to our community.

Dear Editor,

I am a fourth year Manchester band student and have attended several school board meetings to request improvements to the Band program. When the 1997-98 school year begins there will be approximately 280 students enrolled in the band program. This is a wonderful accomplishment for the school district and can be credited to the exceptional directorship of Mr. Throneberry and support from the Band Boosters.

I, along with other students, requested that the School Board hire an assistant director. This person is greatly needed to do small group work, directing, and assisting in many ways. Currently, High School and Middle School classes follow directly after one another, making it impossible to have the full class time available.

When we approached the School Board at the May meeting, we were told an assistant director would be considered in the 1997-98 budget plan. I attended the June meeting with the anticipation of discussing this issue. The budget plan was approved, but the concern for an assistant was neither included nor even mentioned.

After the meeting I approached Mr. Kluwe who stated that since it was not on the budget plan there would be no assistant director.

This disgusted me! What other teacher in Manchester teaches 280 students a day? This is Manchester's only fine arts program. I was told that my proposal would be included in the budget plan. I inquired and was given no reason as to why it was not considered.

Band is a curriculum. Sports is an after-school activity. Between 1995-97 the budget for coaches has increased nearly $18,000. Athletic uniform replacement is budgeted at $5900. Money for band uniforms must be raised by the Band Boosters.

Has the athletic program seen as great an increase in participation as the band program? Isn't the band program equally important? In national studies, music students have shown to score higher in academics and successfully achieve higher goals in life.

I'm asking the community to support the Band Program. Come to our concerts and Band Booster meetings. Give the band the funding it needs and deserves.

Sincerely,

Audrey Bennett

The Chicken Broil: It's An All-Out Commitment!

- by Rev. Vince Carroll

When we arrived three years ago in Manchester, everyone was most welcoming. When the greetings concluded and the handshakes were finished, the next comment was: "you have of course been assigned a job at the Chicken Broil!" While I had not yet been asked, I assumed that my duties as a clergyman would carry over from my often needed weather prayers in the Navy. I was not surprised, therefore, to learn that all the clergy in Manchester were on the weather prayer committee.

Whether you have a particular job or not, each year is transcended by the fact: we are all a part of this 43 year tradition that puts Manchester on the summer food map of America. You, better than I, know that people come from miles around to join in this festive summer "eat in or take out event."

Participating in our fourth broil, I am reminded of the story regarding a chicken and a pig. One day they were grazing in the barn yard, when suddenly the chicken had a brilliant idea. "Why don't we contribute something significant back to the farmer who has provided us with such a nice place to live." The pig thought for a moment, then responded by asking what this contribution might be. The chicken thought for a moment and then said, "how about if I deliver the most perfect eggs I have ever laid and perhaps you could supply the bacon." Startled, the pig retorted, "Well for you it truly is a commitment, but for me it's an ultimate sacrifice!"

Everyone who works at the broil commits something; time, money, etc. And overall, Manchester-ites graciously provide their town and community, proving to be the good hosts folks have experienced over these past four decades. It is a time of both commitment and sacrifice, which is why the Manchester Chicken Broil is heralded far and wide.

Last October the Enterprise ran a full page article on "Where Does the Money Go?" I won't take time to reiterate all the beneficial recipients of the this community effort, but suffice to say if you re-read that article you will be impressed as I was. As we do every summer, let's put our best efforts forward and make this another memorable 'Chicken Broil' for the Manchester Community to proud of.

The Fireworks Belong to All of Us - Do Your Part

Just a reminder that if you haven't yet made your donation for this year's fireworks display, you can still do so. Boards will be in each of the three banks in town and donations will be accepted at tellers' windows.

Of course you can always make your donation at Carr Park the evening of the fireworks, which will be held on JULY 3.

Our fireworks are famous far and wide and attract a great many people to our village. Each year's donations are invested into next year's fireworks so that we can have another beautiful and memorable display. Thanks, Men's Club, for sponsoring this event for another year.

The Gypsy Moth in Washtenaw County

Once again in Washtenaw County, tiny gypsy moth caterpillars have hatched out of their egg masses to start another life cycle. Since last summer, the tan egg masses have been clinging to tree bark, fences and homes, waiting to break out to start feeding on the leaves of oak, basswood and other deciduous trees. While the cool spring of 1997 slowed down the hatching of the eggs, the warm weather will soon be sending the young caterpillars to the treetops.

A vigorous tree can normally withstand two to three years of heavy defoliation before severe dieback occurs. While some gypsy moth populations in Washtenaw County are quite dense, depending on where you live, most homeowners should not have to worry about destructive defoliation. Many facts and tips can be of help to those who are concerned about the gypsy moth, and bulletins along with other literature can be found at the Washtenaw County MSU Extension Office.

