Cheerleaders plan bottle drive

To support entries into cheer team competition for the coming school year the Manchester High School cheerleaders plan a series of bottle drives.

On Saturday from 9 a.m. to noon the cheerleaders will hold a bottle drive at Manchester Market. Donations are appreciated.

County offers health screenings

A heart health screening will be conducted by Washtenaw County Public Health on Monday from 9:30 a.m. to 12:15 p.m. at the Washtenaw County Human Services Building. Participants will receive blood pressure, cholesterol testing, individual consultation about their results and information on how to decrease the risk of heart disease. For more information call 484-7200.

Heat wave brings high energy use

Consumer's Energy's 1.7 million electric customers set an all-time record for hourly power usage at 1 p.m. last Friday. As temperatures soared to higher than 90 degrees, the utility's customers used a record 7,473 megawatts, surpassing a former record set in July 1999.

Library and village reach agreement

An agreement has been reached on cost sharing between the Village of Manchester and the Manchester District Library.

Village Manager Jeff Wallace and library board member Don Limpert have reached an agreement in principle which would allow the library to move into the village premises later this year.

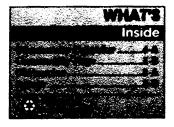

The agreement will be signed after the library's attornev and the village attorney have reviewed the finalized

Library director declines to sign contract

■ Library left short-staffed by departure.

By Marsha Johnson Chartrand Associate Editor

It was with regret that the Manchester District Library Board accepted the resignation of Director Dorothy Davies on Friday, June 15.

A special meeting of the district library board was held on Sunday evening to determine a course of action following receipt of a letter from Davies Friday indicating that she was unable to sign the contract offered by the board. It is my opinion that the board's insistence on a substantial revision of my job description and contract was designed to force my resignation from the library." Davies' letter said.

Saying that she was not tendering her resignation, Davies' response stated that the board had approved a contract

"that no reasonable person would expect me to sign. Citing an exclusive service clause, the continuing education requirements of the contract and lack of a raise in salary, she said she was unable to accept board's the terms. She said that by board action. her employment would terminate on June 20.

Sunday's meeting, where the board was accused of being "immoral and unethiby a member of the audience, it developed a plan of action and formed a search committee to locate an interim director and to fill the position perma-

"The interim director will also have the responsibility of organizing the library for its move to the Manchester Village Office building." board president Charlotte Major said in a prepared press release.

Major further stated in the release that the library's personnel policy stipulates that the director would remain with the library for 30 days following notice of resignation.

She added that Davies' abrupt resignation creates a staffing crunch for the library as staff member April Smith has scheduled vacation time June 25-29 and the position recently vacated by Teresa Poland has not been filled. This leaves one staff member and a page to continue the operations of the library

"It is the intent of the board that to the best of our ability, library services will continue uninterrupted to all patrons." Major said.

Human Resources Committee member Richard Spring were scheduled to meet with Davies on Monday to clarify the date of Davies departure.

Special meetings also were set for Tuesday and Wednesday of this week to discuss staffing issues for June and July and to compose interview questions for candidates for the interim and permanent director positions.

We need to understand if a candidate will be a good fit for the community and for the services we want our library to offer," Major said.

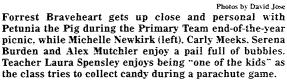

Major expressed regret that the longstanding negotiations between Davies and the board had been unproductive.

'We offered her a position but she did not want to sign the contract." she said.

She added that the board had no intention of dismissing Davies, saying that the cover letter that accompanied the contract clearly stated that declining to sign the contract would be inter-

The Chelsea Fire Walkers are putting their best feet forward to help in the fight against cancer as they participate in the Western Washtenaw Relay for Life set for Friday and Saturday at the Chelsea High School

The team, led by captains Lynn Higelmire and Ken and Carla Cobb, sport the motto: "We would walk through fire to find a cure for cancer.

The team, formed in January. includes Carla Cobb's mother. Blumenauer Manchester. Carla herself is a 1986 graduate of Manchester High School. 'This is the first time we've

PDR applications ranked and ready for selection process

Late summer announcements expected.

By Marsha Johnson Chartrand

Associate Editor Farmers around Washtenaw County and across the state submitted applications last fall, hoping to sell the development rights to their property and ultimately preserve the rural character of the areas in which they live.

This summer, the selection process is ongoing and the number of properties entered into the Purchase of Development Rights (PDR) program will depend upon the monies available, said Barry Lonik of the Washtenaw-Potawatami Land

"They have completed scoring on properties and they are ranked, so we know where the top properties are," he said.

There still are a couple of steps to go through. that some Lonik said

Washtenaw County properties ranked in the top 10 and several more in the top 30.

'So, depending upon how far the dollars can stretch, we'll know soon.

The WPLT has successfully many Washtenaw County landowners with PDR applications as well as others making conservation easements and other land donations.

Meghan MacDougall, of the Farmland Preservation Unit of the Michigan Department of Agriculture, said that all of the applications have been entered, scored and ranked.

'We're going to get the selection committee together fairly soon," she said. "We've been waiting for newly-appointed members to meet.

"Now it looks like very soon, we will decide which applications we'll be able to pursue.

"Some in the top 20 are from Washtenaw County," she confirmed, but said that she is not sure if any in the Manchester area are included.

"We told everyone that we'd make the announcement in the summer of 2001 and we're still hoping to meet that goal," she said. "It probably will be in August."

MacDougall said that the committee will look at the ranking, as well as at other factors.

"Some of the criteria include proximity to other alreadyselected parcels," she said. "The idea is to get blocks of preserved farm land protected in a specific area. They may make considerations based on that."

For example, there may be a highly ranked parcel with one adjacent that may have been ranked lower. The selection committee may look at it and decide to choose both parcels, because a large parcel or two adjacent ones would be more desirable to the program's goal.

McDougall added that there are some counties that due to the way the scoring system is set up, may not inherently "score" as well, but there may be value in starting a block of protected land in that area.

"In Clinton County right now we have about 3,500 acres protected in this program," she said. "This is a good portion of the total acreage protected in the state. Many Clinton county parcels scored well, but the selection committee may decide to start focusing on starting similar blocks in other counties."

The scoring criterion places a priority on farmland that has a high degree of productive capacity, measured as acreage that's designated as prime or unique farmland. Other priorities are development pressure, farmland that complements a longrange plan by the local governing bodies for farmland preservation and farmland that complements other land protection efforts by creating a protected block of farmland.

'We look for matching funds from local governing body or private organization, landowner themselves, as far as leveraging our funds. added. MacDougall "Lands scored higher."

Local property owners can look forward to learning whether their applications have been accepted by late August.

Guide to Saline Area Schools

Anyone who reads the regular "Welcome to the Neighborhood" column in The Saline Reporter knows that upward of 90% of people who choose Saline move here because of the excellent reputation of its school district. Just four years ago, the Saline Area School District put the finishing touches on a $39 million bond issue that included two new school buildings. Last year, school officials, community members, and parents were involved in a community-wide planning process that resulted in the approval of a $124.5 million bond issue for two new schools.

