VOL XXXV

GOBLES, MICHIGAN, THURSDAY, APRIL 30, 1925

NO.

LOCAL BREVITIES

Guy Thayer and Herman Schowe have new Star cars.

A. H. Goss auction tomorrow, Friday afternoon. See ad.

Mr. and Mrs. Orville Reigle are spending the week in Chicago.

L. E. Churchill and family spent Sunday at C. M. Selby's in Holland.

Mrs. Chas. Cole of Atlanta, Ga. is spending the week at Al Wauchek's.

A good sized audience enjoyed the "Path Across the Hill" as given by home talent last Friday night at Gobles opera house.

With the new mail service The News may be delayed but it might be still be worse. Many larger places have no better mail service than Gobles.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Giddings of Chicago visited at Max Benton's and with other friends here this week. Both are still enjoying city life very much.

Arvin Myers is home for the summer after spending the winter in Texas and Illinois. He is looking fine and seems rather glad to be at the old home town again.

The Millers, Webbs, Andersons, Andrews and Hartleys are spending the vacation week at their Lake Mill homes. Sure seems good to see them here again.

Annabel Adriance, second year student in the Nursing school of the University of Michigan has been awarded the honor chevron for scholarship. Miss Adriance had the highest grades of all the students in the lower 3 grades in the nursing school. Well we expected Annabel to more than make good.

Ed Messenger is home from Chicago this week.

Mrs. Amanda Hosford of Washington, D. C. is visiting her sister, Mrs. Lawrence and niece, Mrs. Gilchrist.

Base ball here today, Thursday at 3. Hartford vs Gobles. Let's all go up and give the boys a little support.

Annabel Adriance was home from Ann Arbor for the week end.

Mrs. Adriance is home from Colorado Springs.

The inspector from the U. of M. was here this week and recommended that Gobles high school be retained on the university list for two more years. This is most creditable for the school and teachers.

Gobles lost to South Haven last Saturday by the score of 12 to 2. We understand that A. Ryno will be unable to pitch the balance of the season which is a real handicap as it will be hard to build a team with a new pitcher at this date.

There will be a stump and boulder blasting demonstration at the farm of Christian Kiefer east of Gobles next Saturday morning at nine. If interested be there.

Ed Mann, Charles Howard, Fenn Lohrberg and Lloyd Upham attended a Masonic meeting at Hopkins Monday night.

The County Agricultural Agent is very anxious to get in touch with people who want a marl digging demonstration. In order to procure one of these demonstrations it is necessary for either the farmer who owns the marl bed or the farmers in that vicinity to subscribe for not less than 150 yards of marl at $1 per yard, 75c of which goes to the Michigan Agricultural College to help pay the transportation of the marl digging outfit and the other 25c goes to the owner of the bed. Anybody in the county who has a marl bed and is interested in this proposition will do well to get in touch with the County Agricultural agent without delay.

F. J. Austin, Mrs. E. V. Beck and Frank Casper of South Haven, and Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Metzger motored to Kalamazoo Sunday afternoon.

John Reigle is detained at home with an abscess in his jaw.

Kindergarten kids' parents take notice! Brown's big truck calls for the kindergarten kids tomorrow, Friday afternoon at school, takes them to the Home Nursery for gift peach trees and Bridal Wreath for each kiddie and a ride back to the postoffice and the marshall will let 'em holler and sing till they are out of breath.

BROWN DISTRICT

Sunday visitors at Hattie Phelps' were Mr. and Mrs. Burr Chappell of Grand Rapids, Mr. and Mrs. Shockson of Kalamazoo, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Bradley of Oshtemo and Lyle Fessenden of Camp Custer.

Esther Healy spent the week end at Allie Niles'.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Champion spent Sunday at A. Sackett's.

Mary Bradley and Hattie Phelps spent Sunday night and Monday at Earl Bradley's at Oshtemo.

Mr. and Mrs. Dan DeWaters called at Andy Sackett's Sunday.

Andy Camfield and son were in Chicago last week.

Mrs. Mary Sackett, Addie and Margaret Jewell were in Kalamazoo Friday night.

Mrs. Ed Moberg and daughter spent the week end at A. Camfield's.

Mrs. Lee Confer spent a few days last week with her sister, Mrs. Dave Gilbert.

Ila Moberg and Rilla Camfield called at Andy Sackett's Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Fritz of Paw Paw called at Dave Gilbert's Sunday.

Maxene and Donald Camfield are visiting their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Andy Camfield.

Isaac Garlock and family were Sunday visitors at Geo. Pike's. Mr. Kendall of New York visited there Saturday.

NORTH POINT

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Sivers spent Sunday at W. E. Coffinger's.

Jesse Coffinger was home over Sunday.

Harlan Manning spent Sunday at J. Manning's.

Arthur Torrey and family spent Sunday in Allegan.

Fred Babbitt and family spent Sunday at Lawrence Harbolt's.

Mrs. Martin Mahieu and Mrs. John Mahieu spent Thursday afternoon with Mrs. Arthur Torrey.

Nelson Clark and family were home over Sunday.

Ernest Bittenbender and family and Mr. and Mrs. Philip Feldes spent Sunday at John Page's.

John Newman and family spent Sunday at Chas. Newman's.

The Methodist Church

Last night the tree was bleak and bare not a sign of life anywhere, it looked quite dead, only a thing of wood, I look today and I behold bud, leaf, blossom, and the whole land is teeming with new life.

No one can possibly see the life within the tree, nor will a human ever see the soul that is within the man. But the tree we know is alive for we see it grow, man is in the same law's range for we see him change. This is the song we sing, "Glory be to God for the Spring".

I believe in Jesus Christ as Deity and Savior, and in the Holy Spirit as Guide Comforter, and in the Almighty Father. I believe in humanity and that if I would render any acceptable service to Almighty God it must be by ceaseless ministry to my fellow men. I believe LOVE is the greatest thing in the world.

Kalamazoo district council convention at the First Methodist church Thursday, May 7.

The Ladies Aid will meet with Mrs. Cheney, Wednesday, May 6.

Theme Sunday at 10:30, The King's Business.

Church School at 11:30, the school is doing fine, you be a booster for it.

Epworth League at 6:30 followed by a song and praise service.

Yours for a live wire community, A. S. Williams

Notice of Mortgage Sale

Whereas, William C. Huff and Malissa Huff, his wife, of Van Buren County, Michigan, made and executed a certain mortgage, bearing date the 14th day of April, A. D. 1924, to Charles H. Palmer, of Kalamazoo, Michigan, which was recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds of the County of Van Buren on the 24th day of April, A. D. 1924 at nine o'clock A. M. in Liber 112 of Mortgages, on Page 588, and,

Whereas, the amount claimed to be due on said property at the date of this Notice for principal and interest is the sum of Six Hundred Fifteen and 73/100 ($615.73) Dollars, together with an attorney fee of Twenty-five Dollars and no suit or proceeding has been instituted at law to recover the debt now remaining secured thereby, or any part thereof, and,

Whereas, default has been made in the payment of the money secured by said mortgage whereby the Power of Sale contained therein has become operative.

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given, that, by virtue of the said Power of Sale and in pursuance thereof and of the Statute in such case made and provided, said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the mortgaged premises at public vendue, to the highest bidder, at the north front door of the Court House at the Village of Paw Paw, in said County of Van Buren, that being the place of holding the Circuit Court within said County, on the first day of August, A. D. 1925 at nine o'clock in the forenoon, central standard time, the description of which said premises contained in said mortgage is as follows:

All that certain piece or parcel of land situated and being in the Village of Gobles, in the County of Van Buren and State of Michigan and described as follows, to-wit: The East Half of Lots Two and Three, Block Three of Gobles Addition to the Village of Goblesville.

Dated this 27th day of April, A. D. 1925

CHARLES H. PALMER, Weston & Fox, Attorneys for Mortgagee. Business Address: 503 Hanselman Bldg., Kalamazoo, Michigan.

RUPTURE EXPERT HERE

Seeley Co's truss expert from Chicago will personally be at the Burdick Hotel, and will remain in Kalamazoo Wednesday only, May 6. Mr. Seeley says: "The Spermatic Shield will not only retain any case of rupture perfectly, but contracts the opening in 10 days on the average case. Being a vast advancement over all former methods—exemplifying instantaneous effects immediately appreciable and withstanding any strain or position no matter the size or location. Large or difficult cases or incisional ruptures (following operations) specially solicited. This instrument received the only award in England and in Spain, producing results without surgery, injections, medical treatments or prescriptions." Warning—All cases should be cautioned against the use of any elastic or web truss with understraps, as same rest where the lump is and not where the opening is, producing complications necessitating surgical operations. Mr. Seeley has documents from the United States Government, Washington, D. C., for inspection. Our representative will be glad to demonstrate without charge or fit them Business demand prevent stopping at any other place in this section.

