NEWS BRIEFS

Junior master gardener class

The Washtenaw County MSU extension is hosting a junior master gardener class for any interested second to fourth-grade students. Young people will explore plant and soil science, vegetables, house plants, wildlife in home and garden, flowers, trees, shrubs and volunteerism.

Sessions are scheduled from 6:30 to 8 p.m. each Wednesday from May 2 to June 6 at Matth Botanical Gardens in Ann Arbor. Cost for the session will be $20. Applications are available at the MSU extension office located at 300 Parkland Plaza in Ann Arbor. All applications must be received by 5 p.m. on April 9. Call 997-1678 for more information.

Klager school plans kindergarten round-up

Luther C. Klager Elementary School will be holding kindergarten round up (including early fives) for the 2001-02 school year on April 19.

To be eligible, children must be 5 years old on or before Dec. 1.

Please call the school office at 428-8321 to pre-register your child and receive an appointment time. Birth certificate and immunization dates must be presented at kindergarten round up.

School district plans yard sale

Furniture and other miscellaneous items will be sold next Thursday in the Chicken Broil pavilion at Alumni Memorial Field, on a first-come, first-served basis.

The sale will be held from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. and all items must be removed by the time the sale ends.

Oak Grove Cemetery sets semi-annual meeting

Semi-annual meeting of the Oak Grove Cemetery Association will be held at 7 p.m. on April 25, at the American Legion House.

Please note also, that any grave arrangements must be removed by April 10 so that the sexton may begin spring cleanup.

Legion to hold breakfast on Sunday

The American Legion Post #117 will hold their monthly all-you-can-eat breakfast on Sunday from 8:30 a.m. to noon.

Traditional breakfast favorites will be served.

Bridgewater budget includes police services

■ Grant applications still in limbo.

By Marsha Johnson Chartrand
Staff Writer

It was a busy March 21 agenda for the Bridgewater Township board of trustees. And it began early with a public hearing for the proposed 2001-2002 budget.

"The biggest addition to our budget for the coming year is budgeting for the police services," Carol Peacock, township supervisor, said.

The township is budgeting in additional money during the fiscal year just ending as a result of a successful ballot proposal last November that was levied on the winter tax bills.

Residents at the meeting questioned the board about policing and the state grant for which the township had applied last month.

The Byrne Memorial formula grant is through the state of Michigan and Bridgewater Township has applied for a total project cost of $72,945 for one police service unit.

"We knew it would be going up," Peacock said in light of recent news reports of the increased cost for out-county road patrol.

"We will amend the grant applications once we have a final figure."

If the grant is awarded the state will pay 75 percent of the cost for the first year.

"That would be a very good deal," Peacock said. "We can then reapply for three more years."

"If we get it, each year the portion the township pays goes up each year, while the state goes down proportionately."

The grant is intended for use in the initiation of new police services. Peacock says she is hopeful that the township will be awarded a grant.

"If we do receive (a grant) that, on top of the money from our millage, will allow us to comfortably fund one deputy," she said.

"And we're still trying to work out something with neighboring townships - Freedom and possibly Manchester."

The three township supervisors have met on a few occasions to discuss police services, Peacock said.

"I'm not quite sure how it will work out," she said. "We're getting very strong signals, and it just takes time to work it all out."

Another large project in the works for the township was not listed on the budget.

"We do not have anything in the budget related to the sewer system for the Bridgewater hamlet," she said.

Bridgewater has applied for another grant through the Clean Michigan

Initiative, to help fund the township's portion of the costs of a possible sewer system.

"If we do receive a grant to help with a sewer system and it is decided to go ahead, then we would have to set up a separate budget," Peacock said. "We would not use moneys out of the general fund budget. The costs would be covered by the grant and by those who would benefit from it, through a special assessment district."

The township had originally thought that the results of grant award would be announced this month.

"But we now know not to expect word until probably May," Peacock said.

State Representative Gene DeRossett's office has been keeping Peacock informed on the progress of the grant application.

Heritage classifieds get 'legs' online

By Mavis McKinney
Heritage Newspapers

A green amphibian with orange eyes has leapt onto the southeastern Michigan scene, intent on providing the region with the largest, most comprehensive, one-stop classified advertising marketplace ever devised.

Greenleaper.com, which combines a new local classified Web site with a newsstand edition, has made its Internet debut. Over the next month its distinctive and bouncy multimedia advertising campaign is likely to make "froggie" one of the region's most recognizable marketing icons.

The $1.2 million advertising campaign, set to launch April 2, will encompass newspapers, business and lifestyle publications, outside billboards and radio spots.

The launch of greenleaper.com is the result of a business concept initiated last year by Fred Manuel, president of Heritage Media

Losing a piece of history in Freedom Township

■ Pleasant Lake Hardware to close its doors.

By Marsha Johnson Chartrand
Staff Writer

Changes are in sight around Pleasant Lake, but there is one thing that will not change.

A sign on the front of Pleasant Lake Hardware and Services says, "Welcome Friends."

And that sentiment will definitely remain as the hardware business closes after nearly 50 years at its Freedom Township location.

The "services" part of the moniker will also remain as owner Bernie Poegel continues his welding, fabrication and service shop behind the hardware building.

And Nuts 'n' Jolts, the drive-through coffee shop operated from 6 to 9 a.m. by Lori Fredericks, Poegel's wife and business partner, will continue to serve up caffeine and doughnuts to those on the rush-hour run.

"But for the past year, the coffee shop and the service shop have been keeping the hardware in business," Fredericks said. "It's sad; we're sad about it."

"Everyone's reaction has been the same - it's too bad, but they wondered how we were making it."

Six years ago the couple purchased the hardware from Erwin and Wally Haab, who still retain an active interest in the store.

"We had to tell Erwin and Wally in person," Fredericks said. "Erwin was sad. He said he didn't sleep too much the first night."

"But I think money was worth more when they had the store, and there wasn't the same kind of competition there is now."

With more people willing to make a trip further afield to make purchases, the hardware isn't the same kind of resource that it was 20 or 30 years ago.

"We can't keep the variety of a Home Depot or Lowe's," Fredericks said. "People are willing to make a list of their errands and do it all in Ann Arbor. I do it, too."

She commented that she knows the farm community will miss the hardware store.

"They all know they can get what they need, and Bernie knows how to help them," she said. "They have been great, and they have appreciated the convenience and the fact that we have a lot of the oddball parts they need."

Bernie Poegel at the Pleasant Lake Hardware will miss the daily contact with his neighbors as the hardware closes, but he will retain his welding and fabricating shop out back.

And Poegel and Fredericks appreciate the warmth and welcome the customers around Pleasant Lake and throughout the Manchester community have extended to them over the years.

However, when the current stock is exhausted the store will close and a lessee will be sought.

"I think someone will rent (the building)," Fredericks said. "We've already had a couple of inquiries and some people have had ideas of a business to go in there. It may not be retail, either."

"Some of the ideas were serious and some were just plain funny. I tell people to get their creative juices flowing."

Poegel also expresses sadness at leaving what he calls the medium through which he has come to know this community.

Manchester teacher awarded honorary editorship

■ Donna Clark chosen to represent Midwest.

By Marsha Johnson Chartrand
Staff Writer

It sounds somewhat like the old television game show, "Queen for a Day." But Manchester High School life management teacher Donna Clark has been awarded a one-day assignment to an editor's position for the nationally distributed Scholastic Magazine.

"I have used this magazine as part of my curriculum for the past 13 years at Manchester High School," Clark said.

For the past four years, Clark has been asked to serve on the magazine's advisory board. Her responsibilities have included critiquing each issue on a variety of topics including the artwork, subject matter and other criteria, in terms of her students and herself.

"She has evaluated what the students like about it, what she likes about it as a teacher, what works and what doesn't," said public relations director Mike Quinn.

"Through her feedback, the school and its students have been featured in the magazine. Last year they published an article on migrant education."

Manchester High School students' personal experiences have also been highlighted in an upcoming edition.

"The magazine discusses issues that are important to teens," Clark said. "I have used it in my classroom because I remember how much I looked forward to it when I was in high school."

She recalled asking the magazine's editors to write about migrant education in general and said that Manchester students really responded well to the article when it appeared.

"They simply had no idea what these kids' lives are like," she said. "I think it contributed to a better understanding of the migrant students who come here."

