NEWS BRIEFS

Kings Volunteers to meet

The King's Volunteers will meet at 1 p.m. on Feb. 22 at the Manchester United Methodist Church.

Olive Feldkamp will present devotions and hostess will be Ethel Wheeler. New members are welcomed.

Boy Scout breakfast postponed

The monthly Boy Scout all-you-can-eat breakfast will be held from 8:30 a.m. to noon on Feb. 25 at the St. Mary's Parish Center on Madison Street.

The troop's annual winter campout this weekend has caused the breakfast to be changed by one week.

Alumni association accepting scholarship donations

The Manchester Alumni Association will initiate their scholarship with the class of 2001. The association is currently developing the criteria for what will become an annual scholarship.

Anyone interested in making a tax-free contribution to the fund may mail a donation to Colleen Kemner, 14282 W. Austin Rd., Manchester MI 48158.

County-wide health screenings set

A heart health screening will be conducted by Washtenaw County Public Health from 9:30 a.m. to 12:15 p.m. on Feb. 26 at the Adult Health Clinic at 555 Towner, in Ypsilanti.

The Title XV Breast and Cervical Cancer Control Program provides free mammograms, clinical breast exams, pelvic exams and pap tests to women in Washtenaw and Livingston counties who have no insurance or limited insurance.

For more information on heart health screening, call 484-7200. To learn about the Title XV programs call 1-800-440-7548.

Congressman sets district office hours

U.S. Representative Mike Rogers' 8th district office staff will meet with Washtenaw County residents on Feb. 25 from noon to 4 p.m. at the Chelsea village offices. Beginning March 19, office hours will be held in Chelsea on the third Monday of each month.

Rogers' Lansing office phone is 517-702-8000.

St. Mary's luncheon will be a week early

St. Mary's chicken and biscuit luncheon will be held next Wednesday from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. at the parish center on Madison Street.

This month's luncheon will be held a week early due to Ash Wednesday on Feb. 28.

Firefighters' goal of high-tech camera in reach

■ Men's Club helps with $2,500 donation.

By Marsha Johnson Chartrand
Staff Writer

The Dutchmen Fire Fighters Association is about one-third of the way toward its goal of purchasing a thermal imaging camera, thanks to a recent donation from the Manchester Men's Club.

The thermal imaging camera is state-of-the-art technology that can substantially improve the service provided by the Manchester Township Fire Department.

The device will allow firefighters to look through thick smoke to locate victims trapped in a fire, it also can locate hidden fire burning inside walls.

The camera image is taken from temperature differences; it will detect changes as low as one-tenth of a degree Fahrenheit.

Fire Chief Bill Scully said that the camera could also be used to locate victims of car accidents that may have been thrown from a vehicle.

The large display screen and technologically advanced readout will make this camera simple and effective to use.

Scully said he hopes that the firefighters can purchase the camera by mid-summer. The cost of the equipment is $18,000, and currently, they have raised about $6,000.

The Men's Club made their donation after the firefighters made a presentation with a live demonstration of the camera's abilities. The firefighters will gladly schedule presentations to other groups interested in learning more about this equipment.

Village retains long time planning firm

■ Carlisle/Wortman will continue work on village master plan.

By Marsha Johnson Chartrand
Staff Writer

For over 10 years, the village of Manchester has utilized the services of Carlisle-Wortman Associates, Inc. in their community planning.

The village first requested Carlisle/Wortman's help in preparing a master plan for the village, and many changes have happened since that time.

Richard Carlisle, president, recently made an offer to the village to expand their services under a retainer agreement. This would provide staff to provide the services needed by the village at any given time.

"We have found that a retainer agreement brings more predictability to our relationship," Carlisle said in a letter dated Jan. 24. "We are able to commit our staff in advance to providing the services you need."

"In return, you are able to schedule meetings with the knowledge that there will be no conflict in terms of our attendance."

On a retainer basis, the village would pay a monthly charge of $300 and in return the planners would attend six planning commission meetings per year. In addition, the firm will receive unlimited phone calls from village officials on planning-related issues, advise in matters regarding state laws and ordinances pertaining to planning, and assist in the implementation of the soon-to-be adopted village zoning ordinance.

"In the near future (the zoning ordinance) may be the most critical element of our involvement," Carlisle said.

For other issues, such as review of development projects' site plans, rezoning and other planning-related matters, Carlisle/Wortman will continue to work on a fee schedule basis.

Some of the fees related to additional services may be recouped by charging them to the developers in question.

"This proposal has come out of discussions with Dick Carlisle over the last few years," Village Manager Jeff Wallace said. "As the projects on the planning commission schedule have evolved into more complicated projects, development and planning have changed."

"Most new housing or commercial developments will be developed under PUD's, that involve major input from the planning commission and councils in order to make them a better fit within the community."

The scope of services provided by the community planners has become more complex. With increasing development and usage of the planners' time, Wallace recommended to council that the retainer proposal be adopted.

"I believe this needs to be done to help us be more professional with the developers that come forward, and enable us to not only get the best development we can get for the village, but also to protect it," he said.

Councilman Marty Way commented that the monthly expense of retaining a planner was "not a luxury" for the village.

The Village Council unanimously voted in favor of retaining Carlisle/Wortman on a monthly basis.

Alex Kalmbach (left) and Stacey Kempher pretended the sun was shining despite the gray days of February. Last week the Team II Classroom at Klager Elementary School celebrated a Hawaiian day. "This is the bestest day of my life," said classmate Holly Thorsen. Bright clothes, grass skirts, shorts and tropical treats brightened the day for pupils and teachers (Kay Miller and Yvonne Henry) alike.

Student sets her sights on new challenges

■ Lesley Jacob selected to attend young leader's conference.

By Marsha Johnson Chartrand
Staff Writer

Manchester High School junior Lesley Jacob missed a week of school early in the second semester.

Fortunately, she was not ill, nor was she skipping school.

Instead, she was spending a week at the National Young Leaders' Conference in Washington D.C.

The theme of the six-day NYLC was "The leaders of tomorrow meeting the leaders of today." And as a "leader of tomorrow," Jacob did meet with freshman Senator Debbie Stabenow during her visit to the nation's capital.

The NYLC is a unique leadership development program for high school students who have demonstrated leadership potential and scholastic merit. Donna Clark, life skills teacher at the high school, nominated Jacob for participation in this event.

"I toured the city, saw all the monuments, and learned a little more," Jacob said.