P. S.—Every statement in this notice has been verified before the Federal and State Courts.—F. H. Seeley, Home Office: 117 No. Dearborn st., Chicago

Plan Revolving Garage

A possible solution of the shortage of parking and garage accommodations is offered in a revolving garage to be erected soon in the West end of London, England, says Popular Science Monthly. The floors of the garage will be arranged as concentric rings, each of which will be divided into a number of one-car compartments. The floor will be revolved so that any compartment can be brought into line with the main entrance.

Crisis for Men
A traveling salesman standing in the lobby of a downtown hotel was discussing men's clothes. "The trouble with suits," he declared, "is that when you buy one made from a material that will wear a long time you have a suit that is not very attractive. On the other hand, the suit that looks well on you and makes a good impression on others is of the sort of material that not only loses its shape quickly but wears out quickly. I hope some manufacturer some day looms a cloth that will have the toughness of the one mingled with the beauty of the other. Then the situation will be cleared."—Detroit News.

A Lady of Distinction
Is recognized by the delicate, fascinating influence of the perfume she uses. A bath with Cuticura Soap and hot water to thoroughly cleanse the pores followed by a dusting with Cuticura Talcum powder usually means a clear, sweet, healthy skin.—Advertisement.

Get back that lost weight!

WHEN you start to waste away to a shadow, when the color leaves your cheeks and your poor, tired legs will hardly hold up your weakened body it's high time you started taking a fine tonic and builder like Tanlac.

Tanlac will build you up and make you feel that life's worth living. Made from roots, herbs and bark gathered from the four corners of the Earth and compounded under the exclusive Tanlac formula, Tanlac is just what the poor, starved body needs.

First of all it cleanses the blood stream and puts the digestive organs in order. You find, after a few days' treatment, that you want to eat. Pretty soon the welcome color steals back into your cheeks and the scales tell you that you're gaining weight. From then on it's only a short time until you're feeling fit as a fiddle.

Millions of men and women have taken Tanlac with great benefit. More than one hundred thousand people have written us glowing tributes to this wonderful tonic.

HOW TO SOLVE A CROSS-WORD PUZZLE

When the correct letters are placed in the white spaces this puzzle will spell words both vertically and horizontally. The first letter in each word is indicated by a number, which refers to the definition listed below the puzzle. Thus No. 1 under the column headed "Horizontal" defines a word which will fill all the white spaces up to the first black square to the right, and a number under "Vertical" defines a word which will fill all the white squares to the next black one below. No letters go in the black spaces. All words are dictionary words, except proper names. Abbreviations, slang, initials, technical terms and obsolete forms are indicated in the definitions.

Safety or Disaster

Matter of Speculation

An amusing story is told illustrating the comforts of sea travel of a generation or so ago. It concerns a nervous old lady who booked a passage aboard a tramp steamer bound from an east African port to Karachi.

After a few days at sea a terrific storm broke, and the ramshackle tramp steamer began to reel and plunge violently. Clutching her way along the deck, the passenger presently reached the captain's cabin, where she found that worthy mariner poring over a dirty piece of parchment.

"Are we safe?" she gasped.
"Madame," replied the skipper, "you see this 'er thing I 'ave in front of me. Well, it is a chart of the Indian ocean. On it you will observe there is a lot of little black dots. Now, madam, if those dots is dirt we're all right. But if they're rocks, madam, we're bound for Kingdom Come."

British Hunter Bags

Tiger With Bad Record

The man-eating tiger of Kodu, Burma, said to have killed 100 human beings has been slain, says Capper's Weekly. The natives called him "Tiger with Man's Brain," because of his cunning and boldness.

At first the tiger attacked natives in the jungle, then came into the villages even in daylight. The terrorized villagers built shelves in their homes and high platforms, but couldn't escape that way. Believing the brute led a charmed life, the people nearest his lair finally fled to other settlements.

A British hunter took up the trail. Finding a half-eaten native, the hunter hid in a tree, as it was the animal's habit to return to his victims. When the tiger came, one shot through the beast killed him. The beast was ten feet long. The natives look upon the Britisher as a supernatural being sent by their gods.

Trade Winds' Effects

The trade winds do more than carry the west-bound mariner on his way, says Nature Magazine. They have been called "the pulse of the atmospheric circulation," because their fluctuations are related to the weather events of distant regions, and their parching breath is responsible for most of the world's big deserts.

Cave Pictures Seen as #### Early Fashion Plates

That there is little new under the sun, even with regard to women's fashions, was pointed out by Eibert Brand, curator of the Rotherham (Eng.) museum in the course of a recent lecture. Referring to an illustration of women dancers on the walls of a Spanish cave, he said these palaeolithic belles were very near to the present-day women with their high hats, chignons, tight waists and bell-shaped skirts. These cave pictures were probably the earliest fashion plates in the world, and were drawn about 20,000 years ago, declared Mr. Brand.

Another illustration from Spain showed a costume very much akin to that of the modern flapper.

Fearful Prospect

The late Lew Dockstader of minstrel fame was opposed to censorship, and in an after-dinner speech in New York he once said:

"The scantiness and transparency of the new fashions has caused a demand for a censor of girls' clothes. But a censor's task, gentlemen, is to cut out, to eliminate, to subtract—never to add.

"If then, gentlemen, the dress of our girls is a moral menace now, and we put a censor on it with his shears—oh my!"

Will Please Children

Children's rooms offer an excellent field for stencils, especially in the home without a nursery. Frolicking children, animals, windmills and clowns, flowers and domestic fowls are designs in keeping with the world of play. Background colors for such rooms should be light and cheerful. Applied decorations usually look best if done in primary or strong contrasting colors.

Flour From Wheat

The amount of flour obtained from wheat depends very much on the size and weight of the kernels and varies from 65 to 80 per cent. A fair average is 4.7 bushels of wheat to one barrel of flour, weighing 190 pounds, or one bushel of wheat to 41 pounds of flour. The shorts or middlings average 11 to 12 per cent of the wheat, and the bran 13 per cent.

Love May Yet Be Put on Scientific Basis

The matrimonial reports of our day are undertaking to put love on a sound, scientific basis. Let us skip a few hundred years and behold the synthetic romance of youth and a maid of some generations to come. The young man, armed with a stethoscope, a tape measure and the means of making a blood test, goes to call upon the lady whose charms have attracted him, ventures the Toledo Blade.

He taps a vein; listens to the thump of her heart and to the wind whistling through her bronchial tubes, and ends his labors with a careful examination of the soles of her feet.

Satisfied with the showing, he makes a request for a kiss and obtains one, duly hygienized through a strainer whipped from a vanity bag. That is, he does unless the young woman wallops him instead.

If You Need a Medicine You Should Have the Best

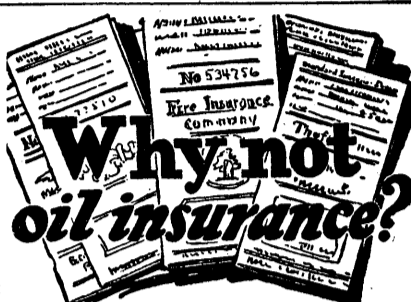

Have you ever stopped to reason why it is that so many products that are extensively advertised, all at once drop out of sight and are soon forgotten? The reason is plain—the article did not fulfill the promises of the manufacturer. This applies more particularly to a medicine. A medicinal preparation that has real curative value almost sells itself, as like an endless chain system the remedy is recommended by those who have been benefited, to those who are in need of it. A prominent druggist says: "Take for example Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, a preparation I have sold for many years and never hesitate to recommend, for in almost every case it shows excellent results, as many of my customers testify. No other kidney remedy has so large a sale."

According to sworn statements and verified testimony of thousands who have used the preparation, the success of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is due to the fact, so many people claim, that it fulfills almost every wish in overcoming kidney, liver and bladder ailments, corrects urinary troubles and neutralizes the uric acid which causes rheumatism.