For all of these efforts, Clark has been chosen to attend a meeting at the New York office on May 19, with all her personal expenses paid.

"The purpose of that meeting is to receive input, advice and critiques from teachers who use the magazine in their classrooms on a daily basis," Quinn said. "Her responsibility will be to represent small town, mid-western high schools and their students."

While in New York, it will not be all work and no play. She has been invited to bring her husband, Rick, on the trip and also will receive two complimentary tickets to a Broadway play.

Although her one-day shot at an editorship will not take her away from her teaching duties at Manchester High School for very long, Clark will continue on the magazine's advisory board upon her return to Manchester.

"I remember using the magazine back when I was in high school," Clark said. "So being able to be a part of the magazine's future is exciting."

"I am really looking forward to it." Prior to her tenure in at the high school, Clark taught classes in a business setting as well as in adult and community education at the Ann Arbor schools. After moving to Manchester 15 years ago, she substituted for two years and was hired as a classroom teacher in 1988.

In addition to life management skills courses such as psychology, she currently teaches the leadership class, assisting them in taking an active role in student life, as well as serving as adviser for the SADD group at the high school.

Symphonic band receives top ratings

■ Higher level competition continues band's commitment to excellence.

By Marsha Johnson Chartrand
Staff Writer

Writing in a larger and more difficult setting than ever before, the Manchester High School Symphonic Band received a Division I rating at the Michigan State Band and Orchestra district festival recently. The festival was held at East Jackson High School.

The symphony band competed in Class C due to increased enrollment in the high school this year. The high school concert band was eligible to participate in one level lower. The classification is based on school enrollment and the most advanced group from each school must compete at the highest possible level.

"This is exceptional, considering last time we went with Class C we got a (division) three," said band director Jared

Throneberry. "The biggest difference is that the music is more difficult, and the schools we competed against were larger."

"As Manchester continues to grow, we will probably maintain a Class C participation from now on."

The symphony band received straight Division I ratings and now is eligible to participate in the state level festival that will be held April 27 and 28. The concert band was awarded a Division II rating while participating in Class D festival.

The band's appearance at state festival will follow upon the heels of its annual trip, where a 62-member mixed band will attend a festival competition at the College of Staten Island in New York. The band will leave for New York City on April 18 and will participate in the competition in Staten Island. They will return the weekend of April 21.

"We'll receive a placement there, instead of a rating," Throneberry said.

The consistent improvement of the band programs at all levels has continued throughout Throneberry's tenure at Manchester.

"The seniors who will graduate this fall have received their third Division I rating since being in high school band," he said. "And this will be their second time to go to state festival."

HONORS

The United States Achievement Academy announced recently that Jackie Vigilanti and Kevin Walter, both sophomores at Manchester High School, have been named a United States National Award Winner in Mathematics.

Nominated by teacher Mark Ball, Vigilanti and Walter will appear in the USAA official yearbook, which is published

"You could say we've set a pretty high standard for the future."

The 57-member Symphonic Band is comprised mainly of juniors and seniors. The Concert band has 53 members, primarily freshmen and sophomores. Throneberry is in his fifth year as director of Manchester bands.

Jackie is the daughter of Mike and Mary Vigilanti of Manchester. Grandparents are Pauline Vigilanti of Manchester and Robert and Shirley Bailey of Lansing.

Kevin is the son of Terry and Fayde Walter of Manchester. Grandparents are Curt and Joan Day of Manchester and Doris Evilsizer of Tecumseh.

Chiropractor is on a mission to provide better health

■ New doctor will take over local clinic.

By Marsha Johnson Chartrand
Staff Writer

Dr. Harry Hadley is a man with a mission.

His goal with his practice in Manchester is to provide the best quality chiropractic care to each individual, based upon their needs, and optimize their wellness.

"We're fortunate in the United States, in the variety and quality of care providers that we have," Hadley said. "Chiropractic care opens a new spectrum of health and wellness care."

Hadley has a first-hand understanding of the importance of chiropractic care. A lifelong resident of Grass Lake, he played both basketball and football in high school.

He attended Siena Heights for one year before going to work in his father's construction company for eight years.

And then, following a motorcycle accident, he became interested in the idea of chiropractic care while under the care of Dr. Jerald Flinn in Chelsea.

"I had always aspired to be a doctor of some kind," he said. "I had an idea to become a veterinarian, but as I became educated about chiropractic care, I decided to attend the Palmer College of Chiropractic."

Encouraged by his wife, Alicia, also a Grass Lake native, the Hadleys moved to Davenport, Iowa, where Harry enrolled in Palmer College and graduated with honors in October 1999.

During his time there, he was a nominee for the clinical excellence award and was named to the president's list. He also helped to rewrite the textbook for lower back disk pain, something he considers a very high achievement.

The family moved back to Michigan and Hadley opened an office in Chelsea just a few months later.

"I opened my clinic on March 20, and I think it was about March 23 that Dr. (Stan) Gilbert started coming in to talk to me," he said. "After about the 99th time he came in I realized that he was offering me a wonderful opportunity here."

So, just about a year after opening his practice in Chelsea, Hadley moved it to Manchester where he will assume the practice begun by Gilbert in 1985.

And it is a practice that he loves.

"Chiropractic was founded by Dr. D.D. Palmer in 1895," he said. "And that's why I went to Palmer College. If you want to be the best, you go to the best."

"For over 100 years people have been led to health and wellness by chiropractic care."

That care takes on different faces for each patient, Hadley said.

"It's individualized, based on the whole person," he said. "Not every patient is given the same package. The care is altered to their specific needs."

Of 100 different techniques in the chiropractic profession, Hadley says he knows at least 30 or 35 different ways to adjust. He is most proficient, he says, in low force adjustment.

"People get scared," he admitted. "They think, this guy is going to rip my neck off."

"So Alicia was my guinea pig. She wouldn't let me do anything that would hurt her."

And so he focuses on a gentle form of chiropractic adjustment, in a career he firmly believes is a calling for him.

"When I walked across that stage (at graduation), they told us to 'go forth and serve,'" he said. "I take that seriously. I give people the care they need."

"When you touch their lives in this way, they sincerely appreciate it."

While at Palmer, Hadley participated in outreach programs which included travel abroad to lesser developed countries.

"People would flock by the thousands to the clinics we held," he said. "They would have all kinds of health problems. And they were so very open to the care we provide."

"They were so grateful. I sincerely love what chiropractic can do for people."

The Manchester Chiropractic Clinic will take on a fresh new look as Harry and Alicia Hadley bring in new ideas, up to date research and change of face.

Alicia Hadley serves as her husband's receptionist and office manager. With a business degree from Eastern Michigan University, she is familiar with coordinating the insurance billings which is new to the clinic.

Outside of the business, the Hadleys are parents to four children, age 3 to 10, and have raised Percheron draft horses for the past 15 years. Although they continue to live in Grass Lake in a home they built after returning to Michigan, they look forward to becoming part of the Manchester community that they serve.

Hadley's strong work ethic and a philosophy of holistic care provide a backdrop for his desire to provide health care to as many people as possible, regardless of the cost.

"I love what I do," he says simply.

And it is true - he literally becomes hoarse in his glowing recital of the benefits of chiropractic care. He says he is determined to see his profession get the "fair shake" it deserves. Harry Hadley may be hoarse for weeks to come as he shares his enthusiasm with a new and growing group of patients in Manchester, helping to put them back on the road to good health.

Girls' state representaives named

By Marsha Johnson Chartrand
Staff Writer

Two students from Manchester High School will represent the Emil Jacob Unit of the American Legion Auxiliary at Girls State this summer.

Lesley Jacob and Sara Wallis will attend Girls' State held at Michigan State University this June and Kristi Trinkle has been selected as alternate.

"In previous years we have sent just one representative," Girls' State chairman Mary Blossom said. "This year there was so much interest, the Auxiliary is happy to be able to sponsor two students to attend."

In other business at its March meeting, the organization voted to purchase an American flag to present to the library and reported on a recent bingo party held at the Ann Arbor veteran's hospital. As part of its service to the community and to veterans, the group also sends cards and coupon books to hospitalized veterans and remembers Gold Star mothers on special holidays.

Gold Star mothers are those who have lost sons during service to the country.

Poppy day is approaching on May 18 and the auxiliary will once again seek posters from the elementary school art classes.