"We had simulations of government, on the executive, legislative and judicial branches. It was similar to attending Girl's State or Girl's Nation."

Jacob said that although she had no prior experience or particular interest in government, this experience made her more interested and more aware of the big picture of what makes American government work.

"Meeting all the people was exciting," she said. "There were 350 kids from all over the country, and it was interesting to learn what they thought of the issues, and what issues they talked about."

"Some of them were from bigger cities, and had a very different outlook from my own."

Jacob said that her day on Capitol Hill and meeting with the senators was probably the best day she spent during the week-long visit.

"A lot was going on that day," she said. "It was the day that they were voting on Ashcroft's appointment, so there was a lot to learn."

One activity, which Jacob said she really enjoyed, was a role-play called, "If I were President." Students act as the president and cabinet members responding to an international crisis.

In the group in which she participated, the students were instructed to react to a situation where the Russian government had taken over an imaginary country, and American soldiers were being held hostage.

The group had to decide whether to use military force or send in negotiators.

"We decided to send in a negotiating team, but we also backed them up with American soldiers sent in to help ... just in case," she said.

The experience has Jacob thinking of applying for the American Legion Auxiliary Girls' State program this summer. She also believes that an experience like this one is beneficial to anyone.

"I thought it would be fun, and I hoped it would help me with government class next year - and it will also help when I go away to college," she said.

The National Young Leaders Conference provides an opportunity for students to distinguish themselves as tomorrow's leaders. They not only gain knowledge and experience, but they leave with a sense of accomplishment and an increased ability to face the challenges of the future.

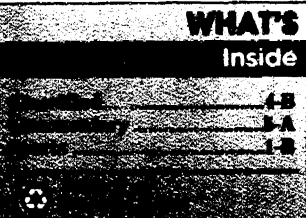

This experience has provided an impressive addition to Jacob's current leadership skills.

As president of the 25-member Manchester High School Key Club and a member of SADD and the local National Honor Society chapter, she says she manages to stay quite busy.

She is the daughter of Lyle and Linda Jacob of Grass Lake.

Lesley Jacob attended the National Young Leaders Conference in Washington D.C., from Jan. 30 to Feb. 4.

Economic development essential to building communities

■ Development council president makes presentation at village meeting.

By Marsha Johnson Chartrand
Staff Writer

Despite bleak news reports on the national economy, Washtenaw County has a very healthy economic prognosis, according to Susan Lackey, president of the Washtenaw Economic Development Council.

The economic development council makes an annual presentation to each community and at its Feb. 5 meeting, Lackey was able to update the Manchester Village Council on the status of the successes of the WDC over the past year, and setting a tone for the future.

"We are updating our strategic plan," Lackey said. "Three years ago, we created a five-year plan."

"But the strategies we established then, have been superceded by the speed of the economy and the way we currently do business."

Three years ago, the council set a goal of providing 3,600 new and retained jobs in Washtenaw County.

"That was a five-year goal, and it was considered an extremely ambitious one," she said. "And in four years, there has been an increase of over 4,000 jobs."

Lackey emphasized that telecommunications is the "hot" current issue in economic development, and it is a hugely competitive arena.

With files being transmitted over the internet, the speed of telecommunication ability is a key factor in high-tech businesses aiming to relocate in the area, she said.

"In 1999, about 70 percent of the businesses with whom we worked were manufacturing companies," Lackey said. "And the other 30 percent were what I call the 'gee whiz' industries—research and development, life sciences, and information technology.

"In just two years, that percentage has reversed—we're now working with almost 70 percent high-tech and only 30 percent manufacturing companies."

Manchester, she said, has done what the WDC has encouraged other communities to do. By developing a formula for tax abatement, and creating a consistency, they have helped to create a favorable business environment.

With the surrounding townships considering and adopting telecommunications ordinances, how might that affect the western Washtenaw communities' ability to attract the information technology businesses to this area?

"A lot depends upon how it's handled," Lackey said. "Obviously telecommunications providers aren't overly happy when they see that."

"If they can make an investment in a community that has restrictive permit requirements or one that doesn't, where are they going to go?"

Lackey explained, however, that much of the fiber that runs through the communities in Western Washtenaw is just passing through.

"Most of the residents and businesses don't have access to it," she said.

"What we've advocated, probably later in the process than we should have, is that communities could potentially use that permitting in their ordinances, to make their fiber accessible to other users."

"It can be either a carrot or a stick, depending."

She added that the governor has expressed some interest in looking at this as a regulatory issue.

"The lack of service within a community could certainly be a deterrent (to a firm locating there)," she said. "But so far, the permitting requirements have not been a deterrent to service."

"In most instances those ordinances were adopted because companies were coming through with fiber. It's not arbitrary, it's been in reaction to a need."

Lackey said this is an incredibly new area for everyone.

"Everything from ordinances to access opportunities to the technology itself, is going to change significantly," she said. "We may see huge amendments to these in the near future. The world of telecommunications is changing so fast."

"Two years ago I never even thought about this, but now it's probably the single most important infrastructure issue we deal with."

Lackey said that one of the things that communities need to do most is to "communicate amongst ourselves better."

"If the county is laying telecommunications cable for their infrastructure, or the schools or intermediate school district, we need to build redundancy and overcapacity into it," she said.

"That's the time to do it."

The other thing communities can do is talk to a host of local service providers.

"They are entrepreneurial," she said. "We want to recruit them into a community the same way we'd recruit any other business. We can look at places where we can bundle services, so we can encourage someone to serve the community, and mostly we have to keep talking to each other."

"We're all still learning." It has been a complete change of focus for Lackey, and she describes this as an exciting time to create a vision for the future.

"While I was in planning school they taught us about sewer and water and roads," she said. "Fiber was something that came from sheep."

"This is a whole new world."

Reading like 'Krazy'

■ Over $1,000 to be donated to reading programs at school.

By Marsha Johnson Chartrand
Staff Writer

Kiwanis of Manchester are at it again.

As the excitement builds for the third annual Krazy Kash Knight to be held March 3, several reading programs will get a boost from the proceeds of the huge, community-wide raffle.

Accelerated Reader programs are being expanded at all three levels of the school and over $1,000 will be additionally allocated to Klager Elementary School to help fund March Is Reading Month.

Kathy-jo Wargin, author of M is for Michigan and other published by Sleeping Bear Press, will visit Klager school on March 26, funded in part by the Klager PTO and additionally by a generous grant from the Kiwanis.