You may receive a sample bottle of Swamp-Root by Parcel Post. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., and inclose ten cents; also mention this paper. Large and medium size bottles for sale at all drug stores.

DAIRY

DAIRY FEEDS MUST BE DIGESTIBLE

It is not what a cow eats, but what she digests that counts. You might feed a cow wood, as chemical analysis shows that wood has a high percentage of carbohydrates, but this does not do the cow any good because she cannot digest it. Protein is found abundantly in tankage, feathers and other substances, but these substances are not fitted to the cow's digestive system and are, therefore, useless as a dairy ration, points out B. E. Goodale, associate professor of dairying, at Clemson College.

Take corn for example, a cow will digest 75 pounds out of every 100 pounds of corn, but only 33 pounds out of 100 pounds of cottonseed hulls. That means that 67 per cent of the cottonseed hulls fed to a cow is wasted. These figures also vary according to the different nutrients. Of the protein in oat hulls, only 50 per cent is digestible, while in linseed meal, cottonseed meal, and gluten feed, 85 to 89 per cent of the protein will be digested by the cow.

This all goes to show, says Mr. Goodale, that the crude analysis that you will find printed on the tags attached to feed bags may be misleading. A cow can't read a tag and she is the one that has to digest the feed. It is, therefore, up to you to supply her with the right kind of materials to keep her machine working at maximum efficiency.

It stands to reason that the more a cow digests, the more she can produce in the way of milk, so it is up to us to find out how we can help the cow digest her feed and what kind of feed provide the materials needed for milk.

Nearly everyone knows that a ration should be bulky so that it is sure to go into the first stomach and be rechewed as cud.

Then a feed must be palatable. You wouldn't eat a very big meal if you sat down to a pot of cold, boiled potatoes without salt or butter, but if you sat down to a nice juicy steak with appetizing gravy, sauces, vegetables, and desserts, you would eat a hearty meal.

It is just the same with a cow. She digests a palatable feed much better than one she doesn't relish. This is an important point, because the milk flow depends largely upon the quantity of feed eaten. The average cow needs about sixteen pounds of digestible nutrients a day, to maintain her body and produce three and one-half gallons of milk. Half of this sixteen pounds goes for body maintenance and half for milk.

If a cow doesn't like her feed, she will consume less and the digestive juices are held back. Palatability is a big aid to digestion.

Heifer on Thin Pasture Needs Supply of Grain

Herds of cattle, some handled in the right way and some handled in the wrong way, have been noticed by L. V. Wilson of the division of dairy husbandry at University farm, St. Paul, Minn., in visiting farms in the vicinity of the twin cities recently.

The young cattle in some of these herds, says Mr. Wilson, are turned out on the theory that they will pick up on pasture and look pretty good in a few weeks. Their owners fail to realize that while they are "picking up" their growth is really being retarded.

The young cattle in other herds, however, show that the breeders have realized that young heifers must be given the best possible chance during the winter and that they must continue their gains in weight every day when first turned out to pasture. Such gains are assured by adding a little additional grain in the early pasturing days. In this way the inevitable shrinkage which comes to animals when only access to grass is given is avoided.

Dairy Notes

As each cow's milking is weighed, a glance up the columns will tell how she compares with the rest.

It is impossible to fatten calves for butchers on silage without some kind of supplementary feed such as cottonseed cake or corn.

Ground oats are considered especially valuable for bulls. Cottonseed meal is not usually regarded with favor, especially when fed in large amounts. Some breeders think it causes impotency.

Cows are better natured and better producers when furnished a variety of feed.

The government reports state that there are only about 86 per cent as many cattle on feed in the eleven corn-belt states as there were last year at this time.

Potato growers who have dairy cows and who make a practice of feeding small and otherwise unmarketable tubers, have found cull potatoes a valuable addition to the dairy ration.

Greatest Frost Risk to Fruit

Most of Harm Usually Occurs in Early Stages of Growth in Spring.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

In discussing the weather risk in fruit growing in the United States before the American Meteorological society recently a member of the weather bureau of the United States Department of Agriculture explained that it is relatively greater than for most other crops because of low winter temperatures damaging twigs or buds, or spring frosts killing advanced buds or blooms. The type of winter injury in the North differs from that in the South.

Greatest Harm Early.

While winter injury is important in deciduous fruit, the greatest harm usually occurs in the early stages of growth, to the blossoms or young fruit just set. At the same time it may happen that there is a range of several degrees between the temperature at which all the buds or blossoms on a tree will be killed, and that at which, because of favorable location or different stages of development, a good many will escape. Because of this orchardists often overestimate the amount of damage after a spring frost at blooming time.

The low-temperature danger point for fruit blossoms or for fruit just set ranges from 27 to 29 degrees, with very slight variations. It is somewhat higher for apricots, plums and prunes. Well-developed buds will withstand a lower temperature than after they have opened, due to the subcooling of their capillary liquids. This type of cooling without forming ice is due largely to the presence of chemical substances held in solution.

Cause of Frost Risk.

The principal cause of the greater frost risk to fruit than to other agricultural products is man's inability to control the vegetative periods in the spring. Planting can be delayed for most other crops until frost risk is very slight or entirely eliminated. There is very little margin, in the case of fruit, between the date of the last killing frost in spring and the blooming dates. In Ohio during 40 per cent of the years in a long period studied freezing weather occurred after the fruit trees were in full bloom. As it is impossible to hold back the development of the blossoms in any way, there is apparently no remedy for this difficulty. There may be heavier winter injury in the central northern states than elsewhere, but earliness and lateness of blooming in relation to the time of last killing spring frost is substantially the same in all sections and at different elevations. Local variations in topography, however, may give one orchard a distinct advantage over another. Where alternating slopes and depressions occur the lower ground should not be used for orchards, as it will usually have the lower temperatures. Unfortunately many orchards in this country have been planted without regard to local topography, and to this is partly due the heavy frost damage from time to time.

Air-Slaked Lime Dusting Will Discourage Slugs

A dusting of air-slaked lime around the plants will discourage slugs or snails; they will not crawl over it. Many may be trapped by laying cabbage or lettuce leaves on the ground in the evening; in the morning they will be found under these leaves, and may be destroyed.

These molluscs are often a nuisance in cold frames, hotbeds and cellars, as well as in greenhouses. To control them the United States Department of Agriculture advises to remove all decaying boards or debris, and then apply air-slaked lime, finely pulverized salt or road dust liberally. Of course, salt could not be used on plant beds, but beds of cuttings or seedlings may be protected by putting a border of salt, soot or dry lime around them. Dry lime or salt will be found desirable in a cellar where the slugs or snails appear. They can also be poisoned with a bait of boiled potatoes or sweet potatoes sprinkled with white arsenic or paris green. Drenching the soil with a solution of mercuric chloride (corrosive sublimate), one-half ounce to the gallon of water, will destroy slugs, snails, earthworms, and the larvae of various soil insects, but this must be handled with great care, as it is a deadly poison. As the bi-chloride corrodes metals, it should be prepared in a glass or glazed vessel.

Different Crops Need Fertilizing Formulas

It is impossible to lay down definite fertilizing formulas for different crops because of the extremely wide variation in soils. Generally speaking, for barley on a sandy soil, a 2-12-4 mixture is recommended, if the ground has not had legumes grown regularly nor manure applied. Where corn crops have been hogged down a great deal of manure has been returned to the soil which is supplying a large amount of potash and nitrogen. However, the corn crop used a great deal of these plant foods, especially the nitrogen and it is not advisable to reduce the amount of nitrogen recommended in the 2-12-4 formula. From 200 to 400 pounds per acre is the amount usually recommended for soils that are in fairly good condition. Between 250 and 300 pounds per acre should be sufficient.

Some Reasons Why Potatoes Run Out

Degeneration Largely Due to Insect Diseases.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Seed-potato improvement is largely a matter of disease control, says the United States Department of Agriculture, according to the evidence at hand. Recent experimental findings with the group of so-called virus or degeneration diseases of potatoes, including mosaic, leaf-roll, spindle-tuber, streak, and curly dwarf, show that the so-called running-out, deterioration, senility, etc., of the potato is caused very largely if not entirely by these virus diseases. Reductions in yield ranging from 15 to 70 per cent or practically a total loss in severe cases may result from these maladies.

