Estus Leversee, our genial Chevrolet merchant, is wearing a broad smile these days and when you see the new Chevrolet you can easily understand why. In the weekly mixup last week we failed to report three important events. The visit of our prize pair, Lloyd VanVoorhees and Glenn Alway, to Detroit and Toledo. Lloyd was ill, however, and so we slid out of that safely. The installation of officers of Hudson Lodge, of which we had a card notice, but the meeting proved a happy one despite our neglect. And the weather, which was too cold and got colder until some reported 12 below Saturday, and if our neglect had anything to do with it we apologise most profusely and we hope it will be fair and warmer.

Obituary

Mr. Fred Starks was born in the town of Burke, New York in 1860 and departed this life at his home south of Gobles, December 15, 1932 aged seventy-two years. He moved to Michigan with his parents in childhood. In 1886 he was united in marriage with Addie Everest of Pine Grove. To this union were born three children, Mrs. Roy Niles of Pine Grove, Avis Marian, who died at age of seventeen, and Stephen L. Starks of Midland, Mich.

Immediately after marriage he moved to Nebraska where he lived among the pioneers of Deuel county. He was the first school commissioner of that county and was a successful teacher for twenty-six years. In 1905 he returned to Gobles and purchased the farm where he has since resided.

He was a member of the Presbyterian church at Litchfield, Nebr in which he was faithful worker for many years.

Besides the bereaved wife and children, he leaves to mourn his departure, three grand children, Fred Niles of Pine Grove, Margaret and Hugh Starks of Midland, three sisters, two brothers and a host of other relatives and friends. He was a kind and loving husband and father and was highly esteemed by all who knew him.

A precious one from us has gone,
A voice we loved is stilled.
A place is vacant in our home,
Which never can be filled.
God in His mercy has removed
The boon His love had given;
But though the body slumbers here
The soul is safe in Heaven.

The Scythe of Time

has again wrought sad havoc among our friends and many homes and the entire community are grieving.

Last week took toll of four of our best citizens in the passing of Herbert L. Root, Fred W. Starks, Geo. Pike and Seymour Walker, in each case except that of Mr. Pike, the call was unexpected in that all were in usual health, Mr. Walker passing away in his car just as he was driving into town.

A finer lot of representative men would be hard to find than these four and their places will be hard to fill.

May the time be long ere we must report so great a loss to the community which these men have served so long and well.

Root, was born August 8, 1865, at Grand Prairie township and departed this life at his home near Kendall, December 13, 1932 at the age of 67 years, four months and four days. His passing is the first to break the family circle of 7 children. At an early age he learned the mason trade which with his farm work he followed throughout his life. PERCH SIZE DEPENDS ON KIND OF WATER

Fingerling perch seined from the Boardman river at Traverse City for distribution to inland lakes are the big "yellow" perch of the Great Lakes, and with proper food conditions in inland lakes should reach a considerable growth, experiments conducted by the fish division of the department of conservation have indicated.

Since the department abandoned its perch propagation program and substituted the seining of fingerlings many have contended that the fingerlings taken were not the "yellow" perch of the Great Lakes, which frequently attain two pounds in weight, but were the smaller "green" perch.

In order to definitely determine the growth rate of these fish a number of the fingerlings seined from the Boardman river were sent to the Dwight Lydell hatchery at Comstock Park and were placed in one of the hatchery ponds. They were not observed during the winter but April 15 these fish were seined out of the pond, weighed and returned to the water again. At that time they ran 130 fish to the pound.

October 15 when seined again the perch weighed 17 to the pound. They had grown from an average of 3 inches to an average of between 6 and 7 inches within a year.

Contrary to popular belief there are probably no varied strains among perch found in the Great Lakes waters and in Michigan's inland lakes the fish division believes. Coloration of fish depends largely on the water and the character of the bottom, and growth depends largely on the environment, water conditions and food supply. This has been noted in several instances when fish from the same collection of eggs will attain a large average growth in one lake and will remain stunted when planted in another lake having different food conditions.

London's New Lord Mayor Takes Over Ancient City Mace

Sir Percy Greenaway (left), new Lord Mayor of London, England, is seen receiving the ancient city mace from the retiring Lord Mayor, Sir Maurice Jenks, in a traditional ceremony at the Guildhall. The huge crystal mace, which is carried before the Lord Mayor on public occasions, has been in use since the 15th century.

FEDERAL PRISON NEAR MILAN HAS 225 ON PAYROLL

The new federal prison, under construction on US-23 near Milan, planned to house 620 prisoners when completed, will probably be ready for use before March 17, the date set in the project, it has been announced by E. R. Kent, construction engineer in charge of the work.

The rapidity with which the work has been progressing has been the result of unusually good weather this fall, and if the weather continues mild the project should be completed by the middle of February, it is estimated. Two hundred and twenty-five men ten per cent of them from Ypsilanti, are now employed on the building work.

Half of the new building will house persons waiting trial for federal violations, and the other section will be devoted to the accommodations of prisoners serving terms of from two to four years. The farm land around the prison will be worked by the prisoners, and roads and sidewalks will be laid by prison labor as soon as the buildings are ready for occupancy.

