Citizens answer common questions on school issues

Group underscores importance of Sept. 7 bond election

By Marsha Johnson Chartrand
Associate Editor

Citizens for Education has worked since early last year to get the new school project under way. Now that the culmination of its efforts is less than a month away, members of the group are stepping up the publicity effort.

Three members of the citizens group discussed their reasons for involvement in the effort and gave some background on questions they have heard around the community.

Nondus Buss, a retired middle school teacher, may have the simplest explanation for her interest in the upcoming bond issue.

"This is my town, this is my school," Buss said. "I was born (in Manchester), as were all my siblings, my husband and his siblings and all of our kids."

"There are literally dozens of cousins who have been educated in this district," Buss also taught in the Manchester Community Schools district for 27 years. "Education to me is basically the most important process in the world," she said. "If you look at it in terms of making the world a better place, you need to improve what the kids learn and the amount of knowledge they have to keep up in the world."

ANOTHER RETIREE, Gary Shear, also had plenty of reasons to become a part of the citizens' effort.

"Well, two years ago I heard there was some interest in improving the school facilities," he said. "I wanted to take an active role and I haven't missed too many CFE and school board meetings since."

Shear said that a lot of people wonder why people whose children have already gone through school would be interested in passing a bond millage.

"In spite of my age I'm very interested in seeing that Manchester kids are getting a good education," he said. "It's surprising how many older people I run into that are still interested."

"We need to give kids the same opportunities today that others had 30 years ago. I'm still interested in doing what's right."

It may seem evident why a mother with three young children has become involved with the Citizens for Education group. But Marlene Wagner has a variety of reasons for her concern.

"I got started with the citizens' group before being on the school board," she said. "I have three kids in the school and my father is a college professor, so I was raised in an academic environment."

"I value education for kids, and in Manchester I see a small town that can give kids a good education in a small Play ball!

Chamber outing to Comerica Park fun for all ages.

By Nancy Hebb
Special Writer

The Detroit Tigers turned the team's first triple play in nine years last Wednesday. Almost fifty Manchester folk, friends and family saw the quick-witted fielding during the Manchester Area Chamber of Commerce's outing to Comerica Park.

Although the home team lost to the Seattle Mariners, everyone on the trip found something to cheer about.

"Comerica Park itself was the best part of the evening," commented Pat Vaillencourt.

Other adults praised the convenience of being transported in comfort, dropped at the gate of the ball park, and just as easily picked up right outside the park for the ride home.

"We never would have done this on our own," one octogenarian said with a smile. "We never would have seen this amazing ball park."

Kids looked at the evening a bit differently. It was the first ride on a big tour bus for some.

When chamber members handed out pop, peanuts and Cracker Jacks to everyone during the journey, one young man told his mom, "Gee, we didn't need to bring all our own stuff."

In addition to the treats, the chamber bought programs for each family and helped pay for the Getaway tour bus and game tickets.

Some of the proceeds from the chamber's first annual golf outing helped cover the cost of the baseball trip.

"I hope the chamber can do it again next year," Peg Chizmar said.

Josh Brady, with a Tigers jersey and sun visor on, carrying his souvenir bat, Paws stuffed animal, and banner, thought it would be great to hire a bus for another game, but he didn't think the chamber should wait too long.

"Maybe we could go again ASAP!" the 14-year-old suggested.

Local factory seeks new business opportunity

Manchester Stamping's rezoning application withdrawn.

By Angela Cooper
Staff Writer

Manchester Stamping rescinded its application for rezoning recently because the process had become too lengthy, according to president Jim Hamilton.

The company submitted a letter to the Manchester Township Planning Commission that was accepted at the commission's June 21 meeting.

"There were time constraints and now we're looking for other options," Hamilton says. "We wanted to make it work, but there was a little opposition. Jackson and enough people were loud enough. We'll have to look for other alternatives. We're in the investigation process."

"We need to expand and it's hard to do that when you meet up with barriers every time you need to grow. We have no definite plans at this point, but we have a lot of options."

Hamilton mentioned the possibility of moving the plant to Ohio, South Carolina, or

Carolina and it might make more sense for us to divert our new business down to that plant. That would mean no growth here. I'd like this community to receive the growth because it means more gallons of gas and lunches at Dan's and Frank's being sold."

Hamilton estimated that 20 percent of Stamping's employees are Manchester residents.

He also emphasized that he has made no decisions yet about the company's future.

"The whole process takes a lot of time," he says. "We don't want to keep people in the dark. I know we mean a lot to the village. It's too bad we can't get something worked out with the township."

"We can leave this operation behind, build a new one or leave this one as it is. We should know our game plan in the very near future."

"We need to expand and it's hard to do that when you meet up with barriers every time you need to grow."

Village to lose work crews

Inmate camp closing may affect village services.

By Marsha Johnson Chartrand
Associate Editor

Village officials were notified last week that Camp Waterloo, which provides trustee crews to assist the Department of Public Works, will close permanently on Aug. 30. After that time, the Village of Manchester will not have a contract with the Department of Corrections for additional labor.

"At this point, we have nothing in place to replace the crews," Village Manager Jeff Wallace said.

Camp Waterloo, currently located in northeast Jackson County, has provided a crew of five to eight trustees for a 30-hour week, throughout the year, for more than 10 years in Manchester.

Dennis Straub, Warden at the Cotton Corrections Facility in Jackson, the parent facility for Camp Waterloo, said the camp was closing for budgetary reasons.

"Inmates at the camp will be disbursed throughout the state wherever vacancies are located," he said.

Once the camp closes, Straub added, all prisoners will be transferred and there will be no further resource for work crews. Cotton, a multilevel facility, will not contract out work crews.

Straub said there had been no reported problems with the prisoner work crews and the decision was purely financial.

Wallace said that the biggest concerns for fall would be leaf pickup and chipping. During the summer, the crews also mow the parks and the village grounds on City Road.

Winter trustee crews also assist with snow shoveling on village owned sidewalks and such tasks as painting picnic tables and repairing park equipment.

"Some of these things are labor-intensive and it will take some time to decide what the best answer is," Wallace said.

Although the village understood that this closing has been "in the wind" for several months, he said the change will put more pressure on the current DPW crew, and suggested that hiring additional personnel or subcontracting for similar services will need to be considered by the council.

"There's a myriad of things that this will affect," he said.

"How do we continue to give the service we're giving today, at the same cost?"

Wallace said the village will regret losing the additional manpower.

"We'll have to re-evaluate how we're doing things and come up with a more efficient way to make it up," he said.

Alternative education looking at options

■ Staffing and location to be determined before start of school year.

By Marsha Johnson Chartrand
Associate Editor

The Manchester alternative education program suffered a further setback and more uncertainty as teacher Adam Benschoter accepted a position with the Chelsea alternative school last month.

At its July 23 special meeting, the board of education spent a substantial amount of time discussing the future of the alternative program, from its staffing to the location.