The growers of seed potatoes should know, among other things, that certain potato maladies are carried by insects, that degeneration of potatoes is largely due to these insect-borne diseases, that it is not wise to try to develop and maintain healthy stock by planting it adjacent to diseased lots, that tubers from diseased plants propagate the disease, that bin selection of tubers without field inspection will not lead to the production of disease-free stock, and that certain practices of isolation of seed fields or plots coupled with special field inspection and the removal of diseased plants have been helpful in reducing the percentage of disease.

These factors in the improvement of seed-potatoes are discussed in Farmers' Bulletin 1436, "Why Potatoes Run Out," just issued by the United States Department of Agriculture. A copy may be secured free of charge while the supply lasts by writing to the department at Washington.

Milk With Grains Will Hasten Growth of Chick

That the addition of milk to the regular grain ration of growing chicks leads to a greatly increased rate of growth is a conclusion reached by federal poultry specialists who have studied the matter experimentally. The experiments are still in progress. The conclusion agrees with the experience of commercial poultrymen who have included milk in the rations of young chickens.

Another experiment conducted by the United States Department of Agriculture which promises to be of practical importance is on the relative efficiency of mash rations containing vegetable proteins. The results thus far bear out those of previous years' work to the effect that the addition of certain mineral salts to vegetable proteins makes them compare favorably with animal proteins as a protein supplement for poultry. Unless the minerals are used the protein of animal origin is more efficient.

These experiments are conducted at the bureau of animal industry farm, located at Beltsville, Md., near Washington. Last year the government poultry specialists hatched about 7,500 chicks with good results. The fowls are used for a great variety of studies in breeding, feeding and management.

Difficulty in Raising Sweet Clover for Hay

The common difficulty in raising sweet clover for hay is that the stems become too coarse for live stock to eat it. In the majority of fields where the clover has been seeded from eight to ten pounds to the acre, this difficulty is very common. This trouble, however, may be greatly overcome by seeding more heavily to the acre. If sixteen or twenty-four pounds is seeded to the acre, the stems will be much finer and less fibrous. Of course, this means a greater cost per acre in seed, but this will be somewhat offset by a greater yield and more edible hay.

This method of heavy seeding is also beneficial in the saw thistle infested areas. The early cutting for hay not only keeps the thistles from setting seed, but the thick growth tends to crowd out the thistles.

Farm Hints

Select wilt-resistant cowpea and tomato seed now.

Someone has said that a garden well planned is half made.

Working a horse immediately after eating often causes colic.

The closer the farmer is to his market, both in actual distance and actual contact, the better off he is.

Old Sol's rays are medicine and food for the young chicks. Therefore let them outdoors on the sunny days.

Jabbing the reins or continued tapping with the whip will soon teach the young colt to be an old loafer.

Home gardening affords an ideal means of getting and keeping acquainted with the great out-of-doors.

An empty stanchion gives more money and less work than comes from feeding the poor cow that would stand there.

Fertile, well-cultivated soil is best adapted to rhubarb. A little manure worked into the soil around the plants once a year helps preserve the fertility.

CHARMING SPORTS SWEATER; WIDE BRIMS ARE POPULAR

WITH the scene all set of green fields, clear running streams, inviting equestrian paths, apple blossoms and sunshine overhead, violets and crocus beneath, springtime keeps calling "Come out into the great outdoors," adding a precautionary word, "but do not forget your sweater." Not that the true sportswoman need be reminded of the importance of her sweater. It enters as essentially into the planning of her fresh air campaign as does tennis racket, golf ball and fishing rod.

In regard to the ideal sports sweater fashion says "It must denote smartdour blue. Gray is also written boldly on fashion's ledger.

Rumor becomes fact as far as the larger hat is concerned. No longer is the little chapeau to hold undisputed sway in the realm of fashion. The wide brim has arrived and claims right to share in the millinery honors of the day.

The popular broad brim at the moment is wider at the sides than the front and back, sometimes the back having no brim at all. These almost give the impression of a bonnet, wide of brim and tall of crown. As summer advances big picturesque shapes ness"; commonsense cautions "It must be practical"—and that exactly describes the regulation sports sweater model for spring and summer 1925 as illustrated in the picture—herewith. Note how perfectly this little fisherman is appareled in snugly tailored sweater knitted of alpaca, with knickers and woolen hose fashioned correctly even unto the minutest detail. Printer's ink falls short of conveying the charming sunset brown called "lariat" in styledom's dictionary, which is the color of sweater and hose, for, nowadays, to be in fashion, stockings must match the knitted jacket. Well might the four roomy pockets of which this sweater boasts excite the envy of of every type will be worn with chiffon and lace frocks. These will be in exquisite pastel shades. The favorite for immediate wear is the bangkok shape.

An item of very special interest is that they are trimming these bangkok shapes with velvet, either yardage-cut or velvet ribbon; also bright-colored facings are in use. One notes many of the wider straw or bangkok brims are velvet bound.

Fuchsia and magenta are leading millinery shades. Many of the large roses which trim the big pokes now so fashionable indicate this color trend. Silken roses of this shade, with decorative stems and foliage, beautify the average small boy who knows how necessary are pockets to one's convenience when en route on a day's or week-end's outing.

Having acquired a proper regulation sports sweater, such as described, one's fancy lightly turns to sweaters of more fanciful mood, for 'tis the manner of our modern knitted outerwear designers to tempt the woman of fashion with "a sweater for every occasion."

The newest type among sweaters is the jabot slipon. This consists of an exquisitely knit sweater either of silk or light wool with a cascade or jabot of self construction draped from neck to hem at one side of the front.

Art silk jumpers embroidered in contrasting color or self shade present themselves in alluring new colors, chief among which is madonna, and pompa-the silk-covered hat shown center to the left in the group pictured here.

The new large poke effect is defined in that youthful model above to the left in this picture. The crushed sash about the crown is of wide silver ribbon.

The short-back of present favor is defined in the chapeau above to the right. An ostrich fancy trims it effectively.

When summer comes, the picturesque lacy tuscany straw body hat which concludes this group of "wide brims" will be in its glory, for it registers as the type of millinery forecast to accompany sheer dainty frocks.

Considerable interest centers in beige hair hats for ensuing months.

Top Dress Hay Fields

There is no such thing as "resting the land" by putting it to grass crops. A good hay crop requires more plant food than some grain crops. Here are facts:

Plant food requirements	(Phosphate only)
Alfalfa, 4 tons	45 pounds
Clover, 3½ tons	23 "
Common pasturage	20 "

It will take almost a whole bag of Anacanda to replace the phosphates required to mature the alfalfa crop. If you do not furnish it, then you will not get 4 tons per acre, as you ought.

Come and get it at any of our warehouses.

WAR THREATENS BULGAR STATES

Russia and Rumania Mobilize—Bulgaria King Held Prisoner.

Berlin.—The bomb that shattered the Sofia cathedral and killed 200 people last week threatens to raise the same specter of a general war as did the shots that killed the Austrian archduke at Sarajevo. Russia is mobilizing its troops in southern Ukraine. Yugo-Slavia is preparing a sharp note to Bulgaria demanding satisfaction for charges made by Bulgarian minister that Yugo-Slavia is encouraging the Bulgarian revolutionists.

Bucharest.—The Rumanian press is receiving sensational accounts of the Bulgarian situation. Revolutionary disturbances are reported. Rumania is moving troops toward both the Russian and Bulgarian frontiers.

Rome.—A dispatch from Belgrade to the Tribuna says that King Boris of Bulgaria has been imprisoned in the royal palace by the order of General Lazareff because the nationalist military element objected to the sovereign's request that Premier Tzankoff resign to permit the formation of a coalition cabinet including opposition elements.

Another dispatch from Belgrade, but sent by way of Vienna, declares that Yugo-Slavia, offended by Minister of Interior Russeff's declarations before the Bulgarian national assembly regarding the activities of the Yugo-Slav legation at Sofia, has demanded an explanation and is threatening to break off diplomatic relations.

Reports have reached here that a portion of the Greek army is mobilizing.

Sofia.—The revolutionist Tchevounoff, one of the principal terrorists under Ninkoff, the alleged Communist leader in the recent cathedral bomb outrage, who was shot and killed by the police, met death in much the same manner as his chief. Discovered by the police, he refused to surrender.

The Bulgarian government began to enlist the additional 7,000 militia authorized by the council of ambassadors.

Moscow.—Much excitement is manifested in the Soviet press and government circles over statements circulated abroad fixing responsibility for the terrorism in Sofia upon Moscow.

