Planning, land issues dominate Sharon meeting

■ Planning commission member asked to resign.

By Nancy Hebb
Special Writer

All board members and about a dozen residents attended the May 3 Sharon Township Board Meeting at which several items affecting township planning and land use issues came to the forefront.

Supervisor Gary Blades called for the removal of Rebecca Lambers from the township's planning commission. In addition, a resolution reinforcing the future of the ten-acre density rule passed in a roll call vote.

During public participation,

Bridgewater Township resident Greg Stewart, representing Preservationists Against Greenways Projects, presented a synopsis of the group's efforts and the project's status. He asked if the Sharon Township board had made any decision to join or not join the greenways project.

Blades said that both sides had communicated with the board, but no decision had been made. Stewart thanked the board and residents for allowing him to speak and urged anyone with questions about the project to contact PAGP.

Rebecca Lambers, originally named to the township planning commission by Blades, then read a letter addressed to the Supervisor, Township Board, Planning Commission and citizens of Sharon Township. It was her response to Blades' letter of April 26, asking for her resignation from the planning commission. Lambers distributed copies of both letters to all in attendance.

Lambers and several supporters expressed concern that her removal from the planning commission was due only to differences of opinion between Lambers and Blades.

Township resident Charlotte Anderson said, "I am concerned that this (action) has the appearance of eliminating someone for a difference of opinion."

Blades said that it is not a question of a difference of opinion.

"It's a question of adversarial relations between the board and the planning commission," he said. "We need to be working together to do what needs to be done."

We need to make changes. It's about what isn't getting done, that needs to get done."

Trustee Roger Kappler, in support of Lambers, asked her how she had voted in each of several decisions made by the planning commission in the past, noting that it was ironic that he, often of a different viewpoint than Lambers, was now defending her against removal. When Kappler asked what Lambers had done to impede the planning commission, Blades reiterated that it was a question of an adversary stance that prevented the board and the planning commission from working well together in a time when change and policy resolution was crucial. Lambers reiterated several points

Students add international flavor

■ Visitors teach elementary pupils about other cultures.

By Marsha Johnson Chartrand
Associate Editor

The value of teaching students about other traditions and cultures is the reason that the International Day at Klager School is growing in popularity in its second year.

Michael Milne, director of Access International School in Ann Arbor, brought a small group of students from around the world to the Team II classroom last year, and this year expanded it to 21 students in eight classrooms of third and fourth-graders.

Milne is the father of Klager fourth-grader Maria Paz and believes that the program benefits both the elementary students and the adults who attend his school.

"These are professional people who come from their own countries, to learn to speak English better," teacher Kay Miller said. "They come to the international school in Ann Arbor, and some of them come not knowing any English at all."

Miller said that Oscar Flores, a student from Venezuela, didn't speak any English at all when he arrived in Ann Arbor just two weeks before the Klager international day.

"He was brave to be able to express himself in his limited language," Miller said.

Other visitors came from Japan, China, Korea, South America, Africa and the Middle East.

Pupils took their "passport books" to each classroom with them to ask questions about the guests' respective countries — the government, money, customs, clothing, landmarks, traditional foods and religious practices.

"That was really exciting for them," Miller said.

The day was a combined effort

"Each classroom teacher and their students opened their class to the international students and it was very rewarding," Miller said.

"The students have a wide variety of backgrounds. One couple from Turkey are engaged to one another, and they are both engineers."

"Many are professionals in their own countries, and they come here to better their lan-audience. Some brought collectible items while others brought in money, a flag of their nation, crafts or apparel. Miller said that Milne was particularly delighted that his students repeated their presentations eight different times for each class.

"It polished their speaking skills in English," she said.

Following all of the classroom presentations, an all-school assembly was held where the Klager kids performed for the visitors. The third and fourth-graders had learned songs and instruments of other cultures and also translated a few traditional American songs into various international languages.

"The international students really enjoyed it," Miller said. The adoration on the faces of the Klager pupils and their guests was evident throughout the day.

Milne called the day "a rewarding experience."

"It was good for our students, and good for the community," he said.

"I'm delighted to be able to help the community of Manchester internationalize."

"Our guests had great manners," Miller added, "and they were impressed with our students' manners as well."

Next year as his daughter will be in fifth grade, Milne will welcome an opportunity to bring the international students to the middle school as well as Klager School, Miller said.

"It's a wonderful opportunity for all of us," she said.

Third-grade students Stephanie Ball (left), Roxanne Rickert, Elizabeth Timoszyk and Catherine Schultz show visitor Shahpar Shahab, from Iran, the bird that resides in Pat Coelius' classroom.

of the entire Klager school community. All third and fourth-graders participated in the activities as they went into each classroom to discover new friends from foreign lands.

guage skills so they can compete in the global economy that exists in today's world."

Library negotiations ongoing

■ Library director offered one-year contract.

By Marsha Johnson Chartrand
Associate Editor

It began as a simple agenda but the discussion of a contract with the director drafted by the library board's attorney encompassed longer than two hours in a special meeting called for last Wednesday.

The job description attached to attorney Cynthia Faulhaber's draft contract differed from the job description passed by the board in February. Board members and director alike expressed concern over several omissions and clarifications.

After discussing several issues in the contract language, it was decided that the board should submit a revised version of the contract to Faulhaber, with hopes of approving the revised contract at the regularly scheduled board meeting on Monday.

Terms of the contract include provisions for the director, Dorothy Davies, to work toward a master's degree in library science.

"This contract is specific to the current director," acting chair Laura Sutton said at Wednesday's meeting. "The job description is general to fit our expectations for the future."

Sutton also referenced the goals for the librarian that had been suggested by Davies and refined by the Human Resources Committee of Don Limpert, Richard Spring and Sutton.

A renewal clause in Faulhaber's original contract was changed to reflect the ongoing review that would be part of the board's responsibility to the director.

"It holds our feet to the fire," board member Jane Thornton said, "so that there are ongoing negotiations to make sure we are doing our job of evaluation."

At Monday's meeting, the contract was unanimously adopted and offered to Davies with an expected answer by May 21, the board's annual meeting date. The contract will then become effective until May 21, 2002.

"If (Davies) does not accept the terms of the contract she can initiate discussion for renegotiation of specific items but her current position and same pay would be extended 30 days only," chairman Charlotte Major said on Tuesday.

Major returned to the chairmanship on Monday following a medical leave.

"Her current contract, which the board inherited from the township library, will expire on May 21," Major added. "Laura Sutton handled the contract part of the agenda as she has been working with the board attorney

Legion and auxiliary to celebrate poppy days next week

■ Original crepe paper poppy commemorates fallen soldiers.

By Marsha Johnson Chartrand
Associate Editor

For 81 years, the American Legion Auxiliary poppy has symbolized the sacrifices made by men and women in service to their country.

The American Legion Auxiliary was the first national organization to adopt the poppy as its memorial flower at its national convention held in Cleveland, Ohio in 1920.

Mary Smith, poppy chair for the auxiliary unit #117, stressed that the crepe paper poppy, made by hand by disabled veterans, is the original program to provide assistance for disabled veterans.

"One hundred percent of the profits from poppy distribution is pledged to welfare relief for servicemen and servicewomen and their families," Smith said.

The public is given an opportunity each year to help the American Legion and its auxiliary in the significant work of veterans rehabilitation. It is also an opportunity to pay tribute to all who have died in service to the nation, by wearing a poppy on Poppy Day.

The American Legion Department of Michigan purchases the material for poppies and workers receive pay for each poppy that is made, and furnishes it free to the veterans in hospitals. Volunteers, who receive no compensation distribute more than 25 million poppies each year.

Through the American Legion Auxiliary poppy program, more than $300,000 is paid annually to needy and disabled veterans for making the poppies.

"Proceeds from the distribution amounts to more than $2,000 annually in Manchester and every penny is devoted to veterans affairs and rehabilitation work by both the Legion and Auxiliary," Smith said.

"All poppy funds collected here in Manchester stay within the community."

Smith said all the money that is taken in is used for veterans' causes.

"We support the veterans at the Ann Arbor VA Hospital," she said. "We sponsor bingo parties and in December we buy gifts for the Christmas gift shop, that can be distributed to the veterans' families. This benefits the families of the veterans in the hospital."

