NEWS BRIEFS

Foodgatherers distribution set for next week

This month's Foodgatherers distribution sponsored by Manchester Family Services serving area families, will be held Wednesday at St. Mary's Parish Center on Madison Street.

Foodgatherers normally is held on the third Thursday of each month but it has been rescheduled for the month of February only.

Middle school library collecting bags for recycling project

The middle school media center has begun a project of recycling plastic grocery bags to earn money and to use the earth's resources more efficiently.

Any type of clean, empty grocery bag (not heavy department store bags) will be accepted.

This will be an ongoing recycling effort by the middle school communities.

Winter crossing in Park Lyndon set this weekend

Washtenaw County Parks and Recreation continues its winter series of interpretive nature programs in February.

On Sunday, Matt Heumann will lead an exploration of the frozen Embury Swamp in search of animal tracks, dens, ice crystals and other signs of winter. Meet at 10 a.m. at Park Lyndon North.

Wear warm, water-resistant boots and bring a hot beverage. This is a mildly strenuous hike with lots of stooping, bushwhacking and poison sumac.

Last chance for eighth-grade pizza orders

The eighth-grade class at Nellie Ackerson Middle School is winding up their fund-raiser for the annual class trip to Washington, D.C.

Monday is the last day that orders will be accepted for Little Caesar's pizza kits. To support the pupils in their efforts, contact Connie Zimmer at the Middle School, 428-7442.

Area Girl Scouts to hold cookie sale this weekend

Girl Scout cookies are here and for sale! A cookie booth is set for Saturday from 9 a.m. to noon in front of the post office.

This is a good time to stock up if you forgot to order. Need extras or just can't wait. Orders that were taken from local Girl Scouts will be in stock and ready for delivery on Feb. 16.

Sharon Township looks toward future planning

■ Board hires planner and discusses widening of Pleasant Lake Road.

By Karan McClain Vaughan
Special Writer

After a great deal of consideration, the Sharon Township Board of Trustees voted 4 to 1 to hire Mark Eidelson, of Landplan, Inc. as township planner at its Feb. 1 meeting.

At the Jan. 4 meeting, the board interviewed two of the three contenders for the position.

They were Carl Schmult, a local professional community planner and Landethics, Inc., a planning firm that is relatively new to this area. Eidelson had been interviewed at the board's Dec. 7 meeting.

During the last month, before the board had a chance to vote, Schmult withdrew his application due to unexpected changes in his schedule.

Though not ruling out the use of other firms on future projects, the Board decided that Eidelson would best suit the township's current needs.

Another issue discussed during the meeting was the proposed widening of Pleasant Lake Road, between Fletcher Road and M-52. The three-mile stretch is slated for re-construction beginning in the spring of 2002.

Robert Mottice, a resident of Sharon Township since 1972, is currently circulating petitions to gather signatures of people who oppose this project. Mottice's house currently sits 40 feet from the edge of Pleasant Lake Road. Approximately 180 signatures have been collected so far.

Mottice stated that the first public information about the widening project was brought out in an informational meeting at the Freedom Township hall last fall. At this meeting, he said, about 14 separate drawings were available for public viewing, showing every detail of the stretch of road subject to widening.

Of all the trees shown on the drawings,

70 to 80 percent of them would be removed or destroyed due to ditching that is required for proper road drainage. This also would take considerable yard frontage from homes that are already too close to the road.

With the exception of an occasional treatment of cold-patch, Pleasant Lake Road has not been re-paved since it was built in the late 1950's. Prior to that, the road had been gravel and was raised considerably to provide proper drainage.

Widening will take the road to 30 feet from its current 22-foot width. Acknowledging the need for repairing and resurfacing the road, Mottice said he would like to see it widened in a less invasive manner.

"Why can't they dig down about 18 inches on each side of the road and put down an asphalt strip for the sides of the current road to rest against?" he asked. "The road could be resurfaced over that without the unnecessary ditching the road commission is proposing."

"The drainage must have been sufficient all these years, the road has held up remarkably well. There is no need for the decimation of the roadway."

The project would cost $2-3 million, with 80 percent of it coming from federal funds. The remaining 20 percent will come from local sources. According to the Road Commission, the road could be repaved for $300,000 to $400,000.

Township Supervisor Gary Blades said that he would check the status of the situation at the next Road Commission meeting. At that point, the board will decide how to become involved.

The speculation has been that this is an issue about gravel trucks. Mottice insists it's not.

Wider roads will bring more traffic, higher speeds and more noise, he said. Most importantly, he and all the people who signed the petition so far, feel that it's about preserving the rural character of Sharon Township.

Anyone who wishes to sign the petition opposing the widening of Pleasant Lake Road, can call Mottice at 428-7717.

Big dreams payoff in 'kash'

■ Reading and the Arts to benefit from proceeds of annual Kiwanis raffle.

By Marsha Johnson Chartrand
Staff Writer

Many of the best ideas and best projects begin with the question, "Wouldn't it be nice if ...?"

After taking a tour of the outdated equipment on the Klager playground, the PTO thought it would be nice if they had a safe, new play structure on the school grounds.

The baseball teams needed new batting cages and the Athletic Boosters said it would be nice if someone could help with their already overextended finances.

The music programs really needed new pianos. Wouldn't it be nice if they could get good-quality instruments?

But who would finance these projects?

Enter the Kiwanis of Manchester. For the third straight year, they have answered the question, "Wouldn't it be nice ...?" with an enthusiastic "yes."

The Kiwanis Krazy Kash Knight raffle has put the fun back in fund-raising in the Manchester community. For two years, they have promoted an evening of good food and good fun, and made money for a good cause at the same time.

The chosen focus for this year's raffle is "Reading and the Arts."

And the arts program in Manchester Community Schools will be one of the next beneficiaries of the community's generosity.

An art kiln will provide new variety to the art programs in all three schools will be purchased with some of the proceeds of the raffle.

"We are super grateful to the Kiwanis, this is much sooner than we had expected," art teacher Marianne Sachs said.

"It can expand the arts programs for more choices for the students in all three schools," she added.

Sachs said that the addition of a new perspective will benefit the students, especially at the high school, as previously to take a workshop or class in clay design would mean a trip outside of town.

"Manchester really needs this," she said. "Our seniors really would have relished this opportunity but there are many others who will benefit."

Manchester student in ambassador program

■ Ken Schwab will travel to Australia this summer

By Marsha Johnson Chartrand
Staff Writer

Manchester High School sophomore Ken Schwab will join a delegation of 40 high school students from around the area on a People to People Student Ambassador visit to Australia this summer.

Schwab was selected on the basis of nominations and is chosen by People to People to represent his community and nation based on a personal interview with members of a screening committee. He is currently attending orientation meetings to learn more about Australia before leaving on or about July 1.