Decisions about the program will be made after the two teaching positions have been filled, superintendent David Oegema said.

"We are looking at hiring two teachers; we have posted two positions," he said.

At least 10 candidates were interviewed out of many applicants for the positions. Three students were part of the interview team who participated in the second round of interviews last Thursday morning.

"We're waiting for their feedback on the candidates," Oegema said. "We hope to have some recommendations shortly."

The program's location will depend primarily upon the teachers.

"We could go with the Pleasant Lake facility if we hire experienced teachers," Oegema said.

Concern had been expressed about the Pleasant Lake building being unsecured and since Freedom Township has chosen not to contract for police protection, there would be a safety issue at stake.

Tough decisions have been made about the alternative program in recent weeks, since the resignation of Kathy MacKercher at the end of the school year. And Oegema said that the decision making will continue.

"We will continue the program with 30 students as last year," he said. "It's just the location that has to be determined."

If the district decides against sending alternative education students to Pleasant Lake, Oegema said that the current facilities at the high school campus would be rearranged to fit the alternative education program into two portable classrooms in their current location.

"We will continue the program with 30 students as last year. It's just the location that has to be determined."

Market breaks ground for addition

■ Holiday completion anticipated.

By Marsha Johnson Chartrand
Associate Editor

A 6,013 square-foot addition to the east side of the existing Manchester Market got under way last week as a small bottle room was dismantled and excavation was started to pour footings for the expansion.

The extension will increase the size of the current facility by about 60 percent.

In addition to more space inside the store, more parking spaces will be added on the east and west sides of the building.

Extensive landscaping along Main Street and across the southern property line bordering residences on Territorial Street, will enhance the updated exterior.

The existing north and west face of the building will be replaced with nova brick and decorative planters.

Inside the remodeled store will be new dairy cases, a deli area and an enlarged produce and floral section. A fourth cashier station will also be added.

The renovation will be the building's first since it was constructed more than 25 years ago. Co-owner Jeff Tanner said that completion of the project is expected in three to four months.

Tanner added that there will be slight interruptions in business, "but we will at no time be (completely) closed."

For example, on the day the produce department is being moved, a reduced selection of fruits and vegetables may be found among the dairy or meat cases.

"From time to time, there may be departments being moved, or areas that won't be shoppable," he said.

"But if you're having trouble finding anything, just ask."

Despite the minor inconveniences, Tanner said that this is an exciting time for the business.

"It's going to be very hectic, but we're looking forward to it," he said.

in front of the high school.

"There has been talk to move them to the back of the campus, out by the ag barn," Oegema continued. "It would cost us about $10,000 to do that and we're not sure it's worth the investment to move them less than a block away."

"But that's still an unknown. There are positives and negatives to both options. It's not an easy decision."

He said that many qualified candidates have applied for the two positions, and he hoped that by the next regular school board meeting on Aug. 20 the interview committee's recommendations would be approved.

"Of the candidates in the second round of interviews, most have experience with alternative education programs," he added.

The expected staffing for alternative education this fall will be two new full-time teachers along with three other part-time staff. High school teacher Mark West will hold two hours of classes with the alternative students, and a part-time social worker and a teacher consultant also will be part of the faculty.

Girl recovering after boat accident

■ Boating classes urged to promote safety.

By Marsha Johnson Chartrand
Associate Editor

The boating accident that occurred at Pleasant Lake on July 28 was "one of those tragedies that will probably end up making things better," WCSD marine safety deputy Paul Cook said last Friday.

A heightened awareness of boating safety regulations will be one outcome of the incident, Cook said. In the week since the accident, Cook has been contacted by the Pleasant Lake Property Owners' Association to provide information on boating safety courses.

"The next boating safety course will be available at the Sheriff Department on August 11," Cook said.

The classes will run from 9 a.m. to 4 or 5 p.m. and are totally free. Anyone who wishes to take the course can call 971-8400, ext. 1256 to sign up.

Cook related that a 14-year-old lake resident was operating his parents' boat the afternoon of July 28, and had five other area children on board, all ranging in age from 12 to 14.

According to Cook's interviews, the boy took the boat to an area of the lake that was too distant for the adults on shore to see what they were doing.

"Their idea was to jump off the boat while it was under way," Cook said.

After several jumps had been made from the boat, the boy turned the wheel of the boat over to another 14-year-old, also a lake resident, and the children again started jumping while the boat was under way.

By this time the parents had become concerned and drove around the lake following the float pattern.

"The last pass the kids made, the victim, a friend of the family, jumped into the path of the boat while it was under way," Cook said. "She was hit by the hull of the boat and by the propeller and this caused serious injuries."

Cook said that witnesses praised the kids for their quick handling of the situation, helping the girl into a life jacket and wrapping her in a towel as they sped safely to shore.

"The girl suffered lacerations on her lower back and a fractured pelvis," Cook said. "She was transported by survival flight to U of M Mott Children's Hospital."

Cook said that although the young girl driving the boat at the time of the incident said that she didn't know that jumping off a boat in motion was prohibited behavior, all the other kids admitted they knew it was against the law.

"But, they said they did it because they thought it would be fun," he added.

The victim was reported last week in stable condition and was continuing to receive treatment. She was expected to be released from the hospital over the weekend.

Cook encourages everyone who owns or uses a boat to sign up for the classes offered by the sheriff department.

"It takes a good six hours of presentation to expose people to all they need to know," he said. "There is a lot of information there. Most of it is common sense stuff, but it needs to be spoken of clearly and accurately."

"We really need to dispel some of the myths that people believe about boat safety. Anyone who operates a boat in Michigan should take the course, so they are familiar with what the law expects of them and what other boaters, who have had this course, also will expect of them."

Depending upon the age of the boater and the type of boat operated, there are several different certifications and age limitations, according to Cook.

Asked if anyone would be charged in the Pleasant Lake incident, Cook said the entire matter has been turned over to the prosecutor's office for review and disposition.

"I expect that to happen sometime (this) week," he said.

Here comes the circus

How about looking out your window to see an elephant or a camel across the street? Neighbors of Alumni Memorial Field had this unique opportunity on Monday as the Kelly Miller Circus brought not only camels and elephants, but ponies, tigers and other circus animals, drawing huge crowds for two performances.

The ENTERPRISE COMMENTARY

Overbooking kids' schedules tips the scales too far from fun

I seldom turn on the television, but on one of our recent so-muggy-you-can't-dry-your-hair days, I found myself in a recliner under a ceiling fan, a tall glass of water in one hand and the TV remote in the other. I clicked past the daytime shows involving paternity testing or teens complaining about their parents, and landed on a program debating the value of structuring and scheduling kids' activities.

I was trying to literally and figuratively "chill out." Listening to one mother enumerate the activities in which her three children participated, however, left me more worn out than before.

Basketball day camp (two separate versions), an arts program, horseback riding, foreign language classes, baseball, soccer, and computer day camp were just some of the "experiences" she'd committed one son to over the summer. A shot of Mom and Dad stewing over a big chart emphasizing the dedication it took just to chauffeur the kids to and fro.