Vice President Requests Public Aid on Senate Rule

New York.—In an address before the annual luncheon of the Associated Press, his views on senate reform were presented by Vice President Charles G. Dawes. He declared that the agitation for limitation of debate in the senate was patriotic, nonsectarian and nonpartisan.

"The issue," said the vice president, "is this: Shall the senate continue unchanged its existing rules which admittedly make possible at times the exercise by a minority or even one senator of power to block the purpose of the majority of the senate to legislate?"

"It is important that the senate's rules give every senator a square deal but it is imperative that they also give the American people a square deal," he added.

He insisted that the powers of senators in this regard are subversive to the principles of representative and constitutional government. He appealed to individuals to make known their desires in this connection direct to the senators themselves.

Publishers representing 575 member newspapers were in attendance at the luncheon. About 450 women friends and relatives of the publishers were in the galleries.

Big Merchant Marine Urged by Gen. Pershing

Washington.—General Pershing, in a radio address from the Pan-American building, asserted that an adequate merchant marine is as necessary in the defense of this country as are navies and armies.

"Unless we wish to find ourselves again impotent as we were in 1917," he declared, "we must take measures now to prevent it."

General Pershing further declared that our trade with South America would never flourish as it should until a strong merchant marine was built up in this country.

The expansion of our trade with South American countries during the last ten years has been partly due to the war and partly through natural growth, he said.

"We are taking a limited amount of their material, but we are not exporting to them our due proportion of manufactured goods," the general continued. "With a careful study of their needs and an improvement in our own methods, the total trade could readily be increased."

D. A. R. to Build Auditorium

Washington.—The Daughters of the American Revolution in convention here voted to erect a $2,000,000 auditorium in Washington. The proposal was opposed by delegations from a number of states, particularly Mississippi, Iowa and Minnesota. It won with a majority of 444 votes.

Roosevelts Leave London

London.—Theodore and Kermit Roosevelt left here for Marseilles on their way to Turkestan.

GENERAL SIKORSKI

Gen. Vladislav Sikorski, minister of defense of Poland, declares Poland will fight rather than cede an inch of its territory to another nation, and that it has the means to defend its land. This was in reference to German hopes of getting Silesia and the Polish corridor to the sea.

TEST CASE ON U. S. HIGHWAY CONTROL

Federal Jurisdiction Over Roads Will Be Decided.

Washington.—Federal jurisdiction over highways is at issue in a suit now being prosecuted by the government in the United States District court of Indiana. The government has obtained a temporary injunction against the demolition of a section of the Lincoln highway in Indiana and will sue on a petition for a permanent injunction, Attorney General Sargent announced.

The government will contend that the excavation, if completed, will block interstate traffic and damage property belonging to the federal government, as the highway was constructed partly with federal funds.

The project constituting the alleged menace to interstate transportation is an irrigation canal being constructed by the drainage commissioner of Indiana within a drainage district created under state laws.

In cutting across the Lincoln highway, no provision has been made for bridging or filling the gap, nor a detour planned to take care of interstate traffic.

Apparently no funds are available for that purpose, according to Attorney General Sargent.

The Department of Agriculture requested the Department of Justice to intervene in the case, and Attorney General Sargent immediately directed United States District Attorney Albert Ward at Indianapolis to file suit in the United States District court for a restraining order. The temporary order was obtained last week. In a few more days the highway would have been severed by the excavation work in progress.

If the government is successful in obtaining a permanent injunction, a precedent will be established in federal jurisdiction of interstate highways, according to Ira K. Wells, assistant attorney general, who has supervision of the case.

Collins' Body Removed From Trap in Sand Cave

Cave City, Ky.—There was no dirge, save the creaking of the hoist, when Floyd Collins' body was hauled up from the trap in Sand Cave, where he perished when trapped by a rock two months ago, while exploring for new ones. Not more than 100 persons, mostly Sand Cave natives, saw the liberation of the body. The rock that held Collins' leg did not weigh over 75 pounds.

Wrapped like a mummy and hanging starkly from a rope slung beneath the shoulders, the body was elevated to the surface.

Part of the cloth then was cut away from the face and chest, and lifelong friends of the cave explorer identified the body.

The body was removed to an undertaking establishment here.

Four Go to Prison in $1,600,000 Stock Swindle

East St. Louis, Ill.—Four officers of the Moore Motor Vehicle company of Danville, Ill., convicted in 1921 in an alleged $1,600,000 stock swindle, were committed by Judge English to terms in the federal penitentiary at Leavenworth. They will start for prison at once.

Mother Tribute Planned

Washington.—A nation-wide demonstration by the United States army to express affection and appreciation for mothers of soldiers has been ordered by the War department for Mothers' day, May 10.

Papers Praised for Lynch Cut

Atlanta.—Newspapers are largely responsible for the 70-per-cent decrease in the number of lynchings in the last three years, the Inter-Racial commission, in session here, was told.

WHEELER FOUND "NOT GUILTY"

Senator Acquitted of Charge of Accepting Fee for Land Permits.

Great Falls, Mont.—A verdict of "not guilty" and a new baby girl came to Senator Burton K. Wheeler of Montana about the same time.

Five minutes before the jury in Judge Frank S. Dietrich's court returned a decision that he was innocent of the government's charge that he had accepted a fee to take care of land permit cases for his client, Gordon Campbell, Senator Wheeler received a telegram announcing the arrival of his sixth child. Mrs. Wheeler is in Washington.

This is the fifth round of Wheeler's year-long battle with the Department of Justice. His next will come in Washington, as he and Campbell are under joint indictment of conspiracy there, under much the same evidence as that presented here.

Campbell also is in more trouble as he and two promoters, one of them, C. F. Bloomhuff, a Chicagoan, go on trial May 1, on a mail fraud charge connected with the efforts to promote Campbell's oil properties.

It was in connection with the investigation of Campbell that the government found the first evidence against Senator Wheeler.

Government agents aided by Republican political agents, moved against Wheeler while he was at the height of his famous investigation of the Department of Justice, which resulted in the resignation of Attorney General Daugherty and the unearthing of many scandals.

Attorney General Warns of Anarchy in Law Defiance

Washington.—In his first public speech since becoming attorney general, John Garibaldi Sargent preached to the Daughters of the American Revolution on the rearing of children. It was a blunt New England sermon on obedience to the law, and especially to the prohibition law, which Mr. Sargent did not mention by name but by inference strong enough to leave no doubts as to his meaning.

He said that as he passed about in homes of refinement and wealth and power he heard things which caused him to realize certain citizens were stretching their consciences to counterbalance the private violation of a law which they would publicly uphold. He told his audience that they passed about in these same homes and impressed upon them as their solemn duty the debt they owe to the nation to stop it.

"It leads," said he, "toward anarchy."

"The women of America," said he impressively, "will make or break the nation by what they teach their children before the age of ten."

"The country is safe, society is safe, when the law is obeyed, not because it is enforced."

Dry Navy Uses Machine Gun, Seaplane in Aid

Atlantic City, N. J.—The dry navy used a seaplane and a machine gun and the result was one wounded rum runner, the sinking of one boat and the capture of two trucks bearing 187 cases of Scotch whisky.

When the seaplane swooped down two small boats were alongside the Margate landing. Fifteen rum runners were carrying cases to an auto truck. As the sailors quit the seaplane they unshipped a portable machine gun. Two of the smugglers got the gasoline engine going and escaped in one boat.

Two others, in the second boat, were slower and the machine gun began spraying their craft. Both men, one of them wounded; jumped overboard and escaped in the marshes. The boat sank.

District of Columbia Court Upholds Home-Brew Rights

Washington.—Home brewers and home distillers in the District of Columbia cannot be disturbed in their pursuits unless police and prohibition agents can show sales or commercial activity, under a decision by Chief Justice McCoy of the District of Columbia Supreme court. The chief justice quashed the warrant and ordered returned the property of a man and a woman who were subjected to a raid on a warrant showing operation of distilling apparatus. It was held that sales would have to be shown before their home could be invaded.

Secretary of Senate Dies of Heart Attack

Washington.—A. Sanderson of Chicago, secretary of the United States senate since May 19, 1919, died here after a heart attack.

Dewey's Chaplain Quits

Washington.—Capt. John B. Frazier, ranking officer of the chaplain corps of the navy, will be retired at his own request in September after thirty years' service. He was on Dewey's flagship at the battle of Manila Bay.

St. Paul Bank Robbed

St. Paul.—Three men held up employees of the City bank here on Friday afternoon and escaped with $15,000 in currency.