There is also a veterans retirement home that is supported by poppy funds.

As for children and youth projects, Smith recalled a time when a Manchester veteran's daughter was involved in a serious auto accident. The Legion and Auxiliary provided hospital equipment, monetary contributions and other assistance to the family during the girl's lengthy recovery.

The ladies of the Emil Jacob Unit #117 visited the veteran's hospital in Grand Rapids last weekend to watch as the poppies are made.

"We always purchase our poppies from this hospital and we thought it would be interesting to see them at work," Smith said.

Each year, the Auxiliary selects junior members to represent the local poppy program. This year's poppy girls are Jennifer and Katharine Meyer.

Chamber golf outing to benefit projects

■ Hickory Sticks course is site for four-person scramble.

By Marsha Johnson Chartrand
Associate Editor

The grass is getting greener, the temperatures are soaring and it's time to go golfing.

Get your clubs ready for the first annual Manchester Area Chamber of Commerce Golf Outing at Hickory Sticks on June 5.

Hole sponsorships are mounting up and registrations are beginning to come in. There's plenty of room for more to participate, though, says golf outing chair Steve Anderson.

"We are still looking for hole sponsors and donations for door prizes," Anderson said. "The goal is that everyone walks away with a gift."

For just $100, a business or an individual can sponsor a hole at the outing. Cash or merchandise donations are also welcomed to contribute to the pool of door prizes.

If you prefer to play, you can sign up individually for just $90 or round up a foursome to golf for $320. Major prizes will include a $10,000 hole-in-one premium, first place trophies, and prizes for longest drive, closest to pin, longest putt and other golf awards.

The golf package includes green fees, a cart, lunch and beverage cart service with one drink "on the house."

Golf pros and experts will be on the course to challenge and instruct players. The play will be "best ball," so you don't have to be an expert yourself to participate. Individuals as well as foursomes are welcomed.

Proceeds from the outing will be used to help the chamber sponsor a community bus trip to Comerica Park this summer, and finance other ongoing chamber projects such as Summerfest, Christmas in the Village and other activities that promote the community.

The Comerica Park trip is set for Aug. 1 and the bus trip and ticket to the baseball game is just $15. The Manchester Area Chamber of Commerce will underwrite the remainder of the cost. The family-oriented trip is open to anyone in the community, but space is limited. Call 428-9640 to make a reservation.

To participate in the Golf Outing, contact Steve Anderson at 428-7380 or via e-mail at sanderson@ubat.com.

Llama Club to hold fund-raiser

By Marsha Johnson Chartrand
Associate Editor

The Double L Llama Club, a county-wide 4-H club, will hold a community fund-raiser from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. this Saturday, May 12 at the Washtenaw Farm Council Grounds, Building G, in Saline.

A garage sale, bake sale and silent auction will be part of the fund-raising effort. The proceeds will be split between the Ann Arbor Children's Cancer Center and the Greyhounds of Eastern Michigan.

Funds for the Ann Arbor Children's Cancer Center will purchase craft supplies, books and games used by children on days they attend treatments at the hospital. Items will be chosen from the center's wish list and are very much needed.

The proceeds going to Greyhounds of Eastern Michigan will help the rescue group defray its costs of placing retired dogs into foster homes until they are adopted into a permanent home. The funds will help cover vet bills, including health care, shots, or neutering.

To learn more about this group, visit the Web site at www.greyhounds.org. The group will also have greyhounds on site at the fair grounds to meet and talk about life with a retired racing greyhound.

Because the event is sponsored by the llama club, there will also be llamas for to pet, feed and pose for photos. Club members will talk about the llamas and answer questions about joining a 4-H Club.

The first horse show of the year for the Washtenaw County

4-H also will be held on the grounds during this event. Admission and parking are free. For information call 428-0033 or e-mail PMFllamas@aol.com.

It could result in extreme regret. Come to a free seminar on "IRA/401(k) 403(b) Mistakes." Maybe we can save you some unnecessary grief. Do you know:

- What an Irrevocable Life Insurance Trust is?

If you have ever thought about these questions or are unsure of yourself, attend this seminar. It will cover the ins and outs of IRAs, 401(k)s, and 403(b)s. We will discuss different distribution techniques as well as educate you on how to stretch your dollars out the farthest. Please call 1-800-440-4341 to reserve your seat.

SENIOR CITIZENS NEWS

April 2001 thanks, from President Dorothy Willingham: "Well, once again, we've splashed through April without getting too wet. Except for Easter Sunday, that was a little damp where we were, down in Ohio. Still the vibrant colorful blooms and the lush green grass and trees merrily greeting us each May morning makes it all worth while, and not the least disappointing.

"Just like our volunteer Kitchen Angels, faithfully working in Emanuel's kitchen during April. They were not in the least disappointing. We salute and thank Jane and Merrill Korth, Margaret Horning, Jan Howell, Vivian and Francis Heckaman, Ruby VanSickle, Mary Ann York, Mary Smith, Lou Vogel and Brenda Buss. A big THANK YOU to each one.

"We also appreciate the Rev. Erling Aaserud for taking time from his busy schedule to bring us a bit of spirituality on April 17. We do look forward to our clergy presentations each month. Thanks, pastor.

TV LUDWICK

"Judy Bejma also wishes a hearty thanks to Marion Ahrens for filling in on our meal delivery program, during her recent two-week vacation. We, too, want to salute Marion for her super job as activity director in addition to the meal delivery program. We thank you, Marion, along with all our devoted volunteers.

"Everyone, have a Merry May!" TV's note: From Dorothy Willingham, who does her share, too.

Thursday: 9:30 a.m. is the starting time for senior council meeting. The meal program is winding down, so come join us for meat loaf today at noon at the Emanuel United Church of Christ fellowship hall. Meals are good (and plentiful) for just $3.25 and we hope you'll come try if you are 55 or older and live in the Manchester area. Reserve your spot by calling Kelly ahead of time at 428-8359 or you can call in your order to have the meal delivered to you. You may also pick it up at 11 a.m. but order it ahead! We play bingo and cards at the center at 12:30 p.m.

Friday: Pickup by senior bus begins at 6 p.m. for a trip to the Saline seniors card party. Call Mildred Stoil to reserve your ride by calling 428-7828.

Sunday: It's time to honor all mothers on this day. Your hugs and presence for a while will surely brighten her day. That's the most important gift she can receive from her kids. Happy Mother's Day to all!

Monday: A shopping trip to K-Mart and Meijers in Ann Arbor is on for today. 9:30 a.m. is the pick-up time to go. Call Marion at 428-7658 to be placed on the list to go along.

Senior Citizens celebrating May birthdays last week included Rufus Gillam (left), Mae Panches and Edward Steele, Jr.

Tuesday: We seniors begin something new at the new village hall this morning at 9:30 called Tai Chi. Will report next week, but hope you will join us in this gentle exercise. We will meet in the cafeteria area. Come see what it's all about! Then, come to hear Pastor Bob Fry at 11:30 a.m. in Emanuel's dining room for the clergy presentation. He is pastor of Heritage Church of God in Maumee, where our chairman Dorothy Willingham attends. Thanks!

Wednesday: The trip planned for today has been moved forward another week.

Thursday: Tod presents pork roast for today's senior meal at noon. Good! He is a great cook and you are missing out if you don't join us! Tonight is the senior sponsored monthly card party at our new village hall, beginning at 7:30 p.m. Bus pickup begins at 6:30 p.m. and you may call Mildred to be picked up to go.

Scholarship fund an honored tradition

Spring is a time of hope and renewal each year. As senior classes across the nation approach the end of a high school or college career, the future is bright with promise. What is ahead for these young people? In some cases, it's a leap into the "real world" of work and career. For others, it is a step into further educational endeavors.

For those high school students who are making college plans, and for their parents, there may be more than a few question marks about the financial future.

Which is why, each year, high school guidance counselors offer an opportunity for seniors to apply for scholarships of all sizes and descriptions.

No matter what you do, there is probably a scholarship out there somewhere that can provide you with financial assistance. Sometimes you have to dig deeper than others, but there are many generous institutions and businesses that believe in the value of higher education and are willing to put their money where their mouth is.

MARSHA JOHNSON CHARTRAND

of a college education a reality.