While the gypsy moth can be destructive in some areas, it is mostly a heavy nuisance. In the last 40 years that the gypsy moth has been in Michigan, natural enemies have been introduced, generally causing a gypsy moth population collapse after the enemy has successfully been established. Disease-causing organisms, or pathogens, along with parasitic wasps, birds and mice can all act as natural enemies against the gypsy moth. All of these natural organisms are present in Washtenaw County and generally are most prevalent where large gypsy moth populations exist.

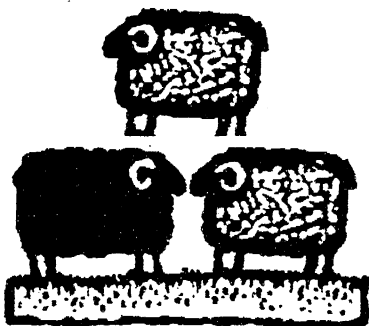

Being on the lookout for gypsy moths when driving to and from an infested area is important. The culprits can be brought to uninfested areas, usually as moths or pupae, to start a new community by way of campers, trailers and vehicles. Homeowners do have several options that can assist them in their caterpillar management.

Banding trees with burlap allows a cool resting place for caterpillars in their effort to escape the scorching sun. They can be easily removed from under the burlap and dropped into a pail of soapy water. Sticky bands can also be beneficial, as caterpillars will stick to the band during their journeys up and down the tree. Sticky bands can either be made by applying a product, such as tanglefoot or petroleum jelly, to a strip of heavy paper, or by using a sticky tape, then wrapping it around the tree. Attaching a sticky band below a burlap band can result in more efficient trapping.

When the caterpillars are small, an insecticidal soap can be used to control those caterpillars which are easily accessible. Some method of control can be used by applying a bacterial spray of B.t. to leaves in which the young caterpillars are eating. Also, a hard spray from a hose could be used to knock off those which are in sight.

Planting species which are less susceptible to the gypsy moth is important for anyone with an infestation, as is watering and fertilizing those trees which have been attacked. For those who feel their problem constitutes a tree spray, a list of local commercial spray applicators is available from John Frame, Gypsy Moth Coordinator, at the Washtenaw County MSU Extension office 971-0079.

The Black Sheep - Out The Door!

"Yes, the Black Sheep Tavern will be serving out on the sidewalk just as soon as we can get our tables and umbrellas," stated an enthusiastic Tracey Reed, one of the owners, last week.

Tracey posed their idea to Village Council at their last meeting. Although the idea received opposition from some council members who were totally against the plan, concerned about the liability of cars jumping the curb with diagonal parking, Village Manager Jeff Wallace looked into the ordinances and found nothing which stated there could not be tables out on the sidewalk, as long as people could still walk by, two abreast.

The women at The Black Sheep will follow all food industry regulations, and will not be serving alcohol out on the street. The atmosphere will more color to downtown and give Manchester a more festive feeling throughout the summer months.

Keep your eyes open for another improvement on Main Street in the next few weeks.

MANCHESTER AREA SENIOR CITIZENS News

- by TV Ludwick

We are finally getting some 80 degree weather and have I heard one person complain? I noticed that all of us senior citizens were sitting in the shade while waiting for the Sharon Social to begin. I am sure we will all find those shady spots while attending the others that are upcoming.

Marion Ahrens reminds us of the following: ALL CHECKS MUST BE MADE TO MANCHESTER SENIOR CITIZENS AND MAILED TO MARION AHRENS, P. O. BOX 456, MANCHESTER, MI 48158-0456. There is a June 30 (Monday) deadline for payment for the dinner/show at Turkeyville on July 31, 1997. Cost is $23.75 for the dinner and show "Social Security." She asks that you get your payment to her on time, this is important.

Thursday, June 26: The Manchester Area Senior Citizens will hold their monthly public card party this evening starting at 7:30. You are cordially invited to attend the party at Freedom Township Hall no matter what your age, just have that age old love of the game, euchre. Light refreshments will be served and you'll have a great time. If you'd like to have a ride out, you may call Marion Ahrens at 428-7865, or Rubena Boelter, 428-8655. Bus pickup begins at 6 PM for seniors.

Tuesday, July 1: Senior bus pickup will start at 3:30 for the trip to St. James UCC for their ice cream social. The church is located on US 12 between Clinton and Saline.

Their specialty are homemade pretzel buns which make up delicious ham sandwiches. I go for all the sweet stuff those homemade cakes and pies at socials (what a variety there is). And, of course, the ice cream from whence comes the name! It tastes better out in the open than at home, huh?