Mom mentioned weighing the cost of each activity when making her enrollment decisions. The son, still in grade school, explained that he liked keeping busy, but it might be nice to be able to just go bike riding with neighborhood friends or play a board game with his family sometime; maybe he should give up the horseback riding.

He commented that, during the school year, Tuesdays and Thursdays were hard, because he was in school and then other activities about nine hours, which was more than a full-time job. He was tired on those evenings, so it was difficult getting his homework done for Wednesdays and Fridays.

Audience members and the families featured on the program seemed to realize that such over-extending of kids' activities left little time for just plain "hanging out" with family and friends. But, one woman worried, if you don't have all these resume-enhancing items in your child's life early on, it might be hard to get into the right school, so that your son or daughter will get a good job and have a good life.

Even if the psychologist on the program hadn't pointed out the facts surrounding college admissions in the U.S. that defy the reasoning on which these parents act, I knew which side of the debate I'd argue. I'm not a parent, but I've been a kid: I know which "activities" left a lasting impression.

"I never saw a purple cow, I never hope to see one..." my father would chant as he pushed me ever higher in the swing he'd made and hung from a tree in the backyard.

I'd yell back, "But this I tell you anyhow, I'd rather see than be one!"

He'd load me in a homemade child seat on the back of his bike and we'd whirl around our world. In a phase that's now inexplicable to me, I'd request to go snake hunting, and he'd acquiesce. We'd bike to vacant lots and look for garter snakes. I once took one to kindergarten in a knitting bag, but that's another story.

Mom wasn't a cyclist, but she drove tons of miles to spend time with me at museums, shows, or horseback riding. I still remember her telling me all about how the goat at the riding stable butted someone while I was trotting the trails on my favorite rental horse. She read out loud thousands of books with limited vocabularies.

We sang, "That Good Ol' Mountain Dew" on long drives to or from Grandma's house. Canoe and camping trips stand out, partly as vivid as if they happened this summer, partially shrouded in the idealistic haze of childhood.

Through this summer, I've watched the kids at our town's gazebo concerts. They are there with family and friends, running, dancing, playing, laughing, or even sleeping. Fathers "dance" with wee daughters, or simply snuggle a baby on their chests as they lie on the grass.

Mothers tie shoelaces before someone trips or kiss away the inevitable "boo boos" when someone does. Six-year-olds ask to be introduced to a dog that's there, and spend the whole concert petting and talking to it, running back and forth to their folks. Tots look shyly at each other one week, and end up hand-in-hand the next.

Last week, a fourteen-year-old told me he was in trouble with his mom because he got home after his curfew. He'd been fishing with his grandfather, and the time just got away from them. I can't help, thinking that, although the parents on that TV program might have different definitions of a "good life" and a "good job" than I would, this young fisherman already is living the former, while the boy on that show is being groomed for the latter.

Which kid would you rather be?

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Bond issue for a new high school is important.

To the Editor:

Personally, I am very pleased that the citizens of our school district are finally getting the opportunity to vote on a bond issue for a new high school. I wish it could have been done a few years ago, but student population projections, curriculum development, high interest rates, and adequate acreage issues were putting a "wait and see" attitude in most people's minds. Now it certainly appears that all those items are of a nature that conditions to proceed are quite favorable. Great!

Not only that, but it has been—and continues to be—really discouraging to see all those unattractive portable classrooms in the front lawn of our present high school, and then to notice our neighboring districts with beautiful new high school complexes.

No, we are not as big as Chelsea, Dexter, Saline, etc., and we probably do not wish to have their size; however, we do have a lot of community pride and certainly would want to have up-to-date facilities that are affordable, functional—yet classy.

Yes, as a retiree on a fixed income, passing the bond issue will mean I will pay more taxes. No one is ever delighted about that prospect. On this issue, though, I am excited and hope the vote is favorable.

When I moved to Manchester in 1953, consolidation of the district had just occurred. I was very impressed with the positive feeling that seemed to be among many community members. They were proud with the prospects of constructing a new high school.

Now, almost fifty years later, I hope that same feeling repeats itself. Please vote YES!

Ted Tapping Manchester

School board should address citizen's questions.

To the editor:

I have the following questions, the answers or explanations to which should be addressed to the voters of the district before the bond issue relating to the new high school is voted upon.

I do not know if the questions are rumors or facts, but as they have come to my attention in many different community circles, I feel they need to be addressed by the school board members so that the voting public can make an informed choice in the upcoming election.

Question 1: Is the Manchester Community Schools Board of Education planning to give away the Pleasant Lake School property to Freedom Township upon successful passage of the bond issue upcoming? If so, why isn't the property going to be put on the market to sell so that it can become a taxable property? How can you justify giving away school district property?

The Pleasant Lake School property, approximately seven acres of platted land, most certainly has value in today's real estate marketplace. I wonder if the Board of Education has envisioned what the money from the sale of this asset could provide in our students' classrooms? Does the Board of Education feel that the district has an obligation to give the property to the residents of Freedom Township? The property has been a district asset for more than 40 years and during that time several additions, improvements and regular maintenance has been financed by the taxpayers of all the townships within the Manchester Community School District, not just by Freedom Township taxpayers.

When you are dealing with bonds and property you are dealing with public money and assets. Therefore, the Board of Education should be dealing with such in a business-like manner and not misuse public assets.

Question 2: What are the plans for the "old" high school and the present middle school? Are these properties part of the renovation of the total school system? I am hopeful that the Board of Education has made plans for these district assets in the decision to put a bond issue for new properties up for vote.

I am asking these questions, as the answers to them will affect my vote in the upcoming election. Most likely the information provided will also influence other voters. I urge the Board of Education of the Manchester Community Schools to be innovators and not followers of surrounding districts. Our neighboring districts do not sit back and wait for Manchester to come up with creative ideas in the classroom or facilities and then jump in and imitate us.

Let's move ahead with a business-like manner and with innovation.

Advertisements play "scrooge" with kids.