The community's hallmark scholarship over the past several years has been given in memory of Claire Reck, who was a cornerstone of community service in Manchester. The highly regarded award was traditionally presented to a senior class member who demonstrated a strong commitment to the values that Mrs. Reck represented in her lifetime.

She served on the library board for 40 years, and the historical room at the library is dedicated in her name. She single-handedly managed the Manchester Family Service and the Red Cross blood drives in Manchester and a host of others.

In her advancing age, Reck hand-picked people she believed would fit into the many service-oriented niches she had created in the Manchester community, and to carry on the good works she had begun. And people continue to consider it an honor to have been chosen.

The Community Resource Center also chooses a volunteer each year who best represents the value of community service, and this award is named for Claire Reck as well.

Her husband, Franklin Reck, was active in boy scouting and was a prolific writer who took a great interest in education. The children's room at the library is named for him and some of his books are still on the shelves at the Manchester District Library.

So it was a sad day in Manchester, indeed, when we learned that there would be no Claire Reck Scholarship awarded to a graduating senior in the class of 2001.

In recent years, individuals who formerly owned a business in Manchester had endowed the scholarship each year but the company recently had been sold to a larger entity.

The name of Claire Reck means a great deal in Manchester, but it seems that it does not mean a lot in the corporate offices of the world. There is no funding for this year's Claire Reck Scholarship.

This may be only a minor disappointment to the service-oriented scholars in this year's senior classes, who may have hoped to apply for this special award. After all, they were not much more than toddlers when Reck passed away. But it is a major disappointment to those in the community who remember her caring touch and her faithful service with fondness.

Maybe it's unfair to expect people in high-rise corner offices to understand what one woman meant to this small community. So maybe it's time we showed ourselves how the life of one woman has made a difference in this town.

I am willing to believe there is, as always, a ray of hope this spring. It is always evident that the people of Manchester pull together when a need is demonstrated.

I'm willing to bet on Manchester's memory to ensure that a Claire Reck Scholarship will be established again in the future, and that it will continue on for posterity. I believe that the high esteem in which she was held in her lifetime has not diminished in the years since her death.

I know that her humanitarian spirit lives on, and that there are students worthy to carry on that legacy.

Now, it's up to all of us to make a difference.

Private detectives back in demand

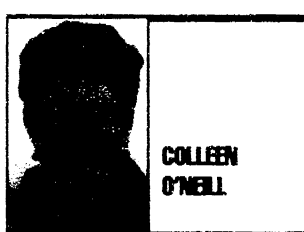

I was surprised to read in the paper recently of the resurgence of the private detective. The old gumshoe or PI. Just thinking of that brings up images of a guy in a trench coat with a hat who sneaks around photographing cheating husbands or wives.

I was even more surprised about the reason for this resurgence and where they are located. The reporter interviewed representatives from two companies. One is located in Ann Arbor, the other in downtown Chelsea.

I was dumbfounded. Private detectives in such a sleepy hamlet? In reading the article, I discovered that the majority of their clients are not wives or husbands, but corporations. There seemed to be several main focuses to their duties. One is to make routine background checks on potential employees. Apparently resume writing has moved into the creative writing genre.

It seems that people use misleading information, delete important information or even outright lie. The PI's responsibility is basically to verify the information supplied. It seems you can get information on anyone if you know where to look.

Another area that corporations are dealing with is internal security. They look at safety issues like how to deal with disgruntled employees and how to keep staff safe from estranged spouses.

COLLEEN O'NEILL

I remember the first time I was handed a lock-down map at a company I worked for maybe six or seven years ago. It seems to me that I was dumbfounded then too. The map was nothing more than a layout of the offices but it had stars to designate safe offices to go to in case of workplace violence. In retrospect, I'd guess those offices had door locks and possibly extra phone lines.

It never occurred to me that a new kind of corporate consultant, the private detective, designed the map. Maybe it wasn't, maybe it just showed the foresight of a wise manager. But it was there.

Now, these companies are in demand.

Checking resume facts and protecting employees from workplace violence are certainly understandable and even noble. I wrote a pretty honest and straightforward resume and always checked my reference sources before I used their name and phone number but I'm sure not everyone did that.

And in this day and age, with what we know of the prevalence of stalking, I think focusing on safety is wonderful. It protects the employees but also gives at least some feeling of a safe haven to the women (and men) who struggle to enforce restraining orders or create a life after building the courage to leave a bad situation.

But that is not all these current gumshoes do. It seems that modern technology is bringing corporate espionage into the boardrooms of even local companies. Because technology has gotten smaller and smaller these PI's are finding video and audio taping equipment hidden in boardrooms.

Here I go again. Dumbfounded.

When I think of pen size cameras or planted bugs in ceiling tiles, I think of James Bond. I think of a world of fantasy. Or I think of our evening news reporters who go undercover to expose companies that cheat their customers.

Imagine my dismay when I learned that this goes on every day in the small towns of southeastern Michigan. Call me naïve. But I never would have guessed. In reality I spend a lot of time on the Internet and I've seen ads for this kind of equipment. So I know they exist. The pop up screens that advertise everything from low-rate credit cards to travel discounts have shown up on my monitor selling tiny cameras. I can't even remember how small they are because to me they are nothing more than a nuisance blocking my view until I can quickly click on the x and close them.

I guess I should have guessed that this does happen. Although I am a trusting person and give everyone the benefit of the doubt right from the beginning, I certainly have had more than a few who have proved me wrong. I have some neighbors that are anything but nice or moral who have caused immeasurable angst to my family and friends. I have had past co-workers that were cheats and back stabbers. Still, at face value, I trust everyone.

I guess I should not have been shocked. I should not be surprised that there are growing opportunities for corporate investigators. People have long been dishonest, immoral and just plain bad.

I guess there are two things about this really bother me. One is the fact that we need it at all. The other is the feeling that big brother is watching us more and more.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Garage sale signs are a welcome summer sight.

To the editor:

It has been my early morning pleasure on Fridays to drive about this beautiful little town of Manchester and look for the Garage, Yard or Whatever Sale signs out on the street corners.

Now my rights have been taken away and the signs are no more ... they have become unlawful, distasteful and the people who have had the right to post them are in trouble if they do.

Now hear this. The signs that were posted were usually on a utility pole and owned by the utility company, not the village. So I wonder who passed this ordinance, and what right did they have in doing this?

Oh yeah, you will come back with some smart answers I know, but in an election time the village condones the posting of as many and any kind and any where the election advertising and political bally-hoo, to the point of causing a public nuisance. It's a driving hazard if you look at them for too long, I know from first-hand experience that this is true. And people get sick of it and are glad when it is over.

A garage sale has been a wonderful, friendly summertime experience for so many of us. A day out, see someone you know, visit, be a part of something so American. It is one of the last things that should be "governed" by anyone. Some things have to be left to the choice of ourselves.

I for one think that so much of our private lives and private activities are taken from us day by day. I may be the only one who thinks like this and so be it; I just had to say something.

Yeah, you say, go vote as if it changes anything ... it changes nothing and we lose a little more of ourselves along the way.

I will have to go out of the town and find those most welcome signs - Yard Sale, Garage Sale or Anything for Sale - and be greeted with a smile and the feeling of being welcome.

Changing Carr Park is not to be considered lightly.

To the editor:

Don't we all love Carr Park? Haven't we all spent a great deal of time there with our family and friends? Why would we want to alter something that means so much to so many of us?

The proposed Wexford Homes/Lehr property development has caused a lot of turmoil, speculation and argument. It is not something to be considered lightly. I know that the Village Planning Commission and Village Council have spent much time and consideration on what would be best for our community. I would like to thank them for their dedication. However, the most disturbing concept of this whole project to me is the possible redesign of Carr Park.

So many things go on at our park, which we all enjoy. Most of us have spent many July 3 or 4ths watching the fireworks. Or had family and company picnics there. And of course there are volleyball tournaments, Easter egg hunts, baseball and softball games. The list could go on and on. I don't understand how we could consider bringing a road through our park. This would not only take away vast amounts of playing area, it would also create possible dangers for everyone. The children would have less area to play and grow.

Parents may be reluctant to allow their children to play in a potentially hazardous environment. There would also be hazardous crossing area to the proposed "pocket park." If our park was not altered, many problems could be avoided, and our families could be safer. Who would want a road running near the baseball diamond, or near the volleyball nets, and kids having to cross a road to get to another area of the park?

