More Fires

The most disastrous farm fire occurred Sunday night when all the extensive farm buildings of Fred Banks, except the tenant house, together with contents were destroyed.

We did not learn the cause, but the buildings and contents were valued well over $20,000.00. Most of live stock were saved but several hundred chickens and a calf were burned.

Mr. Banks is a progressive farmer and his place was well equipped for dairying and general farming and the loss runs into real money and must mean quite a loss to him as companies generally will not carry a full coverage on such risks.

The barn on the farm formerly owned by Anton Rakowski burned early Monday. Cause unknown.

Tuesday afternoon the department was called to the Shell Station by a blazing auto truck. Very prompt action with hand extinguishers put it out without water.

Busy Workers

Thursday, Aug. 20 the Busy Workers met with Mrs. Ellen Torrey. There were 11 members present. Plans for the annual picnic were discussed and it was decided to hold it at North Lake Sept. 3. A pot luck dinner will be served.

Through an oversight on the part of the reporter the meeting of Aug. 6 when the Busy Workers met with Mrs. Emma Shearer was not reported on. There were 11 members present. The program was in charge of Florence Grooman, who kept our minds puzzled for a time. Ice cream and cake were served by hostess and her committee.

Monday evening a number of the Busy Workers and their families gave a farewell party for Mr. and Mrs. Dale Schaffer before their removal to Hartford.

Numerous stunts were in play during the evening and at a late hour a light lunch was served, after which all departed, regretting the fact that the Schaffers are leaving us but feeling that all had a most enjoyable evening.

Fatal Accident

A head-on collision near Carson Rendel's Sunday night resulted in the death of two women, one man and a child and the serious injury of two other men, all Indians, and the destruction of the car in which they were riding.

Reno Morgan and family in the other car were badly cut and his car badly damaged but it is hoped none of their injuries will be permanent.

As near as can be learned the Indians were traveling without lights on their car and were going from Dowagiac toward Bradley. We understand they tried to procure bulbs but had no money to pay for some so started on without them.

Reno was driving with his family toward Gobles and discovered the other car on the wrong side of the road too late to avoid them.

Coroner Thompson of Paw Paw was called to the scene and on investigation decided that the fault was wholly with the driver of the car without lights and did not call for an inquest. Dowagiac was notified and authorities came from there and took the bodies Monday.

This resulted in the greatest number of fatalities of any accident in this vicinity.

Andre's ambulance was the first to arrive and rushed the injured Indians to the Allegan hospital while Thompson brought the dead to the Andre funeral home.

Friends took Reno and family to Borgess for treatment and all were able to come home Monday.

Word to you tomorrow

Evil of Procrastination

We are told, and very true it is, that procrastination is the thief of time. It is not the only condition of the mind that goes around robbing us of time, but this state of procrastination does absorb hours and days and even years, trying to make up its mind just what to do, and then how to do it.

While that is happening, some other and wiser fellow comes along and does it. He hasn't any time to spend bothering about it.

This business of putting off and putting off is all wrong. If it were necessary, it could be understood; but when an individual won't, or can't, make up his mind, he is certainly something of a weakling. Granted it sometimes needs a little courage to make a decision. "Will it be the right one?" is the thought that worries us. That is largely the make-up of the procrastinator's mind. He has lost the capacity to make a decision. We ought to arrest procrastination, and prevent it doing any more thieving from us.—London Tit-Bits.

Definition of a Snob

Thackeray's definition of a snob is a classic of its kind. It expresses very neatly the characteristics of that regrettable type of person. "A snob is that man or woman who are always pretending, before the world, to be something better—especially richer or more fashionable—than they are. It is one who thinks his own position in life contemptible, and is always yearning and striving to force himself into one above, without the education or characteristics which belong to it; one who looks down upon, despises, and overrides his inferiors, or even equals of his own standing, and is ever ready to worship, fawn upon, and flatter a rich or titled man, not because he is a good man, a wise man, or a Christian man; but because he has the luck to be rich or consequential."

Meaning of "Reginald"

Reginald is an old Teutonic name meaning "powerful judgment." It comes from "regn" or "regn," meaning justice or wise decision, and "wald," "power." When the two words were put together it was found, so much easier to omit the "w" at the commencement of the second, so instead of "Regnwald" or "Reginwald," it was shortened into the familiar Reginald and Reggie. The name was used very much by the Normans and is found many times in the Domesday book, which William the Conqueror ordered to be made. When used in Scotland it is often spelled Ronald. In Italy it becomes Rinaldo, while Rex is the short English variant, the whole set originally coming from the Latin word "rego," "I rule."

STATE TAKES LEAD
IN ELECTRIFICATION

Michigan is a leader among the states in this country in the advancement of rural electrification. More than 16 per cent of all farms in the state now enjoy electric light and power service, the bureau stated in announcing the findings of a survey recently completed by the statistical research department of the National Electric Light association. While only 16 per cent (27,677 farms) of the 169,915 farms in the state have availed themselves of rural electrification the bureau reported the service was available to nearly twice this number and eventually most of these places are expected to make connections. Information in the survey report is based in part upon United States census data and partly upon reports as furnished by Michigan public utilities. Seventy-eight of the eighty-three counties in the state reported electrified farms, only five counties reporting farms with electric service. These five were given as Alcona, Iosco, Keeweenaw, Montmorency and Oscoda.

New Federal Building
In Use at Benton Harbor

Postmaster Walter E. Banyon and his corps of assistants at the Benton Harbor postoffice are happy that they are now located in the new federal building at the corner of Territorial road and Sixth street. The new postoffice, which cost about $150,000 and for which the citizens of Benton Harbor had been praying for many years, will also house the offices of the United States department of agriculture, the internal revenue department and the United States Army recruiting station.

Only One of Civil War

When the sixty-ninth anniversary of the enlistment of soldiers of Holland and vicinity as members of Company I, 25th Michigan infantry, occurred recently there was only one survivor to answer the roll call in person. He was Joos Verplanke, former sheriff of Ottawa county. The company was mustered in with 48 members and some 20 members were added the last two years of the Civil war. Verplanke, 87, spends his declining years with his nine sons in various parts of the country.