The hall kitchen is undergoing improvements and the women are sharing the cost of improvements with the Legion members. The Men's Club has also offered to assist with kitchen purchases.

The April 11 meeting will include a Pampered Chef party for members, proceeds of which will help purchase needed items for the hall kitchen.

You need to take risks to get sweetest fruit

"Out of the mouths of babes" is such an appropriate saying. My husband heard on the radio the other day that a young child had said something like, "You have to go out on a limb because that is where the fruit is."

That is one of those sayings that I find myself repeating in my own mind as it settles in and the true meaning takes hold: "You have to go out on a limb because that is where the fruit is."

In so much of life, the true rewards come at some expense. We've all received good things from time to time without putting much effort into them. Yet, to truly appreciate something, to get deep down satisfaction from it, we need to go out and get it.

It takes courage to reach out

COLLEEN O'NEILL

REFLECTIONS

for our dreams. Sometimes it is down right terrifying to be going after a dream. I've heard it before and I believe there is some truth to it, sometimes our fear of success is greater than the fear of failure.

All of life is a risk. Living is risky business. But this is not about daily risk so much as it is about reaching, striving, and attaining our goals.

Ask the athlete who wins the gold medal if the effort was worth it.

Ask the athlete who didn't win but walked into an Olympic Stadium if the effort was worth it.

Ask the inventor who pushed through the rejections and financial difficulties if the effort was worth it.

Ask anyone who is happy every day because they are doing what they want.

Going out on that limb is scary. The farther out we get, the weaker the limb feels. It bends under our weight. The wind pushes us and we bob up and down. We may cling with both arms and both legs but, we hold on. Wanting to retreat, we eye the juicy fruit that is just beyond our grasp.

Fear will grab us. Maybe even paralyze us. We may retreat closer to the solid trunk, taking comfort in the strength and solidity of it. We marvel at the people who seem so capable of crawling out on that limb.

Their weight pulls them down until they seem to be facing a sure fall. They cling, some with just their legs while they reach out with both hands to grab that wonderful prize.

We can only stand in awe as they dance and shout for joy at their accomplishment.

Maybe they will give us the courage to go after our own dreams. Maybe we will just enjoy their success from the safety of more solid ground.

The only way to really achieve our goals is to have the courage to go out on the limb ourselves. We have to risk it. We have to find the inner strength to conquer the fear and creep inch by inch ever closer to our goals. If we can do that, then we can begin to taste our own success.

Taste that juicy piece of fruit while the sun is still warm on our back and we can stand tall, on firm ground, and enjoy the moment.

It takes courage to reach out for our dreams.

ON LIVING AND SURVIVING

By DAVID HELJSEK

It's March 23, 2001 and I don't have to go see a doctor until the middle of May!

I don't think I can handle all the free time. How do people fill up their time without doctor appointments? It's probably been two years since I've had such a long stretch without a medical appointment.

Last Friday I had two appointments. One was to get my last polio and diphtheria vaccines; the other was to get the bottom drains in my eyelids permanently closed. The only vaccines I have to get now are hepatitis in July and my measles, mumps and rubella next January.

The eye procedure was brief. The doctor at U-M eye clinic was done in about 10 minutes. A very small heating device is applied to the eye drain for a second or two. You hear a little sizzle and that's it. The hardest parts were finding the drains exactly and the numbing of the lower eyelid - which of course meant a poke with a needle. An hour after the procedure I was frying fish at St. Mary's.

I am being assigned more at work and have been on a couple of big mechanical breakdowns this week. I'm still sore from Tuesday's break down in particular. A lot of climbing over machinery and a lot of the millwright's favorite tool, the sledgehammer. My arms and shoulders took a workout.

May will be the two-year anniversary of my transplant and again I am thinking about winding down this column. My next two columns will deal with interviews I have done with people at U-M involved in the transplant program.

The first will be with the nurse coordinator, Kim Kyro, who takes patients up to their hospitalization. She is the patient and family's link with the program prior to transplant. I have yet to do the second interview but I hope to get one of the transplant doctors with whom I'm familiar.

The two-year point has a little deeper meaning than just a date on the calendar. A few months ago I was looking up some information on a website for the National Bone Marrow Transplant Link. They had the 10-year statistics for my exact type of leukemia, CML, and also broken down into what stage the leukemia was in when transplant.

Fifty percent of the patients at my stage, with the same type of leukemia, don't make it for two years. It was sobering. I came back to the site several times just to make sure I saw it correctly.

The statistics were a 10-year compilation. Common transplantation hasn't been around much longer than that, but hard data like that just has an effect on you.

If your viewpoint on what really is a "big problem" hadn't changed at this point of your treatment, news like that sure would do it. Not too many things in life worry me any more. The 10-year survival rate was about 30 percent.

Treatments are getting better every day, so I know that all transplanters' prognosis are getting better daily but as I've said before sometimes there is just a little pause when I talk about long-term plans.

I don't mean to leave you today on a downer, but this column was started with the intent of educating patients and their families, and hiding statistics doesn't feel right to me. The better informed the patient and family is, usually means better treatment and results.

Talk to you soon.

When the muse misses, improvise

Sometimes I know that I have to do something but my brain just won't take me there.

Has that ever happened to you?

I'm facing it today as the computer stares back at me with a cold blank screen.

I have been procrastinating all morning, knowing that I must write a column. And I have done everything imaginable, even to cleaning up the office, to avoid doing it. It is amazing the number of little pieces of paper I can pick up off the carpet rather than doing what I am supposed to be doing.

I am easily distracted by the sounds of people ringing by or the telephone ringing. If I hear the fax machine start, I will go over and stare at the pages come out.

Even the promise of lunch when I am finished is not the motivator that it should be.

But right now I am facing a severe case of writer's block and I have no idea where my brain will take me, if anywhere.

It is always nice to hear from readers that they enjoy my column each week, or that they have missed it when I've managed to find other contributors to fill my space. It's rewarding to know that my words have touched someone else's life in a small way.

Recently a college student, a friend of my daughter's, called and asked if she could interview me. Her assignment was to interview a journalist who writes about women's issues.

Who, me?

It was fun to see this young woman, since I have watched as she grew up. Now she is majoring in journalism in college and it was neat to have the chance to talk to her as another adult.

We decided that while I do write about things that could be considered "women's issues" perhaps they are more accurately described as "people issues" as they reflect what just about anyone can face during the course of their lives.

MARSHA JOHNSON CHARTRAND

AFTER THOUGHTS

So as I face the computer, finally, in the early afternoon, I feel a sense of responsibility to say something meaningful. But the words won't come.

Each week I know I have to write a column. I am always on the lookout for good material. I mull ideas over in my mind and usually long before deadline a thought begins to gel.

And as I sit down and write, the words begin to flow and almost before I realize it, I have completed my column.

I always consider this the "fun" part of my job: the words begin to flow and almost before I realize it, I have completed my column.

time when I'm allowed to be myself - an observer and not a reporter. Since I enjoy writing the column it is nice to know that others enjoy reading it.

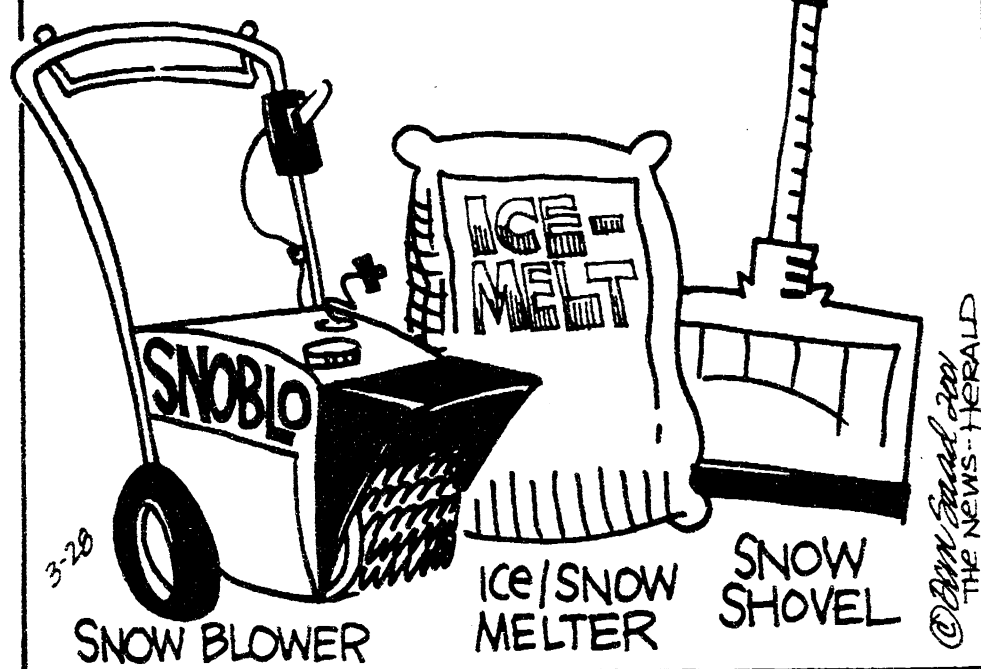

Whether it is serious or funny, I get the chance to say what's on my mind. And as I have mentioned before it does make me happy to know that for once, someone is listening to what I say. My kids don't pay nearly as much attention to me as I'd like them to.