Then there is the question of traffic on West Main Street. We all know how busy Main Street can get, especially during rush hour. The proposed road from the housing development would bring traffic from approximately 100 homes out onto West Main Street near the already busy intersection at Territorial Road. Yes, some of the traffic will exit onto Sanborn Road. However, with Main Street being the quickest access to main roads in the area, possible delays and congestion could be expected.

We should also respect the privacy of our neighbors that live in that area. More head-

EHNIS-COLLIER

Canoe race seeks volunteers

By Marsha Johnson Chartrand
Associate Editor

Now that the news is out about the Annual Canoe Race on the River Raisin, more people will want to participate in the event, coming up in just ten days.

Events like this one need people to help organize them to make it a success. While there are 28 members of the canoe race committee, not all are able to attend as volunteers on that date.

So, said Bill Schwab, the search is on. This is an excellent opportunity to invest time in the success of the canoe race without ever entering the water.

What does this involve? Adults are needed to help prepare the statistics board on May 19, serve as starters and recorders along the banks of the river at Fellows Bridge on Sunday, and to record and register times at the finish line on Main Street in downtown Manchester.

To become more involved with the canoe race, please contact Schwab at 428-8976.

Someone to Watch Over Mom.

"I told my Mom that I believed The Meadows at Silver Maples was the perfect place for her and Dad. They were able to enjoy being together, with Dad getting assistance from The Meadows very caring staff, until Dad needed to move on to more intensive care. Dad has since passed on. It has been comforting for Mom to be in the beautiful environment and among friends she has made at The Meadows while her life has gone through very emotional phases. Having 'someone to watch over Mom' has been reassuring to me."

School Days

School days, school days, dear old golden rule days

Readin' and 'ritin' and 'rithmetic,
Taught to the tune of a hickory stick,

You were my queen in calico
I was your bashful barefoot beau,
And you wrote on my slate,
I love you Joe,

When we were a couple of kids.
- by Cobb and Edwards

This song from many years ago reminds us that sometimes, it is necessary to look to the past to realize what is needed for the future. We need to see where we have been, where we are now, and where we need to go or possibly, where we should have been yesterday.

If we could take a walk back through time, we would be surprised to find out how important the planning for education was in Michigan long before there was a Michigan, indeed, even before the British had left the land that had been ceded to the United States in 1783. It was not until the summer and fall of 1796 that Detroit and Fort Mackinac were handed over to the Americans and the Stars and Stripes at last flew over Michigan.

However, the American government had been very busy buying land from the Indians, clearing up claims to territory made by some of the original 13 colonies, and passing two important ordinances. The Ordinance of 1785 dividing each state formed the area known as the Northwest Territory into townships, passed the title of the 16th section of each township to the state to be sold for the support of schools.

Michigan was the first state to use these proceeds to develop a state fund designating all future income as a permanent endowment for schools, thus providing firm foundation for public schools.

The Ordinance of 1787 named the area Northwest Territory and detailed the process for dividing it into states. One of the most famous phrases in the Northwest Ordinance states that, "Religion, morality, and knowledge being necessary to good government and the happiness of mankind, schools and the means of education shall forever be encouraged." This philosophical stand emphasized the importance of the monetary provisions provided in 1785.

When Michigan became a state on Jan. 26, 1837 there were already schools in existence within Manchester village and in some of the rural districts. It appears that eventually there were at least nine or 10 school districts in and around Manchester Township.

Over the years schools in a few of these districts were closed due to an insufficient number of students. They became tuition students in the nearest open district and were transported there by their parents unless they lived close enough to walk.

In 1867, when Manchester was very young, one of the biggest concerns seemed to be the education of youth. When the announcement was made that the brand new Union School would open in October there was a great deal of joy. This building was a replacement for an older school that had been dismantled. The bricks were sold, and reused to build a house in another part of town.

The Union School was in use until it was replaced by the new building which was built during the depression as part of the WPA program which made useful jobs for people. This building is still the cornerstone of the Manchester Middle School complex.

Concern about education is strong in Manchester. We are proud of the quality of education made available through our community schools. We are also aware of the needs that must be attended to if we are to maintain this history.

Together as a caring community, we can not simply continue as is, but must improve the quality of our resources.

We are proud of the quality of education made available through our community schools.

Physicals set for fall season

Dr. John Anderson will provide sports physicals on May 31 from 6 to 7 p.m. There will be a $20 fee and registration is required. Forms will be sent out with all high school and middle school athletes.

Face lift schedule remains May 20

The spring-cleaning day scheduled for May 20 will remain on the calendar as is even though there is a conflict with the canoe race.

There simply is not a better day to do the work.

The ultimate goal is to power wash and stain the dugouts, concession stand and the press box. Middle school student council members will provide some of the labor but adult and professional supervision is also required. The work detail will run from 2 p.m. to 6 p.m. Donations of materials and services are needed and welcome.

Coaching seminar set

On May 20 all boys' and girls' basketball coaches are invited to attend a one-man coaching clinic.

Jim Bradley, a Michigan High School Hall of Fame basketball coach will be running the clinic. Bradley will sit down with the coaching staff to discuss and help develop a program philosophy and determine a method of implementing that philosophy.

Exact times will be determined but the event will probably run from 4-8 p.m.

Relay needs volunteers

The 23rd annual Manchester Metric Relays are scheduled for May 19. Past runners or volunteers are needed to staff various jobs including timers, stat recorders, officials and concessions. Contact Wes Gall in the athletic office at 422-0185, Mike Quinn, Sandy Grodi, Denny Steele or Cory Cox.

A few volunteers are needed in every area. Workers should plan on being on site from 8:30 a.m. until 2:00 p.m.

Varsity baseball gaining confidence and wins

■ Team's attitude is improving, and so is win-loss record

By Colleen O'Neill

Special Writer

Manchester varsity baseball coach Adam Benschoter is honest when talking about his team.

"We are still fighting the mentality that Manchester baseball is a losing sport," Benschoter said. "Once (we get) over that hump..."

Benschoter admits that there is no reason this team should ever suffer a defeat by mercy. There is enough talent on this team, in every category, to win every game. Yet the Dutch have a 4-6 record, 3-5 in the conference and have suffered the humiliation of a mercy four times so far.

Mentally, Benschoter seems to have divided the season into two record categories. The nearly winning record when the team plays with confidence and attitude. The wins or near-wins they have tallied when they take the field with the never-say-die, in-your-face belief of a team that knows where it is going.

That is in opposition to the record of the "we're going to blow it anyway" team that takes the field pretty sure that they are just going to lose, just waiting to see who will make the first mistake so everyone else can follow.

To make his point, Benschoter refers to the two East Jackson games. On May 4, Manchester jumped out to a 6-0 lead in the first two innings and held on to win 6-5.

"We didn't have a bad inning," Benschoter said. "They scored five runs by hitting the ball pretty well."

The Dutch had only two errors in the game.

"The mentality was different," Benschoter said. "When it is there, we play well. When we play afraid, or thinking a bad inning is coming, we don't play well."

Evan Wahl had a double with two RBIs and Karl Schaible hit a home run and had two RBIs. Brent Leverett doubled and singled and Beau Bergner had a double.

"All the extra base hits came in the same (second) inning," Benschoter said.

Benschoter points out that this victory was against the same East Jackson team that mercied Manchester just two weeks ago.

"We came off a win and got off to good start in the first two innings," Benschoter said. "(We) were confident."

Senior Dutchman Dan Turvey charges and scoops a bouncer on the Manchester infield.

And they won.

The earlier win came Wednesday at Addison. The Dutch took a 7-4 victory on an impressive pitching effort from Brett Maki who pitched a complete game.

He had nine strikeouts.

"He threw a great game, the best game for us all year," Benschoter said.

The mentality Benschoter is fighting, the one that says, "there will always be one bad inning" was there that night.

The Trojans scored their four runs in one inning. All four were unearned because of three errors.

"The good thing was we were still winning 6-4," Benschoter said. "They kept their confidence and that was the whole difference in that game."

Bergner was the only multiple hitter in the game. He had two singles, two RBIs, two runs and two stolen bases.

"A lot of guys had just one hit on the day," Benschoter said.