To the editor:

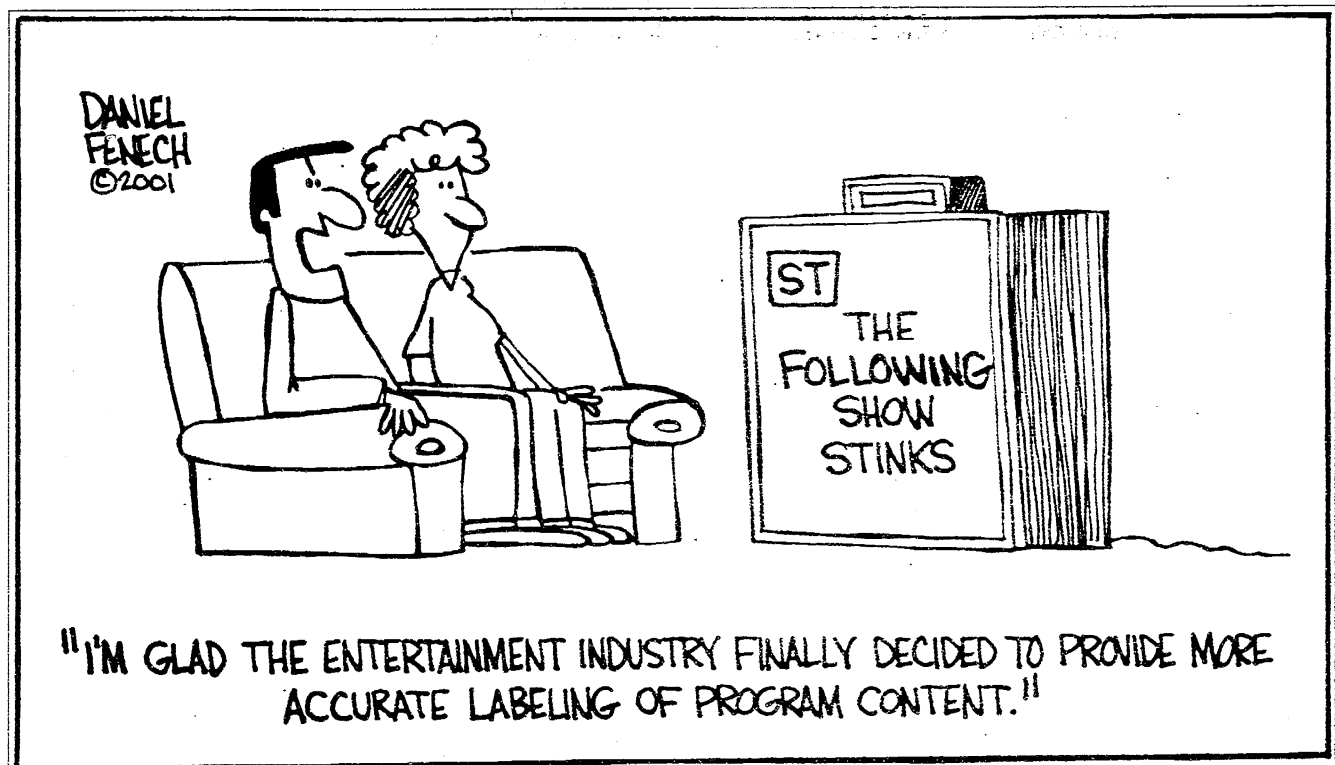

I thought Scrooge was a Christmas story, but perhaps I was wrong. In the Aug 2 edition of the Heritage paper, there is a page two ad for the 4H Fair. This ad says the 4H children and their families should be very proud of their accomplishments and dedication. I agree. Then the ad in bold letters goes on to say, to these 4H Children, be sure to thank your buyer. I also agree with this.

These buyers also give much of their time and money to participate in this event and help the 4H children. It certainly warms my heart to see that it will only cost these 4H children from 25 to 50 bucks to say thank you to their buyers. It seems the children will not be the only ones to profit from their efforts.

Merry Christmas Heritage.

LEARNING, EDUCATION, SCHOOLS, FUTURE

EXCELLENCE

Going far beyond the call of duty, doing more than others expect...this is what excellence is all about. And it comes from striving, maintaining the highest standards, looking after the smallest detail, and going the extra mile. Excellence means doing your very best. In every thing. In every way.

Wynn Davis

One morning, as I was pondering how to begin my next article, my mind flashed to the joyous and very excited face of a young man who I didn't know and had never before seen. His joy and excitement were utterly contagious.

We, my fellow travelers and myself, members of the Michigan Educators Delegation to Eastern Europe in July 1991, had just completed a two-hour bus ride from Charles University in Prague, Czechoslovakia to one of three Institutes of Social Care in the country. These institutes were self-sufficient with food, maintenance and administration on site.

During the years the Communists controlled the country, they isolated special education students in sites outside of cities. Their philosophy was to keep everyone happy by not having to see special needs students on the streets in general society. There were 235 resident pupils and 124 staff members, including specially trained teachers, at this site.

They received regular and appropriate services and each student had a special education plan. They were not mistreated, just isolated.

The goal at the time of our visit was to move them into schools with regular programs, but the financial realities put those hopes a long way down the road.

Each of the other three countries we visited—Poland, Hungary, and Germany—also had many needs and much to change and improve in their educational systems. Interestingly, they all were looking at taking the best of the present system and what they considered the best of American and western education.

Complicating the financial picture even more than the very low wages throughout the communist-controlled region was the need to rebuild the entire infrastructure of their countries as the Communists didn't maintain or repair anything during their regime.

No, I didn't lose my train of thought. I haven't forgotten about the teenager with the wonderful smile. He and his teammates had just returned from the World Special Olympics in Minnesota for volleyball. This was the first year teams could attend, as it wasn't permitted under the Soviet regime.

Joyous smiles on student faces, attentive and enthusiastic participation in all educational activities and well-educated citizens of the future should be not only goals, but also expectations for each and every student worldwide.

We can't do a great deal about students in other parts of the world, but we can and must provide appropriate facilities and learning activities in the Manchester School District. It was done for us, by those who came before us, in a continuum that must remain unbroken.

SENIOR CITIZEN NEWS

OK ladies, here comes a fashion forecast for fall. Doesn't that make you feel cooler?

The article begins with boots. You'll get the Russian and Gypsy look with lengths ranging from calf to over-the-knee in sensual shades and leathers. Purple is here with a passion. If you love lavender or prefer plum, this may be your season. Shiny satin, leather or plum comes in colors from smoldering maroon to pale ice violet.

Layer it on. To underline the romantic, angelic and often transparent blouses get a new bra like the "Only You." It is virtually invisible and gives lightweight support.

Denims may have you doing a double take! Denim is being shown bleached, lined with fur, and appliqued. Step lightly. The other trend for women's footwear is delicate shoes with embroidery, feathery flowery appliques and side laces that could belong to the fairy sprites from A Midsummer Night's Dream.

This season sees a new level of sophistication with a nod to the mods, minis and monochrome color schemes of the 60's. Expect to see white boots, short white fur jackets and white patent leather. White will ignite in Fendi and Hermes purses, Hermes watches and Christian Roth sunglasses.

Cosmetics offer sparkle, as nail polish, lipsticks and eye pens continue to sparkle, often in amethyst, lilac and grape shades. Shimmer gel applied to wet or dry hair can give it a subtle sparkle and shine. Some can even be applied to skin.

Hairstyles are definitely layered. Many styles are cropped straight, short, at odd angles for a variety of sexy chic looks. Finally, fashion takes a walk on the wild side with furs and animal stripes, and swashbuckling pirate fantasies.

The only thing on this list that will be 'current' in my wardrobe is an old purple blouse! Oh well. I do have some old white boots ... besides, I'm still sweating while watching the goldfinches on the sunflowers.