That's all, folks for now. Just one more thing I ran across while reading, how I love our library! From "Donovan's Choice" by Elizabeth Bevarly...the three year old said while visiting the zoo with a man friend who had no children "There are bassoons, libras and cheetos (instead of baboons, zebras and cheetahs). This mis-identifying was a delightful change of pace to discover that his view of the universe was left slightly, but pleasantly askew by this three year old.

I remember as being room mother for my daughter's first grade class on a field trip to the zoo. Each adult had charge of three boys and the same number of girls. We got along fine...until potty stop time came! "Do not run off by yourself, come to where I'm standing," I thundered for the boys benefit. We actually did not lose any first graders, but it came close. They have a habit of 'testing your mettle' to see if you mean what you say. Needless to say, you are absolutely worn out, but what memories.

The July-August Trumpeter is being readied and you may pick up your copy at the Center when it is open. Please watch the Enterprise for date (or dates) when it will be open.

Manchester's Third Annual Out On The Track

D.A.R.E. Team - 55 miles

- by garlene

It seems like the 24 Hour Relay Challenge lives up to its name each year. Beginning at 5 PM on Friday, after a few gusts of wind and a quick rain shower, the year's real challenge was an unusual lightning storm, which began at about dark.

At 10 PM all walkers and runners were advised to get off the track, and evacuate to Klager School's gym (this means you, too, Julie!) There the tired, hot and sometimes sweaty participants waited... and waited...for the storm to abate.

Unfortunately, that didn't look like it was going to happen. The up-side to this was that at midnight, everyone was allowed to go home for a bit of rest. We were all to return at 8 AM on Saturday, weather permitting, and we would continue the Relay throughout the day.

And so, the mileage counts were down substantially from last year. However, the good news is that the participant count was up dramatically...from 119 last year to over 150 this year. Sixteen brave teams were ready and willing to go the distance - whatever it might be.

For garlene, that distance was six miles. She thinks she'll be OK once she catches up on her sleep...in a couple of weeks. Her compatriots of The Starship Enterprise are also in recovery at this time, but it looks like all will survive, and none have yet been committed to any institutions.

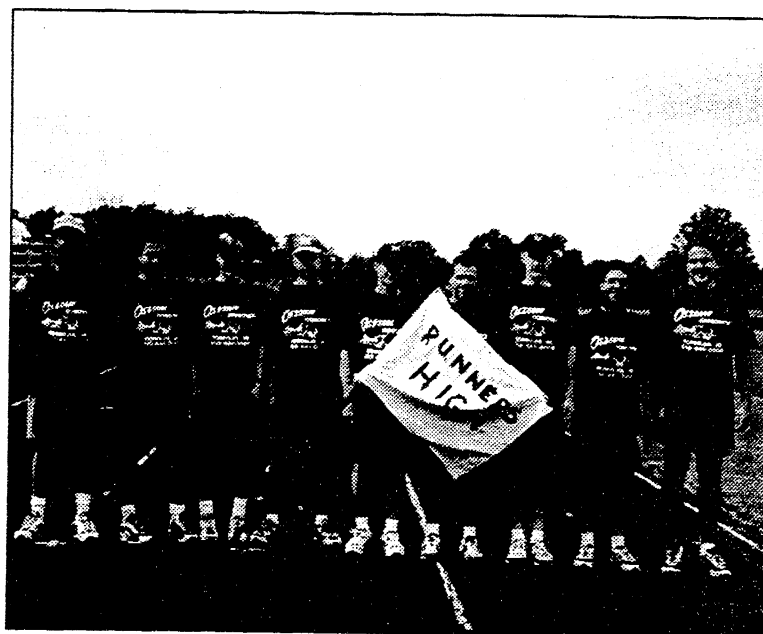

Because the 24 Hour Relay Challenge is one of garlene's favorite "holidays," she would like to thank those who helped to make it a reality this year. You know who you are, and there aren't too many of you. If you would like to take the Challenge next year, please contact garlene at the Enterprise. She can certainly find something for you to do.

Junior and Senior Playground

Junior and Senior Playground will be back again this year, and Klager Elementary School will be hosting the program.

Playground will meet from 9-11 AM, Monday through Friday, beginning June 30 and ending August 8. The cost is only $20 for the entire six week program, or students can drop in for $2 per day. All field trip costs are additional, and per event.

A full schedule including two field trips per week, arts, crafts, organized games, and Movie Day each Friday, will help keep your students occupied this summer. A variety of interesting field trips, with transportation provided, are planned. Volunteers to chaperone are appreciated! Check last week's Enterprise for a sign up sheet.