Alas, I seem to be much more of the reporter than the observer this week. Perhaps it has overtaken my sense of self.

I will take some Ginkgo biloba for the next few days to improve my brain function, so I don't have the same problem again next week. Now that sounds like a people issue to me.

Maybe you'll be able to relate to this column, after all.

New local landscape nursery is a family affair

■ Landscape nursery has moved to Bridgewater Township.

By Marsha Johnson Chartrand
Staff Writer

Countryside Nursery and Landscaping is in its third season and is already increasing in size to serve its growing clientele.

The growth process has taken them from their old location on Macon Road in Saline to Austin Road in Bridgewater Township. The former Porter farm near the intersection of Austin and Ernst Roads is an ideal location for the expansion that Steve and Sheryl Knight plan.

"We've already had a greenhouse, with annuals, perennials, trees, bushes and nursery stock," Steve Knight said.

"Now as we go through the seasons, we'll have everything from mums to weeping cherry trees."

Seasonal produce from vegetables and flowers to pumpkins and Christmas trees is part of the planned expansion in their new location. In the first two years of business, the Knights sold pumpkins from their own fields, and usually ran out of their own stock before the season ended. This year they plan to do a pumpkin patch where customers can pick their own pumpkins from a virtually unlimited supply.

A day of family entertainment can be centered around a countryside excursion as the farm will offer horse-drawn wagon rides to the pumpkin patch and hayrides around the farm property.

The business will continue to sell pre-cut Christmas trees for the next few years, but Knight intends to plant evergreens this year for a future Christmas tree farm of their own. Visits from Santa and horse-drawn wagon rides to choose your own Christmas tree will also highlight the holiday season at Countryside.

The draft horses also expand their services to weddings, hayrides for groups and even open houses for builders, with horse drawn wagons through a new subdivision. Ponies will also visit backyard children's parties or give the kids a ride through the farm land.

In addition to Christmas and deciduous trees, Knight wants to grow his own nursery stock.

"In our old place we had seven acres of woods on 15 acres of property," he said.

"Here, we have 40 acres with no trees - yet."

"Christmas tree season was a popular time for us. Customers came because of the horses, and it will be great to combine that with cut your own. That was a request from our customers."

Although it will be five to seven years before the trees are ready to cut, Knight plans to make the tree lots part of the horse drawn wagon tour.

"As they see the maturing trees, it will give them a view of the future," he says.

In addition to the nursery business, the landscaping aspect of the business is also Steve Knight's domain.

"We do everything from lawn care to brick pavers and landscape, in the winter we do snow removal," he said. "It might be better to ask what don't I do."

"It's pretty much whatever my customers have asked me to do."

Knight and his crew cut approximately 100 lawns per week.

"We keep pretty busy," he said. "We do all kinds of different landscape jobs, and we have our own perennials. Also, we can be pretty reasonable as far as bushes, we'll have 2,000 to 3,000 trees and bushes here before May 15."

The business is completely a family affair, and the family includes three generations of Knights. Grandpa Ross Knight is in charge of the greenhouse and the gardens. He is ably assisted by 4-year-old Glenn and 2-year-old Katie. Daughter Jeni, 17, is an elf at Christmas time and helps out when her school and work schedule permits. She also enjoys helping out with the pony walks.

The current project is moving the greenhouse and its contents from the Macon Road location to the Bridgewater location, and putting in a parking lot. This year, there will be a lot of development to the property as the business gets under way. Besides the greenhouse, a new driveway and a parking lot will be the most visible but there is much more in store.

"We really weren't planning to move," Sheryl Knight said. "But we started looking around because we knew our old location didn't have room to grow. We saw this property and one other in Bridgewater Township."

"This one felt right. It had the acreage, buildings, and a good road for traffic. Being on a busy road brought us a lot of customers before."

"We hope by mid-summer things will be fully up and going," Steve Knight added.

"I'm excited, but overwhelmed. It's a lot of work."

"We tried moving through December and with 30 inches of snow outside, we couldn't get into the horse pasture. So we spent two days moving snow, and now we're converting the barns from cows to horses. And we have to move a lot of stuff."

The horses and ponies are older and well experienced. The Percherons are formerly Amish logging horses and the ponies are frequently trained by riding a pony ring. But Knight says that at the farm, they have never used a ring and he doesn't believe the kids would enjoy that as much. Taking them on walks around the farm and on trails is more to his taste.

"The ponies are used to kids."

It's a family affair at Countryside Nursery on East Austin Road. Glenn Knight (left) takes one of the ponies out for a ride, assisted by his dad, Steve Knight and sister Jeni, while grandpa Ross and mom Sheryl take Katie. The ponies will be a major attraction at the new business in Bridgewater Township.

and until they are ready we don't take them out. Often we'll take an extra pony to a party, just to tie him up and let him get used to being around the commotion," he said.

It's an adventure for the Knight family. And they want their customers to see it as an adventure, too.

"Our new location will be much more entertaining and customer friendly," Sheryl Knight said. "We'll do pre-cut trees the first few years, along with narrated tours on the Christmas tree farm. Let them see how they're doing each year."

"It will be educational," Steve adds. "Our Christmas trees will be ready in five years and I hope to put in a drip irrigation system, hopefully run by a big windmill."

Most importantly, he said, they are improving to serve their customers - both old and new - better than ever before. They look forward to welcoming both old and new customers to their new location and expand their service to this area.

"We have lots of plans for the future, and lots of room to make those plans happen."

HISTORY

"If anyone would have told me when Lori and I moved out here in 1994, that I would buy this little hardware and it would become my life, I would have laughed at them," he said.

"But this is a great community and I am going to miss that customer camaraderie I have developed."

He will continue to do small engine and lawnmower repair in addition to his welding and fabrication business in the shop behind the hardware store. And although that business pays the bills, he says he is sorry that there will be some customers he won't see so often.

"In certain respects, the hardware has been the most fun," he added. "There is the satisfaction of being able to help people."

"In this age of Lowe's and Home Depot, customers don't get the personalized attention that a hardware store owner can give them. If I got a commission on every job where I've offered advice to help people fix something up, I'd be a wealthy man."

And as if to prove the point, a customer comes in asking Poegel for a bolt "about this long" to fix a broken part.

And he knows exactly where to find it. The bolt is located, pronounced a good fit, and a sale is made - at storewide clearance prices.

When people come into the store looking for replacement parts or equipment that is no longer available, Poegel will just as likely weld or repair the part, give them ideas to upgrade or figure out how to get by without it.

"That's the fun part," he said. "The needs of the customer provide a challenging thought process."

"You know, you probably won't find the accumulated knowledge and assistance that's available right here, in any other location," he said.

Part of that accumulated knowledge and assistance he attributes to Erwin Haab, who still makes almost daily visits to the store he owned with his brother for over 40 years. Haab has served four and five generations of many of the families who have lived around the lake during this time, and residents have come to rely on his wisdom.

And while Poegel may consider himself the "bull" behind the business, Fredericks is quick to point out that his background in maintenance and repair provide a valuable service to the hardware's clientele.

And he will admit that he often gets called into the store from working on a project in the shop, only to find someone who simply needs directions.

"I know that our customers will miss not only the convenience of the store, but the personalized attention," Poegel said. "But one thing constant is change. Part of that change is that we can't compete in today's business world."