Resurrection Plant

The Genuine "Rose of Jericho" These peculiar plants are found among the pines and cedars of Palestine. When you get the plant it will have the appearance of a ball of tightly folded leaves, dry and dead. Put it in water and it will open up its handsome fern-like foliage, turn green and begin to grow in about twenty minutes. Take it out of the water and it curls up, turns brown and becomes dead again. It is capable of apparently dying and coming to life again repeatedly, and will keep in its dead or dormant state for years and reawaken directly upon being placed in water. It is an interesting, curious and most beautiful house plant with fine fern-like leaves of very agreeable fragrance. If you want a "table fern" that will prove satisfactory under all conditions, don't fail to get one of these marvels of plant life. Grows and thrives in a shallow bowl of water, and is greatly admired by everyone. 10c each, 3 for 25c, Postpaid NOVELTY GARDEN CLUB 58 Market Ave., S. W. Grand Rapids, Mich.

GRAND HAVEN GLAD
IT HAS OWN LIGHTS

Citizens of Grand Haven are pleased they did not sell the municipal power plant to a private concern after a comparison of figures on production costs under the old steam and present Diesel oil burning engines. In June and July the new plant produced 913,200 kilowatt hours, using 84,008 gallons of oil at a cost of $2,727.85. To have produced the same amount of kilowatt hours under the old steam method the cost would have been $7,102.39, a saving to the city of $4,374.54. Little maintenance has been required since installation of the oil burning plant in May.

Mich. Corporation Tax to Approach 1930 Record

Evidence that the economic depression was not as severe as commonly imagined and that the "turn of the corner" has been reached, is seen in department of state records. Several weeks ago, it was estimated that the annual corporation tax for the fiscal years beginning July 1 would fall nearly $1,500,000 below that raised by the same tax last year. In the first 12 days of the new tax year, 354 corporations paid their tax and the average was $125 per corporation. For the first 12 days of the previous tax year, 467 corporations had paid an average tax of $136. These statistics show that the corporation tax is $11 per company less than a year ago and that the state's business concerns are slower in paying than a year ago. The surprising figure, however, is that the corporation tax at this rate will be only about $300,000 under that of last year. A brighter outlook for the future is seen from the fact that the Central Produce Terminal Company of Detroit recently took out incorporation papers with a declared value of $901,000. The company is given the right to build a warehouse for all sorts of farm produce and also the right to merchandise its wares. Here is one company that has nearly a million dollars' worth of faith in the future of Michigan.

Nonresident Must Have License If He
Rows Fisker's Boat

A nonresident who rows or paddles a boat for a person engaged in fishing, must also have a nonresident fishing license, in the opinion of the attorney general. The opinion was given in reply to a question asked by the Conservation department. If a person is fishing while another rows the boat, the person rowing the boat "is equally taking an active part in the catching or attempting to catch, take or kill fish and under such circumstances would be required to have a license to do so if a nonresident," the opinion states.

626 Ionia Dog Owners
Delinquent on Licenses

A mailing list of 626 Ionia county dog owners who are delinquent in the payment of the 1931 dog license lies on the desk of Prosecuting Attorney Frank C. Miller, a formally from the office of the county treasurer. A $2 penalty now is due from those delinquents, which means that owners of male dogs will be required to pay $4 for a new 1931 dog tag and $6 for a female dog. The county needs the money, says the prosecutor, and the delinquents will be officially invited to pay.

FORD OPENS
COAST PLANT

The $5,000,000 branch assembly plant of the Ford Motor Company at Richmond, Cal., which will supply Ford products to north central California as well as the Hawaiian Islands, American Samoa, Society Islands, Tahiti and Guam, was formally opened recently. The plant is a unit of a group to be completed in the company's $60,000,000 world-wide expansion program, announced last year. It replaces the Ford branch in San Francisco. Parts manufactured at the main Ford plants in Dearborn will be transported to the Richmond plant in Ford vessels, via the Great Lakes and the New York barge canal to branches on the Atlantic seaboard and thence through the Panama Canal.

Michigan and Four Other States Have Fourth of Wealth

Almost one-fourth of the national wealth is accounted for by the five east north central states, Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Ohio and Wisconsin, with an average per capita wealth in 1929 of $3,114, against $2,977 for the entire country, according to the Index, published by the New York Trust Co. "Rich in natural resources and fortunate in a temperate climate," the Index says, "the east north central states have developed within a century from virgin forest and prairie land to an industrial region of the first importance. Illinois is the third richest state in the country, Ohio the fourth, Michigan ranks eighth, Indiana tenth and Wisconsin eleventh. "With a population of 25,297,185 in an area of 248,105 square miles, or one-fifth of the total population of the country in one-twelfth of the total area of the country, it is a conspicuously populous market. The density of population for the five east north central states is 102 to the square mile, compared with an average of 41.2 to the square mile of the entire country. "Together the east north central states produce no less than 30.27 per cent in value of the entire manufacturing output of the country. Illinois, Ohio and Michigan rank, respectively, third, fourth and fifth among all manufacturing states.

Ford Has New Plane

Ford Motor Company is building an all-metal airplane with a passenger capacity for 36, according to reports from Washington. The plane is said to vary in design from the 13-passenger models now being built by the company. It is powered with four motors, all of which will be mounted in the wing. The saving in air resistance obtained by the new type of engine mounting is expected to give the plane a cruising speed of about 100 miles an hour. At the same time, it is expected to carry a great proportion of pay load as the smaller models.

Pontiac Employment
Shows Steady Trend

Payrolls totalling more than $1,200,000 monthly have been paid in Pontiac during June and July by major industries and the city and county, a check on payroll figures disclosed. Employment figures for the current year have shown a steadier trend than in former years, with reasonably steady employment replacing peaks. The fact that average employment this year has been almost as great as the peak figure is indication that employment has been less erratic during the current year.

Air Traffic Increasing

Business activity is gradually picking up within the mid-western industrial area embracing Detroit, Chicago, Cleveland and 15 other Michigan, Ohio and Indiana cities if figures on traffic in passenger and express flown by United States air mail, passenger and express planes of Transamerica Airlines Corporation, during July, have any significance. The July report showing 2,726 persons flew with the air mail in this area last month, marked a 11.02 per cent increase over June's total and represented the fourth consecutive monthly increase in air passengers. Detailed figures on the various passenger divisions revealed that 1,437 passengers traveled via amphibian on the 55-minute schedule between Detroit and Cleveland, as compared with 1,292 in June; 1,027 flew on multi-motored land planes between Detroit and Chicago via South Bend, surpassing last month's mark of 881; 262 patronized the local services between Detroit and Chicago, a slight decrease from June's 267.