"The person who nominated me was anonymous," Schwab said, "but I am very thankful to that person for giving me this wonderful opportunity."

He said he enjoys traveling and he and his family have often talked of visiting Australia in particular, as it is a place that has intrigued him for a long time.

"But it never seemed to happen," he said. "So when this opportunity came up, it was our whole family's decision to have me go and see what Australia is like - because my family may never get to see it."

The son of Larry and Diane

Schwab of Freedom Township. Ken also has a younger sister, Kristina, a seventh-grader at Ackerson Middle School.

People to People has been sending student ambassadors to other countries since 1963. During the three-week visit to Australia, the southeastern Michigan group will learn about the government, economy and culture of Australia through activities such as briefings with industry and trade officials, site visits to the headquarters of international organizations, discussions with local leaders, and meetings with youth clubs.

The delegation will travel to Sydney, Cairns and the Great Barrier Reef. As part of their overseas experience, student ambassadors will have home visits with host families, where they will be included in everyday activities. This enables the students to gain a first hand understanding of the ways people live and work in other cultures.

The group will also have an "outback" farm stay that will enable them to experience rural Australia with people who have spent generations as ranchers.

"I've always liked traveling a lot," Schwab said. "After high school I think I would like to take a little bit of time and travel around, before following in my dad's footsteps to become a master electrician."

"I would love to play for a college football team, depending on how good I am, but I would also like to learn a skilled trade."

In high school so far, Schwab has participated in vocational skills classes including shop and drafting, as well as currently holding an after-school job at Advanced Industries in Freedom Township.

"They have taught me lots of new and creative ways to build things, making measurements, and welding," Schwab said. "The people there are all great; it's like a big family."

He says he hopes that after his experience of traveling to Australia, he can bring back some knowledge of another country and culture to his community.

"I'd like to bring it back to the high school, and be able to tell them what I've learned about the people and places in Australia," he said. "When you go on this trip it's more of a project. Hopefully by getting the project accomplished, it will also help me to gain some of the credits I'll need to graduate from high school."

Following a bon voyage picnic on June 28, the group, including students from Clinton, Onsted, Pittsford, Deerfield as well as Schwab, representing Manchester, will prepare to leave for their three-week adventure in Australia.

In the meanwhile, as he con-

Ken Schwab will travel to Australia with the People to People program as a student ambassador.

tinues to attend orientation meetings and study background material prior to his visit. Schwab is also selling raffle tickets to help fund his trip.

"We are encouraged to get sponsors, but it is not required," he explained. "The raffle ticket sales will help me raise money for certain expenditures."

He also would welcome donations from local businesses or individuals that are interested in supporting this venture.

"It is an opportunity to represent your country," he said. "I'm just hoping to do a good job of representing Manchester, Michigan."

Ollie's shoots - and scores - with Coliseum Pizzeria

■ Facility will be open year around with activities and camps.

By Marsha Johnson Chartrand
Staff Writer

A familiar name and face in Manchester will soon be well known around Chelsea, too.

Ollie's Main Street Pizza is expanding its reach.

Owner Chris Moyle announced last week that a new branch called "Ollie's Coliseum Pizza" would be opening within two months at Chelsea's new Arctic Coliseum.

Adding to their same locally famous menu of pizzas, grinders and salads, Ollie's also will have a snack bar on site at the coliseum serving hot dogs, nachos, popcorn and soda.

Home delivery of their standard menu items will be a hallmark of Ollie's service to the Chelsea area.

Currently, Ollie's has a booth at the coliseum serving snacks. When construction of the new restaurant is completed they will occupy approximately 3,000 square feet of area with seating overlooking the north rink.

Moyle said he is excited about the new opportunity the coliseum is offering, not only to his business, but also to the surrounding community.

As the parent of skaters, he obviously welcomes a community arena where they can practice and hone their skills.

"This has been great fun already," Moyle said. "And we'll get in on all the fun, all the action."

Moyle said that people already have been calling to look for jobs in the Chelsea restaurant. "I shouldn't have any problem staffing this store," he said with a chuckle.

Currently the pizzas being served in the Chelsea location are made in Manchester and sold from a corner booth during the events and open hockey.

"For a while we were doing it without any electricity, so it seems easy now," Moyle said. The kiosk sells coffee, hot cocoa, pizza and, during Saturday morning events, doughnuts.

Of Moyle's three children, his youngest daughter, Kendra, 10, is a competitive skater who competes all over the eastern United States. Kendra hopes to attend Nationals again this year, and as a former medallist has a good chance of reaching her eventual goal of the Olympics. The Arctic Coliseum will be an important aspect of Kendra's training.

"Although, right now we are really squeezing in figure skating between all the hockey," he said.

John Stansik and Ken Brandt of Plymouth, who currently own a single-sheet arena in that area, own the Arctic Coliseum.

"They were looking to expand and build more rinks," said Don Wright, general manager of the coliseum and the Chelsea High School hockey coach. "They were looking in this general area and learned that Bob Daniels had acreage available behind the lumber yard."

"This is a great location, so close to I-94 and serving a lot of communities."

Construction started last summer on the arena and it now has been open for a couple of months. Although it is still under construction, things are going well.

"When people want the ice, you have to be ready," Wright said. "Our locker rooms are open and we have hockey teams renting ice - each weeknight we have both sheets rented pretty much solid from 5 or 6 p.m. to 10 p.m. "Saturday and Sunday, most days, we have people on the ice from 8 a.m. to 10 or 11 p.m. Those are our 'prime time hours.'"

The coliseum has hosted one tournament so far and has more scheduled in the coming weeks. Plus, the north arena is the home ice to the Chelsea High School hockey team, which provides them with some of their biggest events.

Last week's Chelsea-Dexter match up saw 1,000 spectators at the Arctic Coliseum.

"They filled the stands; they were three deep standing along the windows, and they filled the upstairs," Wright said.

"It was great."

Open skating is held on a regular basis for both figure skaters and power skaters and has been well attended by people from all the local communities, Wright said.

"In Chelsea, there is not a community center per se; most things are at the high school, so this is a nice added feature for the community. We have a lot of participation in all of our programs so far."

Learn-to-skate has been popular at the arena as well as "Learn to play hockey" classes offered through the Chelsea Hockey Association.

Wright and Jeff Daniels started the hockey association this fall and for the first year it has gone well, he said.

"We have 90 to 100 kids in the first session, and about 180 have enrolled in our first two learn-to-skate programs," he added.

The association also offers adult learn-to-skate classes and advanced figure skating classes. Power skating, stick handling for hockey players, and other skill training is offered by the hockey association.