The Kiwanis have also donated $350 to help Klager staff provide a free book to each elementary school student during March.

The Accelerated Reader program is active at all three schools. Students may read either fiction or non-fiction books, at home or from the library that have an assigned number of "AR Points."

Readers take a test based on the book, and are awarded points on the basis of how well they score.

Accelerated reader points are redeemable at the "AR Stores" located at the elementary and middle school. At the sixth-grade level, teachers have their classrooms compete for further prizes in the accelerated reader programs.

For tickets to the Kiwanis Krazy Kash Knight, call 428-8976, 428-1329 or 428-7751.

SENIOR CITIZENS

When we had 'cabin fever' recently, we decided to give up the small screen for a much larger one. We went to Adrian and saw "Escanaba In Da Moonlight," featuring Jeff Daniels. The story is about the life and experiences of a group of deer hunters. I sat next to a giggler, and what fun we had at all that nonsense.

That brought back memories of a '93 trip in the U.P. We came into Escanaba from the west but missed a turn and went on into the city and ended up at the docks where the Coast Guard Cutter Escanaba was tied up. We were in the first group to tour the ship.

Boston was its homeport and they were making a tour, stopping at seven port towns of the Great Lakes. Stops were Montreal, Toronto, Buffalo, Cleveland, St. Ignace, Escanaba and Grand Haven. We happened to be in Escanaba on the right day, but not in "da moonlight."

enjoy good eating! Call Kelly at 428-8359 ahead or Tod between 9 and 10 a.m. on Tuesdays and Thursdays at 428-7630. Then, come down for a treat. We had chocolate cake with cherries for dessert one day!

Friday: Senior bus will leave the center at 10:30 a.m. and seniors will visit a home in the Manchester area. Our hostess will give a talk as we view the family's huge Christmas village. Reservations are made to eat at Franks at 11:45. Be sure to sign the book to go along, or call Rubena Boelter at 428-8655.

Monday: Go along on a shopping trip to Chelsea. First, call, or sign the book at meals.

Tuesday: Clergy presentation will be given by the Rev. Richard Hardy of Bethel United Church of Christ starting at 11:30 a.m. We appreciate the area ministers who provide this service to us. At noon lunch, southwestern stew is featured for senior meal. Come join us. At 5 p.m., pickup begins for the travelogue "Portraits of the Philippines."

Wednesday: Yoga class begins at the Manchester United Methodist Church at 9:30 a.m. Those of us who do these stretches and bends led by Donna Pointer are feeling so good about this class. Won't you come and join those who are 65 or older and actually feel better just because you attended? St. Mary's chicken and biscuit luncheon is on today, and pickup begins at 10:30 a.m.

Thursday: Loyal volunteer nurse Mae Sellers will be on hand at 11 a.m. to take your blood pressure. Then, roast beef is on the menu today. Bingo is on the schedule, but we need at least four to play. Come bring your friends to lunch and the fun of the game.

You may pay a fee of $27.50, either to president Ruben Willingham or to Ruben Boelter for your trip to Turkeyville for the April 6 matinee.

Street Talk

By Valerie Urda

How do you think changes at Daimler-Chrysler are going to affect our community?

"I would say that our little town is usually the last place for those kinds of things to trickle down."

Dorothy Mann

"I don't think it will affect us much because they won't lay many people off from the proving grounds. They still need to test the cars."

Gene Smith

"Hopefully with restructuring the company it won't have to have so many layoffs, and will help in stabilizing the communities."

Jim Doty

"It won't be good. My friend just got laid off, and that's what he said - it won't be good."

Pat Lubomski

"It might put a lot of people out of a job. We have a lot of people in this community working for Chrysler."

Harold Tedrick

"I don't have a clue, but I don't think it'll affect this community. Will it?"

Mike Goll

Speak so Australians can understand you

JANET LARABELL

G'DAY

Dill - someone that is not too smart
Stroppy - someone in a bad mood, and being difficult
Dog and bone - telephone
Dead horse - tomato sauce
No Worries mate! - Don't worry about it, everything is fine (Australian Attitude)
Snag - sausage (as in, put a snag on the barbie). Now that's what Aussies really do say. No one has ever said to throw a shrimp on the barbie except for Paul Hogan in the adverts to get the Americans to go over to Australia)
Wrapped - excited about something good that has happened

Woop woop - somewhere a long way from civilization
Chalkie - teacher
On a good Wicket - on to a good thing life OR earning a good income
Waffle on - talk on and on about nonsense
Spit the dummy - losing your temper.... A dummy being a pacifier
Amber fluid - beer
Big note yourself - to say you are better or more important than you are
The Back of Beyond OR Bust the Black stump - as far out back as you can get, right out back of Australia
Tea - evening meal
Bonzer there, mate! - That's great, friend
Too right! - something is absolutely right & correct
Barrack - to support your team, or sport on Tides gone out - your glass is not full Buckley's chance - no chance at all
Give someone a Bell - ring them on the phone

Gone for a Walkabout - you have gone for a long walk
Ya blood's worth Bottling! - Someone has done something good for you when you make this statement
Wonky - something is unstable or unsteady or shaky
Give it a "Butchers" - you will look into it (rhymes with butcher's hook)
Have a Barney - fight or scuffle OR argument or tiff
Belt up! - You are asked stop talking, be quiet, in an angry way
Do your Block - you are angry or loose your temper
Booze bus - Police van used for random breath testing for alcohol
Bunyip - mythical spirit creature from outback
Give it a Burl - to give something a try that you have not done before Bushbash - go off road in a vehicle, forcing your way through untouched bush

Billy cart - a go-kart of a child's construction
Bush telegraph - the town gossip network
Bludger - someone who fails to do anything at all they are asked (lazy)
Bludge - to do nothing at all
Beanie - ski hat
Biscuit - cookie
 Think you have mastered it yet? Well, keep practicing because I may just quiz you when I see you.
 Now you must realize how totally and utterly confused my husband became while in Australia. I know that I may have said this before, but when we first met, I thought he had a hearing problem, because all I heard him say was "Pardon?"
 I was constantly translating, and he has done the same for me since I arrived. It's truly amazing. The language is the same, but to some we Australians may as well be speaking Swahili.
 Have fun with the "lingo" and try not to get your tongue into too much of a knot!

ON LIVING AND SURVIVING By David Holtsak

Webster's dictionary defines serendipity as "the gift of finding valuable or agreeable things not sought for."