To better serve the needs of newcomers and long-time residents, The Saline Reporter is tearning up with the Saline Area Schools to produce the fourth annual Saline Area School Directory, which will feature information about the district's school buildings, schedules, telephone numbers, community education programs, sports schedules, clubs, and staff as well as the latest reports on the bond issue and a look back at Saline Schools from former

This quality publication is guaranteed to appeal to every parent of school-age children, and will be distributed as well to those families eyeing Saline as a possible hometown. Perhaps elevating simple things, contemplating them on their own as special and fulfilling, is a key to a certain amount of happiness, a key only a few lucky people learn and live by.

I watch my landlord, owner of these amazing acres, literally wear himself out every day to care for the land and what it ble, every day is a workday, and every lamb born or sheep dying is a weight he bears.

Is it a weight he feels is worth carrying because he, too, sees the beauty in what meets him each day? He doesn't have time to sip wine while sitting and observing, but I hope his eyes drink in the sweetness nonetheless. He deserves to enjoy the same renewal and comfort others get by simply looking at his fields.

I'll try to remember all this as I contend with the manure and the chores and the mess and hurry that's part of daily life. I'll try to take my aches, whether joints or head or heart, out for a little pastoral care. I'll watch my own sheep and revel, as they do, in a good meal, a little sun or shade and a bit of good-humored head butting or kicking up of heels.

What seems commonplace can be extraordinary, if we just adjust our view.

ON LIVING AND SURVIVING By David Helisek

Closing thoughts, part two.

Many months ago I wrote about some billing problems I had with the University of Michigan and I gave suggestions as to how to go about resolving medical billing problems.

Well lo and behold it has taken me a year and a half to get my bill right, but I think we finally zero balanced out. The hospital was receiving double payment for many of my cancer clinic visits. I would send in money that Blue Cross reimbursed me, but the university would also bill my former wife's insurance and receive payment from them directly.

All I ever wanted was to show a zero balance on my part for those dates. I would receive an 11-page bill every month, but I owed little. It took a year and a half to achieve this and I had to go to the director of physician billing to get it straightened out.

It seems that there is no known process to refund money or take a negative balance and make it zero. Or so I was told. I was also told that my wife's insurance didn't really want their money back because it would mess up their books.

Besides being amazed by the entire affair I also bring this up because my mom recently sent in money to a medical facility because they said she owed them for tests. She had never paid before, and despite my telling her to call her insurer, she set up a payment plan and sent them some money. She then called her insurance and they told her not to pay anything.

Her insurance said good luck in getting a refund. My advice from months ago was to check before paying and if you're unsure of your rights go up the ladder till you're sure. I still call the one lady who I found to agree with me in December of 1999 and she ended up doing the corrections on my last bill.

Well with that off my chest, I also wrote a column last Thanksgiving naming many of the people who have helped me cancer/divorce process. I left out the former owner of the Enterprise. Teresa Benedict, who allowed me to start my col-

Forty columns ago, the world seemed much different to me, but maybe the tests that I have gone through have at least helped some folks realize that you can persevere through tough times. When I was a union representative I believed that nearly everyone would go through a tough one- or two-year period in their lives. Some face it while they are young, but some have difficult times when they are even close to retirement.

It could be family troubles, or drinking or drugs or some bad illness or accident. We all know someone who has hit a bad streak. As a union rep I saw them all. I just hope my streak is

Many stories have been written about the value of animal or pet therapy. I'm here to tell you that it worked for me.

Manchester teens among the best.

To the Editor:

It is important to share with everyone in the Manchester community of the unselfish volunteer activities of our high school students.

As president of Manchester Family Service I have asked the help of members of the Manchester High School Leadership Class to assist our group when we have Food Gatherers distribution on the third Wednesday of each month for low-income families in our community.

Their mentor, Donna Clark, each third Wednesday from September to June has excused three volunteer class members. who arrive at 9:30 a.m. at the kitchen door of St. Mary Parish Center. They await the arrival of the truck from Ann Arbor and help unload hundreds of pounds of produce, canned goods, meat, and bakery.

With their energetic help the truck, which is fully loaded, is emptied within twenty minutes. The remaining excused time period that these boys and girls have is offered in helping our members sort and bag vegetables, measure and package cheese, or any other task we ask them to do.

It has been my pleasure to get to know Mike Walter who would contact me to confirm the date each month and to line up fellow student volunteers for that day. All of the young people have been very pleasant and willing workers. All have said they enjoyed helping and some have returned to help again.

Manchester Family Service appreciates the example these young people show in their service to the community and we hope to see Leadership class members helping again in the Community must decide on library issues.

To the Editor.

It's very sad that the Manchester Library is losing a qualified library director. Dorothy Davies has been an employee of the library since 1985 - became library director in 1989 through May 2001.

When the community voted for a district library, the Library Board must have decided that Dorothy was no longer qualified unless she had a master's in library science. Legally a library our size doesn't require a master's degree. Also the opinion of the attorney the Library Board employs. Dorothy has a degree in education and majored in - English literature.

Our village and township supervisors have bachelor's degrees plus experience and are doing very well without a master's. Our President told the Yale graduates you could be President with a "C" grade. This is not to say that a master's degree is without merit. but it can also be superfluous.

One of my sons with a master's degree once told me that all we prove is that we can take X number of classes and receive a degree. The real test comes when you're out in the business world.

I've attended many board member meetings, learned that the Board was appointed not elected, receive no salary, gas. or phone expense. Several have master's degrees, do not seem to be accountable to anyone as far as I can see, (except Mr. Limpert who keeps the people informed about building progress) in charge of thousands of dollars.

The problem is not whether the Library Director with fifteen years of experience with the Library has a master's degree or not. It seems that common sense has been last along the road by some.

There is much going on behind the scenes. I'll leave that to the community to decide.

We have survived the blistering hot week of June 10 without A/C (and I don't mean alternating current).

You know what tastes best? Ice water, even at 7 o'clock in the morning. Also, running cool water over both inside wrists helps.

Can vou remember sleeping on the floor near a window when you were young? Do kids do that anymore? And, the giggling didn't entirely stop 'til Dad shouted at us to be quiet. If I did that now, I have a feeling I couldn't get up off that hard place without a great deal of help.

We also sang "School's Out, School's Out" and summer was a time when we lined our dolls up to "play school." Now, we could do all the talking and be the teacher who drew and wrote things on the chalkboard. When Mom asked us to quickly run to the store, I can't remember protesting as this was like recess. Last week at the gazebo (June 14), we enjoyed the first of the summer concerts. Little tiny mosquitoes made us a little uneasy and left welts, but couldn't quite escape Howard Parr's bug spray. The music was great from the four vocalists and pianist from the Michigan Opera Theatre.

We are enjoying two chipmunks who love eating the dried maple seeds around on the back patio. There are those who don't enjoy them as much as we do as they are like "busy beavers" in gardens.

We have a hole in the flower garden in front that something must be residing in. Can't figure out what, as when Del puts a yardstick down in the hole. it doesn't go far. Anybody know what it could be?

LEARNING, EDUCATION, SCHOOLS,

By Nondus Buss

"At the desk where I sit, I have learned one great truth. The answer for all our national problems – the answer for all the problems of the world - comes to a sin-That word is word.'Education.''