Still, because they played with confidence, the team held on to take the victory.

The two victories stand out in contrast to the first game of the week against Napoleon. The Dutch took a 17-2 pounding.

"We gave up 11 unearned runs in the sixth inning," Benschoter said. "It was a 6-2 ball game then the wheels just fell off the wagon."

Brent Leverett took the loss in what had been a "real nice game."

"We just stopped playing defense," Benschoter said. "Like we expected it to happen sooner or later and it did."

By the fateful sixth inning the Dutch were only down by four runs but had stranded nine runners.

"We were right there with them the entire game but we couldn't get over the hump," Benschoter said.

Again, to emphasize his point that the big losses are mental losses, Benschoter admits that the errors are coming from everyone.

"It is not the same people all the time, not the same position," Benschoter said.

He knows he is fighting a mental battle.

"(We need) the mentality that everybody's going to make the play instead of sooner or later someone will mess up," Benschoter said.

As he sorts games into the two columns, "with attitude" and "without attitude," Benschoter admits that not every game played "with attitude" is a victory.

"We're not winning every game we played with confidence," Benschoter said. "Against Vandercook Lake we lost 7-6 but we were playing well."

Which, he says, is all a coach can ask for.

"If we lose, we lose but there is no reason for us to be getting mercied with the talent on our team," Benschoter said.

More proof that a driven team has taken hold came Monday night at Hanover Horton. Although Manchester lost the game 10-6, the real story shows that this time the Dutch never gave up.

Down 10-2 at the end of six innings, Manchester put the rally caps on and scored four runs in the seventh inning. Although they could not sustain the momentum for the win, these baseball players played the game "with attitude."

They have talent. They have depth. Now they seem to be getting attitude.

This team just might produce a winning and impressive season.

But they have to believe.

Brent Leverett reaches back for his delivery.

Middle School harriers enjoy successful season so far

■ Girls season is under way.

By Colleen O'Neill

Special Writer

Although the Manchester Middle School Girls track team suffered a heartbreaking 69-67 loss to Addison last week, they rebounded solidly to take third place at the Michigan Center Invitational on Saturday.

Hanover Horton took second at the Invitational, which was won by Reading. Eight schools attended.

At Addison the mini-Dutch took nine first-place finishes, eight second-place finishes and seven third-place finishes in the nearly even event.

Catherine Fageros took the only first in field events when she won the long jump with a leap of 12'2". The Dutch swept the event with Rosalyn Harvey nailing 11'10" and Krista Strong soaring 9'11".

Two more Dutch won distance events; Ashly Kissman won the open 3,200-meter run with a time of 14:42.73 and Strong won the 1,600-meter run in 6:48.95.

Speed seems to be Manchester's weapon of choice. Fageros won the 100-meter dash. Katelyn Gall won the 400-meter dash. Emily McConnell won the 70-meter dash and Emilee Sweet the 200-meter dash. Megan Kanta, Rosalyn Harvey, Kayla Kornexl and Sweet took the 400-meter relay in 1:00.46.

Prior to the close loss to Addison Manchester defeated both Grass Lake and St. Thomas in a dual meet at home.

Manchester defeated conference rival Grass Lake 93-54 by nearly sweeping every event. Melissa Cole won the shot put. Rosalyn Harvey the long jump. Ashly Kissman the 3,200. Megan Kanta the 55 hurdles. Alison London the 800. Strong the 1,600. Fageros the 100-meter dash. Gall the 400. Sweet the 200 hurdles and three relays, 400, 3,200 and 800 all won.

Although only one relay score counts, Manchester placed first, second and third in the 800-meter relay.

On the same day the team also defeated St. Thomas 83-44 by doing nearly the same thing. The Dutch took 12 first place finishes in the lop-sided victory.

Middle school track will attend the Hudson Invitational on Saturday with competition beginning at 10 a.m. They will finish their season May 16 at the Grass Lake Relays which start at 4:00 p.m.

Boys dominate conference competition.

Manchester Middle School boys track team finished last season in a one-loss tie with Vandercook Lake for the league championship. Manchester Coach Ralph Tiepkow said at the start of the season he would be disappointed with anything less than what they accomplished last year.

He may get a better finish.

So far on the year the young harriers have racked up a 5-0 undefeated record and took first place at the Michigan Center Invitational on Saturday. Manchester led all eight schools with 88 points. Reading was a distant second with 70 points.

"Out of the 13 events we placed in the top three in all of them," Tiepkow said.

The Sprint Medley set a new invitational record by cutting two seconds off the previous best. Brett Melcher led off the relay, passed the baton to Rodney Posky who handed to Brett Kingsbury and RJ Layher anchored the team.

Earlier last week the team hosted Addison and handed them a solid 88-55 defeat.

Manchester took first in 10 events. They showed depth by taking first in all categories: field events, sprints, runs and relays.

Melcher won the high jump with a leap of 5'4" and Layher took second.

Mike Coltre won the long jump and Mark Trinkle took second. Andrew Way took first in the pole vault.

Coltre also won the 55-meter hurdles and the Manchester team of Kingsbury, Mike Tremblay, Brennan Crispin and Melcher won the 800-meter relay with a team time of 1:52.32.

Martin Wilson took first in the 1,600-meter open run with a time of 5:38.27 and Aaron Kwolch took third in that event by running a 6:25.84. Trinkle won the 70-meter dash in a time of 9.52 and Justin Hanewald took third.

Layher won the 200-meter hurdles and Manchester won both the 1,600 and 400-meter relays.

Coltre, Way, Wilson and Layher combined to post a 4:20.92 time in the 1,600 while Kingsbury, Mikal Losee, Tremblay and Trinkle won the 400-meter relay in 52.65.

In earlier competition the team showed dominance by defeating Grass Lake 105-32, St. Thomas 101-3, defeating Michigan Center 91-46 and East Jackson 94-43.

A quiet hero, Brett Maki excels on and off the court

By Colleen O'Neill
Special Writer

Every school has a quiet hero. In Manchester the argument could be made that Brett Maki is the quiet hero of not just the school, but of the community.

Maki began playing organized basketball in fifth grade with Steve McCalla. It is his favorite sport. And that emotion shows on the basketball floor.

"He has one desire when it comes to playing basketball, and that is to win games," said Manchester basketball coach Mike Quinn. "When it came time to play, you knew he would be ready to go."

That desire to play and the love of the game is deeply ingrained in Maki.

"I really love to play basketball," Maki said. "I just played golf and baseball to stay in shape."

He spent four years on the high school golf team and three on the baseball team.

"Maki should be in his fourth varsity season but a broken finger last year kept him off the team," said Manchester baseball coach Adam Benschoter. "He is a real smooth infielder, probably the best defensive infielder we have and one of the better pitchers."

But basketball remains his favorite and young basketball fans in Manchester respond to his quiet dedication with something near idol worship. Middle school fans flock to the games and chants of Maki can be heard from the first moments of warm ups.

Maki also seems to be the favorite among some even younger fans.

Quinn verified a story about his own 6-year-old daughter, Kelly. As he tucked her into bed one Monday night during the basketball season she asked if he would be home to tuck her in the next night.

"No," he answered. "I have a game tomorrow."

As he turned to leave, Quinn heard Kelly call out to him. He turned, expecting her to offer him good luck at the game.

"Tell Maki I said good luck," Maki is a quiet hometown hero.

"He's very quiet," Quinn said. "He's very personable and he's the kind of kid who doesn't care who gets the credit."

Even teammate and classmate Jon Miller agrees. At the basketball banquet, Quinn invited the two seniors to say a few words. Miller replied that if Quinn could get Maki to say a few words he'd be doing well.

Maki didn't say a word.

His accomplished career as a Manchester basketball player includes four varsity letters.

"I'm glad I got to play varsity basketball for four years," Maki said. "I guess I got a lot out of school and met lot of interesting people."

Yet for all his accomplishments he did not earn conference honors after his junior season.

Last season we put up five kids for all conference," Quinn said. "Brett didn't get one vote."

Quinn remembers telling him after last season how astonished he was that Maki didn't get one single vote.

Maki's reply was, "I don't care."

"It didn't bother him a bit, all he cared is whether or not we won," Quinn said. "This year he was the leading vote getter. He came back the number one vote getter in the league. When I kind of indicated that to him, he said,

"I don't care."