Thursday: Senior citizens may attend the final gazebo concert, remain on the bus and enjoy Barbara Bailey Hutchison, singer and songwriter at 7:30 p.m. In case of rain (heaven forbid), we use the gym at Emanuel United Church of Christ (and we thank them). Bus pickup begins at 7 p.m., call Marion Ahrens at 428-7865 to go along.

Friday: Pickup begins at 6 p.m. to attend the Saline Seniors card

Kiwanis set tournament

The Manchester Kiwanis annual volleyball tournament will be held at 12 noon on Sept. 9.

Team captains or representatives are invited to an organizational meeting at 7:30 p.m., on Aug. 20 to be held at 116 Beaufort Street.

Entry fee is $50 per team and applications must be received by Sept. 4. Entry forms are available at Manchester Pharmacy.

Wednesday: Deadline to register for the Motor City trip is today. Call Marion to see if the spaces are filled.

Thursday: Bus pickup begins at 6:30 p.m. to attend the senior citizens card party at the new Village Hall. Play begins at 7:30 p.m., come and enjoy! We surely had fun there for our picnic and bingo, sorry if you missed it. Marion and sister Helen Burkhardt did a great job and we thank Rubena once again for calling members.

What a meal—thanks, Franks!

A breezy new look at Kleinschmidt hardware

By Angela Cooper
Staff Writer

Kleinschmidt's True Value Hardware recently celebrated a grand re-opening after renovating and expanding their store on Sharon Valley Road in Sharon Township.

The project took about three months, from January through March, and added another 1,500 square feet onto the building.

"We enlarged the inside of the store and widened the departments," says manager Tom Demlow. "We increased hardware a little bit with electrical and plumbing. Tools, outdoor living, and the lawn and garden center got most of the new space."

"We also added an assortment of new merchandise."

After being open for about 20 years, the store has a new look now that the renovation is complete.

"We put new tile down and spruced up a little bit," Demlow says. "The design is a little different. We moved racks and changed things around."

environment." Wagner said that small classrooms in a small community is an integral mix for good education.

"To be able to bring in state-of-the-art textbooks, labs, athletic facilities and more, in a small community, is the best of both worlds for the kids," she said. "In a small school, the kids get more attention, the teachers know who they are. And they have the skills to take on whatever they want once they've graduated."

Wagner stayed on with the Citizens For Education group once she was elected to the school board in June of last year. She serves as the board's liaison to the group, keeping the citizens' group informed from a board perspective and providing a citizen's perspective to the board.

ONE THING that concerns Wagner is the misconception that there is a phantom plan for a new high school which simply isn't being revealed to the public.

"The project has not yet been bid," she said. "It seems that (people believe) because we knew the approximate amount of the project, that meant they were hard and fast numbers."

"We do have an architect on board, and are interviewing construction managers right now. However, we haven't bid out any of the nuts and bolts of the project, and nothing will be done on that until after the bond issue passes."

Wagner explained that the way the $35 million was determined, was by using formulas obtained from the architects. There is a "standard" cost for square footage of classrooms, science labs, an auditorium and a gym. These were the figures used in devising a tentative budget for the project.

Shear added, "Things have not been signed, sealed and delivered yet. The construction manager has not been chosen yet."

Once the construction manager is hired, that firm will oversee the plumbing, carpentry and electrical phases of the construction. A final recommendation on the construction manager will come to the board at the Aug. 20 meeting.

ANOTHER COMMON question Wagner hears is in regard to the indoor "running track" in the proposed new gymnasium.

"If you can envision the gym as a two-story structure, you would enter on the second level," she said. "There's an area like a concourse you would walk around, so you don't have to walk on the game floor."

This concourse would be covered with gym-type flooring and also could be used 12 months out of the year for running practice.

Wagner added that the gym and locker rooms would be on the same level, with spectator seating and a concession area above. Such an arrangement could be an advantage for handicap accessibility, as well. "It's just a better usage of the space that's up there, not something that is added," she said. Shear agreed.

"This is something you'll only have to do once," he said. "If you are only going to build a new school every 50 years, we have to do this when we build it."

THE PROJECT is slated to take three years from the time of the bond election to the time a new school would be occupied.

"They may be ready to roll sooner," Shear said. "We're getting an earlier jump by having an architect and construction manager already on board."

"That would mean we could go out for bids and site preparation earlier, which might help us at the end."

A seven to nine-month design phase is built into the three-year plan.

"What we were doing (as the Citizens for Education group) were going around earlier, was getting in put from the community," Wagner said. "What are all the pieces they wanted to see? Then we knew what the board would need to bring to the community for a bond issue."

During the past year and a half, the citizens' group determined that the community wanted to see an auditorium, a kitchen for the district, a larger gym facility and more classrooms in a new high school. Based on its findings, a recommendation was made to the school board in January.

Last month, the board announced negotiations are under way on a 70-acre parcel directly behind the current high school building, just north of Gieske Road.

"Now that we know where a building is going to sit, we can

OBITUARY

GLENN CECIL LEHR

Glenn Cecil Lehr was born in 1907 in Manchester and moved with his family to Detroit at the age of five. After the death of his mother in 1918, he returned to Manchester where he was raised by his maternal grandparents, the Renaus, and spent the majority of his adult life.

After travels across the United States during the 1920s, Mr. Lehr returned to Michigan, married Nella vanLwarden from Holland, Mich., and launched a career in the food industry. Starting at General Mills, he later transferred to Chelsea Milling—Jiffy where he worked with owners and friends Howard and Dudley Holmes to transform the company from a local entity to an internationally recognized name in the baked goods industry. Many of his recipes are still in production at Jiffy.

Mr. Lehr retired from Jiffy in 1969 after the death of his wife, Nella. He has been well known and respected in recent years for his community spirit. He took great joy in delivering food to the "old" folks, as he called them, even though many were younger than he. Spending hours outside where he was happiest, he picked vegetables from his own garden and the farm owned by his friend Mike DuRussel and delivered them around the area to people in need.

Mr. Lehr had many friends in the community, and indeed, across the country, of all ages. He is survived by his brother, Hank (Marian) Lehr; his son and daughter-in-law, Dr. Glenn (Maria) Lehr; daughter-in-law Doreen Lehr, wife of his late son, Wayne Lehr; grandchildren Chris (Laura) Lehr, Michael (April) Lehr, Victoria Evans, Michael (Judy) Lehr and Deborah (John) Rogers; great-grandchildren Alexandra, Max, Taylor, Morgan, Brooke, Matthew, Cameron, Robin and Kathy; and great-great grandchildren, Stephanie, Danielle, Al, Colin, Zachary, Casey, James and Nolan.

Funeral services were held July 23 at Rowe's Corners Cemetery. Memorials may be made to the Community Resource Center. Arrangements handled by the Jenter and Braun Funeral Home, Manchester Chapel.