The Youth Hockey Association has about 200 participants from Chelsea and the surrounding area, and Wright said that a cooperative varsity team from the Manchester, Grass Lake, Tecumseh, and Stockbridge areas could become a reality in the near future.

"With each program we are offering, we have partnered with the surrounding community education or recreation programs, and it has been real nice," Wright said.

The future concession and restaurant and a game area flank the spacious lobby and entry of the Arctic Coliseum. The offices for the hockey association and for Carrie Keil, the skating instructor, will be constructed as soon as the restaurant is completed and a pro shop will be opening shortly. The Hockey Stop pro shop is the largest of the company's three stores with 1700 square feet of floor space.

The two NHL-sized rinks are glassed in and easy to see as you walk through the door into the lobby. Down the central hallway are roomy locker areas for the clubs and teams that use the arena.

"We've had great compliments on the spaciousness of the locker rooms," Wright said.

A second level overlooking the rinks will provide 10,000 square feet of lease space for business.

"A fitness center and a sports rehabilitation program have both expressed interest in the space, but negotiations are still under way," he said. "No deals have been set yet."

One feature unique to the Arctic Coliseum is Skill Tech, a facility developed by former USA national hockey coach Bob Mancini, now a scout with the Edmonton Oilers NHL team.

"Bob traveled in Europe and noticed that they were developing some very skilled hockey teams," Wright explained. "He learned that they were doing a lot of off-ice training. He brought the idea back here and was looking for a place to partner with."

Looking at the largely empty room, there isn't much to see. Some weight equipment on one end and scuffed mats along a wall belie the utility of this room.

"Everything that happens here is hockey-specific," Wright said. "We have weight training, of course, but that isn't the

SENIOR CITIZEN NEWS

February greetings, and heartfelt thanks to all of the super volunteers and supporters of the Manchester Area Senior Citizens. I salute each one of you.

The dedication and caring that each volunteer exhibits is certainly a "work of heart" and deserving of praise. The success of our organization is totally dependent upon the generosity and graciousness of precious individuals with big hearts.

The list for January reads as follows: Marion Ahrens, Kelly Blaine, Maynard Blossom, Rubena Boelter, Shirley Bondy, Marian Creason, Naomi Eisele, Margaret Horning, Jan Howell, Jane and Merrill Korth, Jean Little, TV Ludwick, the Rev. Faye McKinstry, Mike Miner, Howard and Lenora Parr, Shirley Roller, Mildred Stoll, Ted Tapping, Mae Sellers, Hilma Tervo, Evie and Webb Seegert and Ruby VanSickle. If you see any of these special people around town this month, be sure and greet them with a big smile and tell them how much they are appreciated.

We also heartily commend everyone who supports the seniors by attending the Tuesday and Thursday noon meals at Emanuel. Your continuing support is appreciated.

Faithfully, Dorothy Willingham.

Thursday: Senior Council meeting begins at 9:30 a.m. at the center. Come join your officers and board in making decisions. Work on the March-April calendar begins at 10:30 a.m. While back at Emanuel, Tod Armentrout is preparing paprika chicken for the noon senior meal (and it's the extras that appeal to us!) Come join us if you are a Manchester area resident 55 or older.

The meals are held each Tuesday and Thursday except when school is called off due to weather. Husband and I went down along with Clay and Jenny on Jan. 30 and were the only ones who didn't know school had been called off. They didn't know the buses weren't running, and neither did we bother to look out the window. Ho hum.

Friday: A 6 p.m. pickup will take you to Saline for the senior-sponsored card party. Sign the book to go or call Mildred Stoll at 428-7828 for pickup by bus.

Monday: Shopping at Adrian is the trip for the day and pickup begins at 9:30 a.m. Call Rubena Boelter at 428-8655 or sign the book at meals.

TV LUDWICK

SENIOR CITIZENS NEWS

Tuesday: Swiss steak will fill us today! Call either Kelly at 428-8359 ahead, or call Tod at 428-7630 between 9 and 10 a.m. on meal days for your reservation to eat.

Wednesday: Happy Valentines

Day! Folk who are 65 or older will be at yoga class at the Methodist Church beginning at 9:30 a.m. Come join us - it's good to get back in shape after a while off. This is a free class and so enjoyable. Then, we may put on a pound or two at Emanuel's monthly meal, which begins at 4:30 p.m. Call Rubena to be picked up by bus to attend.

Thursday: Pork roast today at meals for senior citizens. Come try them, they're good and priced at just $3.25, you can't beat that!

If you are interested in flu shots, contact Rubena Boelter at 428-8655. You can also pay her for the trip to Turkeyville before the March 6 deadline.

Midlife challenges don't have to be problematic

They say this time of year can be depressing. Grey skies, a lack of sunshine, and being unable to see the ground for months on end can be hard to deal with.

I agree. But you know what is really depressing?

It's the day you receive a catalogue called, "As We Change" in the mail.

I had somewhat become accustomed to the idea of getting older, and all of the accompanying changes thereby entailed. Or at least I thought I had.

But I didn't think I was that old, for crying out loud. I didn't think I was that desperate.

Obviously, the catalogue authority has other ideas.

Actually, the cover isn't too bad. It shows a woman "about my age" taking time to stop and smell the flowers. What a lovely, spring-like thought.

But I opened up the magazine and was confronted with the awful truth.

I need lots of "revolutionary vitamins" to help "women like me" feel better emotionally and physically.

Women like me are too fat. I

MARSHA JOHNSON CHARTRAND

am told we need a specially-designed swimsuit to make us "look 10 lbs. lighter in 10 seconds!" Or perhaps some "cool and comfortable shaping." That's quite a euphemism for what my mother used to call "a girdle."

To remedy these problems I will, of course, want to be working out and have the opportunity of looking a size smaller while I am doing so. A size smaller than what, I wonder. As I work out and lose weight, while looking a size smaller all the time, might I eventually disappear?

Obviously one's skin needs a lot of care at this time of life. Covering little imperfections, restoring vital enzymes, and adding a collagen moisturizer for the eye and lip area are among the miracles the catalogue offers.

And just so I can check out all the aforementioned little imperfections with my failing eyesight, I also can purchase a Super 5X magnifying mirror (made of optical quality glass).

Evidently, I can begin to expect to have some delicately-worded undergarment concerns. We won't even get into that.

There are other, even more embarrassing things to be found in this catalogue that I can't bring myself to mention in a family newspaper.

On the reverse side of the order form in the center of the magazine is found a handy list of symptoms followed by the list of "helpful products."

The dazzling array of symptoms include hot flashes, night sweats, mood swings, fuzzy thinking, hormone health, bone health, weight management, cellulite, sleep disturbances, stress, nervousness, fatigue, low energy, dry skin, spider veins, uneven pigmentation ... I can hardly wait for all of this to kick in. I had never even heard of some of these midlife symptoms before.