The structure will be 414 feet by 384 feet, in the shape of a square with a court in the center. The front of the building will be two stories high and the rear one story in height. The entire plant is divided into nine sections, with administration offices in the front and cell blocks directly behind. The dormitories will be located on either side of the cells, and the warehouse and laundry will be located behind these. In the rear will be the power house, mess hall and kitchen.

Gets Teachers' Insurance

The Michigan Life has been awarded the group health and accident business of the Detroit Teachers' Association. The amount of business involved is somewhat uncertain as the teachers allied with the association may accept or reject the proposition, the cost of which is borne by them individually. In the past, however, the association's business has amounted to a considerable volume. The Zurich formerly had the business.

State Releases 5,200 Pheasants

More than 5,200 ring neck pheasants raised this year by the Department of Conservation have been released in the pheasant areas of southern Michigan, and 500 of the 1932 birds will be distributed next spring.

In past years the Conservation Department released all hen pheasants during September and the cocks after the close of the hunting season.

A new type of leg band, believed to be more secure, has been placed on all cock birds raised and released this year and it is hoped that all hunters who have shot birds will look for bands and report them. A report submitted by Donald Lamont, superintendent of the state game farm at Mason, shows that during the spring of 1932, 1,030 hens laid 45,340 eggs. Of these eggs, 27,785 were distributed through the state; 10,000 were included in the game farm settings; 1,500 were set at the Wolf Lake Hatchery; 1,000 were exchanged with a commercial breeder and 6,555 eggs were unfit for hatching.

As a result of the game farm's first hatchings last spring 1,625 cock and hen birds were released in various parts of the state; and 1,300 birds are being held for next year's breeding stock.

Of the second hatch of birds, 1,600 hens were released in September, 1,000 cock birds were released at the close of the pheasant hunting season, and 500 cock birds will be held for release next spring. In addition, 436 birds resulting from incubator-brooder experiments at Michigan State College were released.

Included in the second hatch of birds at the game farm were 141 birds obtained through eggs sent to the state from Oregon.

The branch pheasant farm at the Wolf Lake Fish Hatchery produced 592 birds. All of these birds have been released.

Because of an epidemic, the production of Hungarian Partridges has been below expectations, according to Superintendent Lamont's report. Although an experienced bird pathologist examined several of the young birds, the cause of the loss is unknown. Of 452 birds hatched last spring there are only 151 young birds at the farm now.

Report Mail Order House to Market Low-Price Car

A new automobile at a price lower than any now on the market will be placed on the market shortly, according to persistent reports in automobile circles. It is reported that the new car will be merchandised through Montgomery, Ward & Co., Chicago mail order house. Walter Hoving, vice president of that company, has refused to confirm or deny the reports. According to the reports, the new car will be called the "Montgomery Ward" and will be distributed by that company from its Chicago headquarters and through its many branches. Details and specifications are unknown, but rumors say the car is expected to include all the standard features of the low-priced cars already on the market.

It is reported that negotiations between Montgomery, Ward & Co. and the manufacturer of the new car are still in process and that the new car is expected to be exhibited at the January automobile show.

Ionics Drops Bounty On Sparrow Heads

It was a body blow to a large number of Ionics county youths and many grownups, for that matter, when the announcement was made recently that on account of lack of funds, no bounty would be paid on sparrow heads. At the rate of 2 cents per head, Ionics county last year paid out $1,300 in the three-month open period.

A 10-cent bounty was paid formerly per rat tail, but that became so burdensome the board of supervisors about a year ago abolished it.

LABOR CAN BE USED IN STATE FOREST

Constructive work which will add to the beauty and the recreational facilities of Michigan and to future income from state timber lands can be performed by men on Michigan welfare lists, according to the forestry department at Michigan State College, which offers to furnish trained men to help plan ways of using welfare labor profitably.

The value of the resort trade to Michigan is enormous, but the forestry department points out that it is a part time income and that the improvement of the timber resources of the northern part of the State will aid an industry which brought the original wealth and population to the State. The reforestation of cutover lands will make the State more attractive to summer guests.

Communities in southern Michigan can use men to make roadside plantings, to thin farm timber lots, and to make plantings on lands which are undesirable for general crops. The forestry department at the College will furnish men to survey woodlots and to mark trees which should be taken out to improve the stand, if the owner of the woodlot will cooperate with welfare officers in permitting the cutting of fuel on shares.

A trained forester will be sent by the department to any communities which wish to undertake a plan to plant and beautify the roadsides in its district. The forester will draw plans and instruct men how the work should be done. Untrained help can then be used to complete the work.

The Reconstruction Finance Corporation has funds which can be loaned to finance reforestation projects. Information concerning these funds can be obtained from the College forestry department.

Millions Are Pledged to Plant Rehabilitation Plan

Nearly $71,000,000 has been pledged by a number of companies reporting to the national committee on industrial rehabilitation as available for modernization and expansion programs to be begun at once or which are in progress, according to a report issued by the chairman of the committee, A. W. Robertson, of Pittsburgh. The committee's program for industrial modernization was launched late in August. The $71,000,000 which will be expended by reporting companies is to provide for new machinery equipment and plant facilities and improvements in numerous industrial plants and in retail establishments.