Lyndon B. Johnson

After finally locating the information that I had gathered for a project about the Manchester schools, which was my final project in completing classes for my second master's degree, I discovered that I had used some inaccurate dates. This article will give accurate information about the Pleasant Lake School, with future articles explaining the reasons for and processes followed when the country schools became part of the Manchester school system.

In January 1952, the first steps were taken toward a proposed consolidated school district for Freedom Township. The issue of whether the schools in the township, which included St. Thomas, Rogers Corners. Pleasant Lake, Girbach, Kuebler, Silver Lake, and Dresselhouse were interested in annexation was presented to these schools. St. Thomas, Silver Lake, Kuebler, Dresselhouse, and Pleasant Lake indicated an interest.

By February 14, 1952, it was announced that the Freedom schools were to vote on annexation with the outcome being decided by a majority vote. An additional district, the Irish School, had joined the group before the election took place. This was carried out under the supervision of Julius Haab, County Superintendent

The vote, as announced in the Manchester Enterprise in the February 21, 1952 issue, gave overwhelming approval with 154 for and 19 against. It was stated that Haab was to call a meeting of the County Board of Education as soon as possible to declare formally that a new primary district had been legally

This must have happened rapidly, as Pleasant Lake voters elected officers on March 3, while the Pleasant Lake Schools elected new officers on March 6. These were Alton Horning from Pleasant Lake, Roy Bihlmeyer from the Kuebler district, and Nathan Alber from Silver Lake. A bond issue of $125,000 was passed on June 23, 1952.

It was announced in July of 1953, that the new Pleasant Lake School - Consolidated Freedom No. 1, planned to open in September. However, this building project was looked upon as more that just a public rural school. It was to be the community center for the Pleasant Lake

According to the Enterprise, the new five-classroom structure was brick-faced and built at the cost of $108,000. It also contained a gym and a kitchen. Green chalkboard replaced the traditional black to reduce the glare and make it easier on student eyes. Indirect lighting and oil heat also was installed.

Teachers for the eight grades were: Mrs. Leon Raymond, Kindergarten and second grade; Mrs. Dorothy Alban, first grade; Mrs. Rudolph Gross, fourth grade; Mildred Gieske, fifth and sixth grades; and Mrs. Clarence Breitenwischer, seventh and eighth grades.

School board members were Alton Horning, Roy Bihlmeyer, Nathan Alber. Harold Steinaway, and Lowell Roehm with officers to be elected with in the next two weeks.

By August 28, the school buildings for Districts No. 1, St. Thomas School, No. 2, Pleasant Lake School, No. 5, Kuebler School, No. 6, Silver Lake School, No.7, Dresselhouse School, and No. 8, Irish School, were listed in the Enterprise with both the building and the land it stood on offered for sale. Sealed bids were submitted with the Board of Education reserving the right to reject any or all of the bids.

At least one of these old schools is now a home. I haven't researched the fate of the other four. If you have information on any of these schools, I would enjoy learning more!

Relay For Life is a community-based event designed to celebrate survivorship and raise money for the American Cancer Society. On the day of the event, teams of people gather at school or community football fields, fairgrounds or parks and take turns walking, jogging or running laps. Each team is asked to keep at least one representative of their team on the track at all times.

The Relay For Life is also a fund-raising event. Each team member is asked to raise a minimum of $100 from donors before the event. To raise money, team members solicit donations, and hold garage sales, car washes and other activities.

Call your friends and family and join this fun-filled event. Relay teams from Chelsea. Dexter & Manchester will lace up their shoes to celebrate survivors and remember loved ones. The American Cancer Society's Relay For Life in the Western Washtenaw area is a team event to fight cancer.

Down memory lane with Manchester Chicken

Broil has a long and proud history of fun and community service.

By Marsha Johnson Chartrand Associate Editor

The saga of the Manchester Chicken Broil begins on June 24, 1954, with the following entry in the Manchester Enterprise.

"The Exchange Club Auction was a real success. The proceeds amounted to $670 ... the entire proceeds was turned over to the Athletic Field Fence Fund.

"The Exchange Club has planned some other functions for later this year which include a local talent production and a huge barbecue chicken dinner."

This was the earliest printed reference to what would become the community's largest annual event. Several weeks later came a formal announcement of the first chicken broil.

"If you want to taste charcoalbroiled chicken at its finest, salted, buttered, with well-done meat under a crisp, toasted skin, bring your family and friends to the Manchester athletic field, any time after four o'clock. Thursday August 12." Exchange Club and Jaycees joint press release read.

The trademark broiling process retains the same description to this day, and was described in detail in that first press release. Cooks from Michigan State College, it was reported, would be brought in to oversee the process.

The menu, in addition to chicken, is potato chips, relishes and buttered buns."

This, too, has remained essentially unchanged over the years.

Of course, inflation has caught up with the Chicken Broil as it has with everything else. In 1954. the cost of the feast was $1.50 for adults and $.75 for a child's half portion.

An article on July 15, 1954 reminded readers that after dinner, at 8 p.m., there would be an softball exhibition between two outstanding girls' teams.

"The Jaycees will run beverhelping with the service. Don't hesitate to bring your friends; they'll thank you," it said.

Two weeks later the community learned that 2,450 pounds of chicken would be barbecued on Aug. 12 and that the tickets were selling fast. Ludy Klager, chairman of the barbecue, announced that he had arranged to buy 700 chickens, each weighing 3.5 pounds, which would be dressed and split in halves for cooking by the team of cooks.

"Where these barbecues have been held as for example, Lowell, Michigan as many as fifteen hundred dinners have been successfully served. People come not only to eat the chicken but to watched the nationally renowned college equipment in action," it was reported.

Today, the number of chickens purchased has increased by tenfold and the number of diners (and perhaps observers) has likewise grown.

By Aug. 5, 1954, the publicity had reached a pitch that required a large black headline age and ice cream stands, and in the Manchester Enterprise. "JCC-EXCHANGE CLUB TEAM UP ON DINNER, AUGUST 12.

"Step up, pay your dollar and a half, and prepare to enjoy a charcoal-broiled chicken dinner even while you're taking added satisfaction in the fact that you're helping to pay off the $4.000-plus debt on the Athletic Field Fence. The rush will probably be from 5:30 to 7 p.m., the normal dinner hour. If you want to beat the rush, come at four o'clock. The cooks will be prepared to serve up to 100 dinners per hour.

"Can a gang of men efficiently serve that many? Set yourself at rest on that score. Four experts from Michigan State College. headed by Howard Zindell, chief of poultry department, will supervise cooking. There will be crews to serve, prepare the tables for the next sitting, and keep things moving. It will be worth the price of admission just to watch the chickens broiling and to sniff the aroma.

The very first Chicken Broil was a success, as proclaimed in the Aug. 19, 1954 Manchester Enterprise.

"Nearly A Ton of Chicken Consumed: Civic Project Nets $1,000.

Almost two thousand hungry people from Manchester, many southern Michigan towns, and points as far away as Iowa ate charcoal-broiled chicken at the Athletic Field on Aug. 12, 1954.

"Blessed with a full moon, cool weather and high attendance. gross receipts are estimated at $2,000," the reports read.

It might well have been the full moon and the good weather that provided an auspicious beginning to what is now, nearly a halfcentury later. Manchester's longest standing and most Planting a new yard or remodeling an older yard?