POLICE BRIEFS

RETAIL FRAUD

A 16-year-old Morenci youth was served with a trespass notice from the Clark station in Manchester after he allegedly stole a small box of cigars from a counter display at the store on July 18.

Sgt. Dieter Heren investigated the complaint lodged by Clark management after an employee witnessed the boy seeming to place something in his pocket.

Surveillance video also picked up suspicious activity and the boy confessed after Heren located the box of cigars in his father's truck.

MALICIOUS DESTRUCTION OF PROPERTY

Three garage windows were broken at the Department of Public Works yard on Macomb Street some time between 4 p.m. on July 3 and 7 a.m. on July 5.

Deputy Matt Butzky discovered several small rocks inside the garage, which evidently had been thrown through the window.

Neighbors said they had not observed any suspicious activity, either during or after the fire-works held on July 3. The case remains open.

Volleyball fever spikes summer temperatures

■ Competition dominates Tuesday nights at local parks.

By Marsha Johnson Chartrand

Associate Editor

Volleyball fun doesn't stop with the end of the winter sports season.

And it doesn't stop when players graduate from high school or college, either.

The Manchester summer volleyball league is comprised of adult volleyball enthusiasts 18 and over.

"Everyone's from Manchester," says Nick Aiuto, one of the league's organizers. "There is a huge interest around here."

"We currently have 18 teams, and have had to turn away two new teams from the league this year, simply because there aren't enough courts."

The league started about 10 years ago, according to Aiuto.

"I started running the league four years ago," he says.

And in that time, the membership has tripled, from six teams to the current 18. Teams pay a $40 entry fee. While some of the teams have sponsors, others pay their own way.

The teams play in two shifts on Tuesday nights at the sand pits in Chi-Bro and Carr Parks. Because there are only two courts in each park, two teams must take a "bye" each week.

The season begins in mid-June and will last until Aug. 28, because several of the players are college students. The teams took off during the weeks of the fair and the fireworks.

"And as the summer goes on, we start running out of daylight," Aiuto says. "Early in the summer, while the light lasts, we could run three sets if we start at 6:30 p.m."

"But by late August, it is getting pretty dark by 9 o'clock. So we have two sets, one starting at 7 and the next one at 8 p.m."

The fun continues post-season as several of the teams participate in the Kiwanis tournament the Sunday after Labor Day, and six teams continue Tuesday night action during the fall and winter season at Manchester Middle School.

"We're here to have fun, but there is a healthy competition," Aiuto says with a smile. "The teams are fairly well matched. There's no one who is really way out front, but it's safe to say that some take it a lot more seriously than others."

And a little healthy rivalry is good for the competitive spirit, too.

"Some of the younger teams are composed of kids who hang out together," Aiuto says. "So some of them have a sort of rivalry going on."

"Bridgewater Bank usually tops the standings each year. They're the team to beat... I guess you could say they're everyone's rival."

With the membership split about half-and-half men and women, there might be a bit of gender rivalry as well.

The teams, which vary in size from four to eight members, are as individual as their names. Some are named after a sponsor, like the Bridgewater Bank. Others may have volleyball-related names, like "Silver Spikes," "Spiked Punch" or "Sure Shots."

Then there are the more aggressive teams, such as "The Annihilators." Some names exude confidence: "Effortless" or "Shazzam." And of course, there are teams who are there to have fun. For example, "Three dudes and a volleyball."

Team standings are posted weekly at The Village Tap and the team captains take turns refereeing other teams' games.

Of course, the league has a wish list. More sand courts in the parks would allow the membership to expand. Aiuto says they all would love to have lighting at the existing courts so games could continue longer into the evening.

If you build it, they will come.

Sports season beginning

Football practice started Monday. Two-a-day practices are being held at the high school for both junior varsity and varsity football.

Golf starts Aug. 9. Athletes can get more information by calling the Athletic Department at 428-0185 or Coach Galaska directly.

Cross country and girls' basketball start Aug. 13.

Start of the equestrian and cheerleading season will be announced.

All athletes must have physicals and they must be turned in to their coach or the athletic department before they can participate in any practice.

The one-time insurance sports fee will be $20 as it has been in the past. The player fee is $55 for high school sports and $45 for middle school sports. The fee is paid per sport played.

Each athlete participating in a fall sport will receive a sports pass to attend all fall sports. The pass will be distributed after the fall player fee has been paid.

Middle school sports

There will be a parent meeting for football players on Aug. 23, in the middle school gym at 7 p.m.

The parents' meeting for basketball is scheduled for Aug. 29, in the middle school gym at 7 p.m.

Admission fees will remain the same as last year: varsity football and high school girls basketball $4; junior varsity football $3; and middle school sports admission is $2.

Athletic Booster meetings are held the second Wednesday of every month. They will be held in the high school library if it is available or in a classroom. They will begin at 7:30.

The booster club needs support, particularly volunteers for concession stand workers and chair people to help committees run smoothly. Interested persons should contact Larry Aiken at 428-9507.

Coaching positions open

Manchester athletics is looking for a seventh grade head football coach, and also is seeking coaches' aides for football at the middle school.

Other open positions include varsity baseball coach, eighth grade basketball and two volleyball coaches, for the seventh grade and the freshman teams.

Sports schedule cards were delivered to all local banks and Keith's Barber Shop on Monday.

Youthful golfer swinging his way to Orlando

■ Boy's goal is to reach national competition.

By Marsha Johnson Chartrand

Associate Editor

Nik Stetler may be only 8 years old, but he already is on his way to a national championship.

In July, Nik, who was still seven at the time, participated in a junior skills challenge in Kalamazoo. He placed first in his age group, which qualified him for regional competition. Placing in the top three would allow him to attend national competition in Orlando, Fla.

The skills competition consisted of driving, chipping and putting. Stetler's longest drive was 111 yards, and he also obtained the highest score out of three chip shots. The putting segment consisted of shooting a 5-foot putt and a 15-foot putt.

Stetler won that handily, too, sinking the 5-foot putt easily and leaving the 15-foot putt just an inch from the cup.

On July 14, he headed to a regional competition in Lansing, where he drove well but his chipping and putting were off. He missed qualifying for Orlando that tournament but this enthusiastic golfer hasn't given up—he will head to Maumee, Ohio, on Sept. 5 to participate in another regional competition.

"That's eight days after I start school," he says.

He hopes to improve his performance and earn himself a trip to Florida.

Although officially he's been golfing for just a couple of years, Nik's mother, Lisa, says that he has been "swinging clubs since he was about three."

"They were Dad's oversized clubs, though," her son reminds her.

Nik will be in the third grade at Klager School this fall and lives in Manchester Township with his parents, Lisa and Rik.

The pro golf circuit may be waiting for this young man, and it seems he will be ready for the challenge.

Ambitious young golfer, Nik Stetler, 8, will participate in another golf tournament in Ohio next month to try to qualify for a trip to Orlando for a national championship.

Twin athletes are two sides of the same coin

■ Twins complement each others' achievements.