"Erwin and Wally sold appliances, lawn mowers, tractors, and chain saws. The original hardware owner a long time ago, took his wares out on a cart to sell to local farmers."

"There's been a lot of history here."

SENIOR CITIZENS NEWS

Spring has almost sprung - just enough to make us think it is finally coming. But it must be hard to make a living when you're a robin. They search for those worms early and late in the day.

If they think it will be spring, then who can argue with them? I wonder how snow can still be seen when it was 57 degrees yesterday, March 23!

Daughter Janet is my source for "what do I write about this week."

She sent this entitled Signs of Humor from their senior newspaper (no author listed.)

On an electrician's truck: "Let us remove your shorts."

Outside a radiator repair shop: "Best place in town to take a leak."

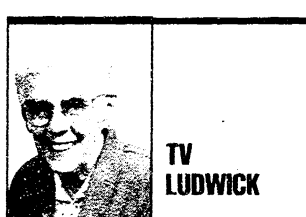

On a maternity room door: "Push. Push. Push."

At an optometrist's office: "If you don't see what you're looking for, you've come to the right place."

In a podiatrist's window: "Time wounds all heels."

At a car dealership: "The best way to get back on your feet - miss a car payment."

Outside a muffer shop: "No appointment necessary. We'll hear you coming." Inside a bowling alley: "Please be quiet. We need to hear a pin drop."

In the front yard of a funeral home: "Drive carefully. We'll wait."

Thursday: Crispy baked chicken will be served to us and to our guests from the Saline Senior Citizens group who will join us to eat and play cards. It is reported that twenty guests will be here, come and enjoy these neighbors.

Now, will March go out like a lamb? Maybe it will make April Fool feel foolish!

Monday: Seniors will leave the center at 9:30 a.m. for shopping at Tecumseh. The term "bus on request" means just that ... call Marion Ahrens at 428-7865 to go along if you have not signed the book at meals.

Tuesday: Tod will present sesame ginger chicken for our pleasure this noon in Emanuel's fellowship hall. Call either Kelly (ahead) at 428-8359 or Tod at 428-7630 between 9 and 10 a.m. on meal days. Call to either reserve your spot to eat or cancel meals that you don't need on this particular date.

Wednesday: Come, all folks 65 and older to the Manchester United Methodist Church to try out yoga class beginning at 9:30 a.m. This is a free class sponsored by Washtenaw Community College. We have just these last two classes in this series, why not come and try? Bring a rug or blanket and a small pillow for the class.

Thursday: Here comes the birthday bash for all seniors born in April, 55 or older. Come early to have your picture taken. Ham is the treat to go along with birthday cake and all the fun of enjoying the company of those born in the same month as you.

You may continue your fun by playing bingo at the center or maybe a rousing game of cards will make your day.

Challenge Day program set

■ "The ultimate field trip" planned for 200 students.

Since 1987 the Challenge Day program has touched the lives of over 3/4 million teens and adults nationwide. The Challenge Day program has received numerous awards from the juvenile justice system, government officials and many school districts and cities throughout the nation. It has also been featured in the book Chicken Soup for the Teenage Soul and the UPN documentary Teen Files: Surviving High School.

Challenge days are powerful, high-energy programs in which youth and adult participants are guided through a series of experiential learning processes. The overall goals of the program are to increase personal power and self-esteem, to shift dangerous peer pressure to positive peer support and to eliminate the acceptability of teasing, oppression and all forms of violence.

The Challenge Day program is designed to unite the members of the schools to empower them to carry the themes of the program back to the school population. Challenge Days also successfully address the issues of violence, teasing, social oppression, racism, harassment, conflict management, suicide, peer pressure, alcohol and drugs.

Participation in the all-day program includes 100 sophomore and junior students on April 18. Fifty students have been randomly selected from each of the sophomore and junior classes at Manchester High School. All students in the freshman class will participate the following day. Selected students will be notified by mail this week.

Facilitators are vital to ensure the success of the program and assist in creating a lasting impact on the school. Manchester Community School administrators, high school teaching and support staff, bus drivers and custodians are invited to participate in the experience. Some of the most powerful and successful Challenge Days have had as many as 40-50 adults involved in the activity.

The Challenge Day program welcomes parents, police officers, youth group leaders, Chamber of Commerce members, youth organization representatives, local government officials, school board members, clergy and youth group leaders to volunteer for this program.

To volunteer for the Challenge Day program, contact Bill Kindt at the high school, 428-7333, or Dianne Schwab, 428-8796.

Pinewood Derby winners

The Cub Scouts Pack 421 held the annual Pinewood Derby at Emanuel Church on March 17. Each of the 48 participants showed great sportsmanship and had a lot of fun. The Cub Scouts extend a special thank you to Bill Kwolek, Dave Roberts, and the Boy Scouts of Pack 426 who once again helped the event run smoothly.

Five finalists' cars will continue on to the Munhake District Finals in May.

Those lucky cars belonged to Zach Alexander in first place; second place winner was James Kreklaub; in third place, Forest Palmer; coming in fourth was Eric Selover, and the fifth place trophy was presented to Ryan Fuller. An additional trophy was awarded to Travis Tubbs for best design. John Rogers, organizer of the event, thanks all committee members and participants for their support and cooperation, and wishes them luck in 2002!

Looking Back

(March 28, 1901)
News of the Village and Surrounding Country
 School begins again Monday morning.

One week from next Sunday will be Easter. Attention is called to Gallup & Lewis' advertisement.

Don't neglect to read the advertisement of Geo. J. Haeussler.

There will be a class of 20 boys and girls confirmed at Emanuel's church Sunday morning.

The roads have been very muddy the past week, yet the farmers have kept at work, teaming.

An old man driving through the village Tuesday, stopped his horse on Exchange Place to exhort the people who found time to listen to him. He talked religion fast enough.

Monday was the right kind of a day to remind one of spring. There was thunder and lightning, rain and hail, a political caucus, wild fowl swimming on the pond and streaked snakes crawling in the grass.

When you go to vote next Monday be sure to vote "no" on the constitutional amendment to create courts of appeal. We have no need of such. It would only be needless expense and our taxes are high enough. Vote it down.

The weight of the watertank in the upper part of the Freeman house has caused the partition to settle and the plaster was badly cracked. Fearing more serious damage might result, Mr. Freeman has had the partition between the office and the hallway removed and iron posts put in.

Men were busy nearly all day Sunday breaking up the ice which had swung away from the shores of the upper pond, and pushing it over the dam. A large crowd of people stood upon the bridge and lined the banks, watching the great cakes of ice as they went thundering over. Dynamite was used in the endeavor to break up the great field of ice, but with no success, so pike poles were used. The pond is now clear of ice.

Manchester Creamery

We are sure that our readers will be interested in knowing that business at the Manchester creamery is gradually improving and is much better than a year ago. Notwithstanding the opposition and difficulties incident to the establishment of the business, the manager and board of directors did not lose courage but with quiet and determined efforts persevered until they have met with success.

Realizing that greater power was the most essential need, these changed and improvements have been supplied thus increasing the capacity and otherwise adding to the convenience of the institution. The patrons realize this and as the farmers become better acquainted with this handling of their milk they look about and ask each other: Why not keep more cows? For the last four months the patrons of the creamery have received from three to five cents per pound more for their butter than they could get elsewhere, and this after paying for drawing their milk and making the butter.

The amount of milk received during the last year was 1,466,509 pounds, producing 65,388 pounds of butter, which sold for $12,730.48 or an average of 19 1/2 cts. per pound for the year.

Minor Michigan Matters

Milan is to have a new $10,000 hotel.

The Grand River at Eaton Rapids is steadily raising and serious damage is looked for.

The court house at Manistique was burned to the ground on the 19th. Loss, $12,000.

Ionia is to have an automobile factory, a local stock company being behind the venture.

The disappearance of the snow shows thousands of quail dead in fence corners and other protected places where they were caught by heavy snowstorms and smothered and frozen.

Encouraged by the success of other Michigan cities which have asked and received, Lansing is going to put in its application to Andrew Carnegie for one of his latest model libraries.

Fergus, Saginaw County, is most prolific. While boring for coal, rock salt was struck, and now a salt block is being built. The find proved so pleasing that it was determined to sink another well in the hope of finding more salt. Imagine the surprise of the workmen to find a six foot vein of coal. It is hard to tell what they will find next.