"I'm sure he was proud of it. But what mattered to him was that the team won 17 games. It is hard to find kids that unselfish."

His experience on the court has transferred into the classroom and he knows will go with him as he goes on in life.

"I work with other people better," Maki said. "Never give up when you are down, keep going. My attitude has changed a little since basketball. I'm more focused since playing basketball."

After graduation, Maki will spend the summer working because he will be paying for some of his own college education.

He has been accepted to Central Michigan University where he wants to study business.

"I'm not sure what to major in but I'm definitely leaning towards business," Maki said.

His favorite class has been math and he has enjoyed a couple of business courses.

"I don't have to try in those," Maki said. "I'm real good with numbers: I can put them together easy, a natural."

Which is why he may be leaning toward accounting.

Oddly enough, this quiet young man from a rural part of southwestern Washtenaw County doesn't want to stay in Michigan or at least in Manchester.

"I'm drawn to city life," Maki said. "I'd like to be around a lot of people."

Which may surprise a lot of people.

He expects to explore, after college to see what's out there. Until he was in fifth grade Maki lived in Jackson in a subdivision.

"I prefer that over where we are now," Maki said.

His family moved for more room. Mom and Dad, Melanie and Steve, are both postal workers in Ann Arbor. His older brother Karl, 20, is living at home and 13-year-old Ryan is at the middle school. They also had Steve's mother living with them for a while.

Brett said he isn't necessarily looking for something as big as Detroit but he'd like to be in a metropolitan area where there is a lot to do.

"Where I am now you have to drive half an hour to do something," Maki said.

But first he'll attend college where he is thinking of trying out for the basketball team.

While he excels in several sports, Maki's true love is basketball.

"He's talked about going to Central and trying to play there," Quinn said. "If he decides to do that, I hope he gives it a chance. I would hate for him to be my age and say, 'I wish I would have at least tried.'"

"He'll only have that chance once."

This quiet young man has convinced Manchester. Maybe now he'll convince the coaches at Central and get to play his favorite sport for four more years.

Maki seems pensive as he watches a recent varsity game.

Jayvee boys have mercy, very few complete games

■ Still flying high at season's halfway mark.

By Colleen O'Neill

Only three times this year has the junior varsity baseball team played a full seven innings. In games last week the junior Dutch went 4-0 and played seven innings just one time.

On Monday the team traveled to Napoleon where they crushed the Pirates 26-5 in four innings.

McCalla drove in three runs and scored three runs.

Shane Amburgey had three RBIs, Neil Love had one hit, one RBI and scored a run and Grayson Adler had two hits including a triple, four RBIs and he scored one run.

Phil Lewis had one hit, one RBI and scored one run while Jeff Miller, who walked all four times, had two stolen bases and scored four times.

McCalla pitched the whole game.

Fether said. "We didn't do a real good job of putting the ball into play and when we did they made the plays."

However the Dutch did put the ball into play when they needed to. Down 4-3 going into the bottom of the seventh they needed two runs to win it.

Galaska got on base and McCalla hit a single to bring Galaska in. Next up was Adler, who hit the game winner. His one-run double brought in McCalla for the final score of 5-4.

McCalla had two hits in the game and a stolen base. Walter had a single, a double and an RBI. Adler had two RBIs and three stolen bases. Neil Love had a single and Rodney Kidd had a single and an RBI.

Nate Smith started the game on the mound. He gave up two earned runs, six hits, struck out five and walked two. Schaible relieved him in the fifth inning and got the win. He gave up two earned runs, three hits, struck out five and walked two.

On Friday, the team traveled to East Jackson for a double header. Neither game went the full seven innings.

Manchester won the first game 14-1. McCalla pitched the whole game, giving up one earned run on three hits, eight strikeouts and zero walks. The game went only five innings.

Schaible had two hits, two RBIs, two stolen bases and scored three runs. Galaska had two hits and two RBIs. Smith had one hit and two RBIs and Walter had a single and a double and scored a run. McCalla had one hit and two RBIs. Adler had two hits and scored two runs and Love had a hit and scored one run.

Kidd had a hit, two RBIs and scored two runs. Lance Aiken had one hit and two RBIs.

The Dutch won the second game with a score of 11-2. Schaible pitched the whole game, all five innings. He gave up two earned runs on three hits, struck out five and no walks. He also had a single, a double and an RBI.

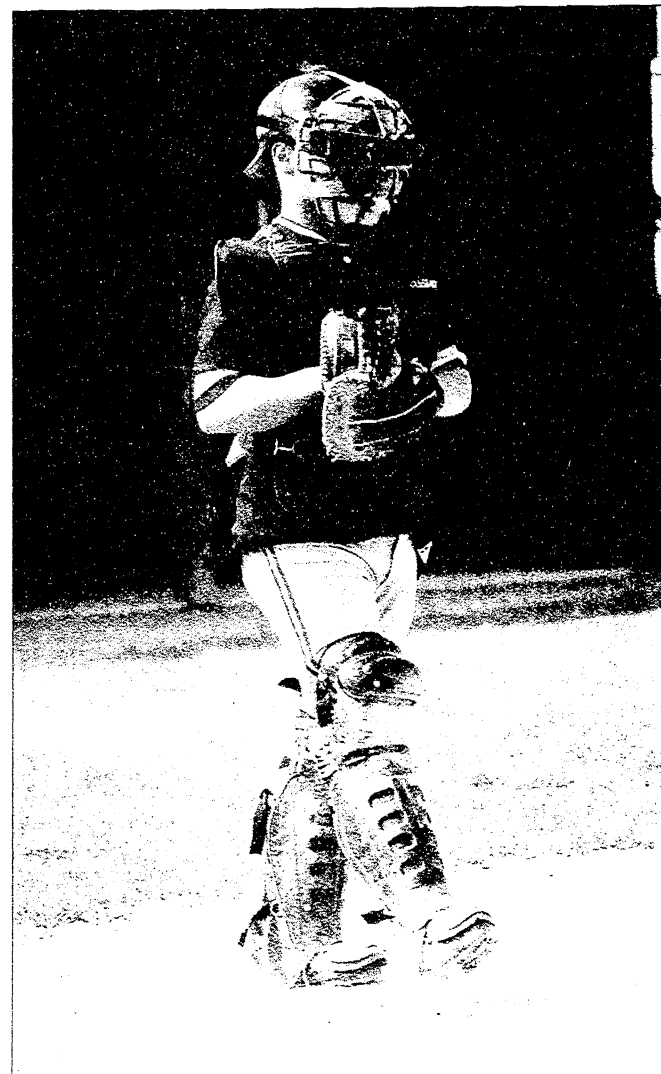

Smith had a single and a stolen base. Walter had a single, two stolen bases and scored two runs, and McCalla had a triple, an RBI and scored a run. Aiken had two hits and two RBIs and scored three runs. Love had two hits, two RBIs and scored two runs and Dave Evilsizer had a single, a triple, four RBIs and Lead off hitter Jon Schaible had three hits in the game including a triple. He also had two RBIs, a stolen base and scored five runs. Jeff Galaska had three RBIs and scored four runs, Nate Smith had a double, two RBIs, a stolen base and scored three runs.

Kevin Walter had two RBIs and scored two runs while Josh

"He struck out six, walked two and gave up seven hits," said Manchester coach Corey Fether. "He gave up five runs, none of them were earned. We had a few errors, six in the game."

The team hosted Addison on Wednesday when they played their only full game of the week in a 5-4 victory.

"It was a very close game."

scored two runs.

"(Evilsizer's) been hot and cold," Fether said. "He had a great game."

The junior Dutch overall record now stands at 11-2. They are undefeated, 8-0 in the conference. They played at Michigan Center on Monday, but began a home stretch on Wednesday when they hosted Grass Lake.

They will host Vandercook Lake on Friday and Britton for a doubleheader on Saturday.

"We're hitting the ball, we're throwing strikes and we're making plays in the field," Fether said of his team's success. "Most of it is putting the ball in play."

Junior Varsity softball keeps on improving

■ Victories follow a short slump.

By Colleen O'Neill

Special Writer
The junior varsity softball team slumped back into the "one bad inning" routine in early action last week before snapping out of it and playing solid defense, taking two wins from East Jackson on Friday. The junior Dutch record now stands at 7-3.