Lansing Payrolls Down

Employment in Lansing's 38 factories during July averaged 9,962 persons, according to figures released by the industrial bureau of the Chamber of Commerce. This compares with an average of 10,472 in June, 1931, and 10,750 in July, 1930. In 18 of the leading plants of the city the average employment last month was 8,896. In June it was 9,414 and in July, 1930, it was 9,314.

DEPRESSION IS FELT
AT JACKSON PRISON

The depression is being felt even at Michigan state prison. A net loss of 18 inmates was reported for the month of July by Record Clerk John J. Crowley. On July 1 the count was 5,610 and on July 31 it was 5,592. New commitments for the month were 121, and 12 were returned as parole violators. During the period 126 men were paroled, 13 went out on completing their maximum term, 3 escaped, 5 died and 9 were discharged in custody.

Ex-Flint Banker
Will Get Parole

James Barron, a former employe of the Union Industrial bank at Flint, will be recommended for a parole by Parole Commissioner Ray O. Brun- dage under a new state law permitting extra good time as a reward for exemplary conduct. Commissioner Brun- dage interviewed Barron at the new Michigan state prison. If the governor approves, the Flint man will be released Aug. 25. He will be the fifth Flint bank employe given his freedom since the group of 11 were committed to the prison 18 months ago.

When Steamer Tried Gate-Crashing

Damage amounting to half a million dollars was the result when the steamer Rapids Prince, entering the locks at Black's Bridge, Montreal, Can., rammed the lock gates and released a torrent of water into the harbor basin, which carried the ship with it. Tons of debris were washed into the entrance to the canal and several weeks' work will be required to clear the waterway for traffic. Many lake vessels anchored above the bridge were on the river bottom owing to the recession of the water. Photo shows the wrecked lock with a section of the gate in the foreground. Inset is the Rapids Prince, tied up at pier after the accident.

Connecticut's Baby Twister

Hundreds of thousands of dollars' worth of damage was done when a frisky baby twister swept through Westport, Conn., uprooting trees, tearing down telegraph poles and wreaking great property damage. Here's a tree that fell upon a passing automobile, miraculously sparing the driver, who, curiously enough, is a tree specialist. It certainly looks in need of expert ministrations.

CHEAP METHODS KILLS PARASITES OF SHEEP

Fifty cents worth of chemicals and one hour's work for three men are all the necessary ingredients to protect a flock of 50 sheep from internal parasites which are the chief factor in reducing flock profits, according to the animal husbandry department of Michigan State College.

It is as necessary to drench lambs as it is mature sheep, and the livestock specialists say that the parasite treatment should be given immediately unless the sheep have been drenched recently. The usual treatment is a combination of black-leaf-40 and copper sulphate.

An ounce of the nicotine product and an ounce of copper sulphate in three quarts of water will treat 24 sheep. The usual dose is four ounces of the solution for a mature sheep or two ounces for a 50-pound lamb, with a proportionate reduction for smaller lambs and those in poor condition.

Sheep which lose flesh, have a pale skin, and move with a slow, uncertain gait are usually suffering from the parasites. The wool becomes dry and harsh and may appear open and rough. Extreme loss of flesh and the death of the weaker sheep follows the first symptoms. The discovery of dead sheep in the pasture is sometimes the first sign of the trouble noticed by the flock owner.

The flock should be drenched at least three times during the year, and spring lambs should be treated now. The lambs are more susceptible to the parasites than the mature sheep.

Club Members Get Valuable Lessons

Michigan now has 2,300 junior dairymen, members of 4-H dairy calf clubs, who have a three-year plan of work which includes the raising and care of a purebred animal from the time it is a calf until it is producing milk.

The club members are supervised by state club leaders and must keep a record of the cost of growing the calf and of all expenses of producing milk during the period of lactation. The youngsters get training in judging animals through exhibiting their stock at fairs and by entering judging contests where the members compete against each other.

Sam Aldrich, Ward Aldrich and Wendell Biddle, Fairgrove, recently won a valuable purebred Holstein calf awarded by the Arby Farms as a prize in a Holstein Field Day. The Fairgrove club won the field day contest twice and the Benton club in Eaton county once.

Most of the county and local fairs now provide special classes in which prizes are awarded to 4-H club members, and the best of the animals from the county fair circuits are taken to the State Fair at Detroit. Occasionally the club members exhibit in the open classes and give a good account of themselves.

Dairy lessons learned in club work are valuable to the members who remain on farms. Records in the state club leader's office show that a former club boy, Henry Latson, Ann Arbor, now in partnership with his father, owns 30 purebred Holsteins; Harold Strange, Grand Ledge, has 16 purebred Jerseys, and Andrew Buckley, Hemlock, has eight Holsteins at the end of six years of club work.

New York Grapes To Be Advertised

The outlet for Michigan Concord grapes may be restricted somewhat this season, it is feared, as a result of a movement among New York vineyardists to advertise their fruit in eastern cities.

Growers in four counties in the Finger Lakes region of western New York are reported to have subscribed to the advertising fund, which will be used to increase the demand for New York Concord.

Distance for Line Fence Posts

The proper distance between line fence posts will depend to some extent on the livestock to be turned, but also very much on how it is put up. Where heavy, well-anchored end posts are used and the fence is well stretched, it is usual to put the line posts one rod apart and this makes a good fence for almost any livestock. Barn yard and lot fences should always be built of heavier material and the posts are usually put out farther than twelve feet apart.

Fruit Sales Grow At Benton Harbor

Fruit receipts at the Benton Harbor market are approximately double the output here of one year ago, according to Gen Woodward, market master. More than 780,300 packages of fruit were sold over the local market this year, as compared with 393,369 in 1930. The number of buyers has increased from 786 last year to 2,233 this year.

Michigan's Cherry Crop Valued at $2,000,000

The 1931 cherry harvest afforded employment for thousands in Michigan who otherwise might have been forced to content themselves with other means of making a livelihood.