But more likely, it is a tribute to the generous spirit of the members of the community. The Chicken Broil had its origins with the Exchange Club and Jaycees and now owes its volunteer forces to the Optimist Club, Men's Club and more organizations and individuals who take part in the preparation and serving of 14,000 chicken dinners on the third Thursday of July.

Through the years, the Chicken Broil has provided not just a fence for an athletic field, but dozens more projects that benefit the entire community.

The 48th annual Manchester Chicken Broil, true to tradition, will serve "charcoal-broiled chicken at its finest," and the proceeds will once again benefit worthy community activities.

No full moon required.

Anyone who's never been to it really needs to go."

Every one of us is touched by cancer in some way, Blumenauer says, and this is a way that individuals can make a real difference.

This month, she marks five years since her own battle with cancer began.

"I was diagnosed with cancer in June 1996," she says simply. T've had two different bouts since then; it's still a battle.'

And participating in the relay is part of her fight.

"Last year, my first year, I got a little involved and I made up my mind that I was going to be more involved this year.

"So that's what I'm doing, and that's what I hope everyone else will do."

She set a goal to raise $1,000 in donations for the fight against cancer, and is edging closer to that goal each day as the relay approaches. Friends and family have helped, but the support from businesses and individuals Manchester has been gratify-

"Some have been very, very generous," she says. "If we don't give money, they won't find a cure.

Co-captain Higelmire has sewn a quilt that was donated to the Relay for Life auction to be held Saturday.

The quilt is in memory of her father, Ford Higelmire, who died of lung cancer when she was a tot, and cancer survivors Cynthia Layher, Nellie Cobb Shirley Wisniewski. Blumenauer. Christine Cobb and Connie Woodruff.

"I guess the fact my dad died when I was only 2 should explain how cancer has affected my life," Higelmire says.

Local relay organizer Laura Seyfried thinks having the fire department on board will strengthen the community aspect of the relay. People see them every day, either on the job or just around town, so they're very visible,"

she says. "That's a really positive aspect of their involvement."

The Fire Walkers are one of several teams from this area who are joining the fight against cancer in the community's sixth year of hosting the Deanna Shackelford of the American Cancer Society says she is amazed at the amount of enthusiasm and excitement for the event. This is her second year as lead staff for the Relay for Life in Chelsea.

The dedication participants had toward this event really hit home with me last year as teams and walkers continued on through the night as that rainstorm passed through the area," Shackelford says.

I have pictures of people splashing in the puddles and folks in raingear walking the track. They kept up the fight. That was really inspiring."

To sponsor the Fire Walkers or to make a donation, call the at 475-7661 Blumenauer at 428-7239.

The 2001 Western Washtenaw Area Relay for Life is set from 6 p.m. Friday to 6 p.m. Saturday.

Events and activities are planned for the entire family. Friday night will feature pony rides, the Survivors' Dinner and Luminaria Ceremony and midnight pizza party.

Peg Chizmar of Village Gifts, a fellow cancer survivor, has donated some votive candles for the luminaries.

"That is something to see," Blumenauer says.

Although it rained during last year's luminaria ceremony, she recalls the touching sounds of the bagpipe, and the reading of all of the names of those who have donated money in honor or memory of a loved one.

'I bet they read names for 45 minutes last year," she says. "It was amazing. It's very emotion-

Saturday will kick off with the midpoint celebration at 6 a.m. followed by the Sunrise Service.

Family entertainment is planned for throughout the day on Saturday.

This year's Relay for Life will feature an auction with Heller's Auctioneer Service officiating. More than 200 items will be sold.

The communities of western Washtenaw are invited to attend the event. Blumenauer and Carla Cobb would love to see more Manchester involvement in the relay for the coming years.

"Bring 'em on," Cobb says. Associate Editor Marsha Johnson Chartrand also contributed to this article.

At the June 11 regular meeting the school board passed a motion that the board offer Freedom Township the building for township use contingent upon a successful bond vote in September. Transfer of ownership would occur upon completion of the construction project or as negotiated.

Asked whether the township would accept the offer, Freedom Township Supervisor Bob Little said that at this point, the offer is considered "hearsay."

Little acknowledged that the township and the school have been talking for more than six months. He said that everything hinges on a successful bond vote in September.

"I think I have a consensus that we'll accept it, but till we get the formal offer we really can't do anything," he said.

Eisley said that while he realizes having an additional campus at Pleasant Lake is an expense to the district, he has not come up with any "magical areas" on school property where the program might be relocated.

"It's been working out well there, and I hope they will continue to have their campus out there," he said.

"I truly feel if it wasn't for Alt Ed those (eight) students wouldn't have graduated.

"I hope we do what's best for the kids here," he added. "The program has been very beneficial to the district."

It was announced at last week's board meeting that 67 seniors graduated with the class of 2001. Of that number, eight were members of the Alternative Education inception of the program, MacKercher said

She also said that the program has applicants "coming out of the woodwork. I don't even have to go out recruiting to get 30 students for next year.

This is quite a change from the first year when she remembered going out to Carr Park to find some students who wouldn't return her telephone calls.

Since the first year, when MacKercher ran a bare-basics alternative school with only a paraprofessional to assist her, staffing and curriculum has been added each year.

Adam Benschoter, who completed his third year with the program this spring, has been mentioned as MacKercher's successor.

If there is any unsung hero to Manchester Community Schools, Kathy is it," Public relations director Mike Quinn said. "She single-handledly sees to it these kids are served academically. They become positive role models to younger kids.

Each of the kids at alternative education has a positive chance to be successful. The ones that are. it's because of her.'

Board member Polly Deacons also praised the alternative education program's performance in the past four years.

"It has been an awesome program." she said. "It's growing because we've allowed it to grow. I know we'd have lost a lot more kids in this district, without alternative education.

Deacons added that with the recent discussion of donating the Pleasant Lake facility back to the township, that relocating the alternative program also has been discussed

"A lot of people would like to see them go back to the high school," she said.

Summer day trips can be fun for the entire famil

■ Ways to Beat the Heat (and Boredom) of Summer Vacation.

By Angela Cooper Staff Writer

Summer is officially here. Now what are you going to do?

If you've found yourself driving aimlessly lately just to use your car's air conditioner or if you've been desperately looking for something to do, here's your answer: a list of the hottest (well, coolest) places to go to beat the heat, work on your tan, or even learn something new.

Cedar Point

While it's a three-hour drive away, this amusement park tops the list of ways to spend lazy summer days. There's Camp Snoopy for younger children and their parents right next to the Junior Gemini roller coaster. The Woodstock Express, a 38-foot roller coaster, is the highlight of this mini-park. Other rides include the Red Baron and the Tilt-A-Whirl. Then, there's the legendary thrill rides for older visitors. These rides include the Magnum XL-200 and the newest addition, the Millennium Force.