Manchester High School Alumni Hold 120th Annual Reunion

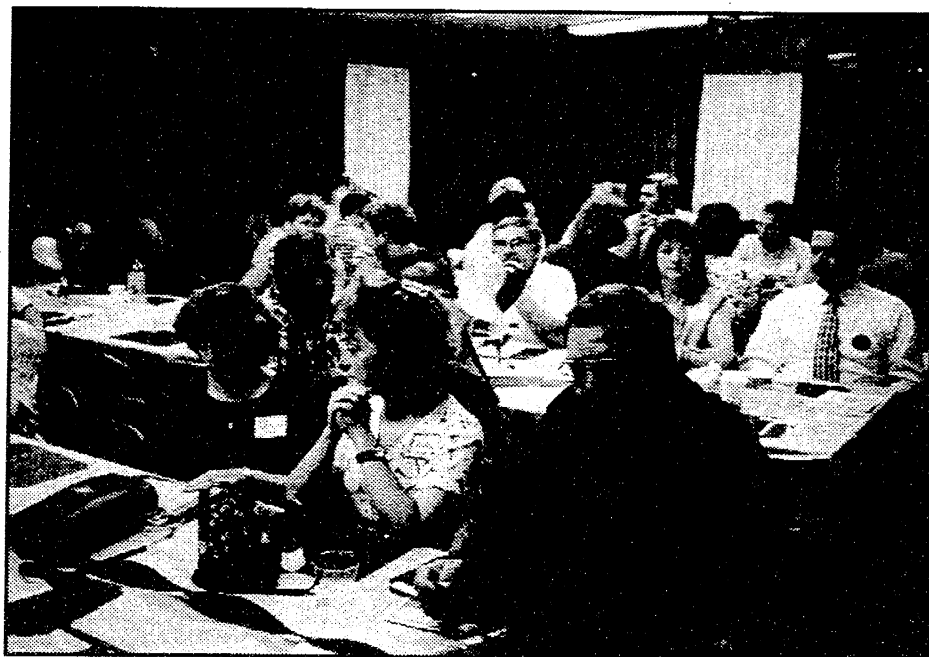

"An excellent banquet" was catered by Stephanie Glavin, and members of the Emanuel Youth Group helped serve those in attendance.

Manchester's Chamber Orchestra provided a musical interlude for the social hour prior to the banquet.

Mistress of Ceremonies Doris Sutton, '47, declared that the event was "quite a success." Over 200 MHS alumni and friends enjoyed the Alumni Banquet held at the Manchester Sportsman Club on Saturday evening.

Fellowship is an important part of the evening's agenda, and of course was enjoyed by all who attended. "I think everyone had a terrific time," was Mrs. Sutton's summation of the reunion.

One of the special events of this year's banquet was the "Varsity Choir Reunion," directed by Roger Marrison (foreground). "The Choir raised the roof," noted Mrs. Sutton, "You'd have thought they'd been singing together for years." About 24 former members of the Varsity Choir rehearsed together just twice in preparation for the special performance. It was a memorable part of the evening for everyone.

Responses from the honored classes always are a highlight of the evening. This year, the Class of 1997 was represented by recent graduate Brad Kemner. "We had many interesting responses from the honored classes," reports Doris Sutton. The oldest graduates were from the class of 1927 - Ethel Mahrle Hendershot from Jackson, and Thema Sortor Cowan, were celebrating their 70th class reunion. "Mrs. Sortor gave a terrific response on behalf of her class, without referring to a single note," added Mrs. Sutton.

Thank You

I never thought there were so many caring people out there. I want to say thanks so much for the food, cards, flowers, visits, phone calls and the love and support that came with it from everyone while my mom, June Ross, was ill and at the time of her death.

Special thanks to Saline Hospital, St. Joe's, EVH of Saline, St. Andrew's for all their help, Fr. Jim, my family, friends, and also to Uncle Ray, Faye Britton, Wanda Goff, Sally Brandshaw, Roger Samonek, Betty Bash, Nancy Lousin and Bob and Marie Pratt, Kathy Wilde and Irene Swanson.

May God Bless you all
Love,
Donna

THANK YOU to all the people who helped to make the 1997 24 Hour Relay Challenge a reality! A special Thank You to Korey Wenk, who created an original design for our third year T-Shirts and logo. Great Job, Korey!

Thank you to everyone who pulled together to help in any way to make the 1997 24 Hour Relay Challenge happen. If you participated on a team, chaperoned a team, sponsored a team, or helped with any of the activities surrounding the relay, you have helped to create a drug-free community, for a day. Let's build on that success.

With deep appreciation,
Cheryl Smail, Wes Gall, Marsha Johnson Chartrand

Cheryl - I just want you and everyone else to know that without you, there wouldn't have been a Relay. Thank you for your enthusiasm, encouragement and support over the past six months. You were a life line and, many times, a life saver. It has been great, and now we can relax. Have a wonderful summer! - Marsha