FRANK W. ALDRICH

Frank W. Aldrich, banker of McLean, Ill., who sails in May for Europe to seek traces of prehistoric man. He will be gone three months as a representative of the American School of Prehistoric Research. Many of his past discoveries are now on exhibit at the Smithsonian institution. On his trip he will visit France, Spain, Switzerland and Germany.

Court Calls Union Heads in Coal Strike

Wheeling, W. Va.—Officials of the United Mine Workers of America have been ordered to appear in the Federal court here to answer charges of violating an injunction in connection with the mine strike now in progress in northern West Virginia.

The officials named in the order are National President John L. Lewis, Phillip Murray, Van A. Bittner, Lee Hall, William Roy, E. W. Savage and Frank Ledvinka.

The men are ordered to appear in Federal court here, the summons being issued at the request of the West Virginia Pittsburgh Coal company, extensive operators in the northern state field.

Jap Freighter Goes Down With Crew of Thirty-Eight

New York.—The Japanese freighter Raifuku Maru, her plates sprung by a 36-hour battle with crashing seas, sunk 180 miles southwest of Halifax at a few minutes before noon, carrying to their death her whole crew of 88 officers and men.

The Homeric of the White Star fleet led the dash of passenger liners and other vessels to her rescue, but arrived too late. The crew was trapped aboard the doomed ship by the destruction of the lifeboats, crushed by the waves which washed the low decks of the vessel.

The Homeric was within sight of the freighter when she went down.

Chicago Grain Elevators Burn; Loss at $2,500,000

Chicago.—Fire destroyed two great grain elevators with a loss estimated by the owners at $2,500,000, and for a time threatened to wipe out dozens of homes and industrial establishments in the Bridgeport district around South Halsted and Twenty-second streets.

Firemen said it was the worst grain elevator fire Chicago has had in twenty or more years.

Duelists Kill Each Other

Mexico City.—Facing each other with pistols at only four yards distance, Carlos Carrillo, an engineer, and Professor Jose Izquierdo shot each other to death.

Slayer Tries to End Life

Manila.—Private William Johnson, U. S. A., attempted suicide shortly after being sentenced to hang for the murder of Private William Willoughby, slashing his neck and wrists with a razor.

HINDENBURG WINS GERMAN ELECTION

Field Marshal Is Declared Elected by Majority of 900,000.

Berlin.—Field Marshal Paul von Hindenburg, candidate of the Nationalist-Monarchist bloc, was officially declared elected President of Germany over former Chancellor Wilhelm Marx by a plurality of about 900,000 votes. The vote was as follows:

Von Hindenburg .....14,600,000
Marx .....13,700,000
Ernst Thälmann, Communist...1,900,000

Had the Communists chosen to support the Republican candidate instead of splitting the Republican vote, Hindenburg's defeat would have been accomplished without much difficulty, thus the Weimar bloc leaders blamed the Communists for their defeat.

Hindenburg carried the greater part of Bavaria, and he also did much better in the southern part of Germany than was expected. This, with the support given him in East Prussia, as well as the northern part of the country, gave him the victory.

Despite the rain prevailing over the greater part of the country, a heavy vote was cast, equalling that of the December reichstag election.

The returns show that some 3,000,000 voters who failed to cast their ballots in the first Presidential contest on March 29, when the total was 28,000,000, on Sunday voted for Hindenburg, being unable to withstand the magic lure of the marshal's name.

Hindenburg will assume the Presidency immediately upon the publication of the official returns which will be before the end of this week. He will be sworn into office by the Socialist reichstag president, Loebe.

Among the votes the marshal received were those of the entire Hohenzollern family. The former crown prince and his wife voted at Oels, while the rest of the former kaiser's sons cast their votes at Potsdam, where they live.

Three are dead, one dying, and more than 100 persons wounded in election riots which featured the polling. Two were killed and two seriously wounded in Karlsruhe, and one was killed and one is dying in Berlin.

There is hardly any city in Germany which was not the scene of election violence. Except in Berlin and Karlsruhe the police were able to keep the situation under control.

The center of the fighting in Berlin was again in the neighborhood of Kaiser Wilhelm Memorial church, where thirty were injured.

Washington Not Alarmed by Hindenburg Election

Washington.—Little alarm appeared to have been created in Washington by the election of Von Hindenburg as President of the German republic.

Senator William E. Borah, chairman of the foreign relations committee, said:

"I do not think the Hindenburg election need to be regarded as necessarily disturbing. I have no doubt there will be a recrudescence of the nationalistic feeling and spirit, but if that is directed along right lines it will be helpful. I feel that it will be directed along right lines."

"There will be much talk about Germany arming and getting ready for another war. I do not believe that there will be anything of the kind. I expect to see a strong, proud effort on the part of Germany to retain her national integrity, both territorially and economically, and for one I hope she may. It is to the interest of Europe and all the world that she do so."

"In short, I think the outside world had better go forward on the theory that the German people had the right to elect the man they wanted and that until the facts appear otherwise they will accommodate their energies and their efforts to right principles and policy."

Girl Slain, Body Burned Near Chesterton, Ind.

Chesterton, Ind.—The body of a girl of sixteen, believed to be from Gary, was found opposite a lonely patch of woods on the Furnessville highway, three miles northeast of Chesterton. She had been shot twice through the head. Then her body had been saturated with gasoline and set ablaze.

Two farmers investigating what they believed a charred log at the roadside made the gruesome find.

Glasses, their lenses intact, a string of charred beads and the remains of a plush coat may lead to identification. Automobile tracks and a partially burned card may lead to the killer.

On the card was printed: "North West Region, Pennsylvania Railway, Employees' Association." Written in ink was "No. 1032."

Left Million to School

Houston, Texas.—The residue of the estate of Henry S. Fox, Jr., Houston banker and cattleman, valued at upwards of $1,000,000, was bequeathed to Rice Institute, Houston, in his will.

King George Ends Vacation

Dover.—King George and Queen Mary arrived at Dover on their return from the king's long recuperation voyage in the Mediterranean. His majesty appears in much better health than when he departed.

Light Much Cheaper Now

Since the development of electric energy, light has steadily become cheaper with the result that light for household purposes today is only about one-sixteenth as expensive as it was 40 years ago. This is one of the very few commodities the cost of which has come down in recent years. In 1887 about 1,115 candlepower could be bought for $1, but by 1923 $1 would buy 18,200 candlepower.

Began in Humble Life

Many famous French actors and singers have sprung from working families. Verrier, one of the best singers in France, was a village blacksmith, while Franz, the leading tenor of the Paris opera, was employed by a railroad company as a brakeman until he was forty years old. Antoine, famous actor and manager, started life as a clerk for an electric light company, while the comedian Chevallier had a fruit stand near the Comedie Francaise. Note, once famous baritone, was a railway porter. Xavier Privat, a favorite of the Montmartre cabarets, used to be a beggar. He sang in the streets for a few cents or a crust of bread.

AILMENTS OF YOUNG GIRLS

Relieved by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound School Teacher's Experience

Evanston, Wyoming.—"A few years ago I had troubles every month such as girls often have, and would suffer awfully every time. I was teaching school and it made it hard for me as I had to go to bed for two or three days. One day my mother suggested that I take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which I did, and it did wonders for me.

In the course of a year I married and after my first baby was born I got up too soon and it caused a displacement. This troubled me so that I could hardly walk or do my housework. I knew what the Vegetable Compound did for me before so I took it again. It strengthened me and now I have five little kiddies. The eldest is six, the baby is five months old and I have twin boys three years old and a boy of five years. I do all my own housework, washing and ironing, and I never felt better in my life. I owe my health to your wonderful medicine and I recommend it to all my friends."—Mrs. VERBENA CARPENTER, 127 2nd Avenue, Evanston, Wyoming.

Make Our Own Lives

We frequently complain that our lives are narrow and unsatisfactory. Perhaps they are, but who makes them so? We are "the architects of our own fortunes" and "the builders of the houses in which we live." If our lives are contracted and self-centered we can replan and rebuild if we will.—Grit.

Sure Relief FOR INDIGESTION

If people only knew the facts about their skin

THE real cause of skin trouble—rashes, blackheads, excessive oiliness, etc.—is way down in the lower layers of the skin. It cannot be expected therefore that mere surface remedies can reach the disorder. Thousands of physicians are daily prescribing Resinol Ointment and Resinol Soap. They know this gentle, yet effective treatment does sink deep, and will often soothe away in a few days the most stubborn rash as well as a trifling blemish. No home should be without these products—the soap for general toilet use—the ointment to check the first bit of skin eruption. At all druggists.