Mr. Robertson gives the opinion that industrial rehabilitation movement will go on indefinitely. Thousands of the committee's workers are engaged in promotion of the program in the twelve federal reserve states, he said.

The movement is a non-partisan one. The program is intended primarily to reduce and finally to put an end to the prostration suffered by the capital goods industries, representing plants engaged in the manufacture of machinery, equipment and plant facilities for other manufacturers.

The American Telephone and Telegraph Company with a modernization program involving expenditure of $35,000,000, and the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, committed to an outlay of $20,000,000 for improvements, head the list of companies.

Scrapers of Exempt

Gasoline used in tractor road scrapers employed in grading or cleaning roads is subject to the provision of the gas tax law, according to an opinion given the Department of State by the Attorney General's office. Municipal and federal owned scrapers, according to the opinion, are exempt from the tax as are individually owned scrapers used in constructing roads before they are opened to traffic.

Road Allotments Give Mich. $5,952,038

Up to October 29, the Department of Agriculture announces, $72,000,000 of the federal emergency highway funds were allotted to the various states under the Emergency Act. At the same time the Bureau of Public Roads reported that other projects to be carried on under the $120,000,000 emergency appropriation are ready for approval. This money is to insure employment during the winter months. The states receiving these funds, with apportionments and allotments are: Arizona, $1,760,771 and $1,318,479. Air Express Rate Cut

A nation-wide reduction in air express rates was made effective December 1, by the air express division of the Railway Express Agency, Inc., in conjunction with six major air lines operating over 11,266 miles of airways reaching all principal regions of the United States. Among the air lines affected is the Kohler Aviation Corporation's Detroit-Milwaukee service.

The rate revision ranges from 15 to 30 per cent, and is the fourth issued by the lines since the inauguration of their air express service six years ago. The rates will be in some cases no more than one-third of similar charges two years ago.

REFOREST 135,800 ACRES IN MICHIGAN

Michigan now has 135,800 acres of its northern cut-over and burned-over lands converted into growing pine forests, created through the Division of Forestry of the Department of Conservation.

The peak of the state forest planting operations was reached in 1931 when 32,067 acres were forested to native pines. This figure still stands as a record for the number of acres planted by any state in one year.

The beginning of 1932 saw a considerable decline in planting activities when only 648 acres were reforested during the spring season. A fair sized planting was made in the fall however, bringing the total for the year to 10,374 acres.

Although the employment from fall planting was only of a few weeks duration, two and three shifts of planters were used in order that as many persons as possible might benefit from the work. In accordance with past practices only local men were employed.

In issuing its report relative to the year's activities, the Forestry Division stated that as of June 30, 1932 784,604 acres of state owned land were included within the boundaries of Michigan's 12 state forests, an increase from 34,000 acres, the area included when the state first organized its forests in 1903.

PRIZE STOCK BRINGS RICH AWARDS TO BOYS

Lorraine Marshall, a 13-year-old boy from Concord, pocketed $469.20 as the sale price of his grand champion steer shown in the Junior Livestock show at Detroit and Ralph Rawson, Cass City, obtained $247.50 as the auction price for his grand champion Southdown wether.

The show brought entries from youngsters living in 13 Michigan counties who showed 53 steers and nearly 100 sheep. At the boys and girls are members of 4-H livestock clubs. The show is sponsored by the livestock commission firms in Detroit in co-operation with Michigan state college.

Winners of class prizes on steers were: Angus, Fostythe McCome, Milan, first; Ronney Horner, Cass City, second; Russell Hill, Howell, third. On Shorthorns, the winners were Robert Robertson, Yle; Raymond K. pinski, Emmett; Dayton Moore, Cass City. The prizes on Herefords went to Lorraine Marshall, Concord; Richard McCarthy, S. Clair; Harold Hosley, Howell.

The first three prizes in the individual sheep classes went to Clair O'Dell, Cass City; Ion Foldridge, Charlotte; Thomas Porter, Lapeer, on Shropshires. To Ralph Rawson, Cass City; Delbert Rawson, Cass City; Gene Groenfeld, Hillsdale, on Southdowns. To Eli Reagle, Marshall; Margaret Patt, Homer; Marie Rawson, on grae mutton sheep.

The Rawson family has won the championship on sheep the past two years as Delbert Rawson won out last year. The winning sheep were out of ewes purchased by the brothers from Michigan state college in 1931.

Peach Growers Have New Market Problem

Michigan fruit growers who contemplate setting new peach orchards are advised by the horticulture department at Michigan State college to make their plantings to meet present conditions which resist the sale of Michigan peaches to markets which supply fruit for immediate consumption.

Most of the peaches which are commercially canned are now produced by California. Michigan peaches are used mainly for fresh fruit or for home canning and the latter outlet is somewhat curtailed by the competition with other states.

Michigan growers are asked to take advantage of these conditions by planting varieties which will spread the harvest season over a longer period of time. Plantings of a single variety will mature all fit for harvest at the same time and the peaches will have to be marketed within a period of a few days.

If several good varieties are chosen for planting, the picking dates will vary and both early and late peaches can be marketed. The increasing use of trucks for moving the fruit makes it possible for Michigan peaches to be placed on fairly distant markets within a short space of time from the hour when they are picked.