The last few weeks have been a bit of a roller coaster for me in both physical and emotional feelings. I've been doing well at work, doing a little more each day. The last week in particular, I have been back on the floor doing regular types of maintenance, which is very fulfilling.

I do notice, that I am a lot more out of shape than I thought I was. A day of work that involves a lot of climbing on and over machinery leaves me very tired.

I have come to the conclusion that it's time to head back to the recreation center and start working out again. I've kind of sloughed off the workouts since last summer, and it shows. The work of getting back into a normal routine will be a little harder than I thought. I am optimistic, though, for eventual success.

Also during the last few weeks, for some reason, I have run a gamut of temporary symptoms that had me almost reaching for the phone to the clinic several times. Whenever I have reached that point, however, whatever has been ailing me clears up, so we just move on.

I think that maybe with the regimen of work now, and finally coming off the majority of pills I was on, has put my body through some hoops that it is not used to. I've been on serious medications every day for over two years now and quite probably my system doesn't know how to act on its own.

I saved dropping my antibiotic Bactrim till the last because after reading up on the drug again, I realized that this one has been the big daddy protector since June 1999.

On the emotional front, besides being worn out and wondering if I was going to make it at work, my divorce became final. This brought back a flood of memories and reminiscences. I haven't allowed myself too much time to wallow in the past; instead I keep my eye on my health.

In my last column I mentioned some dry eyes problems and I'm going to have plugs put in the drains at the bottom of my eyes at the University of Michigan eye clinic. It's a five minute procedure and hopefully this takes care of most of the problem. The doctors at the clinic say that excessively dry eyes can let infections enter more easily through your eyes. So I gave up fighting them - let's try the plugs.

Also in my last column I mentioned red spots around my eyes. A little prescribed steroidal creme cleared that up immediately. I still don't know what the spots were, but I'll find out at my next appointment.

My throat symptoms also cleared up. The clinic docs said no sign of graft vs. host disease, which was wonderful news. I guess you can see that there are still a lot of medical things going on. I am so tired of going to the doctors, but we've come this far by keeping up on problems, so onward we go.

And why did I open this article with the word, "serendipity?"

My mom has kept my name on a prayer list at her parish, St. Joseph's in Trenton, and they have a grade school at the parish.

The second graders there got my name and made me get-well cards. They are all hand-made as only small children can do. With all the turmoil and ups and downs in my life, this package of paper from children I have never met made me realize again how wonderful life and people can be.

Cabin fever strikes without warning in February

COLLEEN O'NEILL

and staying home on weekends brings the pace of life back to a normal level. What a relief to be able to stay home.

OK, that's over with. Cabin fever has begun to set in.

The fever always strikes about this time of year. I start getting the urge to be out and about. I need exercise. I need to be outside. I want to take a road trip. I'm itching to do some spring-cleaning and I don't like to clean.

I still want to read a book and enjoy a fire but, just within reason.

I find myself out peeking at the dirt to see if any brave young bulbs have started pushing up yet. I know it is too soon. But I'm looking anyway.

All that quiet from January has rejuvenated my soul and now my soul wants to get up and go. I have overloaded on relaxation. Now I want something to do.

The kids have no school this Friday or Monday and I am frantically searching for something to do. We don't have the luxury of being able to afford a trip to Disney World or even a weekend up north for some skiing.

I cannot bear another trip to the dinosaur museum in Ann Arbor since I've been there five times in the last year and a half. The Hands-On Museum is out because that's on the calendar for the following weekend.

The problem with cabin fever is that for all the jittery antisyness it brings, not any one thing feels like it would cure it.

Even if I had the money to rent a hotel for the weekend, the last thing I would want to do is sit inside a hotel room. Cabin fever is just plain tiresome.

We will skate this weekend.

and maybe take in a movie but I fear that nothing will really please me. The reality of being a mother, cook, maid and writer who has to struggle to entertain children who also have too much energy will not be easily dealt with.

We need something ... but oh that cabin fever! It doesn't define what that "something" is.

So I continue to ride the roller coaster of life. I think I'm on my way back up but I desperately need a hair-raising ride down the other side.

But with cabin fever, I think it will just be a long ride up.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Important school issues should be faced.

To the Editor:

During the last 20 years I've raised two boys in Manchester. Throughout this process I've served many roles and I admire the volunteers and leaders who devote their time unselfishly to our children. My heart goes out to the Manchester School Board as they weigh difficult decisions regarding education. I know first hand how difficult this task has become.

Times are different, but in many ways they are the same. I graduated from Manchester High School with a class of well over 100 students. We were crowded at basketball games and had no lunch facilities other than a microwave and cellophane-wrapped sandwiches. We filled the High School building, in fact overflowed it in 1976.

Manchester has many decisions to make in 2001 and 2002. Our school buildings are a concern. Our school budget and funding is a concern. Our children's quality of education is a concern. Decisions made now will make or break the possibilities for the future of Manchester Community Schools.

There is a continuing movement to build a new school in Manchester. These decisions have to be made with long term planning and with the awareness of our present financial conditions and our future financial possibilities.

I've learned one very important lesson over the last 20 years. Our children need more than they've ever needed before. They need love and support in all things, including education. A child thrives under any roof with these things. Is it the roof that we should be talking about, or is it what's happening under the roof that we should pay attention to?

The future is bright, if we remember these things.

Karen Smith

Library board is on a dangerous track.

To the Editor

It's time people begin expressing concern about what the new Manchester District Library Board is doing.

The board has decided the librarian must have a master's degree in library science. First, that degree level is not needed according to state guidelines for library assistance, not for a library of Manchester's size. The library would have to at least triple the population it serves. It's nice to anticipate growth, but it would be interesting to know the budget impact of such anticipation in terms of salary levels.

Second, while the policy takes effect April 2, the board hasn't decided how it will apply to the librarian we now have, who has served for 12 years - some of them very lean. Will we support her in an effort to gain the degree? Over what time frame? Kick her out because she is now unqualified? According to the Ann Arbor News it isn't clear that there will be a decision soon.

If this is in fact the situation, it's mean-spirited. Pushing off the responsibility to a human resources committee doesn't excuse the board at all. The policy decision and the recommendations of the committee should be dealt with simultaneously. How long does the Board plan to leave the current librarian hanging around and wondering about her fate?