Reading through this, I had to wonder how our mothers, our grandmothers, and our great-grandmothers managed to get through their 40s without the "As We Change" catalogue. Without all the helpful products designed to make our mid-life more comfortable—not to mention more expensive.

Perhaps it was because they didn't have the constant reminders. Perhaps it was because these changes were expected, accepted and treated as somewhat normal.

Women weren't expected to be eternally young and lovely.

There is a different kind of beauty to older women that is actually unattainable to someone younger.

A couple of years ago, a friend came to a gathering where she met up with some other acquaintances she hadn't seen in a long time. Since then, she had stopped coloring her hair and was wearing glasses instead of contacts.

Having recently turned 50, she was not entirely flattered to be told she "looked like a wise woman."

It seems kind of sad to me—things that used to be thought of as part of the normal course of life are now considered problems that have to be solved. Especially if it happens to women.

In all honesty, I think the person who told my friend that she looked like a wise woman meant to say that she looked great. And it sounded like a compliment to me.

When my turn comes, I hope that I won't mind being considered "wise" instead of "crazy."

But I didn't think I was that old, for crying out loud.

Good sportsmanship a hallmark of a great team

Good sportsmanship is the thing that takes sports from fun athletics into the realm of spine tingling inspiration. Two performances last week epitomize both the good and the bad of sportsmanship.

When the Chelsea High School basketball team visited conference rival Tecumseh on Jan. 26, the pre-game tackle of Chelsea player Tony Scheffler by an Indians fan should have been a warning that the night would not go well.

That fan was ejected from the game to a standing ovation from the student section.

Tecumseh has a nickname for its gym. They call it the "Jungle." On that Friday night it was an appropriate moniker. From the tip-off, fans from both schools traded taunts and even obscenities.

By contrast, the Manchester basketball team traveled to Napoleon on Jan. 30 for a conference showdown to determine the league leader. Both teams went into the game undefeated in conference play and both with winning records. It was fair to say that fans could expect a really good basketball game.

COLLEEN O'NEILL

And they got one. While the gym rocked with the noise of the fans from both sides, almost 100 percent of the fan support was play-related rather than personal. There were no obscenities and only once did the Napoleon student section sound petulant with a chant of "air ball, air ball."

For the most part all fans chanted in good old-fashioned support of their team. Maybe they chanted "defense," especially late in the game, but mostly they simply stood and cheered when a beautiful shot found its mark, when a shot was blocked or when good defense caused a turnover. There was loud crowd noise on both sides of the court for every foul or non-call. One side cheered, the other groaned. But there were no obscenities or name-calling.

Throughout a game in which Napoleon led by as much as 10 points, the Manchester players stayed calm, focused and in the game. The Dutch were down by three at the end of the first quarter, down by six at the half and down by seven after three. It wasn't until late in the fourth quarter that Manchester took their first lead with a 41-40 score with 4:56 to go in the game.

The final two minutes of the game saw innumerable lead changes. The noise in the gym was deafening but there were no taunts. Dutch fans cheered for their players and screamed when they scored. Pirate fans cheered for their players and screamed when they scored. Fans from both teams stayed focused on the game.

In the end it was the Dutch who came out victorious. With just seconds on the clock and down by one point Manchester had to inbound the ball from mid-court. They ran a set play to Brett Maki whose shot was off to the left.

When the rebound fell into Beau Bergner's hands under the basket he just laid it in, barely beating the buzzer. While fans on the court hounded coaches and players, the Napoleon Pirates quietly lined up to shake hands with the Cascades Conference leaders. And they waited. And they waited.

Eventually Dutch players were able to break free from the mob of fans and work their way to center court where only some of the Pirates still waited. Those that did shook hands with those who were left.

Then both teams left the court. No shouts, no jeers, no obscenities. Just a good game, well played, well cheered and an excellent example of how good sportsmanship can take a game to the spine-tingling level.

For the most part all fans chanted in good old-fashioned support of their team.

Little darlin' it's been a long, cold, lonely winter

I heard that this wonderful little creature, namely the Groundhog, did see its own shadow, and now we are faced with six more weeks of winter. I was told today when I was discussing this tradition to think not that we have six weeks of winter left, but to think we have only six weeks until spring.

Thinking that way actually does make it a little more tolerable and pleasant. I know that each day is special, each day should be considered a blessing, and I realize that this is so, but oh boy do I really want to see the sun!

I have been reading lately that it has long been known that sunlight, as it peaks and ebbs over the year, affects the seasonal activities of many animals, most noticeably those that hibernate.

JANET LARABELL

Less obvious is how those same changes in sunlight affect human beings. It is known that as winter approaches and the hours of daylight get shorter, approximately 2 to 3 percent of the population begins to experience changes in mood. These can be as simple as tiredness and a desire to stay in bed, or as debilitating as depression.

This condition is known as "seasonal affective disorder" or SAD. The psychiatric community officially recognized SAD as a clinical condition in 1987.

It is also common in immigrants who move to different hemispheres, like me moving from moving from Australia to the winter of Michigan. I won't go as far as to say it is "depressing," but my mood certainly does lift when the sun peeks out for a few hours.

I don't know if anyone keeps statistics on how much sunshine we actually have experienced the month of January.

but it really seems to have been scarce. Although I am from such a warm climate I had really never "craved" the sun, but having visited here last June, and knowing what Manchester is like in summer, I just can't wait!

I can hear my Mom saying, "Janet, don't wish your time away." And I understand that. It's just that I keep hearing the Beatles' lyrics in my head. "Little darling, it's been a long cold lonely winter, Little darling, it feels like years since it's been here."

Here comes the sun, here comes the sun, And I say it's all right."

Oh boy, do I really want to see the sun!

ANNIVERSARY

Maynard and Lila Leach, married on Feb. 15, 1941, will celebrate 60 years of marriage at an open house for family and friends, to be held at the home of Roger and Sue Leach, 16776 English Road, from 2 to 5 p.m. on Sunday, Feb. 18.

Mr. and Mrs. Leach have four children, Lavern (Karen), Roger (Sue) Janice (Don) and Kathy (Jim). They have nine grandchildren - Lisa, Angela, Sherri, Dawn, Tracey, Brian, Robert, Thomas and David; and 12 great-grandchildren - Justin, Chris, Andy, Anthony, Nicholas, Katy, Matthew, Mason, Nathan, Jacob, Evie and Darcey, and two step-great-grandchildren, Jessica and Steven.

The couple feels blessed to have their family all living within 50 miles and able to get together often.

clay projects."

Carrie Resh, who teaches art at the elementary and middle-school level, was the teacher who first voiced the "Wouldn't it be nice ...?" question.

"We know we would like to get a digital kiln," Resh said. "It shuts itself off and is safer than the old kilns where you had to stick around for hours and change the heat settings."