Members of the horticultural department do not advise increased plantings but a wise choice of varieties in areas which are to be replanted.

Farmers' Woodlot Valuable Asset

With farmers in normal times utilizing some 12,775,000,000 board feet, or better than one-third of the total amount of lumber produced in the country in any year, the farm woodlot is becoming of increasing importance in the successful farm enterprise, according to forestry specialists.

It has been estimated that the average farm uses about 2,000 board feet of lumber annually in addition to fence posts and cord wood which must either be obtained from the home woods or purchased on the open market.

Half of the area in timberland in the central states is in the form of small farm wood lots. This land is of considerable importance in sustaining the hardwood using industries of the region. Of a total of 34,000,000,000 board feet of hardwood saw timber in this region, farmers own half of 17,000,000,000 board feet and some 60,000,000 board feet of smaller sized material.

This land containing thousands of individual woodlots cannot be cropped on a large scale. But the individual farmer can increase his income from this source by taking the proper precautions against fire hazards, by not using his woods as a pasture lot, by giving the young trees a chance to reproduce by cutting out diseased and undesirable trees and by so cutting the area that no damage is done to its future productive possibilities.

Dairy Cows Need Salt

Common salt should always be available to dairy cows. One pound mixed in each 100 pounds of grain mixture will supply part of their need for salt, but in addition to this amount, a box containing salt should always be kept in the lot, available for the cows at all times.

Farm Price Index Down Two Points in Month

Price declines on twenty-two farm products from October 15 to November 15 brought the farm price index covering twenty-seven commodities down to 54 per cent of pre-war on the latter date as compared with 56 per cent on October 15, and 52 per cent June 15, according to the Bureau of Agricultural Economics, U. S. Department of Agriculture. The index on November 15 a year ago was 71 per cent of pre-war.

Barley prices advanced approximately 10 per cent from October 15 to November 15, sheep prices shifted slightly upward, and butter and eggs made seasonal gains. Wheat, corn, apples, cattle, calves, and lambs continued their price declines to new low levels for the 24-year period covered by the bureau's record.

A slight increase in hog slaughter and further weakening in consumer demand depressed the average farm price of hogs to little more than three cents a pound on November 15. One hundred pounds of live hogs at average local market prices on November 15 was equal in value to 15.7 bushels of corn as compared with 15 bushels a month ago.

With corn bringing an average of 19.4 cents per bushel on November 15, farmers were getting approximately 10 per cent less for corn than on October 15, and 47 per cent less than on November 15, 1931. The bureau says that the decline in the farm price of corn during the past month was largely seasonal, reflecting the much larger proportion of new crop corn, with a high moisture content, in sales on November 15.

Larger offerings of wheat in domestic markets, improved prospects for the Southern Hemisphere crop, and continued low demand from importing countries, were among the principal factors, says the bureau, contributing to the decline in the farm price of wheat during the month.

Cotton was bringing 5.9 cents a pound on farm, on November 15, or about 8 per cent less than on October 15. Potatoes were bringing only 34.4 cents a bushel, or 16 per cent more than on October 1.

Livestock Brings Most Cash Income

Livestock sales made up 70 per cent and crops sales 30 per cent of the cash receipts from the Michigan farms whose owners furnished the farm management department at Michigan State College a complete record of their business to show the changes made in farm operations to meet present conditions.

There is a tendency to concentrate more effort on livestock and less on crops and the records also show a shift to the more intensive producing units of livestock. Dairy cattle, hens and brood sows increased in the period reported.

This shift is evidence of the farmers' attempt to obtain a larger income from the same number of acres and the same outfit of farm buildings and equipment. In spite of the evident attempt of farm operators to put their business on a more profitable basis, income records show a continued drop to steadily decreasing prices.

The farmers in the group studied out their operating costs 47.1 percent during the year. The cash receipts dropped 44.7 per cent during the same time. The saving in operating expense did not compensate for the loss in cash income.

The farm owners make their savings in other ways than in abandonment of good farm practices such as the use of fertilizer, sprays, and good seed. Less was spent for labor, but the reduction in this expense was due more to lower wages than to less men hired.

Expenses on the upkeep of the farm plant, painting, fence building, and machinery repair have been cut to the point where the plants show considerable depreciation.

Fire Prevention

A year-around fire prevention committee in every rural community in the United States has been suggested by Arthur M. Hyde, Secretary of Agriculture. The committees as suggested would have two principal functions, fire prevention education and fire protection.

Pointing to the huge annual farm fire loss of 100 million dollars, nearly one-fourth of the total and of approximately 3,500 lives, nearly one-third of the national total, the secretary said, "American agriculture can ill afford to stand this huge loss, but must do so while it continued. This heavy tax is a toll levied upon every day's work."

Secretary Hyde urges full representation upon these local fire prevention committees, including farmers, Four-1 clubs, the clergy, rural educators, rural press, women's groups, agricultural organization leaders and other agencies.

Ultimately, Secretary Hyde sees each rural community having a fire department, arrangements for adequate fire alarms, water provided for fighting fire on farms and in rural public buildings, adequate installation of fire extinguishers and provision for runways for fire department pumpers, streams and ponds to prevent mixing in case of fire.