Hello? Is this any way to treat anyone? Especially when this course may well put the board into the swift moving rapids of litigation, not that I've heard anything about a lawsuit. People say they like to live in this area because the people are good and friendly. Putting anyone through such kind of stress just doesn't seem to fit that description.

Why am I speaking up? Good people have worked very hard for years to get the library the funding needed to put it on track to serve the larger Manchester community well.

Finally, they succeeded and like many other people, I was elated. When the village purchased the Uniloy building, I could just see the new library there too. A wonderful forward leap.

People have to ask if the Library Board is acting professionally. And, would they want to have their meetings shown as examples of good government in action? Will they manage to snatch defeat from the jaws of victory?

A sister and a brother preceded her in death.

Funeral services were held at 1 p.m. on Thursday, Feb. 8 from the Jenter-Braun Funeral Home, Manchester chapel. The Rev. John Riske officiated. Burial was in Norvell Township Cemetery.

DONNA KATHLEEN REYNHOUT
Chelsea
 Donna K. Reynhout, age 47, passed away at her home on Feb. 5. She was born Oct. 4, 1953 in Grandville, the daughter of Virginia (Davis) Thorpe. On Oct. 31, 1997 she married Thaddeus Bombrys.

Ms. Reynhout had lived in the Chelsea area for 16 years, moving from Milan. She attended Grand Valley State University and then received her Bachelor of Science degree in biology from Ferris State University. She was an active beekeeper, and she loved her horses. Brady, Major and Victoria Rose.

She was a member of the Michigan Environmental Health Association, the Knitting Guild of America, the American Romney Association and the Ann Arbor Fiber Arts Guild. She was also past president of the Spinners, and a member of the Chelsea Fair Board.

She is survived by her husband, Thad; her son Benjamin James Reynhout; her stepfather and mother, James and Virginia Post of Byron Center; three sisters, Carolyn Post of Lake City, Nancy Post of Missouri and Jane Clark of Walkerville; and her brother Doug "Pete" Thorpe of Colorado.

Donna is not alone in heaven, as she went to join the grandfather who raised her, Grandpa Robert Davis.

Funeral services were held on Feb. 8 from the Staffan-Mitchell Funeral Home with Wil C. Strickland officiating. Expressions of sympathy may be made to the Benjamin Reynhout educational fund.

Historian to speak at meeting

Jan Enns, Adrian resident and architectural historian, will be the guest speaker at the Feb. 20 meeting of the Manchester Area Historical Society. Her topic will be the homes of architect George Barber, which will follow the society's regular business meeting.

Enns used an interest in 19th-century life, especially the late Victorian era, to make a career change from social work into historic preservation. She pursued her degree at Eastern Michigan University, graduating in 1994. She holds a master's degree in planning preservation, and she has a special interest in the homes of George Barber, who was active from 1888 to 1908.

Barber published a number of catalogs on houses that were both fanciful and contained unusual architectural features. Enns wrote her master's project on dozens of Barber-inspired homes around Michigan that were built from these catalog plans. On trips around the country, she has sought out other examples based on the catalog information.

During her presentation, Enns will provide brief background information about the popularity of ordering catalogs of house plans by mail. She will show slides of both Barber's and other architects' plans from the era, in addition to providing biographical information on Barber himself.

The society welcomes visitors to this meeting. Refreshments will be served after the presentation, which will begin at approximately 7:45 p.m. in the Blacksmith Shop, 324 E. Main Street.

Volleyballer makes all-tournament

Senior Amy Preston made the All-Tournament team at the Springport Tournament on Feb. 3.

Rumors not true

Rumors have been circulating that the final home basketball game of the season against Napoleon would be moved to a larger venue.

Manchester Coach Mike Quinn states unequivocally that the game, scheduled for March 2, will be played at home.

The Dutch are tied with the Pirates in first place in the Cascades Conference. Both have league records of 8-1. If neither team loses in the conference, the March 2 game will decide the conference champion.

Wrestling season winding down

The wrestling season post-season competition will begin today with Team Districts at Clinton. Competition will begin at 6 p.m.

Spring sports not far away

All spring sport athletes should be getting their physicals in the next month. Baseball and softball try-outs will start at the beginning of March. There will be middle school and high school track for any students who want to go out for those sports.

Manchester Athletics is looking for a varsity assistant coach and will need one or two athletic aides at the middle school level.

Interested candidates can apply at the athletic office or send a letter of application. The aide position is an hourly position and either one or two will be hired, depending on the number of athletes who come out.

Ten Star All Star Basketball Camp

The Ten Star All Star Basketball Camp is coming to Hillsdale this summer. Applications are now being evaluated for boys ages 8-19 and girls ages 10-19.

Players are selected by invitation only. For an evaluation form call (704) 468-6801 any time.

Past participants include Michael Jordan, Tim Duncan, Vince Carter, Jerry Stackhouse, Grant Hill and others. College basketball scholarships are possible for players named to the team.

Wrestlers finish regular season on high note

■ Dutch win eight Grass Lake matches to pull out a season ending victory.

By Marsha Johnson Chartrand
Staff Writer

Last Wednesday the Manchester wrestlers hosted Grass Lake. The Dutch came out on top, literally and figuratively, by winning all eight of the contested matches for the evening.

At the end of the night, the scoreboard read 48-30.

Of the eight victories, seven came from pins. Bryce Dettloff, Russ Cruz, Austin Scott and Alex Kormendi were the underclassmen who pinned their opponents.

The seniors, Will Slocum, Andrew Roberts and Mike Conway, wrestling in their last home meet, finished off their home careers in style, each pinning their Grass Lake opponent.

The victory brought the wrestlers' season dual meet close to the .500 mark with 11 victories and 12 losses.

On Friday, the team traveled to Michigan Center with just ten wrestlers, having several out due to illness or injury.