By Colleen O'Neill

Special Writer

Kathryn was born first that December morning. She arrived one whole minute before Holly. The fraternal twins are the fourth and fifth children of Monica and Walter Horodeczny of Manchester.

Fraternal twins could be considered just another set of siblings. Unlike identical twins who are formed when a fertilized egg separates into two, essentially giving the two fetuses identical features and other inherited traits, fraternal twins are two different eggs fertilized separately.

But ask any set of fraternal twins and they will tell you that they are still twins, still sharing a special bond.

"Sometimes people talk (that) if one twin is hurt, you can feel it," Kathryn said. "It has happened (to us)."

The bond between these two includes an inherent knowledge of what the other is thinking, the ability to finish sentences and the ability to know, with a look, what is going on with the other twin.

Yet, even while admitting that the bond between twins is special, both Kathryn and Holly attribute some of that bond to their environment.

"We are the same age. Whenever something is happening to one, usually it is happening to the other at the same time," Holly said.

They have been connected in a way that other regular siblings would not be connected. They walked together on that first day in kindergarten and fretted about tests together. They faced the middle school and high school together.

And even though they had older brothers and a sister to help guide them (Hillary is now 24, Kirk 21, and Matt is 19), the twins had each other step-by-step and side-by-side through the years.

"(We) always have someone to lean on, no matter what, or where we are at," Kathryn said.

And though they are fraternal the similarities between the two sisters is striking. Physically they look different. Kathryn is taller. Holly's hair is lighter. But their personalities are strikingly similar.

Together they began playing basketball in the fifth grade. Both ran track and both earned their varsity letters all four years. Kathryn was the drum major her senior year while Holly was a section leader for drum line in her junior year and section leader during the concert season.

Holly served as president of Kathryn (left) and Holly Horodeczny have different tastes and different interests, but as twins they share many of the same traits.

her class in both her junior and senior years. Kathryn was class secretary their freshman and senior years.

There are differences too. Kathryn was President of FFA while Holly was named the Optimist Student of the Month in April of her junior year. Holly was a member of the Spanish Club and Kathryn participated in drama. She performed in five plays over three years and earned the department award for the fall play, Virgil's Wedding, her senior year. Holly opted to play football rather than basketball in her seventh grade and sophomore years. Kathryn played basketball throughout her high school career.

But even these differences tell of sisters who have strong interests and a good work ethic.

Both sisters are involved in a bible study group with friends. Both are members of St. Mary Catholic Church in Manchester. The girls volunteer at St. Louis Center, a home for young men with mental disabilities located near Chelsea.

Both traveled to Italy in 2000 to participate in World Youth Day and saw the Pope on three different occasions.

Both spend their summers baling alfalfa at Meadowview Farms, the family business.

"There is definitely a closeness," Holly said of her twin sister.

The twins will spend this summer, like others, baling alfalfa on the family farm. Then in the fall Kathryn will begin two free semesters at Washtenaw Community College thanks to a scholarship. She graduated in the top 15 percent of her class.

Holly will most likely attend WCC with Kathryn and both plan to eventually transfer to

Eastern Michigan University.

Kathryn is thinking medicine. Holly plans on teaching and "hopefully" coaching.

The twins plan to live at home and commute to school like older brothers Matt and Kirk who both attend Michigan State University.

Neither plans to go into farming.

"I think Kirk will take over the farm when we grow up," Kathryn said.

Hillary is opening her own business and Matt is studying engineering.

"Teaching interests me," Holly said. "It is hard to explain, I like farming and everything, but it's not something I want to spend the rest of my life doing."

She might like to spend her life teaching at either the middle school or elementary level, possibly physical education with coaching on the side. Not a bad goal for Manchester's only female athlete to ever qualify for the state meet in the same event for four years.

Holly took up the pole vault on the advice of women's track coach Denny Steele. She got good at it on the training of (now) varsity men's track coach Cory Cox.

"I owe all my pole vaulting skill to him," Holly said of Cox. "He made me a somebody."

That somebody inspired younger girls to try the pole vault and helped Holly earn Most Valuable Player honors during her senior year on the track team.

"Holly is a really good leader," Kathryn said. "I think she was the best leader on the track team."

Being a leader and being an inspiration to younger athletes are some of the things that make Holly want to stay involved with children.

"I had adults come up and say, 'hey my daughter really looks up to you - (she's) out here doing what you are,'" Holly said. "If I'm setting an example I'm going to bust my butt to set a good one."

She certainly set an example for guts.

During a routine gym class in the winter of her junior year Holly hurt her knee. A visit to the orthopedic surgeon identified the problem. The only solution was surgery.

"Track is something I love to do," Holly said. "The doctor said 'you won't hurt it any more (it is just a question) of how much pain you can stand' and I wanted to be regional champion."

It took 100-800mg Motrin pills to get Holly through that track season. She was regional champion. She went to state and jumped despite the pain.

"A week after state I had surgery," Holly said.

Recovery was not without pain, either. Besides rehabilitation she had to forego her senior season playing basketball because a hard hit to her knee was too excruciating. But she did get back for her senior track season and broke her own school record in the pole vault three times. Her leap of 9 feet at the conference meet may stand for a while in the MHS record books.

As they leave high school behind them, the twins look to futures in Michigan and near Manchester.

"We're a real close family," Kathryn said. "I don't know how holidays would be with someone in California."

To this day the twins miss the grandfather they lost a little over one year ago and the other grandfather who died less than a year before that. Their grandmothers died when the girls were two and ten respectively.

"We get inspiration from our parents and grandparents," Holly said. "They've been through everything and they are wonderful people, they inspire us to be the kind of people we are."

They are pretty well grounded athletes with a healthy outlook on life.

From sports Kathryn knows "you can't win them all."

"We've had some good teams with really talented girls and there is always someone better but that is ok as long as you gave your best," Kathryn said. "Number two and number ten are just as fine."

Holly learned more about herself in athletics.

"You learn things about yourself that you never knew, like how much (you're) willing to put forth effort," Holly said. "Doing a work out, 'aw man I don't think I can do that', but after you're done, 'wow I stuck with it and I can do it,' there is a lot of satisfaction."

They both learned that sports put a realistic scope on life. There is life beyond athletics.

And here are two athletes who have much to offer society as they get on with life.

Two pretty identical athletes.

Wrestling club trains with Olympians

■ Manchester Wrestling Club remains active through summer.

Even though wrestling season is over, the parents, coaches, and wrestlers of the Manchester Wrestling Club have been busy this summer working at Michigan International Speedway.

By the end of the summer, the group will have worked eight days collecting tickets at the gate and checking coolers for glass containers.

The money from this fundraiser will go to the Manchester Wrestling Club for the 2002 season.

From July 7 to 9, 11 of the wrestlers attended the "Steve Fraser Wrestling Camp" at Adrian College. Fraser is a 1984 Olympic gold medalist.

Kevin Bracken, who took sixth place in the 2000 Olympics, was one of the coaches and several other Olympians participated in the camp.