Resh, too, said that a kiln would allow the students to do a wider variety of projects.

The plan is for the kiln to be located at the high school and preparations for its arrival are already under way. A hallway between the art room and the shop is being added as part of the school's renovation program. The space will be ready for the kiln's installation once it arrives in the late spring.

"I think we'll get the kiln we need with the capacity for about 30 pots at a time," Sachs said.

The program also received a donation from the asset-building program through a Community Resource Center grant, and that will go toward getting the accompanying furniture and shelves that will be needed to augment the kiln.

"We're very excited about it," Sachs said. "The students have expressed a desire to do clay projects, as they've never done them from grade school on."

"This will be a great opportunity for them, and we hope eventually to have a separate room for ceramics in the future, if a new school is in the future."

"In the meantime we'll have our kiln and we'll proceed with our ceramics venture."

To help raise funds for the ongoing expenses of the ceramics projects, Sachs said that the art classes are planning a painted chair auction to be held in conjunction with spring honors night.

Resh has discovered that dreaming can be worth while. "Carrie's efforts have been fruitful," Sachs said.

"We are trying to use everything we have to the students' best advantage."

Man still hopes to raise funds for stocking River Rasin with fish

■ Jars are gone but project continues.

By Marsha Johnson Chartrand
Staff Writer

In the fall of 1998, Tim King had an idea.

Having grown up in the city but able to visit and fish the River Rasin with his grandfather, King recalled the days when the river running through Manchester had been filled with a wide variety of fish. Over the years the number and variety had waned and King's idea was to restore some native species of fish to the river.

As a father, King wanted to pass on the tradition of fishing along the river to his son, Kyle. He obtained a permit from the Department of Natural Resources and permission from the village to raise money for the project. Jars at different locations around town filled up with donations and by the spring of 1999, King had raised enough money to stock the river with 550 blue gill, 150 hybrid sunfish and 2,100 channel catfish.

And on a cool day in May, King and his family, along with donors from the community, came to watch the Spring Valley Trout Farm place the fish into the River Rasin.

But King wasn't done yet. He extended his permit from the DNR and left his donation jars around town. He established a bank account at United Bank and Trust to hold the funds for further river stocking.

But in the past two years the collections have slowed down. "We're up to about $400 right now, and I've collected all the jars except for the one at Keith's Barber Shop," King said last week.

"I'm going to look into new avenues of fund-raising. We have done the collection jars for about two years and it's simply wearing down."

Once again he has renewed his permit for another year and is attempting to locate sponsors for his project to raise enough money for further stocking.

He has attempted to contact conservation groups and sportsmen's groups throughout the county.

"The donations and support from the Manchester community has been outstanding," he said. "But the pennies and nickels and dimes just aren't adding up like they used to."

King says he still wants to put walleye in the river, but there just isn't enough money.

"If we ordered about $500 worth of fish, then the transportation would be waived for delivery," he said.

That would be a substantial savings as the walleye would be coming from Imlay City.

King said he figures 500 walleye would be a good number to stock the river and depending upon the prices they would purchase a mixture of young and adult fish.

While he considers new fund-raising ideas the bank account remains open and King said he would be happy to accept donations of any amount. He can be reached at 734-480-7168. Although he holds no tax-exempt status, he is willing to give receipts for individual and corporate donations.

"One thing I found was that everyone was so nice and enthusiastic about the project," he said.

In fact, he enjoyed working with people in Manchester so much that he hopes to soon bring his family here so Kyle and a newly-expected child will be able to attend school in the Manchester district.

"Kyle loves to go fishing," he said. "Last week we came out to visit my grandfather and he wanted to go even though the river is frozen."

King hopes that either in early June or in September and October, when the water temperatures are good for hatcheries to stock the rivers, that the funds will be there to realize the remainder of his dream.

Looking Back

The Manchester Enterprise Jan. 31, 1901

The "January thaw" seems to be when illness runs rampant even in this new century. Things were no different 100 years ago. Even the hogs seem to have been affected by the change in weather this week in 1901.

Although the previous week found publisher Mat Blosser fighting off his own bugs, his sense of humor had returned, evidenced by his tongue-in-cheek comment about the division of a church in Benton Harbor.

Michigan news items

Algonac is now lighted by electricity.

One case of smallpox is reported at Alma.

Hog cholera is creating havoc in the vicinity of Hanover.

Reports to the state board of health by representative physicians in active general practice in different parts of the state indicate that influenza, bronchitis, neuralgia, rheumatism and tonsillitis, in the order named, caused the most sickness in Michigan during the past week. Cerebrospinal meningitis was reported present at 4 places; whooping cough, 9; measles, 16; smallpox, 25; diphtheria 34; typhoid fever, 89; scarlet fever, 104; consumption, 175.

There were 79 divorces granted in Jackson County last year.

The question, "to dance or not to dance," has resulted in the closing of one of Benton Harbor's churches. The congregation divided on the question, and as a result the pastor left and services are no longer being held in the building. It is hoped the building will not be converted into a dance hall.

Mrs. Martha Todd, colored, of Marcellus, recently celebrated her 106th birthday.

Entertainment A Century Ago

Florence Rockwell will be Henry Miller's leading woman.

Margaret Fitzpatrick has been signed for Chaucer Olcott's company.

William Collier intends to start next season in H.M. Blossom, Jr.'s "Checkers," dramatized probably by the actor himself.

Paul Kester is in high favor now, having two stars like Julia Marlow and Ada Rehan using his plays, which is not always the luck of a dramatist.

It is said that Lisle Leigh will star next season, plans for her tour having been completed by a prominent manager, and she promises to present a strong play.

Stage people have all kinds of queer pets for traveling companions, but Melita Brice, one of the new members of "The Sign of the Cross" company, probably has the most unusual combination of any actress. It consists of a pug dog and a parrot.

Real estate transfers

Jas. B. Raymond and wife to George H. Smyth et al., Sharon, $1,200.

Edgar S. Hagaman and wife to A.J. Waters, Manchester, $430.

Lambert Kleinschmidt to Aug. Kleinschmidt, Freedom, $1. Margaret Jones et al., to Buel Johnson, Bridgewater, $600.

Advertisements

Attention is called to the advertisement of John F. Bennett's fish market. He is an old fish dealer and is here to stay.

You miss it if you neglect to read Lehn & Hardenburg's advertisement every week. This week they have a ripper.

We were too sick to change the Freese-Whittelsey Co. advertisement last week, but we did it this week, as you will observe.

Don't lay this paper down until you read Jaeger's advertisement about his inventory sale.

Hagaman tells in a new advertisement why it is better to buy harness at a harness shop.