RESINOL

How to build up your Weight

TO BE under weight often proves low fighting-power in the body. It often means you are minus nerve-power, minus red-cells in your blood, minus health, minus vitality. It is serious to be minus, but the moment you increase the number of your red-blood-cells, you begin to become plus. That's why S. S. S., since 1826, has meant to thousands of underweight men and women, a plus in their strength. Your body fills to the point of power, your flesh becomes firmer, the age lines that come from thinness disappear. You look younger, firmer, happier, and you feel it, too, all over your body. More red-blood-cells! S. S. S. will build them.

PART FOUR—Continued.

"This was our wedding ring," she whispered.

The involuntary start which the other gave was quickly controlled. She met steadily, albeit with some apprehension, the girl's searching look—seeming to probe to her very soul, proving its faith.

"Yes," she encouraged. "You—married him? Tell me everything; will you?"

"You understand?" The searching look never relaxed. "You do understand?"

The appeal in that passionate regard and question brought quick response.

"Dear," she replied, pulling her down on the couch by the fire, "I understand. You loved each other and acted in accordance with—honorable convictions, in extraordinary circumstances. Is that enough? What more can I say?"

Barbara drew a breath of inexpressible relief. Holding fast to that sympathetic hand, she recounted with simple fervor the whole history. Nothing was omitted up to the present. When her voice ceased, there fell a long silence. From somewhere in the house came a merry laugh; an opening door let out a brief flood of dance music.

Then a piece of coal dropped into the fender, and Mrs. Field moved. "Ah, my darling!" she cried. "It is bitter . . . I know . . . I know . . ."

That was the first of many talks together during that Christmas season, which brought with it such acute memories.

On the afternoon of Boxing day, as the girl sat alone, Hugh suddenly appeared—a grave-faced Hugh, with the bewildered "doggy" look still in his eye. She rose to meet him, with some embarrassment.

"Mrs. Field's with the old people. She said you were alone," he blundered, in explanation. "Bab—I've missed you, old thing!"

The simple directness touched her. She, too, had been conscious of a gap in the surface of her life, among the old haunts of their childhood, which had added to her wretchedness. Impulsively, she gave him her other hand. "I have missed you, too, Hughie!"

Hugh clearly had something on his mind.

"I wanted to say," he blundered on, "to tell you—I was a rotter—that day! I've been thinking the deuce of a lot lately, Bab! And I wanted you just to know—you can count on me any time to—back you and Croft up, I mean."

It was clumsily expressed; but she understood what the effort cost him, and the genuine feeling behind it all.

Hugh looked at her diffidently, then away through the window, speaking quickly and huskily. "And I wanted you to know that if—later on, perhaps—you felt you could marry me, after all—" he paused, glancing at her, "I shall always be there—just the same."

The eyes that met his were swimming in sudden tears. "My dear!" she cried. "But it can never be now!"

"You need not say anything, or bother about it," he said simply.

Impulsively she pressed his hands against her cheek; then he drew himself free. Hugh intensely disliked scenes. Having said what he wanted, he turned the subject. "Mrs. Field told me to have tea with you. She said there were loads of muffins! Let's sit on the hearth-rug and toast them, as we used to do."

So they sat together on the floor toasting muffins, the barrier breaking down between them. Thus Mrs. Field found them on her return; and a certain look of relief crossed her face.

It was one of those days when everything goes wrong. The village "help" did not come; and Martha therefore considered herself too much overworked to complete any one job. Lunch was late, the soup tepid, the potatoes were hard, coffee was lukewarm. The clogging of the well-oiled wheels of this small groove naturally resulted in "nerves" on the part of Mrs. Stockley. These, working up gradually, found relief in an explosion, when Barbara announced an afternoon's golf with Hugh. Surely there must be work of some sort for her to do in this tragedy of an un-"help"-ed household? This led to a heated argument, which took a sudden deflection down an unexpected channel.

"Of course, if you have renewed your engagement with Hugh—"

"I have not mother. I never can."

"And why can you never marry Hugh?" her mother asked testily. "Is it still because of that ridiculous infatuation? Barbara, I insist upon your forgetting such nonsense."

"You don't understand, mother. I can never forget."

"No," agreed Mrs. Stockley with some heat; "I do not understand; and I think it is time I did!"

She turned to her sister, as usual, for support, which was speedily forthcoming.

"Barbara," began that worldly woman, her curiosity at last given legiti-mate rein, "how far did this infatuation go? What can you never forget?"

The girl looked at her, startled, at a momentary loss. Her sensitive face, an enemy to subterfuge, flushed angrily.

"Ah!" exclaimed her aunt meaningfully, "I thought from the first there was something wrong."

"Wh-what do you mean, Aunt Mary? There was nothing—wrong!"

"Then why maintain such mystery? Why are you afraid to talk of the matter—to tell the truth?"

A rush of loathing, contempt for all the suspicious minds about her, recklessness, which, in impulsive natures, has far-reaching effects, swept the girl away. After all, what did their feelings matter? What their opinions to the man whose memory she had tried in vain to shield from vulgar calumny? Barbara turned and faced the two women, tossing back the hair from her brow.

"You shall have the truth!" she cried, with suddenly blazing eyes. "This 'infatuation' you talk about went—to the end. He returned my love. We became husband and wife."

VII

The silence was awful. A dormant volcano could not have seemed more vibrant with foreboding. The two women sat, bereft of speech, gazing blankly at the girl, who faced them fearlessly from the hearthrug. From Mrs. Stockley's face every vestige of color had fled. She looked suddenly old; her features were haggard.

Then Barbara, as she had done twice before, held out her left hand.

"This," she said, breathing fast, "is my wedding ring. He was my husband."

The tension broke. Mrs. Stockley gasped, and her sister gave a snort of contemptuous laughter.

"Husband!" she mocked. "Pray—who was the priest? Where was the church? Or—had you a native registry office?"

The sarcasm was to the girl merely as the heat of an extra candle to one already enveloped in flames. She ignored the speaker, fixing her eyes upon her mother.

"Do you understand, mother?"

At that moment the sight of her mother's deathly face struck, like a blow, upon her heart. Her anger subsided as quickly as it had arisen; in its place a huge pity arose, making it suddenly imperative that the woman who had borne her should be saved the suffering of misconception.

Impulsively she moved forward, stretching out both hands.

"Mother?"

Mrs. Stockley rose slowly to her feet, ignoring the hands, still staring at her daughter as if she were some hideous snake seen in a corner of her comfortable room.

"You!" she muttered. "You—my daughter—you dare to face me with those—lies?"

The hands dropped and clenched at her sides. "They are not lies! It was impossible to get married according to English law. We therefore performed the ceremony for ourselves. We took the same vows—it was perfectly honorable."

Miss Davies broke in with another harsh laugh.

"Did he actually succeed in stuffing you with all that, to cloak your immorality?"

"Aunt Mary! How dare you—?"

"Oh! it's always the same! Haven't I dealt with hundreds of cases in my work which have been 'perfectly honorable'? Fools! Dupes! You weak women believe anything!"

"You—y-you—" Barbara choked, in her furious indignation.

"Immorality!" Mrs. Stockley caught at the word. "Immorality? In one of our family? My own daughter—?"

"You got off lightly," broke in her sister, watching the girl narrowly, through her lorgnette. "Without paying the price! Most girls are not so fortunate. But I suppose you took good care to prevent—"

"Yes!" cried her mother almost hysterically, "suppose there had been children?"

"There would have been," she replied with unnatural calm, her eyes burning in an ashen face. "That is why I was so ill at Singapore."

For a moment both women were again bereft of speech, Barbara turned to the fire and stood gazing into its depths.

"Ha!" gasped her aunt, at last. "I always thought there was something suspicious in that illness."

Then the girl flashed round, contempt ringing in her voice.

"Yes, Aunt Mary, you would! People like you would find something suspicious in—an archangel. Oh!" she cried passionately, "I know all the disgusting, vulgar gossip concerning Alan and myself! I knew it before I reached England. Now, I suppose, you will all purr in your self-righteousness, thinking how wise you were—"

"B-Barbara!" spluttered her dumfounded aunt.