The orchards were the scene of the largest number of laborers, this year working in day and night shifts. Clothed in white uniforms, girls and women picked thousands of bushels of the fruit during the season.

Thousands more were employed in canning factories where the fruit is inspected and then re-inspected several times to insure consumers of quality. They are seated alongside long revolving tables where the infested cherries are thrown out.

To further insure the public of a quality product, state inspectors are maintained. Upon them depends the future of the industry in the state and the consequent employment of thousands in the future.

The value of the state's annual cherry crop is estimated at approximately $2,000,000.

Fear Forest Fire Losses During Next 2 Months

Fear that much valuable game cover in the northern part of the state will be destroyed during the next two months by forest fires, is being expressed by the conservation department.

Ordinarily August and September are the most hazardous months of the year so far as fires are concerned.

Probably the greatest damage done by forest fires is the destruction of game cover.

The figures compiled as of July 20 showed 1,411 fires for a corresponding period in 1930 as compared with 2,281 fires this year. The dryness of the woods has helped to increase the acreage burned over during each fire. While 43,515 acres had burned over July 20 in 1930, 187,383 acres had been burned over on that date this year.

The upper peninsula has had the brunt of the fire loss. Of the total area burned over, 120,913 acres have been burned in the upper peninsula. This is compared with 12,632 acres burned in that part of the state for the same period in 1930.

Bow and Arrow Legal Arms in Two States

The bow and arrow, first weapon to be used on big game in America, is seen by officials of the American Game association as coming back into its own—this time not in the hands of primitive hunters but of modern sportsmen deliberately seeking greater handicaps in their sport. Pennsylvania and New Hampshire legislatures recently legalized hunting with the bow. These were among the big game states which have prohibited its use on the ground that it would maim too many animals.

Such leading sportsmen as Aldo Leopold, well known investigator of game conditions, and Lynn G. Adams, superintendent of the crack state police force of Pennsylvania, now hunt with the bow and claim that since archers, to get their quarry, must stalk with greater skill and place their shots with more care, they run even less risk of maiming game than do the average gun-toters.

Rare Mouse 'Possum Family at Eastport

H. E. Kauffman of Eastport has received information to the effect that a little animal he captured in a crate of bananas is a mouse possum, a native of Porto Rico, and scarce even in its own country. He also has learned that the animal is the only live specimen of his kind in the United States.

The animal, a female, is about 7 inches long and has a tail similar to that of a rat, twice the length of the animal. It has four young ones. The family is thriving on bananas, peaches and nuts. They are on exhibition at the Kauffman store in Eastport.

Honey All Year Aid To Automobilists

Honey is a year-round friend of the motorist, according to C. A. Reese, bee specialist of the Ohio department of agriculture.

Reese said that in the winter honey provided a good anti-freeze solution for the radiator, and that in the summer it helped to keep the radiator cool, due to its high boiling point.

He pointed out, however, that while there were advantages to having honey in radiator water, there were likewise disadvantages. Honey, he said, will pass through openings too small for water, thus endangering cylinders.

Trees Along Road Pay Farm's Taxes

On the farm of E. E. Brunson in Ganges township is a row of 50 pear trees along the highway which were set out 30 years ago. The trees have been bearing since they were 7 years old and there has not been a total crop failure in 23 years.

One year 275 bushels were picked from the trees and they sold for $1 per bushel. Brunson says the trees used to pay the taxes on his farm, but not in late years.

POULTRY

THERMOMETER IS QUEER NEST EGG

Hens may be puzzled by the clinical thermometers and hygrometers they sit on at the du Pont experimental game farms at Carney's Point, N. J., but they are unknowingly serving several deep browed scientists and contributing much toward the success of artificially rearing wild life to restock depleted American coverts, a bulletin of the Izaak Walton League of America says.

Thermal and humidity readings are taken hourly from the instruments nestling among the quail, pheasant, duck and Canada goose eggs under the hens. A table is kept of both as well as a table of "outside" heat and humidity, and, after the hatches, percentages are worked out, comparisons made, a conclusion drawn, and this conclusion reconstructed in conditions in an incubator with eggs of the same species and from the same pens.

Many other complicated experiments are made, simplified and then tried out in the large electric incubators. These go on and through them species of wild life that had never been raised in captivity are easily raised now and in quantity production, although quantity was not the objective.

The du Pont experimental game farms are trying to find the best and most economical means of raising the various species of wild life, and give the information to the public.

Although the experiments are not completed, the scientific application of methods and the working out of trail blazing has enabled the farms to raise a higher percentage of Bob White quail, pheasant, several varieties of wild duck and Canada goose than most people can get from chickens. The experiments are constantly verified and improved with little refinements, gaining 1 per cent here, 2 per cent there, bringing up the high averages. Meantime the hens exemplifying Mother Nature sit on queer instruments and mutely tell their story to the deep browed scientists who use the facts as a basis of improve on Mother Nature's work.

CHICKEN-POX IN POULTRY

If chicken-pox was prevalent in the poultry flocks in your community last year, you will do well to vaccinate your pullets during the month of August. Vaccination against chicken-pox has proved to be quite effective and has often avoided discouragement for the better poultrymen.

Many of the state experiment stations have been doing some very constructive work on the use of virus in successfully vaccinating pullets against this infection. If the treatment is given to the pullets while the weather is still fair, and before the pullets have fully matured, their growth and development and the time of coming into egg production will not be affected very materially.

In some states the agricultural experiment stations are preparing the material for vaccination, and poultry breeders can obtain the material through the experiment stations. If the station is not preparing this material, in most cases the poultry or veterinary department of the state agricultural college can usually refer poultrymen to reliable laboratories from which the material may be obtained.

FAVORABLE OUTLOOK FOR POULTRY

Less poultry on farms, reduced storage stocks of poultry and eggs, sustained consumption of poultry products and cheaper feeds in relation to prices of poultry and eggs are the outstanding factors in the poultry outlook, according to the United States Department of Agriculture.