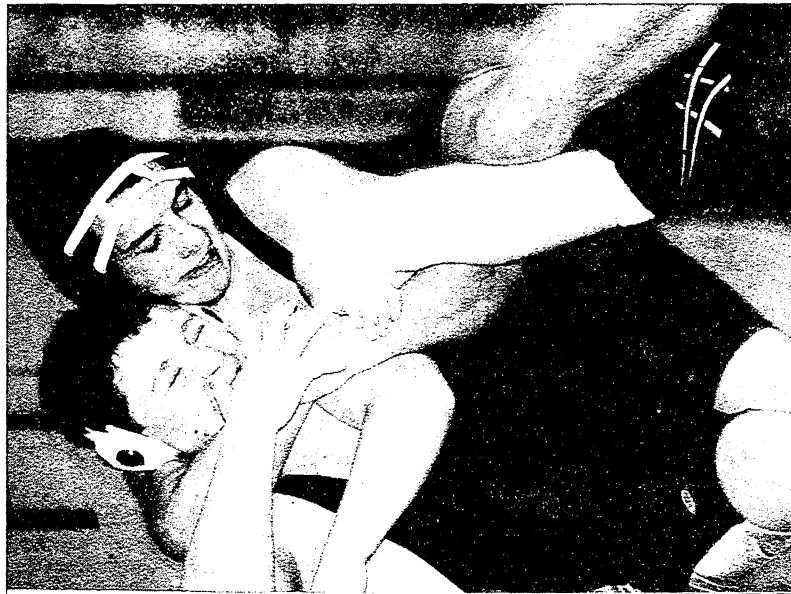

"They all did a nice job, wrestling hard and bringing home a third place finish," Manchester coach Steve Vlcek said.

This brings the Manchester Dutch wrestlers up to third place overall in the league.

Dettloff pinned his first two opponents before bowing out in the finals to the top-seeded wrestler, but not before he earned his third medal of the year.

After being the runner-up last year, Josh Tobias won his first conference championship at Michigan Center.

"Josh pinned his way through the meet, collecting his 22nd win of the year," Vlcek said.

Austin Scott continues to improve, winning his third match of the season when he pinned a Grass Lake opponent last week.

Russ Cruz posted his first tournament win, pinning his two opponents in the first period.

"Last year Russ was also a runner up in the league," Vlcek said.

Slocum took care of business, easily beating his two opponents and finished his league career with his first conference championship, after placing two years in a row.

Joshua Knouase brought home a third place medal.

"Even though there were only four kids in his weight class, all four were tough," Vlcek said. "Josh won a close 8-7 match to win his fourth medal of the year."

Roberts was the team's next medalist.

"He really took the long road, as he lost his first match," Vlcek said. "But then he battled back to win three close matches in a row."

This included avenging his first loss with a 12-9 decision in the medal round, to bring home his third league medal.

Alex Kormendi probably had the toughest class of the day, according to Vlcek.

"He had to face a defending conference champ in his first match, which he lost," Vlcek said. "But then he came back with two solid victories to bring home a third place medal."

Team districts will be held tonight at Clinton, beginning at 6 p.m.

"We drew a tough Hudson team," Vlcek said. "They have a 20-2 record, so we'd really better be ready for some tough competition."

The wrestlers will see a lot of the same opponents when they travel to Hudson for individual districts on Saturday. Four state-ranked teams will be awaiting Manchester's arrival.

Meets begin at 10 a.m. on Saturday.

Manchester top wrestlers honored

By Marsha Johnson Chartrand
Staff Writer

Manchester wrestlers who have exceeded 100 career wins were honored at last week's final home meet.

The Flying Dutchmen have a total of 13 men who have passed this benchmark and they were named in a special ceremony during the Grass Lake meet.

Manchester coach Steve Vlcek was pleased at the showing of present and former wrestlers and fans at the meet.

"I would personally like to thank all the wrestlers and their families who showed up," he said. "It was nice to see all the old faces in the crowd and to have so much support there."

Vlcek also acknowledged the efforts of assistant coaches Brent Woods and Mike Bunn for their help during this season and in past years.

"I'd also like to thank Coach Dan Jordan," he said. "Without these guys, our program wouldn't have had all these 100 career win wrestlers."

JV struggles but shows promise

■ Junior Dutch rounding out season.

By Colleen O'Neill
Special Writer

The Manchester junior varsity volleyball team struggled through a 7-15, 11-15 loss to Ann Arbor Greenhills last week.

"Overall it was not a very good game," said Manchester coach Sarah Twietmeyer. "We just came out slow and that's about how we played."

"We missed a lot of serves and I don't know why. Even our hits, every little thing that could go wrong was going wrong. We were just struggling that night."

But two days later the Junior Dutch bounced back from that setback defeating Michigan Center 15-5, 15-6.

"Everyone got a chance to play, even the freshmen who have had limited playing time played more and did some good things on the court," Twietmeyer said.

Twietmeyer applauded the effort from three of her freshman players. Abbey Preuninger, who did a good job up front on the net, Chelsea Rander played left side and did nicely and Sarah Henderson who came in to play left side, front row.

"They all stepped up, played together and showed their talent," Twietmeyer said.

Because of the effort of her regular starters, who did not let Michigan Center get into the first game, Twietmeyer was able to get in her other players.

The team then participated in the New Boston tournament on Friday where they started with two losses to Flat Rock 10-15, 11-15.

"Both of those were games we should have won," Twietmeyer said. "We came out struggling again. Nothing was going our way. Even free balls we couldn't get in."

But, once again, the Junior Dutch bounced back, this time defeating Dearborn Heights Crestwood 15-9, 16-14.

"We were able to come back and play hard against them," Twietmeyer said. "Then we split with Milan 14-16, 15-8."

Twietmeyer said it was a great game defensively and offensively particularly from Michelle Slocum and Cori Chrestensen who each had some great digs and Sydney Johnson, who turned in a good performance outside in the front row.

"Overall they just played together really well," Twietmeyer said. "They played how they could play, used all their talent and came together finally."

Because of ties in pool play, the final pool game between Flat Rock and Crestwood would determine if Manchester's squad would make it out of the pool.

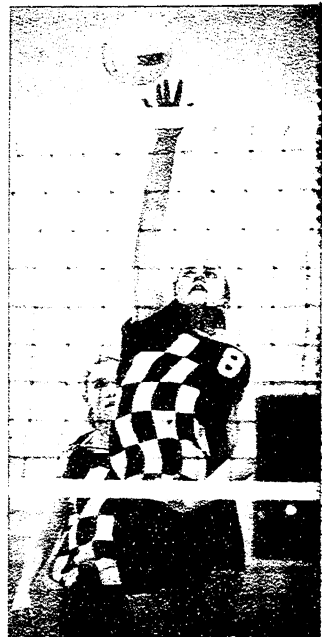

The Dutch needed a Crestwood win to go on. Due to a point cap, Crestwood won 17-16.

Manchester went on to play Lutheran Westland but lost both 10-15, 7-15.

"We still played a great game, but they were a little stronger," Twietmeyer said. "We sent them too many free balls, but overall it was a pretty good game."