POULTRY

FEAR NO BEST VARIETY OF CHICKENS

Return of profitable egg prices to the farmer has revived interest in poultry raising and inquiries again are being received by county agricultural agents and extension workers for information regarding the best breed of hens to keep.

Poultry specialists contend there is no one best variety of chickens, but they point out that there are differences in strains within each breed. Poultry advertisements often, stress strains, and official egg laying contests invariably show the relative importance of the various strains.

The final report of the tenth international egg laying contest at Michigan State college indicates county agricultural agents and extension workers are right in their assertions that there is no one best breed of poultry. The best hens of all major breeds were competing in this contest, and their average productions tell their own stories.

There were 720 Leghorns in the contest and their average production for 51 weeks was 207.8 eggs per hen. Then White Wyandottes averaged 207.6 eggs per bird. The average of 140 Barred Rocks was 191.2 eggs per hen. Fifty Single Comb Rhode Island Reds averaged 185.6 eggs and 10 Rose Comb Rhode Island Reds averaged 168.4 eggs per bird. Seventy White Rocks averaged 143.8 eggs.

The average production for all hens of all breeds in the contest was 199.5 eggs per bird.

The highest pen of 10 birds in the contest was of the White Leghorn breed. Its average production was 255.3 eggs per hen.

Two pens of the heavy breeds were among the 10 highest in the contest. A pen of Barred Rocks finished in fourth position with an average of 243.7 eggs per hen and a pen of Single Comb Rhode Island Reds finished in sixth position with an average of 241.4 eggs.

The highest individual hen in the entire contest was a White Leghorn. She laid 307 eggs in 51 weeks, scoring 276 points. The highest individual by the point system was a Barred Rock. She laid 301 eggs which scored 326 points, indicating her eggs weighed more than an ounce apiece.

RAILS LOSE IN POULTRY TRAFFIC

Truckers have started a successful raid upon the poultry traffic of middle western railroads, figures compiled by the Chicago poultry board indicate.

Chicago receipts by rail in the first ten months of this year decreased sharply compared with the movement in the corresponding period a year ago, while arrivals by truck increased substantially over the corresponding months in 1931.

Produce dealers reported that high freight and express rates encouraged farmers and dealers to truck their poultry into Chicago instead of shipping by freight or express. Most of the poultry on farms within a radius of 100 to 150 miles of this city was delivered by truck. Rail receipts came largely from areas more than 150 to 200 miles removed from Chicago.

Total receipts of live poultry by months for the two years show the extent to which truckers are taking traffic away from the railroads. In every month except July, shipments by truck this year revealed increases over the corresponding month a year ago. July shipment fell one car under the corresponding month in 1931.

Rail shipments in all months thus far this year were far below the movement a year ago. Out of a total of 3,75 cars received in the first ten months of 1932, only 759 cars arrived by freight or express against 2,771 cars by truck. In the corresponding period a year ago Chicago received 1,770 cars by freight or express against 2,75 cars by trucks.

Rail and truck shipments by months for the two years are compared in the following table:

THIS is Chevrolet Week throughout America. And the new car that millions have been watching and waiting for—the latest product of the world's leading builder of automobiles—is now on display: the New Chevrolet Six—at a new scale of low prices. Front, side, rear—inside, outside—everything about this new car is advanced, improved, exciting. Longer wheelbase makes it the biggest automobile in today's low-price field. The latest principle of car design, "Aer-Stream" styling, gives it a totally different, ultra-modern appearance. The new Fisher bodies are larger, wider—faultlessly streamlined—swung lower to the road—and offer the first basic improvement in travel comfort in over ten years: Fisher No-Draft Ventilation. Chevrolet performance in every gear is faster, flashier, more brilliant. The time-proved six-cylinder engine is more powerful as well as more economical. Improved Free Wheeling is combined with a "silent second" Syncro-Mesh gear-shift. Chevrolet engineers have developed a remarkable new invention that wins a complete victory over vibration: The Cushion-Balanced Engine Mounting. And as far as prices are concerned, several models now sell at the lowest figures in Chevrolet history. Chevrolet is able to do all this because Chevrolet has the advantage of being the world's largest builder of cars for 4 out of the past 6 years. Chevrolet builds cars in greater volume—buys materials in greater quantities—does everything on a bigger, more economical scale. Hence, Chevrolet is in a position to provide a better car at a better price than could possibly issue from any other source. The leader can accomplish what others dare not try!

Crowd Wondered When Railroad Man Flunked

"The young folks talk of thrills and thrills," said the veteran brakeman, "but I know of no greater one than swinging on to a fast freight as it's passing by."

"On our run it is the custom for me to drop off at an upstate station and run inside to jot down important data about my train, which keeps moving while I do a double-quick to catch the nearest car. I had done this hundreds of times without blinking an eyelash until one day I grew 'crowd conscious' as I saw a throng of week-enders waiting to board a delayed local on the opposite track."

"I knew they were all watching to see how I made the flying leap, but as I ran across the platform it seemed that my body 'froze.' Of course, I grabbed for the side rail, but the hand slipped as if it had grasped an eel while the speeding train threw me aside."