Too hot to enjoy the rides? Then check out Soak City, a collection of water slides and pools as well as Bubbles Swim-Up Bar for the 21+ crowd. Challenge Golf and the Ripcord are located in Challenge Park. If it rains, there's an IMAX theater and several live shows to see indoors. Hours vary. Standard ticket price (for those aged 4-59 and 48" and taller) is $39 for the rides. Soak City and some of the other areas are extra. Parking is $7 per day. Head east on I-80 (the Ohio Turnpike) to exit 118 (Sandusky), then turn right on Route 250. See their Web site, www.cedarpoint.com, for details or call (419)

Irish Hills

If you're looking for a closer getaway, the Irish Hills offer several attractions for all ages. The Hidden Lake Gardens in Tipton, owned by Michigan State University, are perfect for a picturesque stroll or an educational tour. A sheltered picnic area allows a break from the sun (or rain). Take M-52 to Route 50 and then take a right. Call (517) 431-2060 for more information or reservations for a guided tour.

Port-To-Port Adventure Golf provides a day's worth of fun with miniature golf, batting "bank shot" basketball, cages, and a family game room. Located at 5768 U.S. 12, take a right off of M-52. Call (517) 431-2262 for details or to make group reserva-

Other attractions in the area include Mystery Hill, (517) 467-2517 for details, and Prehistoric Forest, (517) 467-2514.

Five days of family fun and festivity.

By Marsha Johnson Chartrand Associate Editor

Changes abound at the Manchester Community Fair, and this year's biggest change is the change of date. The fair will be held June 26 through 30. For its 57th annual event, the fair board announces new exhibit categories, new entertainment and activities and a mixture of the most popular programs from the past.

"We have to keep changing to keep up with the times," said Carol Britten, Fair Board secretary. Yet the Board tries to retain a blend of the best of the old as they rewrite the years. To focus on the change of date this year, the Fair Board has chosen June is Bustin' Out 👢 future. "We've really tried to improve the fair, and make it more attractive," Britten, says. "We always welcome suggestions and those who wish to help are encouraged. Associate Fair Board members are among those who help out with specific aspects of the fair each year. They are not voting members nor are they required to attend monthly meetings that are held throughout the year. But their input is valued and their help is what makes the annual fair a success. Attendance at the fair has increased slightly each year, after a lull in the 1980s. This trend is encouraging to the rair 🖺 Board and they hope percent. "Attendance hinges on so much.' Britten says. "We're hoping for nice weather, that always helps. The fair is transformed from a flat field of grass into a true fairgrounds, by the buckets of flowers, of varying sizes varying sizes, that Britten nurtures in her own yard until fair time. The tubs are then transported to the fair grounds to brighten up the various arenas,

"home" to some of the Fair Board members for the entire week of the fair.

The purpose of the fair, says Britten, is to "promote and educate the community about agriculture and home crafts." The Fair Board works closely with the Michigan Department of Agriculture and the Michigan Association of Fairs and Exhibitions to accomplish this mission. 'We still do consider ourselves school related, because we began in the schools," says Britten. The school district owns Alumni Memorial

Field where the fairgrounds are located, so the fair works closely with the schools, in its mission to educate and in its dependence upon the facility. From start to finish the Manchester Community Fair provides a week of excitement, fun, and entertainment that can please everyone in your family. See you

Entertainment at the Fair

The newest in entertainment at the fair is the Heritage Antique Tractor Dirt Pull on Tuesday night. A new clay track was built on the grounds to accommodate this event.

at the fair!

Formed in 1987, the Heritage Farmer's Antique Tractor Club, has their show grounds in Adrian, at Heritage Park. With about 75 members from Michigan and Ohio, the club travels to demonstrate antique tractor pulling and helps to farm and maintain the Heritage Park.

There will probably be about 15 different classes in the pull, depending on weight and ages of the tractor, and horsepow it fits the requirements. The pull is self-funded. and fees are entry split among the pullers. "We wanted to

"Bull mania is now our biggest draw," Cheryl Ahrens, entertainment coordinator says.

Local riders as well as those from Clinton and Tecumseh participate in this event. Ticket prices are increased for this evening after 6 p.m., to $8.00 for those over 13 vears of age.

"This is an expensive event." explains Ahrens, noting that if you buy a season pass for the fair, it will still be honored that evening after 6 p.m. making season tickets to be an extra bargain.

Wednesday is also Dollar Day at the carnival. All rides are $1, all day.

Popular attractions

Kids of all ages enjoy rides at the fair. including clogging and Chelsea House Orchestra and Saline Varsity Blues have received good feedback and return this year to the entertainment pavilion. The Old Timers Cowboy Games will be held on Thursday and always attracts a substantial crowd, including many local entrants. "A lot of Manchester people never make it to the fair," says Ahrens. "We hope that a lineup of great entertainment will entice some of those non-fairgoers to become regulars in years to come.

This is the largest concentration of activities that will be offered in Manchester all summer long. Come down to the fair next week and get a summer's worth of entertainment - all in one week.

Volunteers at the Fair

While the members of the Manchester Community Fair Board of Directors are all volunteers who work hard year round to produce "Michigan's Biggest Little Fair." there is a legion of volunteers surrounding and supporting these 18 dedicated folks.

In addition to the 13 Associate Members of the Fair Board, there are dozens of fair volunteers who assist the judges, do intake and cataloguing of exhibits, ... arrange exhibits after they are judged, and provide monitoring for the various exhibit areas. "We have 50 or 60 people who work just in the Exhibit building on Monday and Tuesday of Fair Week," Britten says. That's only a fraction of the many volunteers who help during the week. Those who monitor exhibits, livestock, assisting at tractor and pony pulls, are all volunteer helpers who want to see the fair succeed.

Friends of the Manchester District Library staff the gates in three-hour shifts throughout the week. A portion of the gate receipts is then donated to the Volunteers also staff booths in the Merchant

"The fair could not be successful without the time, talent, and support of so many people," Bross said. "We really appreciate all those who help to make this fair possible.

"It's a year around job, but I put in a lot of 18-20 hour days in the month or so prior to the fair," Britten admits. "But so does everyone else on the board. We do it because we love to.'

Fair Parade

The fair parade will begin at 6:30 p.m. on Tuesday and wind its way through downtown Manchester before proceeding to the fair grounds. This is a highlight of the week for the children of the community.

Kids begin to anticipate the parade itself almost as soon as last year's parade is finished. From the screaming fire sirens that pierce the air to the putt-putt of mini-cars driven by the Shriners; from the magnificent horse-drawn carriages and wagons to the bicycles and little red wagons ridden by the children, there is something for everyone to see.

It's obvious why the kids are really here when you see the large empty bags they bring to the curb. After the parade is over, they'll have enough treats to last them till Halloween.

Bike entries by the kids are always fun to watch. Decorated bicycles are another tradition at the Manchester Community Fair Parade. For information about entering bicycles in the fair parade, contact Jim Mann at 428-8388.

Floats entered in the parade need to have been registered with Britten, by Tuesday, June

> "The judges need to know which floats to watch in order to rank them for prizes, Britten explains.

Having floats pre-registered will help in this effort. All entries to be judged should follow the theme, June is Bustin' Out All Over.

The fair was originally affiliated with the schools," said Howard Parr, the community's unofficial historian. Parr and his wife Lenore are both 1937 graduates of Manchester High School and recall the event beginning back in the late 1920's.

"It originated with the Future Farmers and Future Homemakers' Clubs, as an outgrowth of the agriculture program at the High School" Parr says. The fair would be held in September or October at harvest time - inside the school hallways.