Julia Steinaway did a good job setting, with some fine assists and good kills.

"All year she has done a great job, hustling, getting to the ball," Twietmeyer said. "Sydni Johnson really stepped up on Friday at the tournament. She proved to me what she can do."

Junior varsity player Liz Okey is performing well as shown by her ability to tip this ball over the net.

Twietmeyer was also pleased with the performance from Liz Okey, who added a couple of kills and a couple of blocks to help out the team. And with Christine Fairbanks, an outside hitter, who had some kills and played strong on the outside.

On Monday the team played Grass Lake and will be at Addison today. Saturday the Junior Dutch will be at the East Jackson tournament, their final tournament of the year.

Their overall record is 9-13-5 and they are 1-3 in the conference.

"It will be tough week for us, but hopefully if we play like we did against Milan we should come out with some wins," Twietmeyer said.

Freshman roundballers excel

■ Spirits high after three victories for frosh team.

By Colleen O'Neill
Special Writer

The future of Manchester basketball continues to look good as the youngest hoopsters racked up three solid wins in competition last week.

On Monday, the freshmen played Britton and won 46-28 in what appeared to be a solid victory.

"It was a lot closer than that," said Manchester coach Corey Fether.

Fether said his team led the whole game and went to the locker room at the half up by 13.

"Everybody scored."

Fether gave credit to Dan Schulte, Lance Aiken and Jason Lindemann, whose effort on defense made the press successful for the team.

"Jeff Miller was hitting threes," Fether said. "And Jimmy McCarthy was a great help on defense."

Michael Taddonio, who came off the bench to give a spark to the defense with his aggressive effort and good rebounding, also impressed Fether.

The team carried their momentum into a good game on Friday against Hanover Horton and came out ahead, 46-43.

"It was a tight game," Fether said. "We were down the whole

Daniel Schulte controls the ball while Jason Lindemann gets into position, in another freshman victory

"But we played a horrible third quarter and they cut (the lead) to seven points," Fether said. "Then we picked it up at the end."

That effort rolled over into Wednesday's game against Clinton where the young Dutch played their best game of the year.

"We won 66-22," Fether said.

In the first half, the press worked well for the Dutch, who got a lot of steals and took advantage of Clinton turnovers.

The Dutch built a big 29-9 lead at the end of the first quarter and led 41-12 at the half.

"We just cruised in the second half," Fether said.

first half. They jumped on us in the first quarter and hit three threes to start the game 11-2.

"We just fought our way back with solid defense."

Jeff Miller hit four clutch free throws at the end of the game to seal the victory for the Dutch.

"All week long we had pretty balanced scoring from everybody," Fether said.

The team played Sand Creek on Wednesday, then will have one week off before finishing the season with two conference games at home.

They will host Vandercook Lake on Tuesday, Feb. 27 and Napoleon on March 2.

Varsity hold top spot

■ Dutch suffer disappointing loss to Hanover-Horton.

By Colleen O'Neill
Special Writer

Manchester coach Mike Quinn has been saying for weeks that the Dutch win over Napoleon on Jan. 30 neither won nor lost the conference championship for his varsity squad.

When the Dutch lost to Hanover Horton on Friday night, Quinn said it again.

"By beating Napoleon we didn't win the championship, but by losing Friday we didn't lose the championship," he said. "We're still in first place and the season is by no means over."

His team is now tied for first in the conference with Napoleon. Each school has an 8-1 league record.

Quinn admitted that it was disappointing to lose to Hanover.

"We got off to a pretty good start and went ahead 11-2, then we gave up a seven-point play," Quinn said.

The Comets scored and Manchester got called for a foul. On their in-bounds play the Comets hit a three-pointer and Manchester fouled again. The Comets brought the ball in and hit a field goal.

"That was a seven-point possession," Quinn said.

Still, the Dutch were able to stay ahead and led 18-14 at the end of the first quarter.

Both teams struggled offensively in the second quarter primarily because of good defense and turnovers. Each team

The varsity basketball squad has to battle injuries, but the league championship is still within their grasp.

scored just nine points in the second quarter, which allowed Manchester to hold a 27-23 lead at the half.

"In the third quarter both teams got hot, both scored 15," Quinn said.

That put the Dutchmen up 42-38 after the third.

"Then we kind of hit the wall," Quinn said. "We were outscored 29-12 in the final quarter and lost 67-54."

Quinn gave credit to the Comets who executed extremely well throughout the fourth quarter. In fact, they were 17-of-18 from the free throw line.

By contrast, Manchester shot just 26 percent from the field, going 4-for-15 in the final quarter.

The biggest hurt came when the Dutch did not score a single point in the final four minutes of the game.

Brett Maki led the team in scoring with 14 points and hauled down eight rebounds. Brent Leverett scored 11 points and racked up six assists, while Jeff Punches added 10 points and pulled in eight rebounds.

Beau Bergner had six points and five rebounds while Jacob Sawyer and Karl Schaible each had four points.

Mike Walter had three points and Jon Miller scored two points.

The loss took the Dutch's overall record to 10-4 and their conference record to 8-1. They played a non-conference game against Ann Arbor Gabriel Richard on Tuesday and return to league action tomorrow night when they host East Jackson.

And although the team is struggling with injuries, (McCalla, Sawyer and Punches are all questionable for Friday's game), Quinn is confident.

"That is definitely a game we feel like we can win," Quinn said.

J.V. defeats conference foe

■ Dutch avenge earlier season loss to Comets

By Colleen O'Neill
Special Writer

The Manchester junior varsity basketball team defeated conference rival Hanover Horton 56-44 in its only action last week.

"We had lost to them the first time we played them this year," said Manchester coach Bryan Barnard. "It was nice to avenge the earlier loss."

The Junior Dutch performed well, leading throughout much of the game. They took a solid 44-35 lead to the locker room at the half.

The win gave them a 7-2 league record, which has them tied for second in the league with a 9-5 overall record

Nick Strobl led the team in scoring with 22 points, while Nate Smith scored 11. Craig Lane nine. Jon Schaible seven. Kevin Walter four and Mike Coval three points.

Strobl also led the team in rebounding with 11. Lane and Smith each pulled in four. While Schaible led in assists with four, Smith led in steals with four and Jordan Tallman led with three blocks.

"We got a little bit out of everybody, pretty much like we always do," Barnard said. "It was a good team effort."

But it was defense that stood out the most to Barnard.