Rulon Gardner stopped by to give an inspirational speech and to wrestle with the boys and girls. Gardner upset the top Russian wrestler who had not been beaten in 13 years to win a gold medal at the 2000 Olympics.

Everyone received a participation certificate and four special awards were also given out. Three of the awards went to Manchester wrestlers: Nicole Jackson, Bill Cloke, and Cevin Walker.

Last season, 66 boys and a handful of girls were members of the wrestling club.

To make a donation or for further information about joining the Manchester Wrestling Club, call Joel Tobias at (734) 428-9372.

If you would like to help out at M.I.S. during any race weekend, contact Dixie Kingsbury at (734) 428-0620.

Guide to Chelsea Area Schools

Although Chelsea School District has been a magnet for growth in recent years, Assistant Superintendent Iva Corbett does not anticipate an increase in the student population this fall because of an expected decline in the number of kindergartners.

Current enrollment figures show a student population of 2,919, with the highest number of students in the ninth grade. There are more than 1,000 at the high school.

To better serve the needs of newcomers and longtime residents, The Chelsea Standard, in cooperation with the Chelsea School District, will produce the annual Chelsea Area School Directory, which will feature information about school buildings, school officials, schedules, community education programs, clubs and staff. It also will include staff telephone extensions, e-mail addresses and sports schedules.

This quality publication is guaranteed to appeal to every parent of school-age children. It will be distributed as part of the newspaper and will be available to families eyeing Chelsea as a possible hometown.

The Chelsea Area School Directory is a valuable advertising tool to market your business or service. So, take advantage of this opportunity to let the residents in the school district know what you offer and reserve your space today. More than 5000 copies will be distributed on October 4.

Published September 20

When families look to relocate, among the first places they look is at the reputation of the community's school district.

The turn of the century is an exciting time for the Manchester district as plans move forward for a bond issue to expand and renovate its current facilities and build a new high school, in response to rapid growth throughout the Manchester area. A long-range planning committee has been formed and has made great strides in assessing the existing facilities and the needs for the future.

To better serve the needs of newcomers and long-time residents, the Manchester Enterprise is teaming up with Manchester Community Schools to produce the first annual Manchester Community Schools Directory, which will feature information about the district's school buildings, board members, schedules, telephone numbers, community education programs, sports schedules, clubs and staff as well as the latest reports on the community-wide planning process and a look back at the district from former teachers and students.

This quality publication is guaranteed to appeal to every parent of school-age children, and also will be distributed to families eyeing Manchester as a possible home town. This directory is a valuable advertising tool to market your business or service, so take advantage of this opportunity to let residents in the district know what you have to offer. SHARON TOWNSHIP

SYNOPSIS OF JOINT BOARD AND PLANNING COMMISSION MEETING - JUNE 14, 2001

Supervisor Blades called the meeting to order at 7:32 P.M. with the following Board members present: Aiuto, Chizmar, Kappler and Lavender. Planning Commissioners present: Fleck, Cole, Lewis, Simons and Guysky. There were no attendees.

begin to determine how the building should be designed to best suit that land," Wagner said. "We don't have an answer on what the building is going to look like yet."

"There really won't be an outside façade until after the bond passes. (The board) can show people now what the pieces are going to look like, but how they will all be put together will come after the bond passes."

The $1.33 million property purchase is contingent upon passage of the bond issue, soil testing, and the purchase of an additional eight acres bordering Gieske Road.

"THE PHILOSOPHY here is that it's better to do it right, to give ourselves a cushion, rather than feeling rushed and making mistakes," Shear said.

"If things progress at a quicker pace, that's great. It's better than a lengthy delay."

Another issue with the prospective purchase is the composition of the land.

"There are wetlands on the property, that's not a secret," Shear said. But that could be ideal for a biology class or outdoor education.

"At least 50 of the 70 acres would be buildable. They are still doing soil borings, and other tests, so that we have the right place for the school foundation, for parking lot, and for other fundamentals."

Referring to the wetland area in question, Buss said that it actually is an attractive aspect of the property.

"It truly has a strong potential for enhancing the entire district's science curriculum," she said.

Wagner noted that in Detroit, a school actually had a conservation group come in to create a wetland area for students to study.

"For a hands-on science curriculum, we can use this to our advantage," she said.

Naturally, she said, there is no such thing as a perfect site, especially when looking for large acreage.

"We found 70 acres with a very good spot to build a high school," she said. "There are lots of other things to do with the property."

ULTIMATELY, EACH member of the group said that curriculum enhancement is an important reason why new facilities are needed.

"We've got good staff, we're developing an excellent curriculum," Shear said. "The facility is just another piece of a large puzzle."

Wagner added that this year, the social studies curriculum will be updated at the middle school level and the high school also is undergoing some restructuring in the social studies department.

"We're working on different subjects in a rotation," Wagner said. "We keep on evolving."

"It is never finished," Buss said. "It is an ongoing progress through the years to keep it updated and current."

with today's technology."

Buss added that giving students the same opportunities that were adequate and even excellent 30 years ago, now requires different materials and different processes to deliver such opportunities. Changing expectations means that teaching methodologies need to keep up with changing times.

"IT SOUNDS like a lot of money. They're asking for $35 million," Shear said. "But if you own a $150,000 house, it's about the price of a Coke each day.

"People are getting more interested in this issue. Generally, the more people have the facts, the more likely they are to make the best decision."

"People may have reasons to vote the way they do, but they will be based on facts, not rumors."

A community meeting to "ask the experts" is being planned prior to the election. Watch for more information on this forum in coming issues of the Enterprise.

Guide to Dexter Area Schools

Dexter Community Schools is in a state of change. An ambitious building project is expected to culminate in the spring of 2002 with the opening of a new high school. In the fall of 2002, there will be shift, with the transformation of the old high school into Creekside Intermediate School, which will house pupils in fifth and sixth grades. Wylie Middle School will become an elementary school for third- and fourth- graders. Bates and Cornerstone elementary schools will serve pupils in kindergarten through second grades. Mill Creek Middle School will continue to accommodate seventh- and eighth-graders.

Ross Stephenson, deputy superintendent of Dexter schools, said enrollment in 2000-2001 topped out at 3,089. He anticipates an increase of 100 students next school year.

To better serve the needs of newcomers and longtime residents, The Dexter Leader, in cooperation with the Dexter School District, will produce the annual Dexter Area School Directory, which will feature information about school buildings, school board members, school officials, schedules, community education programs, clubs and staff. It will also include staff telephone extensions, e-mail addresses and sports schedules.

This quality publication is guaranteed to appeal to every parent of school-age children. It will be distributed as part of the newspaper and will be available to families eyeing Dexter as a possible hometown.

The Dexter Area School Directory is a valuable advertising tool to market your business or service. So, take advantage of this opportunity to let residents in the school district know what you have to offer and reserve your space today. More than 3000 copies will be distributed on Oct. 11.