ICELESS STORAGE KEEPS EGGS WITH LITTLE SHRINKAGE

Using evaporating water instead of ice as the cooling medium, a storage bin for eggs has been invented by a California professor. It holds eight cases of eggs in stocks of four each, and is covered with burlap, treated to keep it from rotting. The burlap is kept moist by water fed from a tank on top of the cooler. The tank is connected directly to a water supply, and the level is kept constant by means of a float valve. In a test, eggs held five days in the cooler showed a shrinkage of 4 per cent, as compared with 42 per cent for eggs stored outside.

TO COMBAT POULTRY LICE

A good way to combat poultry lice is to dip the entire flock on a warm day in a solution of one ounce of sodium fluoride to each gallon of water.

TURKEY-CHICKS ARE HATCHED UNDER HEN

Sylvester Kososki of Niagara, Wis., placed a setting of eggs under a hen at his home not long ago and when they were hatched recently he found the specimens were part turkey and part chicken. The birds resemble chickens in appearance but have down, long necks and heads similar to those of turkeys.

Loved Old-Fashioned Flower Girls

By SIDNEY BLAIR

(Copyright.)

"MAKE it orchids as usual—yes, the same; Miss Millicent Graves. You have the address? All right."

John Ainslee snapped the telephone receiver into its place and leaned back in his desk chair. "Orchids as usual." He told himself that that described Millicent and the other girls to whom he sent flowers so frequently in order partly to repay his social debts. And he wondered if there weren't any girls in New York who were not like orchids, but like—well, marigolds, for instance! Old-fashioned girls, who knew how to cook dinner instead of merely telling the housekeeper to speak to the chef about it, girls who liked to work in gardens, instead of merely opening florists' boxes.

"Mr. Ainslee, Miss Graves is here." His secretary spoke respectfully from the doorway.

"Very well, show her in," Ainslee stifled a sigh as he rose.

He was halfway to the door when Millicent Graves entered, exquisite in pale gray with his orchids of the day before pinned to her scarf of summer crimson.

"Oh, John, you're ready to leave this old office now, aren't you? I came down to see father, and thought I'd drop in and get you to take me somewhere to tea and have a dance or two. Now, don't say 'No!'"

As he left with her a few moments later, his secretary turned to the girl whose desk stood next to hers in the outer office.

"You mark my words, Nancy Porter, that Graves girl will land Mr. Ainslee before he knows what's happened to him."

"He's not the kind of man to marry a girl he doesn't love," Nancy Porter told her quietly. "He—oh, my garden!"

The window washer, who had just arrived was opening one of the big windows; Nancy reached his side just in time to rescue a piece of folded felt, a foot long and six inches wide, that he was about to hurl into a waste basket.

"Huh! Funny garden," grunted the man, but he let it alone.

"Just wait and see it in a week from now," she said.

And a week later the "garden" was worth seeing. Nancy had kept it watered, and placed it where the sun shone on it every afternoon; tiny green shoots appeared all over its dark surface. She was bending over it late one afternoon, when the others had gone home, and hearing a step behind her, said rather loudly without turning:

"Look, Miss Curtis—my garden's big enough to help out my luncheon tomorrow. The watercress and mustard seeds are awfully big."

"What's this—a garden?" It was not Miss Curtis' voice, but John Ainslee's, that answered her.

"Oh—oh, I thought it was your secretary instead of you," faltered Nancy, blushing hotly.

"But how did you do it?" he demanded, with a smile that reassured her.

"Just folded the felt and kept it wet, after I'd scattered the seeds on it," she answered.

Two weeks later Miss Curtis left quite suddenly to take a better position and John Ainslee arranged to have "that little Porter girl" take her place as his secretary. The day she made the change he suggested that she plant a "garden" for him in his window.

"I like to have a bit of green around," he explained to her.

A few weeks later when, as she was eating her luncheon in his office after he had gone out—he had urged her to feel free to do so—Millicent Graves came in.

"I'll wait for Mr. Ainslee," she told Nancy, and Nancy, wretchedly conscious of her frugal luncheon, finished her bread and butter in one gulp and surreptitiously threw her cake—a fresh baked one—into the waste basket.

John Ainslee returned to find Miss Graves still there. He abruptly refused to take her to luncheon, telling her that he had already lunched and could not take more time from his work. Half an hour later, glancing into the waste basket he caught sight of the little cake which Nancy had thrown there; it had half escaped from its oil paper wrapping.

Ten minutes later his buzzer summoned Nancy.

"I'm going to suggest that you get a new position," he told her, more severely than he had ever spoken to her before.

"Oh, I'm sorry—it's because I was having luncheon in here when Miss Graves came, isn't it?" she said miserably.

"Nonsense; I told you you could eat your luncheon here," he answered. "I don't think you ought to be doing secretarial work at all." He rose and came over to her side. "What I'm going to suggest is this—that you take a new job which will involve changing your name as well. I want you to become Mrs. John Ainslee—how about it, Nancy?"

And as he took her into his arms

Nancy laughed softly, though tears in her eyes made the "garden" in the window in front of her strangely misty.

Gossip Over Dinner Teacups Overheard

By HELEN ST. BERNARD

(Copyright.)

"AND, of course, you know that Dick and Lella Leith have gone back together again," said Lucy Morrow as she deftly dealt the cards to her Wednesday afternoon bridge club. "I am so happy. It would have been tragic, their separating; with that lovely boy of theirs!"

"Yes, I heard they were reconciled. It took place at the seashore this summer, didn't it, when Lella sent for Dick when the boy was ill?"

"Let's keep the gossip for over the teacups, girls," suggested Helen May. "I'm dying to hear all about it, but I have a coking good hand, the first this afternoon, and I'm bidding no trump!"

Lucy Morrow followed Helen's eloquent glance toward a boy deep in the cushions of an easy chair.

"Why not run out and play, David," suggested his Aunt Lucy. "I will call you when it is time for cakes and Hettie will make you some hot chocolate."

"I'd rather read, Auntie Lu. And besides, mother or father might call and I wouldn't be here."

Lucy Morrow shook her head sadly as she went back to her cards.

"And now for the gossip!" suggested Martha brightly, later on. "While Hettie is making tea. We are all so glad for Lella and Dick. It is not betraying her confidence any."