"I feel I can contribute here." she said. "My husband's family has been here for 150 years. It's a way of giving back. I'm paid, but I think my 12 years of experience is valuable to the township and the school."

She added, "When people have differences in a stable, long-term community, they resolve things.

There's a lot of overlap. "You're connected to the people you see in town through friends, the people you work with, and family. I don't see that as a bad thing. I see it as a support network."

Schenk's commute Manchester is only 15 minutes, half of what it took her to get to Saline from her farm in Freedom Township. She and her husband. Karl, are the sixth generation to live at his family's homestead.

She also points out that all of her nieces and nephews will attend Manchester schools, so she feels a greater community connection to Manchester.

She grew up in Ypsilanti and attended Eastern Michigan University, where she earned her bachelor's degree in business with a major in accounting. She is also a certified public accountant.

She got her first job at St. John. Raham, and Weidmayer, a small CPA firm, which gave her auditence and allowed her to work with local school districts. In 1989, she began working for the Washtenaw Intermediate School District as an accounting supervisor. She also worked for Milan and Whitmore Lake briefly before coming to Saline in 1995. After 12 years as accounting supervisor for various school districts, Schenk welcomed the change in duties as well as

In designing the new budget. she focused on allowing flexibility for the principals at each building and allocating a set amount of funds for them to work with beyond grants and other money set aside for specific pro-

Around 80 percent of Manchester's funding comes from the state and more than 85 percent of all the funds go toward salary and benefits, according to Schenk.

Meanwhile, supplies take up only 4 percent of the total expen-

"Most of your costs are people costs are people costs because it's a service industry," she said. As I told the board the other night, a lot of the budget and your financial health is determined in negotiations, so you need good relations with unions.

Schenk said that Manchester's financial security has improved greatly since last year.

She was able to fit in all of the curriculum committee's recommendations for textbooks. including a new social studies curriculum, and managed to avoid the painful cuts and choices of previous years.

She plans to cycle through the curriculum replacing the books year by year. Her goal is continuity in the curriculum.

She did have to make a few changes this year, including reallocating state funds for the gifted and talented program. The school previously used the money to a pay a teacher to work an extra hour, but now it's used for materials for the program.

$5000 to match playground funds from the Klager PTO.

"Most playground equipment is grandfathered in," she said. if they change sites, the equipment will have to meet new standards."

She used the advice of faculty and administrators to come up with the proposed plan.

"I discussed it with other people that have more information, because a change imposed is a change opposed," she said.

"I tell people what their constraints are. I tell them they're overspent. It's important for them to give me information as well," she continued. "I also ask myself what the mission of the school district iseducation and curriculum, kids in classrooms with adequate supplies and materials." These resources and criteria eliminated some of the difficult decisions she would have had to make and helped her decide on the others.

According Manchester's biggest issue is its unstable financial status.

"My number one goal is to make Manchester a solvent stable financial district and not focus on all these problems that don't contribute to education." she said.

Her position allows her to advise the school board on financial matters, but does not give her a vote.

She feels that is the best arrangement for the good of the schools.

"You need oversight in a public body," she commented. "I am inside the system and a little biased. They're more connected

Her work for Manchester Community Schools is perhaps her largest contribution to the community, but she also serves as Freedom Township's clerk and works on her farm.

Her position with Freedom Township consumes some of her time, but she says it is not incompatible with her position at the schools.

According to Schenk, the only time it would create a conflict of interest would be if the school and Freedom Township transacted any business

"When I accepted this job, I sent a memo to the Freedom Township board explaining," she said. "If there is any discussion on school issues. I just have to abstain completely.

She added. "No one has expressed any concern about any problems that could arise."

As far as time management. she has handled more complex schedules than this.

■ Love of kids, outdoors and sports fuels future ambitions.

By Colleen O'Neill Special Writer

Montana is a state full of and streams mountains, wildlife. It was just the place a young boy named Dan Turvey was happy to settle into as an elementary school student 10 years ago.

"I love to be in Montana," Turvey said. "In the Hyalite Reservoir, in the Gallatin Range behind my house.

After his father built and sold a successful business in Ann Arbor, Dan, an only child, moved with his parents to Montana. After a brief stay in White Fish. the family settled in Bozeman where Daniel Joseph Sr. attended Montana State University and Daniel Joseph Jr. attended Star Elementary Morning school.

"We moved out there after Dad retired early," Turvey said. "We enjoyed the outdoors, hunting and fishing.

In fact, hunting and fishing are two of the three passions in Turvey's life.

The other one is baseball.

"I've played baseball my whole life," he said. "Football and basketball just a bit.

Turvey returned to his hometown of Manchester this spring. in time to play on the varsity baseball team in his senior year. Why baseball?

"Baseball, it's just all I know." Turvey said. "That's all I do. I guess, I like playing in the summer time, which gives the fall season off, the hunting and fishing season.

And though Turvey has struggled with shoulder problems, he is not ready to give up the sport of baseball now that his high school career is over.

A football injury was the catalyst for shoulder surgery last spring but football was not the source of the problems. Genetics

"When I was born my shoulders were naturally loose." Turvey said. "When I throw (he is a pitcher) the momentum takes my whole arm out, then it slams back in."

The movement caused continuing damage to the Labrim. rotator cuff and ligaments.

"The ligaments are not elastic, once they stretch out they are all stretched." Turvey said. The surgery was successful. taking the shoulder back to 99 percent. But Turvey is not done with surgery.

"My right shoulder has slowly been deteriorating on me, Turvey said. "Since I was 13 years old."

Turvey said his doctors are almost sure that what is wrong with the right shoulder is what was wrong with the left shoulder. Surgery is scheduled for the end of June.

Depending on how surgery goes, Turvey would like to walkon to the Eastern Michigan University baseball team in the spring. He starts there in the fall and will study pre-medicine.

"I just want four more years of ball," Turvey said. "Realistically I don't think I have a shot at pro because of my shoulders, but I'll give four years just in case."

Turvey will not be spending his four years at Eastern pining for a professional baseball career. He has definite plans for his future even after his baseball career's eventual end.

His pre-med studies will probably focus on sports therapy or some kind of athletic specialist.

"After (that I'd like to) specialize in pediatrics at Mott," Turvey said. "I don't like to see little kids not well.'

In fact, Turvey would like to combine athletics and pediatrics into his own specialty some day.

"Pediatrics and athletics could tie together," Turvey said.

Lifting weights too early can stunt the growth of a child. Good form and good habits can avoid massive problems down the road.

"You don't want them to have any problems when they want to play college ball or whatever,' Turvey said.

Surprisingly, his interest in pediatrics is unrelated to personal experience. He did not have experience as a sick child, he does not have experience watching a loved one struggle but he has a fascination with medicine and a love of kids. The two seem to blend together for Turvey.

When he was 11 and 12 Turvey loved to watch operation and trauma shows on The Learning Channel.

"I still do." Turvey said. "I watch it all the time."

"That ended up developing into what can I do with athletes and future athletes," Turvey said. "To better themselves and get the absolute most that they can out of their body."

The only actual medical experience Turvey has was as a volunteer in Montana on the Gallatin Valley Tactical Dive a search and recovery team of scuba divers.

And though he hopes to continue his baseball career at EMU, Turvey is practical about his education.