Norvell Farmer's Club: A Public Meeting held at the Town Hall, Saturday, March 23.

The annual meeting of the club was well attended, there being a number of visitors present...

It was voted to defer the election of officers until the next meeting. Miss Edna Hay then read an interesting paper entitled "Bricks" which was followed by a paper by C.J. Harper on the subject "Stock Feeding." H.A. Ladd opened the discussion and was followed by L.D. Watkins and others, all agreeing that there is no profit in feeding an inferior animal.

Next came a paper on "Chance Acquaintances" by Mrs. John Green. It contained many bright thoughts expressed in an interesting manner. This was followed by a paper by C.P. Holmes, on ROAD IMPROVEMENT.

In dealing with this subject I shall only throw out a few thoughts and make a few suggestions, hoping that others may make it more definite and develop some practical ideas that may be put into practice...

I think that it will only be a few years before automobiles of some design will be in quite general use, and then, as the roads that answered fairly well in our grandfathers' day for the ox team and lumber wagon had to be improved for the carriage and driving horse of today, so must those of our children's children must meet the need of still more rapid travel.

I cannot close without saying a word about the way our road work is done. It seems to be quite a general thing to do our road work at such a time as the people of the district have no other pressing business, and as some are pretty sure to have something special on hand whenever road work is proposed, it is hard to find any time that will suit all. I think that this should be changed and people should know that at about such a time of the year the work must be done. Then we Network. Heritage owns 20 Michigan newspapers, including the Manchester Enterprise. The new Web site and newspaper are operating as part of Greenleaper LLC, a newly formed Heritage Media affiliate company.

"The new company represents a strategic investment in the future of Heritage Newspapers by transferring an existing print product — classified advertisements — to the emerging online marketplace of tomorrow: the Internet," said Manuel, who also serves as president of Greenleaper LLC.

According to Manuel, greenleaper.com is positioned to provide consumers and businesses with a multidimensional advertising outlet that combines the best elements of the Web and print — and allows the consumers and business people reading those classifieds to choose the media format most suitable to their needs.

In essence, greenleaper.com is a regional classified marketplace. Anyone who's ever sold a car or looked for a job or a house through the classified advertising pages of a newspaper still will have that option, but will be able to get the word out to more people than ever through greenleaper.com, Manuel said.

Under the greenleaper.com business model, he added, the corresponding Web site and newsstand edition are designed to create a full-service business-to-consumer and business-to-business classified advertising portal.

Right off the bat, Heritage Newspapers' entire database of classified ads from all 20 newspapers will go online and will be used to extend the company's classified advertising services beyond its current coverage areas.

And early next month look for 50,000 copies of the print product to appear twice monthly at 1,200 locations throughout southeastern Michigan. The majority of those locations are at stores, but about 100 distinctive "Froggie Green" coin boxes will be spread to strategic spots, Manuel said.

Each new issue of the publication will be placed on the racks during the first and third weekends of the month. The newsstand price will be 50 cents.

The Web site also will feature a variety of highly desired interactive features, including free e-mail, access to personal ads, coupons and, best of all, Manuel said, the ability to actually place your ad online. Current plans also call for the addition of a local auction feature at a later date.

He said studies by the Michigan Press Association and others show that classified information is the best-read section of a traditional newspaper.

"It touches every part of a customer's life, from employment to automobiles, from boats to garage sales and even from antique furniture to apartment rentals," Manuel said. "In other words, classifieds are the stuff readership is made of — and readership is the foundation of a successful newspaper operation."

Classified advertising represents an industry that generates more than $7 billion a year annually for newspapers and related publications.

To remain competitive against an army of well-funded, international, non-newspaper e-businesses, according to Manuel, Heritage Media Network is attempting to take a good idea and make it better.

"We want to be the industry leader in local classifieds in southeastern Michigan," he said. "Based on a market analysis, greenleaper.com offers tremendous opportunities. Our business proposition is to lead the way in leveraging newspaper classified content and skills into becoming the dominant force in online classified advertising."

The development of Greenleaper LLC, a new Heritage Media Network affiliate, was initiated last summer. At that time Manuel named Mark Warren general manager and leased additional office space at One Heritage Place in Southgate, the home base for Heritage Media since 1988.

Warren, who has 20 years of experience in newspaper circulation and advertising, has overseen the development of the Web site, newsstand edition and an office staff that will total 12 people initially.

"By offering a multimedia product that encompasses the Web and print, we hope to have an edge and to bridge the gap between old and new," Warren said.

Aside from its own staff, greenleaper.com is supported by Heritage's regional classified system and is the beneficiary of other key Heritage resources, such as technology services. Heritage Media has one of the most technologically advanced media organizations in Michigan, according to Manuel, who has headed the operation for the past 11 years.

Heritage Media Network was formed in the mid-1980s when Downriver industrialist Heinz Prechter purchased an assortment of weekly newspapers, as well as some publishing and technology interests. The company now is part of Southgate-based Prechter Holdings Inc., a diversified conglomerate of automotive, media, real estate, agriculture and livestock companies.

Over the past decade, Heritage Media Network has acquired several growing suburban newspaper franchises in Washtenaw County and the Flint area, bringing its total number of southeastern Michigan weekly and twice-weekly publications to 20.

Manuel believes that all of the study, planning, marketing know-how and significant investment in capital and personnel involved in launching greenleaper.com will add a new dimension to an already successful classified advertising network through Heritage Media.

"Anyone who's ever sold a car or looked for a job or a home through the classified advertising pages of a newspaper will retain that option, but will reach more people than ever before with just a hop, click and jump onto greenleaper.com," Manuel said.

And about that smiling, bulgy-eyed, lime-green amphibian you'll be seeing on billboards and hearing about on the radio: It's the brainchild of the professionals at Young & Rubicam Group/Detroit, a world leader in commercial communications whose job it is to help launch the new online marketing initiative.

"Heritage Media is a great company with a clear strategy, a strong culture and a focused set of business objectives," said Laurie Null, Y & R/Detroit president and CEO.

Readers of Heritage Newspapers and anybody with Internet access will have a chance to see for themselves.

"Stay tuned for exciting new features, including the local auction for retailers and consumers," Warren said.

There's also a toll-free number, 1-866-8LEAPER, to place an ad or for more information. Warren also welcomes questions by e-mail at mwarren@greenleaper.com

POLICE BLOTTER

Central West and Village of Manchester

Threats/Trespassing

On Feb. 20, a plant manager called Deputy Marcus Kirby to Pilot Metal Products.

The manager advised Kirby that an employee who was fired the previous day was heard making statements about blowing up the pilot plant and "getting" the supervisor that fired him. The suspect was also reported to have a shotgun in his vehicle.

Kirby contacted the suspect who stated he was "just blowing off steam" and trying to get his act together. The former employee felt he was fired unfairly, but said he never meant for anyone to take him seriously.

Kirby advised the man not to make contact with Pilot Metal Products or the supervisors. He was served with notice not to trespass on the property. The case was closed without further incident.

Fire on school property

While on patrol on March 7, Deputy Brewster noted a fire in a garbage can at the high school.

Brewster extinguished the fire and it was not determined whether the fire was arson or accidental.

MDOP

On Feb. 24, a high school student reported that he had a tire punctured while parked at the high school. The student said he suspected another student who had been heard making threats to "get him."

No witnesses or evidence has been located to prove the complaint. Deputy Kirby labeled the case open pending further investigation

House Fire

Deputy Kevin Deacons was called to investigate a house fire in Freedom Township on March 6.

The resident reported that he had smelled "wires burning" earlier in the day but had not located anything out of order.

When he returned from a shopping trip a couple of hours later he found the house filled with smoke. He tried to find his cat but was unable to locate it and went to a neighbor to call 911.

When he returned he attempted to find the cat again but left the house when he saw flames.

The Manchester Township and Chelsea Fire Departments were called in to fight the fire but the home was completely gutted and deemed a total loss estimated at $100,000.

The cat was located by fire fighters, safe in an adjacent green house.

The fire is suspected to be caused by a short in the wires but is under investigation by the state fire marshal.

Deacons found no evidence of foul play in the fire.

Death Investigation

A natural death was reported on Feb. 21 at Manchester Manor.

Her son discovered the victim after she could not be reached by phone.