On Monday the team fell hard at Napoleon, losing 11-5. Daisha DeLawter started the game.

"They just started hitting her in the third," said Manchester coach Nikole Reinhardt.

And, as has happened so often this year, errors made the difference - six of them.

"We did not play well defensively," Reinhardt said. "They hit the ball, plus we made errors at inopportune times."

Megan Eisenhauer came in as relief in the fourth inning, threw two strikeouts, allowed four hits and two walks.

Kim Roberts, Rebecca Alber and DeLawter all went 1-for-3 with a single apiece. Katie Ray went 1-for-1 with single and two RBIs.

On Wednesday, when Addison came to town, the Dutch fell even harder. The team lost 23-9 in five innings.

Eisenhauer pitched through the fourth inning. She had two strikeouts, one walk and allowed seven hits.

"They started hitting her in the fourth," Reinhardt said. "She was getting tired so I put DeLawter in in the fifth and they really hit the ball."

DeLawter gave up 10 hits, one walk, and had no strikeouts.

"There were seven errors in the game," Reinhardt said. "They scored 14 runs in the fifth inning."

Julia Steinaway went 2-for-3 with a triple and a single, Eisenhauer was 1-for-2 with a double and DeLawter had a single.

Alber went 2-for-3 with a double and an over the fence solo home run. Roberts and Heather Popkey each went 1-for-3 with a single, Kristen Guenther was 2-for-3 with a single and a triple and Michelle Dicks had a double.

On Friday the team went to East Jackson for a double-header to make amends.

The team won the first game 12-8.

Steinaway went 3-for-4 with three singles and one stolen base and Emily Copeland went 4-for-5 with four singles and two stolen bases.

Eisenhauer was 1-for-5 with a triple while Alber was 2-for-5 with two doubles, one stolen base and one RBI.

Roberts and DeLawter each went 3-for-5 with three singles, one stolen base. Roberts also had one RBI. Popkey was 1-for-4 with a single.

"We hit the ball well during this game," Reinhardt said. "Eisenhauer pitched, allowed eight hits, six strikeouts, one walk and we only had three errors during this game."

Manchester won the second game 9-8 in the bottom of the seventh.

"They were ahead 8-1 in the third," Reinhardt said. "We scored one in the fourth, one in the fifth, three in the sixth and three in the seventh to come back and win 9-8."

DeLawter started the game and struggled through the first two innings. She walked nine, had one strikeout and allowed seven runs.

Beginning the third, Eisenhauer came in and had three strikeouts and one walk, allowing three hits.

"We only had one error," Reinhardt said. "We played very good defense."

Steinaway was 1-for-3 with a single and two stolen bases. Copeland was 1-for-4 with a single and Alber went 1-for-3 with a three-bagger. Roberts went 2-for-4 with a single and a double. Dicks had a single and one stolen base. DeLawter had two singles and Cori Steele went 1-for-2 with a single, one stolen base and two RBIs.

The team played at Michigan Center on Monday and then began a five-game home stretch with Grass Lake Wednesday. The junior Dutch host Vandercook Lake Friday and Britton Saturday.

Library seeks further information from community

■ Accessibility for senior citizens and children options for the future.

By Marsha Johnson Chartrand
Associate Editor

As the Manchester District Library prepares to move into a new facility at the old Ford building, along with the village offices, one of the benefits will be greater accessibility for all.

"At this time we really cannot accommodate motorized wheelchairs in our building," director Dorothy Davies said. "With the move, everyone will be able to move around more fully."

Although there is a handicap ramp at the back of the historic Lynch House on Main Street, access to the cramped-full facility is difficult at best, particularly for disabled and senior citizens.

And there is plenty of interest to seniors and the disabled population at the library.

"Large print books and books on tape are always in demand," Davies said. "In the new facility, we certainly could expand our selection of these materials, and also have specific programming for seniors."

"People volunteering with tax assistance, presenting health programs and health screenings are all offered at some libraries."

"Of course these kinds of things may be of interest to the entire community, but they are often of specific interest to senior citizens."

Davies added that if interest is shown, a home delivery service to seniors and shut-ins could be set up.

With expanded internet service and technology staffing, the library could be able to provide one-on-one assistance to seniors (or anyone else) who has a desire to learn about this new technology in a non-threatening environment.

Davies' special interest, however, is services to children.

"We'd talked about expanding our summer reading program," she said. "We also currently have a story hour that is not very well known yet."

Story hour, she said can be expanded to different age levels. The present story hour program is geared to preschoolers.

"But there is no reason we couldn't offer one to elementary aged children, too," she said.

Another service to children that is provided by some libraries are homework helpers.

"A group like National Honor Society could volunteer to help kids do their homework as a service project," Davies said. "The library's a good place to do that tutoring and mentoring."

And with a larger facility, the space to offer such a service would be available.

And Davies has another dream that would help students with their homework assignments.

"And wouldn't it be nice if some of those science and social studies projects could be displayed a bit longer?" she asked. "Especially the ones that we have helped on."

"I could see a winning project being displayed the next year as an example, with an idea of how the library staff helped in creating this project."

Davies also suggested that a service that would reach out to both seniors and children would be a "grandparent program."

"In such a program, seniors would come in and read one on one to younger children, instead of a story hour," she said.

Davies also envisions further cooperative efforts between the library and school district.

What would the seniors and the students of the Manchester District like to see in their library in the future? There are many ways to make your opinion known. Contact your village or township board representative, e-mail the library at manchest@monroe.lib.mi.us, phone the staff at 428-8045, or mail or drop off a letter with your requests.

It's not too late to respond with your ideas about last week's questions regarding hours, services and collections. The library welcomes the input of the Manchester community.

Library survey at a glance

■ What services do you find most necessary at the library?

■ What items do you use most frequently from the library collection?

■ If additional hours are scheduled, when would you like to see the library open?

■ What staff services would you like to see increased at the library?

■ What additional collections would be useful to you and your family?

■ Is accessibility an issue for you when you wish to use the library?

■ How can the library increase services to senior citizens?

■ How can the library increase services to children?

made in her letter, citing secrecy and a lack of answers to questions as disturbing.

"It doesn't mean you don't get answers simply because you don't like them," Blades said.

"This is unconscionable. There are questionable things going on."

During old business, Blades said that the township had prevailed in recent lawsuits regarding land use and zoning issues. Saying that he'd spent too much time in court in the past year, Blades expressed a hope that the joint efforts of the planning commission, board, and the hired planner, Mark Eidelson, would result in much-needed policy.

It also was reported that Farmer Brothers have received a thirty-day extension on their mineral rights application. The mineral licensing board and Department of Environmental Quality hydrologist are working with Farmer and its hydrologist, monitoring wells and resolving problems.

Two public, joint meetings of the Sharon Township board and the planning commission, requested by Eidelson, were set for 7:30 p.m. on May 24 and June 14. Prior to these meetings with the planner, the planning commission will meet on May 10 to answer questions Eidelson put forth and get organized to best utilize time at the joint meetings.

Trustee Tom Lavender proposed a resolution to direct the township planner to preserve the ten-acre density rule. The resolution carried by a roll-call ballot of four to one, with Kappler casting the dissenting vote.

Blades noted that the township's taxable assessment gained $10 million in one year, rising to a current level of $81 million.

The open Sharon Township Budget Meeting will be held June 7. All budget items, including millage, attorneys, banking, salaries and other fiscal issues will be considered.

Salary resolutions must be made thirty days before the budget meeting. To that end, resolutions were made and carried that as of July 1, 2001, salary for township supervisor will be $20,000 exclusive of assessment duties, or $29,020 inclusive of such duties; clerk will be $15,000; treasurer will be $15,000 per winter; and trustee will be $1,145.

Under new business, Blades called for Lambers' removal from the planning commission. The motion was supported.

In discussing the motion, Kappler said his opinion of Lambers was of a "responsive and responsible" member of the planning commission.

Kappler asked three questions.

"Does a 'yes' vote encourage, discourage, or perhaps even serve to silence different viewpoints?" he asked. "Does a 'yes' vote in the name of streamlining and efficiency serve to increase or diminish freedom and democracy?"

"Does a 'yes' vote undermine the overriding principle of the right of a person to freely express opinions and petition the government for redress of grievance, granted under the constitution of the United States?"