"If it gets in the way of school, I will not play. Baseball is great and I love it, I'm just not ready to give it up," Turvey said. "But academics are most important to Yet through his years of sports Turvey believes he learned some very valuable lessons.

"Through athletics you learn how to compete," Turvey said. "To learn not to give up when all the odds are stacked against you but to give it your best to the very end."

Turvey believes you can take what you learn in athletics and apply it to every situation.

"It is a fast paced business world, very competitive," Turvey said. "Being in athletics is the purest form of competing."

Athletics, according to Turvey. truly is a training ground for competing in life and being comfortable in that situation.

"Some people don't feel comfortable competing against someone else," Turvey said. "Athletics get you comfortable competing against someone else, striving for the same goal."

On the other hand, Turvey has taken life lessons onto the baseball diamond; most importantly, patience

"You have to balance competitiveness with being patient with teammates, with the way a particular game is going," Turvey said. "You have just got to be patient but yet compete at the same time, being calm, not losing your head, play the game and take things as they come."

With his fall plans set and surgery scheduled, Turvey has an air of patience about him. One of the life lessons that he has applied to sports he is applying to his current situa-

From pot scrubber to president

Mike and Alice Rossettie have done it all at Manchester Fair

By Marsha Johnson Chartrand

For at least 40 of the Manchester Community Fair's 57 years, Alice and Mike Rossettie have been involved as volunteers. And they have done just about everything there is to do on the fair board.

"The fair has been one of the main community services I do," Mike Rossettie says. "I like fairs, and I've been on the board for approximately 40 years.

"I've been everything from pot scrubber to president.

But it's likely that the reason he'll be most remembered is his abilities with the public address system at the fair.

"I took over when Buff Brown died," he recalls. "His son taught me how to use them.

"We spent about three weeks here in my living room. About blasted Alice out of here a few

But it's a lesson he's learned well and never forgotten. Over the years, he has refined the system, upgraded and updated it and now he feels ready to pass it on.

"Once you've got it in your head you can do it. Anybody out there who'd like me to break them in, can start next Wednesday," he says with a hearty laugh.

Although the Rossettie's children grew up working at the fair, they now go to visit, not to work. But Mike and Alice are still

"I'd like to retire," he says. "I've been on long enough. I've seen a lot of changes in 40 years.

The fair needs new members. With new people come more help and more ideas.

"People like to bark about things; but I tell them come on in with your ideas and we'll see if we can afford it." And indeed, as president Rossettie made some changes of his own. One that he remembers causing a bit of a ruckus was when they moved the steer auction down by the tents where the livestock are located. 'I always told people, go ahead and make a change, you're responsible," he says.

"But -even though people barked about it when I changed

Trying to get the fair "off dead center." Rossettie says he has tried a lot of different things. Some worked, some didn't.

"The main thing in the fair. I think, is as much as possible you need to have something for everyone-Ma. Pa and the kids-every night," he says. "Once they get in the gate, they can go their own way, but everyone's happy.

"Leave out one sector, you've lost a lot of gate receipts. The best thing for the fair is to get everyone to come, every night."

While gate receipts were up for the four nights of last year's fair, Rossettie has seen some lean times during his years on the board.

The turn of the century is an exciting time for the Manchester district as plans move forward for a bond issue to expand and renovate its current facilities and build a new high school, in response to rapid growth through-out the Manchester area. A long-range planning committee has been formed and has made great strides in assessing the existing facilities and the needs for the future.

To better serve the needs of newcomers and long-time residents. the Manchester Enterprise is teaming up with Manchester Community Schools to produce the first annual Manchester Community Schools Directory. which will feature information about the disschool buildings, board members. schedules, telephone numbers, community education programs, sports schedules, clubs and staff as well as the latest reports on the community-wide planning process and a look back at the district from former teachers and students.

This quality publication is guaranteed to appeal to every parent of school-age children. and also will be distributed to families eyeing Manchester as a possible home town. Won Race With Tornado

The engineer on a Burlington freight train from Juniatta to Hastings, Neb., had an exciting race with a small tornado the other day and won. The wind picked up a large barn and carried it straight toward the train for a distance of a hundred yards. The engineer saw his peril, put on full steam and an exciting race followed, but the wind changed its course before reaching the track.

H. S. PINGREE DEAD. Ex-Gov. Made a Valiant Fight for Life.

A GOOD CITIZEN GONE Active. Fierce and Uncompromising His Political Battles Were Fought to a

Hon. Hazen S. Pingree, ex-governor of Michigan, died in London, England, at 11:35 p.m., the 18th of June, from an illness brought on by the hardships of travel in South Africa, and shattered health arising from the severe strain of his political life. That he was a remarkable man his in Detroit and as governor of Michigan gives the most brilliant proof. He was a descendant of fine old Puritan stock and first saw the light in the rugged little town of Denmark, Me., in 1840. At the age of 14 he left the rocky farm of his birthplace and went to Saco, Me., where for six years he worked in a cotton mill. From there he went to Hopkinton, Mass., where he became a cutter in a shoe factory. In August, 1862, imbued with the patriotic ardor which was a characteristic of his ancestry, he enlisted in Co. F, First Massachusetts Heavy Artillery, his term of service expiring he promptly re-enlisted, and with his regiment, took part in the second battle of Bull battles the Fredericksburg Road, Harris Cold Farm, Cold Harbor, Spottsylvania Court House,

He was captured May 25, 1864, by a squad of Mosby's men and sent to Andersonville, where he was confined for several months. He was then sent to Salisbury prison, N. C., and to Millen, Ga., where he was exchanged in November, 1864, rejoining his regiment in front of Petersburg. He took part in expedition to Weldon Railroad, and in the battles of Boynton Road, Petersburg, Sailor's Creek, Farmville and Appomattox Court House, and was mustered out after the close of the war in August, 1865.

"Holy Rollers," Rivals of

"Elijah" Dowie
"Elijah" Dowie and the healing hosts of Zion have a formidable rival in "Bishop" Eastman and the "Holy Rollers," who are now causing great excitement in central New York. The "Holy Rollers" are so called from their practice of rolling upon the ground in spasms of religious ecstasy.

Often the "saints" of the church, after so rolling, become apparently lifeless and lie for hours in a cataleptic state. "Bishop" Eastman, the head of the "Holy Rollers," was a country teacher when, ten years ago, he became a religious devotee and organized the strange church which now has several thousand members.

Their services are usually held out of doors, and preferably on a hill top, and are marked by much shouting, leaping, and kissing among the men. They practice "divine healing," and claim to have made most remarkable cures. At almost all of their meetings people who claim to be helpless paralytics and bed-ridden rheumatics are prayed over and anointed with oil, afterwards throwing away their crutches and rising from their beds to join in the wild shouting and leaping which go on all around them.

The "Holy Rollers" have many strong churches in the rural communities of New York and Pennsylvania, and are fast spreading into other states. They have also organized a

Father of the Eight-Hour Day

Organized labor, particularly in New England, is greatly interested in the celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the connection of George E. McNeill of Boston with the movement. Fifty years ago Mr. McNeill began agitating in favor of the eight-hour work day, and he has been active in that direction ever since. He was the first field agent of the Eight-Hour league, and has won the title of "Father of the Eight-Hour Day'

Beginning life as a bobbin boy in a woolen mill, he has devoted half a century to forwarding the cause of organized labor. He has written several books on labor subjects, and in 1886 was the labor candidate for Mayor of Boston. In 1885 he was chosen as arbitrator of the great Boston street car strike., and by his influence succeeded in settling it. He was born in Amesbury, Mass., in 1837, and his father was a great friend of the poet Whittier and of other antislavery leaders.