"Well," began Lucy Morrow, "their bark was certainly on the rocks for a time. At first they were ideally happy but then Dick began making money so fast, and the trouble started. Lella says she was partly to blame, too. She took little Dick to the seashore and they had planned to separate this fall, and then Dick took a sudden turn for the worse down there—always had been a delicate child, you know, and Lella wired for Dick. Dickie called for his father incessantly. And they did not leave the child's bedside for twelve hours. He would turn from one to the other and in his delirium would beg for Daddy to come home to them, and then would beg Lella to write to Daddy and tell him they loved him. That was the first time either Lella or Dick realized the boy knew there was trouble between them. He insisted they both hold him at the same time and she says she knew then she could not live without him."

Hettie came in with the tea things and as she passed the boy in the

DON'T be FOOLED by Tricky SALES TALK

DON'T be misled by challenges—guarantees—laboratory analyses—price comparisons—claims of 25% savings—made by distributors of special-brand tires.

A recent example of a grossly misleading and extravagant statement by a distributor of special-brand tires is—"Mount one of our tires on one wheel of your car and a tire of any other make on the opposite wheel. If our tire does not give you equal service at a saving up to 25% in price, we will give you a new tire free."

This statement can be made for only one purpose—a desperate effort to gain your confidence and sell you a tire before you have had time to think about the ridiculousness of their challenge, which asks you to buy one of their tires and go to another store and buy a tire—have it mounted on the opposite wheel—then turn yourself into a tire tester!

Firestone don't ask you to run test cars for them—they have twenty-nine test cars of their own, running day and night, on which they test Firestone Tires and other makes, including special-brand tires, and we have the proof of the safety, quality and extra values of Firestone Tires before you buy.

Begin today—examine sections cut from Firestone Tires and special-brand mail-order tires—see for yourself the two extra plies under the tread which give you extra protection against punctures and blowouts—compare the construction and quality—don't be fooled by misleading advertisements. We will give you safer, more dependable tires at no greater costs.

"M" SCIENTISTS FIND ARMOUR OF OLD PHYTOSAUR

If you had been, some 50 million years ago, in the place where Amarillo, Tex., now is, you might have had to step lively to keep from being bitten by a giant phytosaur.

The giant phytosaur, a kind of carnivorous reptile looking like an armor plated crocodile, was about 25 feet long, and back in the Triassic age lurked in the swamps.

It has been some millions of years since a phytosaur has been alive and kicking, and so the scientists, although they would like to know what a phytosaur looked like, have had their troubles finding out.

University of Michigan paleontologists, from the museum, led by Dr. E. C. Case, the director, have succeeded in adding considerable to the sam of human knowledge regarding phytosaurs, by finding a set of slightly used armor plates from one of the old-fashioned reptiles, while digging near Amarillo. The set is said to be the first which has been discovered in an undisturbed condition.

The University party went to Texas June 15 to carry on excavations which were started several seasons ago, in the southwestern part of the state. Skulls of ancient amphibians and other valuable finds have been made.

U. S. Survey Shows Only 44 Subnormal Children in G. R.

Of all Grand Rapids' school population, only 44 children are subnormal, according to the federal bureau of education, which made public results of a nationwide survey.

Subnormal children are defined as those who cannot keep up with groups in school work. The survey was undertaken for the purpose of studying the success not only of the types of curriculum and methods of teaching devised but the administrative plans used to reduce the per capita cost of educating the handicapped.

The report takes a fling at the theory that American education is providing at least an equal opportunity to all young Americans to develop to the maximum the abilities they have. "The idea that such equality of opportunity actually exists is being gradually dissipated," says the report. "Children are not given the same amount of schooling either in the number of years required or in the length of school year; in spite of free schools, the cost to the parents is still sufficient to make the school attendance of children a financial burden to parents and the child's schooling is, as a result, often ended prematurely."

The report shows that Grand Rapids has four teachers for its subnormal pupils.

Youngsters Make Extra Money in War on Ragweed

East Jordan is not a safe place for a ragweed to show its head. The women's auxiliary of the chamber of commerce has launched a ragweed campaign and every youngster in town went after weeds.

The auxiliary paid off recently and the city truck had to haul away the refuse. The children were paid 1 cent for each bundle of 50. Some of the totals are: Guy Russell, $5.60; Thelma Hegerberg, $5.60; Albert Richardson, $5; Ralph Stallard and Laerne Archer, $4. The total paid was $183.53.

Holland Public Schools To Be Opened Sept. 8

Public schools in Holland will be opened Tuesday, Sept. 8, it was made known following a meeting of the board of education.

Action of the board will enable residents to remain at the resorts longer. In preparation for the approaching school year the visiting and standing committees were named and other items of business were transacted.

Has Headed Holland Mission for 27 Years

Miss Nellie Churchford, Holland's foremost religious woman worker, has completed 27 years of service as head of Holland's city mission. Since the mission was opened in 1904 Miss Churchford has held services in many buildings, tents and on street corners. Finally she obtained permanent quarters in a modern brick building erected on a lot back of the First State bank a few years ago.

Ground Has Been Broken For Spring Lake Rectory

Ground has been broken for the new building which will serve as a rectory for St. Mary's parish of Spring Lake. There will be nine rooms, including a living room, dining room, kitchen, office, bedrooms and bath. The rectory will be 26 feet east of the church.

The building was made possible by anonymous gifts of $10,600. The balance will be made up by the parish.

Buys Village to Keep Sons Busy

By Edwin W. Pryor

Because he couldn't find vacation jobs for his three sons, George W. Winters, president of the Kansas Real Estate Board, has purchased the village of Waco-Wego, about 12 miles south of Wichita, Kan.

On the highway which connects Wichita and Oklahoma City, it attracts much tourist trade with its filling station, garage, cafe, confectionery, bulk oil station, grocery store, general merchandise store and bulk oil depot. Winters bought all these and a park.

"I'm a firm believer in putting boys to work during the summer when they're not in school," he explained. "But try as I would, I couldn't find anything for them this summer—depression, I guess. So when I heard about Waco-Wego being for sale, I just went out and bought it, figuring it would keep the boys busy."

"But now I find I've acquired full time work for the whole family. I've closed my real estate office in Wichita and am resigning the state board presidency to give my whole time to developing the town."

Winters' family consists of his wife, his sons, Billy, 10; George, 16, and Clifford, 19; and his daughter, Hazel, 20. The work of the town is divided evenly among them, with Mr. and Mrs. Winters directing the development and filling the municipal offices, such as mayor, chief of police, and so forth.