When the vote was called, the motion to remove Lambers from the township planning commission was carried four to one.

Asked to comment on the proceedings after the meeting adjourned, planning commission chair Shannon Fleck simply encouraged interested Sharon Township residents to attend the May 10 planning commission meeting and the joint meetings with the board, the planning commission, and the hired planner on May 24 and June 14.

Historical Society sets May program

The May 15 regular meeting of the Manchester Area Historical Society will feature a program on Manchester schools before 1950.

The panel discussion will feature two former teachers, Mrs. Lucile Uphaus and Mrs. Mildred Huehl, and two former students/graduates, Reno Feldkamp and Lynn Voegeding. The moderator for the evening will be Dr. David Oegema, superintendent of Manchester Community Schools.

The program will begin at 8 p.m. and will be held at the Blacksmith Shop, located at 324 E. Main Street. The general public - particularly former teachers and students of the district - are especially welcome to attend.

The presentation format will include a brief presentation by each panel participant followed by responses to written and oral questions submitted by attendees.

lights would be shining through the windows, added noise from the additional vehicles and vehicles driving much closer to the yards of the houses nearest the park. This would all take away from the old-fashioned village that we have become accustomed to.

I have attended several of the planning commission meetings on this subject and have heard a lot of discussion for and against the proposed housing development. I have also learned many things about what is proposed, and how they would like to do it. One of the things discussed by the spokesman from Wexford Homes was that the land purchased included the right-of-way to use Galloway Drive for ingress and egress to the development. If this route were to be used, traffic could be buffered onto West Territorial Road, initially splitting up traffic and may lessen any additional traffic congestion on Main Street, since not all traffic would be exiting at the same point. This would definitely benefit everyone who travels through our community.

Another topic that was discussed is the fact that Wexford Homes is keeping over 50 percent of the natural state of the property. Many trees and topographical features will not be disturbed. This is great! But why alter the state of Carr Park?

All of us know change is inevitable, but what we change and how it affects our community, is very much up to us!

High School to host awards

■ Student achievements honored

The public is encouraged to attend as outstanding scholastic achievements by Manchester High School students during the course of the school year will be recognized at 6:30 p.m. on May 24 in the high school auditorium. The valedictorian, salutatorian and honor graduates will be announced and teachers will present departmental and club awards.

The evening will begin with a potluck dinner for students and their families. Please bring a main dish to pass and your own tableware. Beverage will be provided.

"The awards night is one of my favorite events, because I have an opportunity to thank and recognize our students," John Eiseley, principal, says. "All young people want to be successful, and whenever possible we need to exercise the opportunity to express our appreciation to them."

"They have made a decision to achieve personal excellence through commitment and hard work."

Please plan to attend and help to recognize the accomplishments of high school students during the current year.

on this matter during my leave.

"Laura did an excellent job in answering questions, providing facts and summarizing a course of action for the board to consider."

Major said that the contract negotiation process was difficult as the board had not had any previous experience in this matter and had no policy or protocol to follow.

"All that considered, I think the board members who worked on these documents, which would be the human resources committee, are to be commended for putting together professional and far sighted documents," she said.

Sutton, Limpert and Spring comprise the current committee, while Theodore Sippel has also previously served on the human resources group.

At last week's meeting, Major announced that the library and the village jointly are recipient of a $100,000 anonymous grant for renovations of the old Ford building. The board met Tuesday night with the village building committee to discuss the terms of the donation and how it might be utilized.

Dancing on the Stars

Prom Queen Shannon Green and King Eric Walter lead the dancing

Prom goers bring pride to all

By R. Keith Johnson

Guest Writer

My sister writes for the weekly newspaper. She has a column that I especially enjoy reading because, knowing her, I can see that she writes from her heart about normal things that happen to normal people - often to the objection or mild embarrassment of her children.

I have often wondered to myself whether I was capable of doing what she does. Obviously, she has the ability and imagination to do this almost every week, where I pale in comparison. Something really significant has to happen to me in order to write about it.

So, what happened that brought me to do this? Several

But the largest share of credit belongs to them. They make choices everyday. Difficult choices, different than the ones that you and I had to make at that age, but no less important for their future. We often hear of tragedies and turmoil across the nation involving our youth. The positive stories, although more important, sometimes tend to get hidden in the nightly news bylines.

The day after the prom, several people asked me how things went. Some were probably skeptical. Face it. Even I was at first. You could tell by the look in their eyes that they expected to hear that somewhere, someone got in trouble for this or that.

But I was happy to say that it was a very nice evening and everyone in attendance seemed to have a good time. I know I did, and I'll bet that all the other parents and teachers that were as surprised to be asked as I was will tell you the same thing.

By the way, I did find out that my daughter wasn't having an out-of-body experience when she asked me to chaperone, but rather that the parents of class officers are routinely asked to perform this function.

So much for being seen in the same state with her for a while!

weeks ago, my oldest daughter approached me and asked, "Would you and Mom like to chaperone at the high school prom?"

You might imagine my surprise to this question since this is the same child that cannot be seen in the same state with her parents. After picking myself up off the floor, (and a quick discussion with my wife) we accepted the invitation.

Let's just say that I wasn't too sure what to expect. In my high school days, I had no desire to attend my prom and with all the horror stories of having 150-200 teenagers congregating at one event that is considered legendary by some, I was even somewhat apprehensive in the days leading up to The Prom.

But, there I was at the Michigan Union helping to put the final decorations in place (in a suit and tie, nonetheless). We eagerly awaited all the bright faces as they arrived. An extremely organized class adviser handed me a list of do's and don'ts and a schedule of various strategically located "stations" around the floor.

To say that I was pleasantly surprised at the end of the evening would be an understatement. This wonderful group of young ladies and gentlemen were extremely well behaved, friendly, and there to just have a good time.

As I looked across the room, I realized that I recognized more of them than if I were to see all of their parents in one room. Now, this may say something about me being unsociable, but I think it says more about the kids - yes, kids - that were there.

I have seen many of these same kids at the various events I have attended that involved my own children or they have been guests in our home. I have seen them excel in their various educational, sports, and personal accomplishments.

As a community we should take pride in our young people and the way they handle themselves. If you want to take credit for it, go ahead. You deserve some.

Look at the Comet

If you want to see the new comet with three tails set your alarm clock at 3:50 a.m. and waste no time in getting out of bed when the bell rings. If the weather conditions are favorable the celestial wanderer ought to be visible a little to the north of the point on the horizon where the sun rises. Its brilliancy is such, according to the astronomers who have seen the comet, that it can be seen even after the sun is above the horizon.

The distance of the comet from the earth is not greater than 30,000,000 miles, and may be considerably less than that. Whether the three tails of the comet are fan shaped, or whether they spread at acute angles, is a question to be determined.

The Manchester Enterprise

By Mat D. Blosser

The new issue of the Pan-American postage stamps are on sale in the cities but Postmaster Bailey has not yet received any.

A Marquette man talked with A.F. Freeman over the long distance telephone a few days ago and then refused to pay for the service.

The Detroit papers say that our electric lights do not give satisfaction and that if the village does not buy the plant a stock company will be formed.

The fruit trees are blossoming fully two weeks earlier than usual. It is a very exceptional year when Michigan escapes May frosts. We want this to be a fruit year without loss from frost or blight or mildew, but the early opening of the buds must be regarded with misgivings until the danger line is past.

Herbert J. Rushton, of Manchester, was in the city today as a representative of the Manchester novelty baking company, of which he is a stockholder. The concern manufactures specialties in the line of baked goods, and bears the proud distingtion of being the only industry in that village. Though but four weeks old, it employs 17 persons. - Adrian Times.

The editor of the ENTERPRISE is often asked what is being done about putting down a test well to ascertain if there is oil, gas, salt, coal or something more valuable under this village. We don't know much about it ourselves and the officers don't say much. Perhaps the Manchester prospecting company are slow, as some of our citizens assume. They are cautious nevertheless and will not spend money uselessly. They are investigating, corresponding and waiting. From present indications there is not more than half enough money raised to put down a well to the depth it may be necessary to go. It costs more money to sink a well than it did several years ago. Don't get excited, if there is anything valuable under the crust, it will keep. Neighboring towns can't tap it and draw it off.