"Guess I never will forget the thrilling moment—as I walked away, bruised and dirty in front of an audience that seemed amazed to see a railroad man who had flunked!"—New York Sun.

Bolivia's lofty Lake Titicaca is doubly distinguished. From its shores came the first potatoes, and in its midst lies the Isla de Sol, believed to be the cradle of the Inca civilization. Hence the region is a favorite hunting ground for buried Inca gold. Though none was ever found, several searches, quaintly documented, are constantly under way.

Better prospects have Bolivia's unemployed, to each of whom asking the government grants the gold-washing rights of five acres in the La Paz field.

Famed for their condors, eagles, ostriches, vultures and storks, Bolivia's forests are the home of the useful llama and alpaca. Underfoot lurks the bush master, a deadly rattler undistinguishable from the carpet of

Flicker Persistent

Frequently birds not accustomed to raising more than one brood of young in a season will replace their eggs several times if they come to grief before they are hatched. W. B. Barrows, in his "Michigan Bird Life," tells of a flicker from whose nest all but one or two of the eggs were taken, that kept on laying until 50 or more eggs had been deposited. Normally the flicker deposits from six to ten eggs in a season.

Merry Christmas

The Spirit of Christmas

"Somehow or other," says Henry W. Bush in the December number of W. Bush in the December number of ly splendid motto of the United States mailmen: 'Neither snow nor heat nor gloom or night stays these couriers from the swift completion of their appointed rounds'—seems inescapably connected with both the act and spirit of Christmas. The mailman himself is personally linked with Christmas by virtue of the act of delivering greetings and gifts, but the parallel goes deeper than that. The mailman does a great job at an even pace throughout the major portion of the year, only to find himself called upon for almost superhuman effort in the final weeks of each December. It might easily be pretty much the same thing these days with that spirit of well-being and good-will which we call Christmas, but happily it isn't.

"Always in the past the spirit of Christmas has remained alive throughout the entire year. There is no mistaking that. The very significance of Christmas tells us that it is not something that only comes into being at a certain season. Christmas couldn't be like that! We must think of it as something which is in our hearts all of the time, but which we only desire to express on certain days when its significance is perhaps more potent than on other days of the year."

"But we know that it is in our hearts every second, every minute, every day and every month. 'Lately humanity has come to realize this fact still more strongly. We probably call it by other names—pity, sympathy, compassion, tolerance or understanding—but withal it is the spirit of Christmas. We need it in our lives as definitely and as overwhelmingly as we need air and love, and needing it, we are, if we are really human at all, impelled to impart it to others.

More Than 5 Million Christmas Trees Used In U. S. Homes Yearly

From 5,000,000 to 10,000,000 Christmas trees are bought in the United States each year. Computed on the basis of the number sold, every third or fourth family in America has a Christmas tree. Probably the children of many more families enjoy some sort of Christmas tree, for a large number of cities have community Christmas trees.

Christmas trees don't just happen at Christmas time. Their sources are definitely determined. Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, the Berkshire hills in Massachusetts, and the Adirondacks and the Catskills in New York are the sources of supply for New York, Philadelphia, and Boston, and even for Baltimore and Washington.

The center of the Christmas tree industry lies in the big cities of the east. New York and the New England states use some 1,500,000 trees, a large proportion of the total output. Christmas trees are exceptionally popular in the north as the evergreens bring back a hint of departed summer.

Christmas trees vary in height from 5 to 35 feet. More apartments in cities have increased the demand for "table" trees. These are from 1 to 3 feet high. Trees 4 to 7 feet high are leaders in sales. Short-jointed, stocky trees are most sought. Prices run 25 cents to $5 each, with some selling as high as $35. These are city market prices. Trees sold in the city for 25 cents often bring only 5 cents on the farm and $1.50 trees in the market may have sold originally for as little as 15 cents, the Forest Service says.

Although there is this spread in the large cities, the price in smaller places is reflected to the farmer in larger proportions. In the smaller cities the farmers often sell the trees direct to the consumers. In the past there has been little organization of the Christmas tree market and it was frequently glutted. In an attempt to solve this problem, a group of farmers in the White Mountain district of New Hampshire have organized for the cooperative sale of trees cut in that region. They have adopted systematic cutting practices that will not deplete the stands of trees on their lands. By using care in the selection of trees for cutting and taking only those that can be spared without reducing the productivity of the forests, there will be plenty of trees for Christmas use now and in the future, says the Forest Service. Foresters strongly condemn the practices of indiscriminate and destructive cutting.

Wrong Time

"Where did you get the black eye?"
"I kissed the bride."
"But I thought that was customary."
"Well—this was six months after the ceremony."

Silent Night

Silent night! Holy night!
All is calm, all is bright,
Round yon virgin, mother and child,
Holy infant, so tender and mild,
Sleep in heavenly peace, sleep in heavenly peace.

Speaking of Style

By IRENE VAIL

There is a tendency to narrower gold, complementing tuckin décolleté skirt lines. Never really tight, with fulness concentrated at the center front, leaving the back flat, or, in Patou interpretation, with the front plain and folds down either side of the back, also occasionally with pleats.