Brief News items

On Sunday morning a 40-hour devotion will begin at St. Mary's church. Rev. Fr. McGlaughlin will be assisted by several priests from neighboring parishes.

A fall of snow on Saturday brought out the sleighs and cutters and the streets were quite lively with sleighriders Sunday afternoon. The sleighing throughout the country is pretty good.

Judge Watkins took testimony here last Saturday in the case of Mrs. Wm. Henzie, who resides on the turnpike in the southern part of this township. She was adjudged insane and will be sent to the Pontiac asylum.

Al. Kiebler began preparations for cutting ice on the upper pond. Monday morning and the first thing they did was to give the horse that was drawing the scraper a cold bath. There were exciting times for a while to save the animal from drowning but they succeeded.

A new electric road, the D.A.A. & J has been formed out of the D.Y. & A.A.R.V. with Alfred Russell of the Wabash as a new director. Capital stock, $2,600,000. They also own the Saline spur and we hope that they will build it on through Manchester.

We learn that there is some talk of straitening the road that now angles across the farm owned by Kapp & Waters, south of town. One plan is to open the road from east of Sam Palmer's on a direct line coming out on the north and south road in front of Mrs. Rushton's residence.

Looking Back is a periodic feature reprinting articles from the Manchester Enterprise from 100 years ago. It appears through the kind cooperation of the Manchester District Library and is compiled by Marsha Johnson Chartrand.

Understanding The Law

with Leonard K. Kitchen, J.D. and Thomas L. Stringer, J.D.

WHEN INJURIES OCCUR ON YOUR PROPERTY

If someone were to be injured on your property, your liability would hinge upon why that person was there. For instance, if the injured person were a customer, or "business invitee," you may be liable if you did not act reasonably to protect that person even if you did not know about the danger. If the person were a social guest or door-to-door salesperson, a "licensee," you most probably would be liable only if you did not protect that person from a danger that you knew existed. If the person were on your property without your permission, however, you would probably not be held responsible because you generally do not owe a duty of care to a trespasser. Property and business owners must take certain precautions to protect visitors from injury, and themselves from personal injury suits. To discuss your legal concerns, and learn some successful ways to safeguard your assets, call the LAW OFFICES OF KITCHEN & STRINGER at 426-4695 to schedule a complimentary consultation. You'll find our offices conveniently located at 3249 Broad Street, in Dexter. We also handle cases involving wills, and estate probate, business, real estate, and family law.

HINT: A swimming pool presents special liability problems because, under the attractive nuisance doctrine, landowners must take reasonable steps to protect children who may come in contact with dangerous man-made objects.

whole thing."

In the Skill Tech room, players can practice shooting, passing, stick handling and work on their skating slide. Work on muscle development for hockey-specific skills is an important aspect of what happens in the room.

"This is wonderful, and we're one of the only rinks around here that has any of this type of facility," he said.

Every youth team in the Chelsea Hockey Association gets Skill Tech as part of their skills development.

Other than the rinks themselves, the showcase of the Arctic Coliseum is the Chelsea Bulldogs Hockey Team locker room. A spacious and self-sufficient facility, Wright says that the team is really fortunate — and they know it.

"The players know what they have: they do the upkeep and take pride in it," he said.

Wright says that the entire surrounding community will benefit from the coliseum.

"We want to provide a lot for the community," he said. "So far our programs have been well received by all of the schools."

"This type of facility brings things that you would not typically see in the smaller communities."

Indoor track season under way

Craig Vitale, ex-cross country and track coach from Manchester High School is once again coaching a combined Manchester/Columbia Center indoor track club. The club, named the Outsiders, began training on Jan. 8 and has had some competition.

Runners from Manchester include Damien Evans, Florian "Octo" Forster, Holly and Kathryn Horodeczny, Dan Schneider, Eric Walter, Ben Wojtas and Andy Burke.

The team will compete today at the University of Michigan. Competition begins at 6:30 p.m.

Wrestling season winding down

The wrestling season will soon be ending. The conference meet will be held Friday at Michigan Center starting at 4:30.

Post season competition will begin next Thursday with team districts at Clinton. Competition will begin at 6 p.m.

Spring sports not far away

All spring sport athletes should receive their physicals in the next month. Baseball and softball tryouts will start at the beginning of March. There will be middle school and high school track for any students who want to go out for those sports.

Manchester Athletics is looking for a varsity assistant coach and will need one or two athletic aides at the middle school level.

Interested candidates can apply at the athletic office or send a letter of application. The aide position is an hourly position and either one or two will be hired, depending on the number of athletes who come out.

Player profile

nominees accepted

The Manchester Enterprise would like to profile one student athlete each week. If you are a coach, teacher or counselor and would like to nominate a player who exemplifies the spirit of athletics both on and off the playing field, contact Colleen O'Neill at 433-0343 or by e-mail at oschoick@prodigy.net.

EMU to host girls' basketball shootout

Blue Chip Girls' basketball shootout is coming to Eastern Michigan University on Feb. 18. Registration is between 8 and 8:30 a.m. with games beginning at 9 a.m.

This one-day shootout is a high exposure event designed for the student athlete who aspires to play at the college level.

Dutchmen stun Napoleon at buzzer

■ Varsity basketball pull out miracle win.

By Colleen O'Neill

Special Writer

When Manchester defeated Napoleon 49-48 last Tuesday they took sole possession of first place in the Cascades Conference. The Dutch now hold a one-game lead over Napoleon.

"It wasn't exactly what I expected by any means," Manchester coach Mike Quinn said. "I didn't expect that 49 points would have been enough to win."

To emphasize his point, Quinn pointed out that the Friday before his showdown with Napoleon, the Pirates defeated Hanover Horton in part by scoring 53 points on three-pointers and free throws alone.

But 49 points worked for Manchester on Tuesday.

"It was a heck of a defensive effort," Quinn said. "It was not a great offense effort, but an unbelievable win."

Both teams started out slowly in the first half until Napoleon player Greg Dutton caught fire. Dutton hit four three-pointers in the first half, helping the Pirates hold a lead over Manchester at all times.

In the locker room, Quinn said he talked about not leaving Dutton.

"We told them, if you are guarding him, don't help," Quinn said. "Don't leave him to double the ball. We forced him outside of his range in the second half."

It worked. Dutton did not score a single point in the second half.

Still, after three quarters the Dutch had only scored 28 points and trailed Napoleon 35-28 going into the final quarter.

"We didn't quit," Quinn said. "That all comes from the fact that they went over there with a specific purpose. At no point did it faze them."

Quinn credited several factors for his team's success.

Not only has the group played together since grade school but also they have spent the last two and a half years focused on just one thing.

"We put a lot of time and effort every day into not playing in big games, but winning big games," Quinn said. "They were 100 percent focused on what was going on on the floor."