Sgt. Dieter Heren investigated the death and found no evidence of foul play.

Burglary

On March 17, Deputy Kirby investigated a report of a break-in at the Manchester car wash on Union Street.

Kirby discovered that someone had broken into the coin boxes at the self-serve car wash by cutting off the locks. A small amount of change was stolen from the boxes.

There are no suspects and the case is still under investigation.

Marijuana arrest

Deputy Matt Butzky, acting on a search warrant, confiscated a small amount of suspected marijuana from a home on City Road on March 14. The warrant was obtained on the basis of a tip.

Pending results of the official analysis from the sheriff's department crime lab, the case will be sent to the prosecutor's office.

OBITUARY

WILLIAM WATSON

Of Ann Arbor

William Watson died peacefully on March 23, 2001 after a long struggle with Alzheimer's disease. He was born May 21, 1920 in Covington, Ky. the son of Edward and Nola (Greenwell) Watson.

Mr. Watson was a teacher in the Dearborn Public School system from 1953 until 1986, first at Fordson High School and then at Henry Ford Community College.

He is survived by his wife, Elaine (Reno) Watson of Ann Arbor; sons David (Peggy) of Manchester and Douglas of Santa Cruz, Calif.; daughter Diane Calloway of Inkster; and by six grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

His brother James and his sister Elizabeth Bove preceded him in death.

A memorial service for Mr. Watson took place at St. Andrew's Episcopal Church in Ann Arbor on Tuesday, March 27 with the Rev. John Nieman officiating. Arrangements by the Jenter-Braun Funeral Home, Manchester Chapel.

Spring Fever?

Reserve a park and have a picnic!

The Manchester Parks Department would like to remind everyone that the following areas are available to be reserved:

- The Gazebo at Wurster Park
- The Large Pavilion at Carr Park
- The Pavilion at Chi-Bro Park
- The Volleyball courts at Carr Park and Chi-Bro Park and the Baseball Diamonds at both Kirk Park and Carr Park.

Call Manchester Village offices at 428-7877 to reserve a location.

The reservation system is in effect from April 1 through October 31 for picnics, parties, etc. People and organizations that reside outside the Village limits will be charged a $20 fee for reservations. There is no charge for Village residents. The reservations are first come, first served; community-wide events (such as Little League, the Fourth of July Celebration and others) will always have precedence.

Library board composed of a variety of volunteers

By Marsha Johnson Chartrand
Staff Writer

The Manchester District Library is governed by an eight-member group of volunteer residents of the library district.

The village and the participating townships appoint them for a period of four years each.

Current members of the board include:

Charlotte Major, president, is appointed by Manchester Township. Her term expires in 2002. Major's home phone number is 428-8451.

Sutton

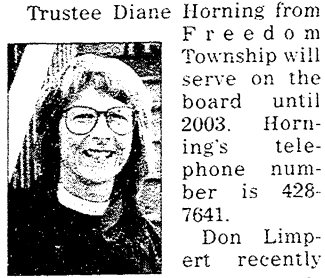

Thornton

Laura Kathleen Sutton, vice president, was appointed by the village to serve until 2003. Her home telephone number is 428-7445.

Secretary Jane Thornton is a representative of Freedom Township, serving until 2005. Her home telephone number is 428-9784.

Patty

Swaney represents Bridgewater Township on the board and was appointed through 2004. She can be reached at 517-456-7244.

Swaney

Trustee Diane Horning from Freedom Township will serve on the board until 2003. Horning's telephone number is 428-7641.

Don Limpert recently was re-appointed by the village of Manchester to serve as a trustee until 2005. His home telephone number is 428-7400.

representative Theodore Sippel's term extends until 2002. He may be contacted at 428-0924.

Trustee Richard Spring was appointed by Manchester Township to serve until 2004.

His telephone number is 428-9425.

By law, library boards are authorized to adopt bylaws and rules for the board's governance and for use of the library.

They are also charged with hiring a library director, who administers the daily operations of the library. In addition, the board's responsibilities include adopting an annual operating budget and providing adequate funding for the library.

Limpert

The duties of a board member include attendance and participation at meetings, being a team player and supporting board decisions. They should also be an advocate for the library and respect and support the role of the library director.

Presently the board is involved with ongoing negotiations with the village of Manchester to provide a more expansive and accessible building in which to house the district library, with additional services to the public.

The board of trustees meets the first Monday of each month at the new village hall. Meetings begin at 7 p.m. and the public is welcome to attend. The board also welcomes input from the public.

Stuck up

Junior Katie Keller taped to the wall at the high school dance on March 16 to benefit the Key Club. Students paid $1 per yard of duct tape. Keller, the Key Club treasurer, was taped to the wall for two hours while standing on a chair. When the chair was removed, it took about two minutes for her to fall off the wall. Luckily, her friends were there to catch her.

Hospice fund-raiser set

By Marsha Johnson Chartrand
Staff Writer

A variety show and silent auction will benefit the patient care fund of Individualized Hospice on April 1.

Don't be a fool—join with family and friends at 2 p.m. for "The Joy of Life 2001," held at the Freight House in Ypsilanti, at Cross and River Streets near the farmer's market.

All proceeds will go to the Hospice Patient Care Fund, providing medication, equipment and services to patients needing assistance with end of life care and comfort. Admission is by donation at the door. There will be food, fun and entertainment for all.

Featured performances include comedian OJ Anderson, folktales presented by The Wild Swan Theater, intricate vocals by the unique quartet Old Friends Four and the daredevil juggling of Jonathon Park.

"These shows will include audience participation, so be ready to have some fun," said organizer Dawn Englandtelt.

Come early for the silent auction, which will begin at 1 p.m. Featured auction items include the work of local artists, gift certificates and services.

"Our goal is to raise $5,000 to help defray the costs of medications and equipment for the patient care fund," Welt said. "This is an opportunity to help provide comfort and support to someone in your community."

Everyone can make a difference in helping patients with a terminal illness die with dignity, in the comfort of their own home. Welt added.

"We want to use this opportunity to spread the word to our communities that help is available for the asking," she said. "Too many people die in our community without the help and support of hospice."

Donations will be collected at the door and during a pass-the-hat intermission.

For more information call (734) 971-0444 and ask for Sherry Wagenknecht or (734) 429-7128 to speak with Dawn Welt.

should make as much calculation on it as we do upon putting our wheat or planting our corn. And we should do such faithful work; but do we?

The paper was discussed at some length by John Green, S.W. Holmes, H.A. Ladd, A.W. Dunn, and Mr. Raymond from whom the opinion prevailed that early in the spring, as soon as the frost is out of the ground, is the proper time to work roads: that more interest should be taken in the work; that the road machine is an important factor; that gravel makes the best roads and clay mixed with sand forms a good solid road bed. At this time they adjourned for refreshments.

The volleyball teams held a post-season banquet on March 25 to recap a successful season. The team tied for second place in the league, taking second place at the league meet and second place at districts.

Head coach Dan Roughton announced numerous awards including Conference Honors.

Amy Preston was named All Conference First Team and earned All Tournament Team honors. This feat is all the more remarkable considering the extent of the injuries she received in an automobile accident last summer. Preston showed guts and determination in her comeback.

"She did an amazing job," Roughton said.

Cassie Clark, Kelli Randall and Natalie Weidmeyer all received Honorable Mention All Conference.

The Coaches' Award went to Clark. Roughton bestows that honor on the person who put the most on the line for the team.

Ashley Schlosser was selected the Most Improved Player.

"She stayed after any practice she could get me to stay," Roughton said. "She was usually the last one to leave the gym with me every night."

Most Valuable Player, as voted by the team, was Amy Preston.

Ten members of the team earned scholar-athlete honors by averaging a 3.0 grade point average or above during the second quarter. In addition to Preston, Schlosser and Randall that honor was also earned by Lisa Lobbestael, Jacky Palms, Heidi Ernst, Sarah Johnson, Stephanie Schleicher, Nicole Leverett and Brie Hyde.

Shannon Green and Natalie Weidmeyer earned Scholar-Athlete honors for averaging a 4.0 during the second quarter. As a group, the varsity volleyball team earned a 3.38 grade point average.

Congratulations to all the members of the volleyball team for their achievement this season.

Brains and brawn for varsity hoopsters

■ Awards galore for varsity team.