The Winters plan to develop their town as a pleasure resort for Wichitans and tourists who travel the highway in great numbers, as well as the farmers of the community. They are landscaping the entire town, sodding the banks of Cowskin creek, planting flowers and shrubs everywhere. They have modernized the stores, adding to the stocks and otherwise improving them.

"It's lots of fun, owning your own town," confided Hazel, the daughter. "Before we're through Waco-Wego is going to be the busiest spot in Kansas. It's work, but it's really play."

"Because I'm a real estate man," everyone naturally supposed I bought Waco-Wego to subdivide and sell," Winters said. "But I didn't—this is one of the few times a real estate man bought to keep. I thought it would be just a hobby and a means of keeping my boys busy, and stating them on the right road in life. But I'm sold on building up the village now and believe it is the best deal I ever put over."

"Waco-Wego is a fine community in which to rear a family, especially since the family is the community. Already I've had three offers on the town which would net a profit, but I'm not selling."

NO PERSON IMMUNE TO POISON IVY

Never boast immunity to poison ivy for it is doubtful if any one is immune, advises Prof. W. C. Muen-scher of Cornell university. Toxicodendrol, a nonvolatile gummy substance produced in the leaves, flowers, fruit and bark of stems and roots, contain the poison. The wood, pollen grains and hairs from the leaves are not poisonous, he says.

To be poisoned a person must come in direct contact with the plant, or indirectly by touching some object such as clothes, tools or particles of smoke carrying some of the poison. The first symptoms are inflammation and swelling accompanied by intense irritation, followed by the formation of blisters. Usually the symptoms appear within 12 to 24 hours after contact; but sometimes they appear in a few hours or are delayed several days.

One treatment is to wash the face and hands freely in a solution of 5 per cent iron chloride in a half and half solution of alcohol and water. If this treatment is given before going where the ivy is known to grow, no harmful effects need be expected. Another treatment is ordinary laundry soap which contains an excess of alkali. Make a heavy lather in warm water and wash this off three or four times. Avoid soaps which contain oils, for the poison is soluble in oil and will be spread to other parts of the skin. Severe infections need a physician's care, he says.

New Health Unit Doing Good Work

The Barry county health unit, which began operations July 1, besides spending a considerable amount of time in organization, has held a pre-school clinic in Hastings, which was well attended. The cases are being followed up with the co-operation of the Hastings school nurse.

A prenatal and infant hygiene program has been started, with physicians of the county co-operating. The unit co-operated with the bureau of engineering in a resort inspection campaign. Resorts which have met satisfactory standard have been awarded an "approved" card. In conjunction with the resort campaign school wells have been inspected and water samples taken.

All dairies in the county were inspected last month, in co-operation with the department of agriculture. They will be inspected monthly hereafter.

Household Hints

MENU HINT

Lamb Stew with Onions, Carrots and Potatoes
Tomato-Cucumber Salad
Home Made Ice Cream
Apple Sauce Cake Iced Coffee
Home made ice cream is always a treat, but especially so in hot weather. Golden Glow ice cream is a bit different.

Recipes

Golden Glow Ice Cream—Two quarts milk, one tablespoon flour, one quart apricots (canned or fresh), one cup grated pineapple, two cups sugar, one cup hot water, two oranges. Boil sugar and water together five minutes. Add grated pineapple, apricots cut fine with juice, and juice and pulp of oranges. Scald the milk, add the flour moistened with two tablespoons milk and cook two minutes. Blend fruit and milk, cool and freeze. This recipe makes one gallon.

Apple Sauce Cake—One and three-fourths cups cake flour, one teaspoon soda, one-fourth teaspoon salt, one teaspoon cinnamon, one-half teaspoon cloves, one-half cup butter, one cup sugar, one cup raisins, three-fourths cup nut meats, one cup hot, thick apple sauce. Sift flour. Measure and sift several times with soda, salt and spices. Cream butter. Add sugar gradually and cream together until light and fluffy. Add egg well beaten, raisins and nut meats which have been mixed with a portion of the flour. Add dry ingredients alternately with the apple sauce, adding a small amount at a time and beating well after each addition. Bake in a greased loaf pan in a moderate oven 350 degrees Fahrenheit.

SUGGESTIONS

Sour Potatoes with Bay Leaves
One-half cup finely diced salt pork, one-half cup finely chopped onion, one pint boiling water, five pared potatoes, cut in quarters; one-half teaspoon salt, pepper, two bay leaves, one tablespoon vinegar, three tablespoons browned flour, one tablespoon finely chopped parsley. Fry out the salt pork until brown and crisp. Remove the pork and cook the onions in the fat until lightly browned. Add to the water and potatoes with the salt, pepper and bay leaves, cover and boil gently until the potatoes are done. Remove the bay leaves and stir in the vinegar, the browned flour and crisped pork. When well mixed, serve with the parsley sprinkled over the top.

A few drops of oil of lavender in a glass of hot water makes a pleasant odor in a sick room.

The Parent Problem

By GARRY C. MYERS, PH. D.

PARENTS APT TO SLIP UP IN GRAMMAR

We parents sometimes slip grammatically. We revert, perhaps, to some bad form of expression which we had learned in early childhood. When we are on guard we may be very accurate in this matter. Sometimes, however, we may not be quite sure about the correctness of the form of a statement we wish to make.

The four verbs which seem to bother people most are sit, set, lie, lay, and their different forms. Some college graduates are confused in the use of them.

If we parents use them wrong our children surely will. Here is some practice for you. Read these sentences over and over and make other sentences over and over and make other sentences like them.

It is hard for a little child to sit still.

Nervous children should lie down for several minutes before the evening meal.

The child sat beside his mother, who read to him.

Little Ossie lay still for fifteen minutes before he went to sleep.

A good baby often sits or lies alone amusing himself.

Yesterday the spoiled child lay on the floor bumping his head.

Too bad every mother cannot lie down for an afternoon nap each day.

The spoiled child climbed upon the table and sat upon the butter.

After little Nora had lain on her bed for an hour she got up to play.

The baby had been lying for half an hour in a cold room without any cover.

The infant lay and kicked and talked to himself.