Only four Manchester players scored in the game with Jeff Punches leading the team with 17 points. He also grabbed seven rebounds. Brett Maki scored 16 points and Beau Bergner and Brent Leverett each scored rebounded the Pirates, they did not fare so well from the field. In fact, Manchester made just 30 percent of their shots in the first three quarters. They improved to 57 percent in the final quarter and, combined with rebounding it was enough to get the job done.

But after a slow start the Flying Dutchmen got strong, kept their focus, kept their composure and defeated Addison 71-59.

The score was only 8-4 after four minutes but then the Dutch got fired up and led 21-11 after the first quarter and 45-30 at the key part in the ball game."

Due to free throws the second half was extremely slow.

"It was a parade to the free throw line," Quinn said. "In the second half we shot 15 free throws, they shot 16 free throws."

"That really slowed the pace immensely."

Manchester players and coaches celebrate a last-second 49-48 win over Napoleon as the team moves solely in to the lead spot in the Cascades Conference.

eight points.

Bergner had a team high eight rebounds with the last being the most important, not just for getting the rebound but for putting it back up for the game-winning shot at the buzzer.

"All in all I felt like we played a pretty good ball game," Quinn said. "When you look at the fact that we had only 28 points in the first three quarters but we didn't quit."

Both teams struggled in key aspects of the game. Napoleon came into the game shooting 75 percent from the free throw line but made just 9-of-16 in the game.

Manchester took advantage of that weakness by making 10-of-12 free throws after shooting at just 55 percent for the season.

And though the Dutch out-

But Quinn was philosophical about his team's shooting percentages.

"It wasn't that we had bad shots," Quinn said. "You couldn't breathe out there. The defenses were stifling."

Added to that was the fact neither team was able to pull in offensive rebounds. Manchester got just 10 in the game and Napoleon only grabbed seven.

"That meant that when you did get a shot, it had better be good because you are going in the other direction," Quinn said.

After the big win, Quinn asked his players in practice what they were going to do Friday against Addison.

"We talked about it all week," Quinn said. "OK, we won on Tuesday, what are you going to do now?"

half. "We talked at the half," Quinn said. "If we could score 15 to 20 points in the second half, they would have a hard time catching us."

As it turned out, the Dutch only needed 14 points.

"It was a tremendous effort after that first four minutes," Quinn said. "In the next 12 minutes we scored 41 points."

For the night, Maki led the team with both a season and career high 24 points. He scored 18 in the first half.

Punches and Bergner each scored 14 points and Leverett had nine. Jacob Sawyer scored four points, Karl Schaible had three, Jon Miller two and Josh McCalla added one.

"Again we out-rebounded them," Quinn said. "That was a Maki, Punches and Sawyer all had six rebounds. Leverett had seven assists and Schaible and Leverett each had four steals, which doubled the output of Addison, who only had four steals as a team.

"All in all it was a good effort, a good win by our team," Quinn said. "Even when the game crawled to a snail's pace we kept our composure and we walked out with win."

The Dutch begin a three-game home stretch when they host Hanover Horton on Friday.

"By next week Friday we'll know where we are at with the league race," Quinn said. "Whether we really are the front runners or just pretenders, we'll know by next week Friday."

Manchester varsity volleyball got off to a slow start against Ann Arbor Gabriel Richard, losing the first game 9-15 but they ended up winning the match 15-7, 15-3.

"In the first game against Gabriel Richard their first server got 10 points in a row in the game," said Manchester coach Dan Roughton. "Then we got straightened out."

On Thursday the team traveled to Hanover Horton for a quick 6-15, 6-15 loss.

"In that game we had trouble hitting," Roughton said. "Amy Preston had 12 assists for 41 attempts. The girls just weren't hitting the ball in. We had the opportunities, we just didn't finish."

There were only 12 kills for the team and the Dutch scored only 12 points in both games.

On Saturday the varsity squad participated in the Springport Tournament and started the day by defeating Maple Valley 15-12, 15-7. They lost the second match to Columbia 8-15, 14-16 in a heartbreaker.

"We were winning 14-8 then one girl came in and served eight in a row," Roughton said. "That hurt."

The Dutch stumbled against East Jackson in a 9-15 loss before regaining their composure and winning the second game 17-15.

Kelli Randall led the team with 14 kills and 14 blocks. Cassie Clark had 11 kills while Preston had 37 assists and seven kills on the day. Natalie Weidmayer had 10 kills, two digs and two blocks. Brie Hyde had seven kills. And Jacky Palms had six aces. Dara Jose added seven kills and seven blocks.

"Everybody got to play," Roughton said.

The Dutch record now stands at 8-11-6 and they are in second place in the league with their only league loss to Hanover.

Manchester hosted Ann Arbor Greenhills on Tuesday and will host Michigan Center tonight at 6:30 for more league competition.

JV cagers bounce back from Napoleon loss, crush Addison

■ Team avenges Napoleon loss with a big win over Addison.

When the junior varsity basketball team lost 68-59 to Napoleon last Tuesday, the big story was an inability to make the shots.

"We couldn't really make anything," said Manchester coach Bryan Barnard. "We got pretty good shots but nothing would fall."

For the game the junior Dutch made only 41 percent of their free throws, after averaging 61 percent through the season. Worse yet, they made just 25 percent of their two-point field goals. The game was probably defined in the second quarter when Manchester only scored three points.

"You really can't do that and win," Barnard said. "We got out-rebounded and pretty much out-played. I don't know how we were within nine at the end."

Nate Smith led the team with 11 points while Jon Schaible and Craig Lane both scored 10. David Evilsizer added eight points, Nick Strobl seven, Kevin Walter six, Jordan Tallman four and Mike Coval scored three.

Lane also led the team with rebounds by pulling down 10.

"He played a really good game. He had had a lot of good shots that just missed, he just couldn't get them to fall," Barnard said. "Which was the story of the game for everybody."

The loss put the junior Dutch record at 5-2 in league.

For all their problems on Tuesday, the team bounced right back and crushed Addison on Friday night 83-65.

"We were up 47-24 at the half," Barnard said. "We played well. The press was effective and we started to make shots."

Strobl led all scorers with 31 points followed by Smith who had 21. Tallman added 10, Schaible nine, Evilsizer and Lane each scored five and Tyler

Harvey and Coval both sunk a free throw.

"Everybody scored and we played much better," Barnard said.

Strobl also led the team in rebounds with 15. Tallman pulled down 10 and overall stepped up his performance to cover the ailing Kevin Walter.

"He filled in really nicely there," Barnard said.

Schaible led the team with four assists and Strobl had two blocks. Smith had six steals while Schaible and Strobl each had five.

"We bounced back from our loss Tuesday which is good to see," Barnard said. "Hopefully we are back on track. Things are working pretty well."