In midsummer collections, no lengthening of skirts is detected, but occasionally slight shortening with the inclusion of more instep-length dinner gowns than usual.

Variations in Waistlines

Waistlines are less molded, with an increasing number of models showing approval of the line posed at hip tops, meaning just above the hip bone. Frequently the waistline is higher at the front and lower at the back, while an occasional girdle treatment or fabric incrustation directs the eye even lower.

Sleeves Full Above the Elbow

Sleeves still show fulness above the elbow at times or are bloused below it. They are often in straighter silhouette, but carry fabric work or embroidery.

Silver and Gold Hair

At the Ardane opening, mannequins powdered their hair silver or gold, complementing tuckin décolleté blouses of gold or silver.

Revival of Taffeta

Confidence is expressed in the revival of taffeta since style interest in crisp formal silks, plain and printed, has already been demonstrated by the ready acceptance of printed starched mousseline de soie last summer.

A Forecast for Spring

The dark blouse with light suit is a contrast fashion commented on as one having influence for spring.

Reasonable

An old lady was trying to impress upon a street urchin, much in need of a bath, the need to attend school. "Remember, what you have learned no one can take from you," was her final argument.

"Well, maybe," replied the youngster. "But they can't take from me nothin' I ain't learned, either, can they?"

Brilliant Diagnosis

"Well, what did the specialist say when he examined you?"
"Umph! H'm Um!"

"And what did that mean?"
"Five guineas."—Vikingen.

A Christmas Carol

By Leslie C. Morehouse

God rest ye, tired shoppers; let nothing you dismay;
Your troubles soon will vanish; tomorrow's Christmas day.

The dawn will bring you respite; you'll hear the joyous shout:
"My dear, your gift is lovely, how did you pick it out?"

God rest ye, little children; let nothing you afright;
Old Santa's sure to visit you when you're asleep tonight.
So hurry off to Slumberland and do not open an eye,
The jolly fellow's reindeers are speeding through the sky

God rest ye, weary workers, in crowded shop and store;
You'll have a day of respite and then you'll slave some more.

The anti-climax's sure to come despite a thaw or freeze,
And soon you'll hear this plaintive cry: "I'd like to change this, please."

Sugar Water Is Good For the Yule Tree

Give your Christmas tree a drink, advises the conservation department of the Izaak Walton league in a bulletin which tells all helpers of Santa Claus how to keep a Christmas tree fresh and green in the home. Nothing out water and a little sugar are needed to satisfy the thirst of a freshly cut spruce, balsam or pine, which is destined to be erected in the house and decorated for the holiday season.

One of the troubles which housewives have with Christmas trees after they are set up in the house is the rapid loss of the needles from such trees due to the fact that they dry out quickly in the home. Sometimes only a couch is necessary to send a shower of spruce needles to the carpet. But there is a way out of this difficulty, says the Walton league, which advises the following method of procedure:

When it comes time to set up the Christmas tree, cut off a thin piece from the base of it so that a new, clean cut surface is exposed. Then set up the tree in a cross like support with the base of the tree immersed in a shallow pan of water to which a teaspoonful of sugar has been added.

The tree has the power to absorb water from the pan and draw it up into its branches. Enough moisture can thus be taken up to keep the tiny needles nourished, and they will not drop off the tree as readily as from those not given this free drink.

Home Making

By ALINE STERN

In choosing wood for your fireplace, it is useful to know that a cord of hickory wood, being heavier, may give off more heat than a cord of pine. But most resinous woods, like pine, have a higher heat-production value per pound than non-resinous woods, according to tests made by the Forest Products Laboratory of the United States Department of Agriculture.

Tablecloths containing rayon should be ironed flat without folding and rolled on a mailing tube to keep them smooth. If a cloth is so large that one fold must be put down the center before rolling, it is advisable to vary the location of the fold each time it is laundered.

If spilled food has been left on an enamel coated gas range, and allowed to bake on to the enamel, use a knife or some fine abrasive. This should remove most of the caked food. As a rule, however, it is best to avoid any harsh substance that might scratch the surface of the enamel.

Parties Require Glowing Faces

By JACQUELIE HUNT

Everyone will be going to at least one party in the next few weeks that will be a very special and festive affair. And you will want to be your loveliest and gayest self. Loveliness insures the gayety, so here are some pointers that will help you be as dazzling and interesting as you wish.

Many beauty treatments begin with a bath and so does this getting ready-for-a-party ritual. Let your water run in the tub, warm and relaxing. Use plenty of fragrant bath soap, enough to make the water bubbly and really cleansing and refreshing. Finish with a cool shower to rinse away the soap and stimulate the circulation. It gives your cheeks color and lends sparkle to your eyes.

Pat your skin dry with the biggest, softest Turkish towel that you can find and get out your deodorizing preparation to keep you fresh and dainty throughout the evening. A liquid if you need something strong, a powder if you perspire but little. Over the deodorant give yourself a dusting of bath powder. Dust a little powder deodorant or plain talcum into your slippers to keep your feet comfortable and free from perspiration while you dance.

If you have plenty of time to prepare for this special party, give yourself an egg mask or use a circulation cream to give your complexion clearness and an exhilarating color. If your skin is very sensitive, dry type, use a softening cream, a warm oil treatment, or an egg and almond meal mask that will leave it soothed and velvety in appearance.