"They have two really good guards that we contained," Barnard said. "They're really quick. We held one to eight points, the other to zero. The first time we played them over there (at Hanover) those guys scored a bunch of points."

Barnard gave credit to his guards for playing great defense.

"Coval, Schaible and Evilsizer did a good job shutting them down," Barnard said. "It was a defensive team effort. That's what did it."

"We played a good game, we converted when we had too."

Maybe more importantly, Barnard said the win, after an earlier season loss to Hanover, showed that his team is improving as the season progresses.

The team hosted Ann Arbor Gabriel Richard on Tuesday and will host East Jackson tomorrow.

Gymnasts set records and continue to win

■ Gymnasts top the Southern Michigan League.

By Colleen O'Neill
Special Writer

The Manchester/Napoleon gymnastics team continues to set records, win meets and post personal bests in solid performances that have taken them to 4-0 in the Southern Michigan Gymnastics League.

In their latest victory, a 126.75-116.75 win over Coldwater, three gymnasts combined to sweep the top three spots on the bars.

Christina Hill took first place, Sara Idziak took second and Terra Deacons third. All three scored personal bests in the event.

Heather Deacons won the vault and Meaghan Jusick improved her school record to 9.1 on the bars.

In earlier competition,

Heather Deacons held a school record on the balance beam for just four days when she scored a 9.5 on Jan. 31 in a dual meet against Northwest. Teammate Jusick broke it the following Saturday at the Hillsdale Invitational.

Efforts from both gymnasts helped propel the team to a 133.25-112.95 win over Northwest.

Either Jusick or Deacons took first place in all four of the events. Jusick won the vault and the uneven bars. She scored 8.65 on the vault and set another school record with a 9.01 on the bars. Deacons set her record with a 9.05 on the beam and also won the floor with an 8.6.

Heather Deacons took third place on the vault and on the bars and Idziak took third place on the beam.

On Feb. 3 the team took a respectable third place trophy at the Hillsdale Invitational with a final score of 130.325.

Holt won the invitational by scoring 136.90 and Saline tallied a 130.40 for second place.

Jusick broke the school record on the beam with a 9.08, which was good enough for third place in that event. Deacons scored an 8.10.

Jusick took second in the vault with 8.60, second on the floor with 9.05 and second in the all around with 35.68.

Deacons finished 12th in the all around with 31.95, the second best finish for a Manchester/Napoleon gymnast.

The team, which has already qualified for regional competition, will host Jackson Lumen Christi today in its last regular season meet.

Everything comes together as varsity netters near post season

■ Dutch still high in league competition.

By Colleen O'Neill

Special Writer

One of the best things a team can hope for is to peak as they approach post-season competition. That is exactly what the Manchester varsity volleyball team intends to do.

"What is starting to happen with our team is we're getting 15 kills from the left side, 15 from the middle and 10 from the right. It is really helping the girls to be so balanced," said Manchester coach Dan Roughton.

"They are really starting to learn the game, not making many mistakes anymore and their confidence is growing.

"They will peak at the end toward districts, which is the best time to play your best."

In fact, Roughton admits that his team is becoming really fun to coach as they continue to improve. They have taken their overall record to 11-13-7 and trail league leader Hanover Horton by just one game with a 3-1 conference record.

On Saturday, the team attended the Dundee tournament where, although they lost in the semi-finals, the day started on a positive note.

The Dutch won their first game against Dundee 15-10.

"We lost to them last year in the finals," Roughton said. "The girls were so excited from beating them that they came out flat in the second game and lost 2-15. "The only thing positive out of that is they really picked up their play for the rest of the day."

In the first match of the day, Amy Preston had 15 assists, five service points and one dig. Dara Jose had four kills and two blocks. Cassie Clark had four kills and two blocks. Stephanie Schleicher had five service points and three digs while Nicole Leverett had five kills and five digs.

The Dutch played strong in their next game against Flat Rock and won 15-5, 15-8. Jose had seven kills in that match. Clark had five and Weidmayer had six. Preston had nine service points and 16 assists while Kelli Randall had four points, two kills and two blocks. Lisa Lobbestael had a service point, a kill and three digs.

Manchester continued their solid play by defeating Dearborn Heights Crestwood 15-9, 15-3.

"The second game was highlighted by Amy Preston who served all 15 points," Roughton said. "She had five aces in there and seven assists.

Clark had nine kills to help Preston and Jose added five kills and four blocks.

"It was one of the first games this year that when the other team was having a lot of trouble and making mistakes we capitalized on them," Roughton said. "Jose played really well that game."

The Dutch then split with New Boston Huron, 15-4, 10-15.

Preston scored seven points, helping herself with four aces. She also had five assists. Jose had nine kills and three blocks. Shannon Green had eight points in that match including one ace and added three digs. Schlosser had three points, one ace, four digs. Johnson had five assists, two kills and Heidi Ernst had two points, one kill and two digs.

The wins combined to put the Dutch into the semi-finals against Dearborn Edsel Ford where they lost the first game 9-15 then won the second game 15-10 before losing 12-15 in rally scoring.

The Dutch continued to rack up impressive statistics. Clark had nine kills and four digs while Jose had three kills and 12 blocks.

"This is an amazing number."

Roughton said. "As a coach watching a sophomore player starting to take games over it really is building a lot of confidence in the future for the team."

Weidmayer also had a strong game with seven kills, four blocks, one assist and five digs. Sara Johnson had three assists and five digs while Randall had eight points, four kills, seven blocks, one assist and two digs.

Earlier in the week the Dutch lost a heartbreaker to Greenhills in five games, 14-16, 15-9, 15-5, 13-15, 12-15.

Preston had 43 assists in 100 attempts and Clark had 18 kills for 43 attempts.

"It was really close," Roughton said. "To be honest, we missed a lot of serves and we hit a lot of balls out. It was a frustrating night to watch, because we had a lot of opportunities.

"We lost to them in five games last year, basically it was the exact same thing."

Roughton feared that his team just wasn't used to playing five games, usually finishing a dual match in two or three games.

"We'll have to work on that," Roughton said.

The Dutch bounced back from that loss to defeat Michigan Center 15-7, 15-7 and then went on to the New Boston Tournament.

Manchester had their last home game on Monday and will play Addison on the road today then attend the Pinckney tournament Saturday. Then they will Varsity volleyballers Dara Jose, Amy Preston and Nicole Leverett celebrate good play and good timing as they peak near post-season.