With Walter out, Barnard was pleased with the contribution he got from every other player.

"Kevin is a starter," Barnard said. "While he was out a lot of guys stepped up."

The Junior Dutch have only one contest this week, a home game against Hanover Horton. In the first meeting between the two teams, Manchester lost, making it one of the team's two league losses.

"We are looking forward to that game on Friday," Barnard said.

Barnard and his team hope to avenge the earlier loss and add to their 6-2 league record.

JV volleyball split

Although the Manchester junior varsity volleyball team came out slow against Ann Arbor Gabriel Richard last Monday, it pulled together to win the match in three games, 11-15, 15-9, 15-13.

"Everyone got a chance to play," said Manchester coach Sarah Twietmeyer. "I even played all my freshmen."

In the first game Twietmeyer said she started her regulars but they got off to a slow start. After mixing things up by putting her subs in, the team came together and played solid taking the next two games.

"I put in Chelsea Render in the second game and she did a good job coming off the bench," Twietmeyer said. "Michelle Slocum had some great digs for us and kept the team going when they were down."

Twietmeyer was also pleased with the performances of sophomores Liz Okey and Christine

Fairbanks

"They were strong offensively and had some good kills for us in the game," Twietmeyer said.

On Thursday, the Junior Dutch visited notoriously tough Hanover Horton.

"We lost 8-15, 8-15," Twietmeyer said. "The first game we were ahead 8-3 and then their next server came up and served 11 straight points on us."

In fact, the Dutch struggled with serve receives and passing.

"To start we played pretty well, one server came up we couldn't pass the ball, couldn't get a break," Twietmeyer said. "Julia Steinaway did a great job hustling and tried to get to the ball even though the passes weren't great."

Manchester hosted Ann Arbor Greenhills this week and will host Michigan Center tonight. Both are teams the Dutch defeated pretty easily last year.

"I would think we would do well," Twietmeyer said.

Tomorrow the team will participate in the New Boston tournament.

Wrestlers look ahead to league meet

By Marsha Johnson Chartrand

Last Wednesday the wrestlers traveled to East Jackson where they met a group that was hungrier than they were.

"We lost a close one, 44-31," Manchester coach Steve Vlcek said. "We gave them 12 points in voids, so we knew we had to wrestle well to come out on top."

Josh Tobias started the Dutch off with a big win against one of the Trojans' better wrestlers in a tough 4-2 match.

"This kid placed in the state a couple of years ago," Vlcek said. This gave Tobias his 20th win.

Will Slocum didn't wait too long before pinning his 18th opponent of the year. He did it in just 1:35.

Russ Cruz followed in Slocum's footsteps, leading the team with 22 season pins, taking just 1:03 to pin his match.

Josh Knouase had no opponent and earned a void.

Alex Kormendi came into the meet with a bad back, but put up a good match, beating his opponent 12-4.

"It took a lot of guts to wrestle hurt, but he did a good job," Vlcek said of Kormendi's team leading 28th win.

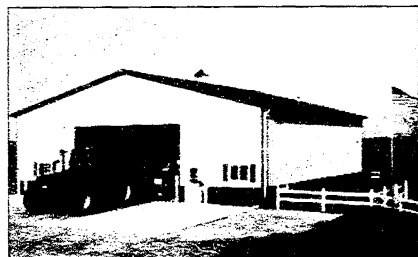

Heavyweight Todd Canter finished off the scoring with another fast pin in just 1:29. This was his 10th pin and 15th win of the season.

On Friday, the team travels to Michigan Center for the league meet. Wrestling begins at 4:30 p.m.

Vlcek hopes to have several league champs this year, hopefully matching or exceeding last year's total of four champs.

JV basketball team young but talented

■ Future looks bright for Junior Dutch.

By Colleen O'Neill
Special Writer

Even though junior varsity basketball coach Bryan Barnard has only two players back on his team from last year's squad his team is showing depth, experience and an ability to win games.

Together, the new and the old players have posted some impressive victories in racking up a 6-2 conference record and they have posted some lopsided scores.

The two returning players are sophomores Nate Smith and Nick Strobl.

"They are really the leaders that we have right now," Barnard said. "They are definitely a good pair to have as leaders."

"Barnard said that both bring great practice habits to the floor.

"I always tell the kids, you don't win the game on Tuesday and Friday, you win it in practice," Barnard said.

"They practice as hard as anyone I've ever had. They love the game, they are there early, they stay late."

As for playing, Strobl is the best on the team at rebounding.

"He takes up a lot of space," Barnard said. "He is real physical, strong."

Next to him, Smith brings a lot of energy to practice and games alike.

"He has a ton of energy," Barnard said. "He runs good defense, he runs the floor well. He penetrates, he gets in the lane, he's a scorer, he's got a scorer's mentality. He just has a good knack of knowing how to score points. He draws fouls, and he is a great free throw shooter. He's always going to get us some points."

Other sophomores include the versatile Craig Lane who can play small forward, power forward and center.

"He can play all three," Barnard said. "He's good on the glass, a good rebounder, he's strong kid. He plays hard."

Barnard compares Kevin Walter to Lane, another who can play the two forward spots and center.

"He's real smart. I can even

put him at the two and he'll know what he's doing," Barnard said. "If I'm in trouble, he knows the game, knows a lot of little things that people don't necessarily see in the box score."

Davis Evilsizer brings great shooting ability to the team. Barnard said he can go into the game and shoot the three.

"He's developing a little bit of a roll," Barnard said. "We're looking for offense from him. He has a pretty shot, good arc, good rotation."

Tyler Harvey, another sophomore is one of the best defenders, according to Barnard.

"Even though he plays the post position he could guard anyone," Barnard said. "He is a hard worker, never complains."

Three freshmen round out the team. Mike Coval plays both the one and two position. Barnard said Coval is developing into such a good passer that sometimes he makes passes and other players don't even know its coming.

"He's a three-point threat too," Barnard said.

Jordan Tallman plays both the four and five positions and has some really good moves.

"For a freshman, he's got polished moves," Barnard said. "He must have worked on it before this year. He was doing that stuff before I got him. He can dribble as well as a guard."

And Jon Schaible is the best ball handler on the team.

"For a freshman he's really ahead of himself as far as decision making," Barnard said. "At the same time when he gets pressure, he can go by, even out of offense he creates good shots."

Barnard compares Jon to his brother, Karl who plays on the varsity squad.

"They can defend people," Barnard said. "He's leading the team in steals and he can score too."

"He's a good surprise," Barnard's pride in the team is evident. Not only in each individual, but in the team as a whole.

"All my kids pretty much play hard. I've got another good group again this year."

Nick Strobl (44) works to get his position while looking for a pass from Jon Schaible.