"Oh, yes, you will! But"—turning blazing eyes upon Miss Davies' furious face—"you are all wrong! How can you tell what was right and what was not—out there? What do you all know of real, fundamental life? What experience have you had of—love, temptation—any problems—that you should dare—dare to judge? You all carry out your religious observances to the letter—but what about the spirit of it all?"

The two women were staggered by her furious flow of words.

"I understand," cried Mrs. Stockley, in weak impotent rage, "that you have disgraced our name! Sin cannot be excused. Whatever the man was—and thank heaven he is dead!—you should have shown strength. You—you—are nothing but a—want-on!"

"Mother!" The girl recoiled, as if she had been struck, catching at a chair for support.

Her mother broke into a storm of hysterical weeping.

"Go!" she cried, between her sobs. "Leave the house! I—I refuse to own you! Go to your friends who—condone immorality—who encourage sin. . . . Join Jenny Grant—"

"Mother!" she cried again, with white lips, "you don't realize what you are saying—"

"I do! I do!—Go!" Weakly she stamped her foot, then sank into her chair, burying her face in her handkerchief.

A wild caricature of a laugh broke from Barbara's lips. She looked at her mother's shaking form, then at her aunt's rigid figure and hostile countenance.

"Very well," she said slowly, "I will go. . . . As if dazed, she put up her hand to her head, and gave one look round the familiar room. . . . Presently the drawing room door closed, with deliberate quietness, behind her.

Barbara's sudden appearance at the flat brought Mrs. Field little surprise. She had heard the rumblings of the storm approaching in Darbury, had seen the lowering clouds; but, with rare insight, she forebore to interfere. Some storms, being inevitable, are best left to themselves. "Forewarned and forearmed," one's work comes later with salvage and reconstruction. Not a whole regiment of engineers could pull down the wall encircling Mrs. Stockley's horizon; of that Mrs. Field was certain. In time, when the shock, and—above all—the talk, had subsided, a few bricks might, with infinite tact, be drawn away, allowing an occasional glimpse of wide uplands beyond. . . . But that would not be yet. . . . In the meantime it was the girl's quivering soul which needed infinite delicacy in handling; which wavered, struggled, sank gradually lower into the dark wilderness of morbidity, from which those who get lost therein take long to discover a way out; and, when they do, find the burrs and thorns still sticking to them, never to be quite shaken off.

Margaret Field had been through all this herself, years ago. No words, she knew, could help. She watched the girl closely, but made no attempt to force her. Putting back the clock of her own days, she entered the black pit with her, understanding her darkness.

Barbara went away. She gave no address. "I want to feel cut off from everything and everybody who knows me—for a time," she said, when her friend expostulated.

A remote Cornish village, trailing its whitewashed cottages down a precipitous narrow lane bordered by little cobbled ditches wherein ducks waddled and talked together—winding round a corner between fragrant gardens that merged into gray walls of houses and banks which, in summer, oozed ferns from every crevice, burst forth into fires of purple-red fuchsias and bulged out into great clumps of hydrangeas; pausing for breath, while the lane dropped to the old inn in the valley below, the white and gray cottages struggled along on either side the stream gurgling over its stony bed between rolling combs in the valley behind, to the harbor which was its goal. . . . Such was the retreat in which Barbara found herself.

The chance memory of a friend's rapture had led her weary footsteps thither—to a small gray house near the river, kept by a bright young woman and her true-hearted husband.

Here, unknown and unnoticed, away from the stings of malicious tongues, the inquisitive world—not even seeing a newspaper—she wrestled with the questions and doubts and miseries of her heart.

"If the joy of your own personal love is withdrawn," Margaret Field had said, one day in London, "the seed is never lost. You may think it is for a time; but, later, it shoots up, nourished by experience, growing into a strong plant which will develop into a flowering tree of many branches." The truth of that, too, was dimly in her mind as she watched the stars come out above the harbor—in her heart the tired peace of one who, giving up tilting at windmills he can never conquer, lays his hand upon the plow which needs it. If solving the mystery of suffering could never be accomplished; if her own personal keynote to happiness were lost; then content she must be to hold out the hand of fellowship to those companions in bitter waters—to help find it for the world starving for love. . . . Perhaps—who knows?—that is the answer to the riddle.

As darkness fell, she turned down the path over the rocks; crossed the little bridge spanning the river; and made her way to the gray house, from which cheerful lights beckoned. . . .

She fumbled with the handle, turned it; opened the door; then stood for a moment blinking confusedly: for something big and dark had loomed up in the small passage, hiding the hanging lamp. . . .

A great cry burst suddenly from the girl's lips. . . . In the dark she turned ashy white; swayed; clutched vainly at the door-post; and would have fallen, had she not been caught by arms that held her so strongly that they stopped her breath. . . . Alan stood on the threshold.

VIII

It was only a small sitting room, with an oil lamp and a crackling fire. But all the worlds and all the heavens were enclosed within its walls to the two who clung together in their rapture.

Wonderingly, almost reverently, the girl passed her hands over the arms that clasped her—touching the dark hair and bronzed cheek half-fearfully, scarcely believing in their reality, looking upon him with bewildered, darkened eyes almost afraid to trust their own sight. The tall broad-shouldered figure had lost not an inch of its uprightness, nor had the head lost its old dominant poise. The few extra lines round the smiling lips and glowing eyes were swept up into the radiance which seemed to envelop him. Yet, in the dark clothes of civilization, he appeared subtly strange to the half-clad, barefooted overlord of savages of other days.

"Yes," he said at last, catching her hand lightly wandering over his arm. "It's all real. Solid flesh—no ghost!"

He raised her chin in the old possessive way, and looked long into the thin face and dark-ringed eyes, which told their own tale of suffering endured; then he pressed her head to his breast and held her close again in silence, as if defying any fate to separate them now. . . .

"But," she stammered faintly at last, "how is it—why—I don't understand—?"

"Why I'm not sleeping with my fathers, as you all surmised? Well—that is your fault."

"Mine?"

He nodded. "When Babooma was about to send me to my gods, you conveniently sent him, instead, to the shades of Valhalla—that last bullet, you know!"

Her eyes opened wide, and she caught her breath.

Get Loans From "Aunt"

In Paris and other big French cities the pawnbroker is called "my aunt." In France one needn't blush in doing business with the pawnbroker, for he is the state; that is, the government conducts the pawnbroking business. It does it very well, too, if I am to believe the testimony of some Americans who have "traded" with "My Aunt" while awaiting delayed remittances from home. "My Aunt" has had a good year's business. She does little business nowadays with the working-man, for he is always in work. The center of poverty has moved. It is the white-collar brigade which, unable to make both ends meet, resorts to "My Aunt." Oddly enough, "My Aunt's" shop in Paris is on "the Hill of Pity." Not a misprint for pity.—A. F. ### MRS. URQUHART GETS REWARD

Mrs. Urquhart of Omaha wants every housewife to share her good fortune in possessing a handsome reward. Here is what she says: "This is the way I did it. I answered an ad by writing for a free 10c bottle of Liquid Veneer and I found it so wonderful for dusting and polishing that I told fifteen of my friends about it and the makers sent me entirely free and postpaid, a great big, beautiful $2.00 Liquid Veneer Polishing Mop." Then Mrs. Urquhart goes on to say: "I am very proud and pleased with the reward given for what I have done, so will take great pleasure in showing it to friends."

Twenty thousand of these $2.00 Mops are going to be given away to housewives. Write for a free 10c bottle and ask for descriptive circular 15 telling how easily you, too, may have one of these mops. Address Liquid Veneer Company, Dept. L, Buffalo, N. Y.—Adv.

CORN FOR SEED

We are selling a lot of the White Dakota Dent that we have been telling you about. We ourselves secured CERTIFIED seed from Dakota last year and in spite of a poor corn season this corn matured thoroughly BEFORE September 10.
It is a good sized white dent and very hard and early.
We believe the farmers around here need an early corn and as seed is so very high we are offering this at $1 per bushel and you can test it yourself.
Some who have bought it have reported to us that it tests very well, but we have run no tests on it ourselves. We are selling this at $1 for seed ONLY and not to dealers nor to feeders.

The Farmers Greatest DANGER

You prepare your seed bed and work and sweat and then when you are ready to plant what do you do?

Too many of you let some dealer sell you seed which, is the LIFE-BLOOD of farming, when he does not even know WHERE it was grown. Why take a chance on this most important part of your work?