In honor of his fiftieth anniversary as a labor leader a grand banquet will be given in his honor either in New York or Boston, the date and place not having been yet selected. It is assured that hundreds of men prominent in the work of organized labor will be present to honor the patriarch.

At last, after trying expostulation in various forms, the vicar and the church wardens have decided that they can no longer submit to the annoyance. Legal proceedings have been begun and the case should be an interesting one, especially if the defendant is requested to sing in

Another New Cult

There is a new revelation of faith science. It comes from a Denver prophet of occult influences. He brings a gospel for the lazy. He has a new plan of physical culture. He calls it "mental gymnastics." He exercises his subjects by telepathy, or sugges-

He says: "They don't have to exercise at all-simply to think-and by the power of my mind I can develop their muscles. I follow the same plan with women as with men." Nothing could be more simple. Ample physical exercise can be taken by simply thinking that you are walking a long distance or running a footrace or turning double somersaults. All that you have to do is "think"-the professor of mental gymnastics does the rest. It is a big thing.

it's likely the Board will split the class for the following year.

To encourage a high volume of exhibits, Exhibitor Awards will include several levels of awards for multiple exhibits. An honor roll of exhibitors who enter five or more exhibits, a ribbon awarded to all who enter ten or more exhibits in different classes, and a trophy to those ambitious souls who enter twenty or more exhibits in different classes, in the Exhibit Building.

"Once you have brought one exhibit, you might as well bring several," says Britten.

Rules for all contests are printed in the Fair Book, available at most local businesses.

A new feature will be live heritage crafts presented daily in the exhibit building. On Tuesday, from 5 to 10 p.m., the Manchester Hookers will demonstrate the craft of rug hooking. On Wednesday from 1 to 10 p.m. crafters will demonstrate felting. On Thursday handmade baskets will be displayed and on Friday and Saturday until 10 p.m., Caitlin Wellman will be spinning wool from her own sheep.

Youth Livestock Clubs

The Manchester Steer Club was organized in 1949 with five members. It has been sponsored by the Manchester Optimist Club in keeping with their creed of service to youth.

Over the years, more than 1,000 members have raised a steer through the Optimist Steer Club. The profit from the sale of the beef goes to the boy or girl who raised and trained the steer. Steers are judged on the basis of championship quality, showmanship, best records and best daily

The Steer Club membership grew steadily in its first 25 years, with a record of 36 members in the club in 1963. In recent years the participation has seesawed and currently nine members are raising steers for the fair. Heidi and Roxanne Ernst, Erica and Yvonne Lowell, Becky, Emily and Matt Noggle, Amanda Parr, and Evan Wahl.

The Manchester Lamb Club is in its 37th year. Formerly sponsored by the Manchester Jaycees, it is now sponsored by the parents of the members. It is open to any youth residing in the Manchester Community School District, between the grades of 5-11, who are interested in feeding and caring for a pair of market lambs from the time of weaning until they are ready for market. In this three-month period, the lambs are fed, groomed and cared for by the young members. Meetings are held to teach members how to care for and show their lambs, work on educational exhibits for the fair, and learn about the financial aspect of raising lambs.

A set of records is kept for each lamb, which details expenses including food, veterinary treatments and other costs incurred. Quite often the profits from this venture will be used to boost the student's college fund.

This year, the Lamb Club has 16 members: Charles and Sarah DeSautel Breanne Haeussler, Lesley Stephanie Jacob, Kristie Litwin, Erica and Yvonne Lowell, Brian and Nathan Neigebauer, Maegan Payne, Greg Schaible, Shelley Schulze, Sarah Uphaus and Jennifer and Sara Wootke.

The Manchester Swine Club is the newest club. The Swine Club is intended to be an educational experience for the students, who must be at least eight years old.

Over a three-month period, the Swine Club members watch their pigs grow from small, wiggling creatures to ones weighing a minimum of 200 pounds. Healthy feeder pigs will gain from 1.5 to 1.8 pounds per day, many times gaining over two pounds per day.

During the months before the fair the Swine Club members participate in projects including creative educational exhibits and learning how to show their pigs. Each member purchases two pigs for entry into the fair.

This year's 14 Swine Club members are Brad, Jason and Rebecca Alber, Ian Chartrand, Heidi, Roxanne and Ryan Ernst. Brittany, Matthew and Travis Fusilier. Clay, Rosalyn and Tyler Harvey and Kari Litwin.

The livestock auctions will be held at 8:00 PM on Thursday, June 28. Please show your support for these young people for their hard work and dedication over the past months, by attending and supporting the auction.

Fair Queen

Manchester Community Fair Queen is crowned immediately following the parade's arrival at the fair grounds. Although the program is relatively brief, it is the culmination of a long day for all involved - especially those who organize the program.

Michelle Lobbestael has been in charge of the Fair Queen contest for several years now. Carrie Neff has also assisted her for the past few years.

"Pre-judging is based on poise, personality, smile, attire, and how they present themselves," she said. The judges are guided by a point system with a total of. 100 points possible. Pre-judging counts for 75 of the points and 25 points are awarded at fairgrounds after the parade. Speaking, poise and smile determine these final points.

"The results can change dramatically in that short time," Lobbestael says.

Pre-judging takes place from 3:00-5:30 p.m. on Tuesday, at Emanuel Church. During this time the girls also vote among themselves for Miss Congeniality, an honor which is bestowed just prior to the crowning of the queen.

"At 5:30, it's time for the girls to do touch ups on their makeup, and then the cars pick them up at 5:45," says Lobbestael. This is a time of excitement and nervousness for the candidates

Each class at Manchester High School selects three candidates for fair queen and one alternate. These young women will represent their class in the Fair Queen Contest. As members of the Fair Queen's Court, the contestants will be asked to answer one question at the fairgrounds, which is the final phase in the day-long judging process.

The judges are selected from surrounding communities and do not know any of the candidates for Fair Queen.

This year's Fair Queen will be crowned by 2000 Queen Rachelle Lilienthal. The Queen and her court will be asked to help present prizes, assist at the livestock auctions, and make other appearances throughout the week of the fair.

"There's almost no wait for service here. If you call, we'll get you in later that day or the next day.

> "We're one of the only dealerships in the area open for service on Saturdays.

> The sales and service departments are open from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Saturdays. The dealership is open from 7:30 a.m. to 8 p.m. Monday & Thursday and 7:30 - 6pm Tuesday, Wednesday, and Friday With Blue Oval certification, Spirit Ford will also accommodate drivers with free service loaners while awaiting their car's repair.

> "We really want to stress the service, not the sales," Cicotte said.

The sales, though, cannot be ignored.

Featuring a lot loaded with both new and used cars, Spirit Ford has something for most car buyers. Roughly 200 new cars and trucks are available, and about 100 used cars and trucks. Spirit Ford can make your next purchase affordable with financing as low as 0.9%.