By Colleen O'Neill
Special Writer

The Manchester varsity basketball team racked up some impressive accomplishments during the 2000-01 season. The squad posted a 17-6 overall record and finished second in the league.

The Dutch won their first district championship in 27 years.

But perhaps the most impressive accomplishment was when all 11 players received scholar athlete awards at their year-end banquet.

Scholar-athletes are normally judged by their ability to keep their grade point average above 3.0 during the season.

The Manchester varsity basketball team, made up of one sophomore, eight juniors and two seniors, holds a cumulative 3.40 GPA.

Junior Aaron LaRock is carrying a 4.0 overall GPA.

The team has been nominated for Academic All-State honors.

In addition to their academic and athletic honors, it has been announced that Brett Maki was selected to the Ann Arbor News All-Ann Arbor first-team. He also made the Jackson Citizen Patriot Class C-D team.

A highly-deserving Maki received the Most Valuable Player award at last week's banquet.

Maki was a four-year varsity basketball player and was the only Dutch to start every game during Manchester coach Mike Quinn's two-year tenure.

He was voted All-Conference first-team and received the most votes of any All-Conference basketball player.

Karl Schaible was voted by his teammates the Most Improved Player and the Coaches Award went to Mike Walter.

Quinn said all of the five basketball coaches looked at Walter as an unsung hero throughout the season.

"The kid over came a lot," Quinn said.

Walter separated his shoulder the week before the first game of the season and did not get to play until after Christmas.

"He didn't get to play as much as he would have liked to," Quinn said. "But he never let it affect his demeanor. He was one of the most enthusiastic kids on the team."

Quinn went on to state his belief that if his team had to pick one guy as a teammate, Walter would be the one.

"It was easy to be happy for Mike when he succeeded because he was definitely happy for the other guys when they succeeded," Quinn said.

Although the team is losing Maki and Jon Miller, eight juniors will be back next year.

Given the intelligence level and talent of this team it is not unrealistic to expect great things from the team next year.

The varsity team has only lost 11 games in the last two years and will bring a slew of talent to the parquet next year.

"Our expectations will be high for a reason," Quinn said. "We lose two great kids and though they will be tough to replace, we have people willing to accept the challenge."

"Kids from junior varsity expect to be successful, the (future) seniors expect to be successful. I don't think we can set expectations too high."

Congratulations to every member of the varsity basketball team.

Cheerleaders look forward to next year

■ This year's conference and regional champs look to future.

Congratulations to the varsity cheerleading squad for their impressive sideline performance and a very successful competition season.

Captains Rachel Landry and Holly Sutton led the varsity sideline squad. Both were scholar athletes. Sutton held a 3.0 or greater grade point average for the second quarter and Landry held a 4.0.

Manchester coach Carmen Williams gave the Most Valuable Player award to Landry.

"She's a really strong cheerleader and asset to the team," Williams said. "We couldn't do it without her."

The Most Improved honors went to Briana Clark.

As a sophomore, Williams was unsure where to put Clark during tryouts, but because of her spark she placed her on the varsity squad.

"Through the season she just improved the most," Williams said. "She has gotten to be one of the strongest bases, has great floor presence and is a great cheerleader."

The Coaches Award went to Sutton.

"She always pulled the team together, even during rocky times," Williams said. "If there was too much goofing off at practice, she was good at pulling the team together. She has some great spirit about her and is a great cheerleader."

Eight girls from the varsity squad and four from the junior varsity made up the competitive cheer team and performed in conference, regional and state competitions.

Sutton, Landry, Megan Coutts, Cori Ahrens, Clark, Mandy Carey, Lauren Miller, Heather Walter, Nikki Minder, Jen Schulze, Emily Copeland and Amy Ervin made up the competitive cheer squad.

The team took first place in the conference, and first place at regionals. They finished 18th at the state championship.

"I was really impressed with the girls this season," Williams said. "Even though state didn't turn out how we planned I'm really proud of them."

Williams is looking forward to next year because she has a very young team.

"Nine girls from the competitive team will be returning," Williams said. "Next year should be good."

Williams will hold tryouts at the end of May for next season. High school athletes are invited to attend, as are any interested eighth graders. Look for more information in the Sports In Brief column by early May.

PRAYER TO THE HOLY SPIRIT: You who make me see everything and who show me the way to reach my ideals. You who give me the divine gift to forgive and forget, from all that is done to me and you who are in all the instances of my life with me. I in this short dialogue want to thank you for everything and confirm once more that I never want to be separated from you no matter how great material desires may be. I want to be with you and my loved ones in your perpetual glory. Amen. Thank you for your love toward me and my loved ones. Persons may play this prayer three consecutive days without asking for their wish. After third day, your wish will be granted, no matter how difficult it may be. Promise to publish this dialogue as soon as your favor has been granted. CMC.

Seventh grade basketball team takes first in Ann Arbor league

■ Team ranks above eighth and ninth-graders.

By Colleen O'Neill
Special Writer

Although the Manchester seventh-grade girls' basketball team has finished its season, they can enjoy looking back at several highlights from the year.

The team participated in the "February Frenzy Basketball Tournament" and lost by three baskets in the championship game.

Made up of Darci Chrestensen, Stacy Covi, Katelyn Gall, Katelyn Hill, Laura Eisenhauer, Shannon Olinyk, Ashley Slocum and Holly Staten the mini Dutch defeated the Brighton Bullpups in the first game of the tournament.

"It was a really good game," said Manchester coach Wes Gall. "We played once before in Ann Arbor and both teams played exceptionally well. It was a very exciting basketball game for the girls."

The Dutch then played the Pinckney Cruisers who were not quite as experienced a basketball team according to Gall but made it a good game.

In the championship game Manchester played Saline Intensity, another seventh grade team.

"We knew it would be a pretty good game," Gall said. "We've played each other at other times. The game was tight all the way through."

Freedom Lawn Service has supported the team extensively this year and paid their entry fee into the tournament.

The championship loss was the first time Manchester fell to the Saline team, but when they faced off again on March 18 the Dutch came away victorious with a 40-37 win.

The seventh-grade girls' basketball team had a successful year including taking first place in their Ann Arbor league.

"Their press did not affect us in the second game like it did in the first," said Gall. "The girls handled it well."

The key to the win for Manchester was their performance at the foul line.

Although three players fouled out, leaving Gall with only the five on the floor to finish the game, the foul calls benefited Manchester.

"The girls did extremely well from the foul line," Gall said. "It was a very physical game with a lot of fouls called. It allowed our shooting ability from the foul line to show up."

The team ended its season on March 25 when they played

Emerson. Gall called time out with just nine seconds left in the game. Manchester in bounded and Chrestensen hit a three-point shot to tie the game. Emerson did not have time to get off another shot, tying the game at the end of regulation.

The three-minute overtime period saw the advantage go to Emerson. Manchester lost 38-33.

The sting of the loss was eased, however, when the season results were announced.

Organizers divided the teams into Ann Arbor schools and out-county schools.

"The seventh-grade girls ended up first place in the eighth/ninth division," Gall said. "It was quite an honor for them."

Sixth grade hoopsters excel in league competition

Manchester's sixth-grade girls Ann Arbor League basketball team ended its season last Saturday with an impressive 9-1 record and received the South Division Out County first place trophy.

Although the season began with a disappointing showing at the Manchester Tournament in December, in hindsight the struggle turned out to be the team's best motivator. The girls came to the next practice determined to succeed. Dedication to learning plays and positions and a strong sense of teamwork proved to become a winning combination.

With contributions by every single player, the Lady Dutch began taking on the Ann Arbor League teams, game by game, and not taking any game for granted. The team worked hard for every game and believed in themselves - not only personally, but as a team.

Many games were close in score and kept the fans as well as the coaches on the edge of their seats with excitement. The only Dutch loss was by a couple of points in overtime play.

According to the coaches, every player deserves the title "Most Improved." Each player worked diligently on her individual strengths and overcome difficult-to-break habits. The girls listened, learned and executed with a refreshing enthusiasm.

"Thank you, ladies, for a memorable and fun season none of us will forget," said coaches Ann Iott-Uphaus and Bev Little. "We are so very proud of what you have accomplished.

"Thanks for letting us be a part of your lives."

The coaches also thank the parents, relatives and friends who supported the team without fail.

"Hearing everyone cheering us on at the games was very important to the team's successful season," they said.