Rinse away the mask, or remove the cream and pat your skin with tonic—an icy one, of course. Then you are ready for your foundation. A special party calls for a very special make-up. You should use a tinted foundation of cream or lotion—preferably the latter—if you want your face to be as fresh and glowing at the end of the evening as it was to begin with.

If your gown is low cut, be sure to cover the arms, neck, back and shoulders with both the foundation lotion and the powder, so every inch of the exposed skin will be as lovely as your face.

Answer to Query

Dear Miss Hunt: Please advise me what to do for a dark complexion. I am fourteen years old and my skin—especially on my face—is very dark. I will appreciate it if you will advise me as soon as possible.

Personally, my dear, I think you should try to make your dark complexion as clear and lovely and striking as you can. Many girls would envy you your naturally dark skin. You can wear bright, gay colors or pale colors for contrast, and if your mother doesn't object, you can use a good paste rouge for heightening the color in your cheeks and lips. Be sure to remove every trace of it at the end of the day, however. Please do not try to bleach your skin. It would not do any good, and a strong preparation might injure it severely.

Modern Women

By MARIAN MAYS MARTIN

The scramble for Christmas gifts is now on, excepting for those wise folks who collect novelties throughout the year against the holiday rush and demand. It may rob Christmas of a great deal of its excitement to shop in this forehanded fashion, but it prevents attacks of exhaustion—both physical and financial.

Nomads get as much pleasure out of shopping at the various ports or towns they visit as they do out of their trip, and since stay-at-homes invariably value something "imported" to something from their own home shops—often filled with better merchandise, by the way—it seems a very excellent notion to make one's purchases when it is a pleasure instead of an ordeal to do so. Christmas presents rather more than the usual difficulties this season, and yet the law of compensation is still to be relied on—in this instance, by giving us the opportunity to buy what we want at a figure considerably below that of any year since the war.

There are two distinct schools of Christmas giving—one of the give-something-useful cut, the other of the luxury-gift credo. There is something to be said for both schools. Strictly utilitarian gifts are classed by some as unfair, especially in family circles, the idea being that one must have these things anyway, but for those who really cannot afford to buy the utilitarian gifts, they are always welcome. Most of us appreciate the gift we would never under any circumstances buy for ourselves. Jewelry, for instance, or some extravagance that satisfies our soul as much as any actual need. In this class are so many things. It is unnecessary to enumerate them here, things that are in themselves beautiful and, therefore, a joy to possess. No matter how useless a really beautiful thing may be, its beauty alone makes it worth having, but this certainly does not apply to novelties that have neither beauty nor utility to their credit—the useless, junky things so many foolish women buy, particularly in one of those last minute panics that are always sure to attack us the day before Christmas.

French folks show good sense in their commemoration of Christmas. Noel is to them a day for children alone, and it is only the children who receive gifts on this day, which simplifies matters considerably, you will admit. Then, the feverish excitement of Noel being over, grown-ups turn their attention to themselves and exchange gifts with their New Year's greetings, happy in the knowledge that the youngsters have had their day and probably still have a few fragments of their toys.

As everyone knows there has been a great change in the character of Christmas cards, humor having to a great extent replaced religious sentiments. The home-made Christmas card has also become a fad and is one that encourages originality. Starting with reproductions of one's house or hearth, to photographs of the youngsters, these cards have assumed some highly amusing and very original aspects. Silhouettes, cut by hand, sometimes from newspapers, and the new cotton cards are among those that are most interesting. The old objection to the engraved card was that they were too formal to get over the cheerful messages exchanged between friends at this season. This charge can certainly not be held against these hand-made greetings. Children seem to love to make their own cards, and it is amusing how useful their kindergarten training is, not only to them but to the ambitious grown-ups in the family who are experimenting with paste and paper, lettering and so on.

In the all important matter of wrapping papers, tags and ribbons there have been changes worth investigating before laying in reams of tissue and bolts or balls of ribbon or string. Obviously, the modernistic influence has been at work. It no longer seems an unbreakable rule that these wrappings should remain red or green or white, or that holly, mistletoe or candle designs be the only ones to adorn the gift box. Santa Claus is encouraging individuality this season. One may be as formal as one's jeweler prescribes in the handsome engraved cards on display, but one may also be delightfully spontaneous and at very little cost, excepting in time, and, unfortunately, many have too much of that this Christmas.

Grands Rapids Gets Music Publication Boost

Grand Rapids, which will have the convention of the North Central section of the Music Supervisors beginning April 22, 1933, is given extensive mention in the November issue of the Music Supervisors Journal, Chicago, the national official publication.

Attention is called especially to the new civic auditorium, the hotel facilities, the tunnel to connect the Pantlind hotel and the civic auditorium and the fame of Grand Rapids for musical culture, musical organizations here being named.

Nor is the importance of Grand Rapids as the furniture capital overlooked. The article states that for more than a half century this city has led in output of quality furniture; its expositions confer the attention of the country upon this industry and its colony of artists is one of the largest in America.

The importance of Grand Rapids as a city of homes is emphasized. At least 1,000 persons are expected to attend the convention.