When Ned is very naughty his mother makes him sit on a chair for 20 minutes.

You can compel a child to lie down but you can't make him go to sleep. Orpha's mother lies down for a nap every afternoon.

Never set a pan of hot water where the baby can reach it.

Mr. Creel set the bottle of poison on the table. The baby found it. Now Mr. Creel sits and worries.

The wise mother laid the little child with the tantrum on the floor and walk away from him.

After he had lain there for a few minutes he recovered.

Little Goldie saw her mother lay the scissors on the chair.

The scissors did not lie there long. One should sit on a chair, not lay scissors on it.

One time Mrs. Snow lay down beside her boy of two when he was put to bed; now he always wants her to lie down beside him.

The kind father sat beside his little boy reading to him.

Never lay sharp or pointed things where the baby can get them.

We parents want to set good examples of speech before our children.

When your child makes an error in English don't scold him, never laugh at him. Quietly, kindly, patiently say the correct statement for him.

Gladys Glad on Beauty

AMERICA'S FOREMOST BEAUTY

YELLOW TINGE OF TEETH TROUBLES BEAUTY SEEKER

"Dear Miss Glad: I have very nicely shaped teeth, but lately they have acquired an unattractive yellowish tinge. You see, I have not been brushing them very strenuously, because my gums seem recently to have become very soft and tender, and bleed very easily. How can I whiten my teeth again?"

"Harriett"

I would advise you first to have your gums examined by a competent dentist. Softening and shrinking of the gums, and the tendency for them to bleed at the slightest provocation requires the ministrations of a reliable dentist. When you consult the dentist about your teeth. This will remove all calcareous and tartar deposits. Then, to keep the teeth white and clean, brush them at least twice a day, and use a good mouth wash after each brushing. An excellent mouth wash can be made by dissolving one-fourth teaspoon borax, one-fourth teaspoon salt and one-fourth teaspoon peroxide in a glass of warm water. This mouth wash will not only help to keep your teeth white and sparkling, but will also prove most beneficial to your gums.

"Dear Miss Glad: There's been so great an improvement in the texture and clarity of my skin since I've been following the instructions on complexion care contained in your 'Beauty Culture' booklet, that I simply had to write my thanks to you. I know a great deal more about my skin now than I formerly did. There's one thing that puzzles me, however. I've been told that it is unwise to use a cream for cleansing an oily skin. But my skin is inclined to be oily and yet it seems to benefit by cream cleansings. Do you think that it is really harmful to use a cleansing cream on an oily skin?"

"Dora D."

I personally do not think it harmful to submit an oily skin to one cream cleansing a day, providing that the correct sort of a cream is used. A heavy cream should not be applied to an oily skin, as it is likely to aggravate the oily condition. But a thin, liquefying cleansing cream may be employed if it is thoroughly removed afterward. Dirt and grime sink deep into the pores of the oily skin very easily. And a thorough cleansing method is necessary. It is a good plan when cleansing the oily skin at night, to first apply a pure, liquefying cleansing cream. This will soften the skin, open the pores, and loosen the embedded particles of dust and dirt. Then remove the cream and scrub the skin well with tepid water and a pure, bland soap. Finish up with the application of a good astringent to close the pores and to remove any remaining vestige of grease.

"Dear Miss Glad: Not so long ago you gave one of your readers some advice on the colors in growing that would most become her. I wonder if you'd do the same for me, as I don't quite know what colors are best suited to me. My coloring is very strong — black hair, green eye, creamy, white skin, and naturally red cheeks and lips. I shall be grateful for your assistance in this matter. T. J. B."

Since your natural coloring is so strong, you can wear almost any color. The vivid, intense shades should become you most, however. Scarlet and deep rose, burnt orange, clear yellow, rich blues, black, white, fuchsia, and pure, vivid greens should prove most flattering.

All of Us

I Met Him in the Night
He Knew All About You and Me
Who Was He?

By Marshall Maslin

As I came late along the street, deserted save for me and my echoing steps, I felt a presence near and looked swiftly around. And there, leaning gracefully against a wall, half hidden in the shadow of a tree, stood a figure I swear had not been there an instant before.

He said, "Good evening," and I noticed that his voice was deep and strong—and suddenly I knew that it was, in truth, a GOOD evening, because he made it so. There was a half moon above us and a street lamp shone at the nearest corner. In these two lights I saw his face and it seemed to me that there was sweetness about his mouth, but an unappeasable sorrow in his half-hidden eyes.

I asked, "Are you a stranger hereabouts?" And he answered, "No, I have known you all your life. I have been your friend for years. You remember me well enough, though sometimes you think you have forgotten me. . . . I know all that you do. I know all that you think and hope for and dream. I know you better than any man or any woman on earth. I know the mistakes you have made. I know the times you knew the right thing to do and did not do it. I know how you explain away your foolishness. I know the times you have been afraid and the times you have been bold.

"I know your richness and I know your poverty, know your impatience and know your endurance. I know the difference between the man you think you are and the one you really are, between the being you intend to be, and the man you will become. I know your excuses and your defenses, your humility and your scorn, your integrity and your shame. I know what life does to you and I know what you do to life. I know your sorrow and your peace. I know your petulant waywardness, and I know that mystic compass that is within you and that never completely betrays your faltering steps."

The night wind blew cool and comforting upon me and I felt at ease with this figure that spoke so confidently about me and my ways. "And who might YOU be?" I asked him courteously. He smiled and whispered: "I am that Compass. I am the Conscience of every man—and I am your Conscience, too."

at present and should continue to improve all during the fall and early winter. Feed prices are the lowest ever and anybody with a flock of good heavy laying leghorns is making money at present prices of eggs. With a nation wide shortage of hens and pullets this condition should continue for at least two years long. So make your plans right now to raise a nice flock of Larger Leghorns next spring.

Worm Your Pullets and Hens Now

The best and cheapest way I know of is to feed tobacco dust, mixing it up with your dry mash at the rate of 2 lbs. of tobacco to each 100 lbs of dry mash. Feed this mixture to your birds for AT LEAST a month. Every flock in this community needs this treatment. You will be rewarded with more eggs and stronger, nicer looking, healthier birds. Paint Black Leaf 40 on your perches to rid your flock of lice and feed charcoal to keep them healthy.
